JOHN L. LEWIS HAS EXPERIENCE AS A DICTATOR

Rules Labor Domain with Iron Hand.

New Parley in Steel

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Carnegie-Illinois Steel company grants Employe council equal recognition with the Lewis controled union; arrange conference with committee on wages, hours and working conditions. Page. 2.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Most portentous figure in the public eye today is burly, dynamic, rabble rousing John L. Lewis, labor generalissimo, who is today the symbol of political and economic forces that are shaping our national destiny.

John L. Lewis.

Back home from an extraordinary series of victories on the labor front, the commander of the Committee of Industrial Organization is resting this week-end amid the rare antiques that adorn his house in an exclusive quarter of Washington's suburb, Alexandria, Va.

Having won collective bargaining rights from the United States Steel corporation, hitherto impregnable to the assaults of union labor; from the General Motors and Chrysler companies in the unorganized automobile industry, and from the General Electric company, Mr. Lewis is about to direct his next attack upon the boot and shoe and the textile industries.

Price Increases Follow.

A 200 million dollar wage raise and hour reduction agreement obtained by Mr. Lewis from United States Steel brought in its train the announcement of increases in the price of steel to cover the increased cost of production. Similar price raises are expected to follow wage increases won by Mr. Lewis and other labor leaders in the multitude of strikes disturbing industry from coast to coast.

With much concern economists and statesmen are looking forward to the effect of general wage and price increases upon the national economy. What they fear most is that a general rise of prices without commensurate increase in productivity will accelerate inflation, the uncontroled variety of which invariably spells national disaster.

Mr. Lewis, who started life as a coal miner and sprang to his present eminence from his office as president of the Bituminous Mine Workers' union, is every inch a dictator.

Holds Strings to Vast Purse.

He holds imperious sway over the mine workers and over the CIO which has set out to organize labor by industries instead of by crafts, as the most effective means of conquering employers. He holds the purse strings of a fund measured by millions of dollars contributed from pay envelopes to further labor's war on capital.

Issuing his orders at the CIO headquarters, occupying the entire building that once housed Washington's University club or addressing a mass-meeting, Mr. Lewis looks and acts the dictator. He rumples his rebellious brown locks, he knits those shaggy black eyebrows and in a most unmusical voice he rasps and sneers and barks his orders and his political and economic tenets.

And now the crystal gazers are wondering whether he is destined to become the dictator of the United States. He is much talked of as the potential radical candidate for President in 1940.

Steady Extension of Power.

Now that President Roosevelt has split the Democratic party on the constitutional issue, predictions are heard that in 1940 the Republicans and the anti-Roosevelt Democrats will coalesce and that the radical Democrats will find John L. Lewis a formidable claimant of the Roosevelt mantle, if Mr. Roosevelt sticks to the de-

SUPREME COURT ISSUE REACHES A BITTER STAGE

President and Party Leaders Clash.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—The controversy over enlargement of the Supreme court between President Roosevelt and members of his own party reached a stage of almost unparalleled bitterness today.

Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.] led the Democratic assault upon the President's address last Thursday night with a biting indictment of "loose, misleading, exaggerated and unfounded tirades against the Supreme court."

Senator Royal S. Copeland [D., N. Y.] followed with a statement ridiculing Mr. Roosevelt's contention that the high court was responsible for the Ohio river floods and the western dust-bowl.

Racial Issue Injected.

A new phase to the argument and one that eventually may have a decisive effect upon the outcome was the injection of the racial issue. Representative Arthur W. Mitchell [D., Ill.] assailed the Supreme court for having "struck down" every congressional effort to improve the lot of the Negro. He declared "100 per cent" for the President's plan to install a majority in the court favorable to the New Deal's social and economic program.

Congress, especially that part of its representatives of the southern states, which thus far has rendered lip service to the President's proposal, was appalled at the probable effect upon southern constituents of the Negro representative's bold declaration.

Favors Negro for Court Post.

It was learned the editor of a Negro newspaper in Baltimore is leader of a movement to petition the President to appoint a representative of the race to one of the new Supreme court positions in case the President's program passes congress. Representative Mitchell said he did not take such a movement seriously, asserting that Negroes first should work for the appointment of a representative to a lower federal court.

President Roosevelt sent to the senate on Feb. 5 the nomination of William H. Hastie, a Negro, for the four-year term as federal judge in the Virgin Islands. The senate judiciary committee has taken no action on the nomination although more than a month has elapsed.

"Negroes have the least to lose in the President's plan," Mitchell asserted, "because the Supreme court always has been ready to strike down every measure passed by congress for the benefit of the Negro from the Dred Scott decision down to the present day.

Masses Not Protected.

"It is true that in the Scottsboro and Arkansas cases the court protected the rights of the individual, but whenever the question of the rights of the masses has come up the Supreme court has stood in the way as no other organization has. It has taken the fourteenth amendment which was intended to protect the rights of newly emancipated slaves and used it solely for the benefit of corporations and for property rights."

The reaction to the President's Thursday night speech has not been what the White House expected. That was revealed today. Not a vote was changed in the senate, it was stated, and Representative E. E. Cox [D., Ga.] today declared that it had increased rather than decreased opposition to the executive's plan in the house.

Reaction Is Disappointing.

Moreover, the public reaction was extremely disappointing to the President. Only 143 complimentary telegrams and messages have been received by Mr. Roosevelt relative to his course, whereas missives protesting the speech have been pouring into congress by the thousands.

Senator Burke's arraignment of the President carried a warning that the chief executive should remember the words of the Old Testament prophet, Hosea, who said: "For they have sown the wind and they shall reap the whirlwind."

"I am not an alarmist," he continued, "but I am profoundly disturbed by certain developments."

"The President of the United States leads a formidable attack upon a coördinate and independent department of our government, the federal

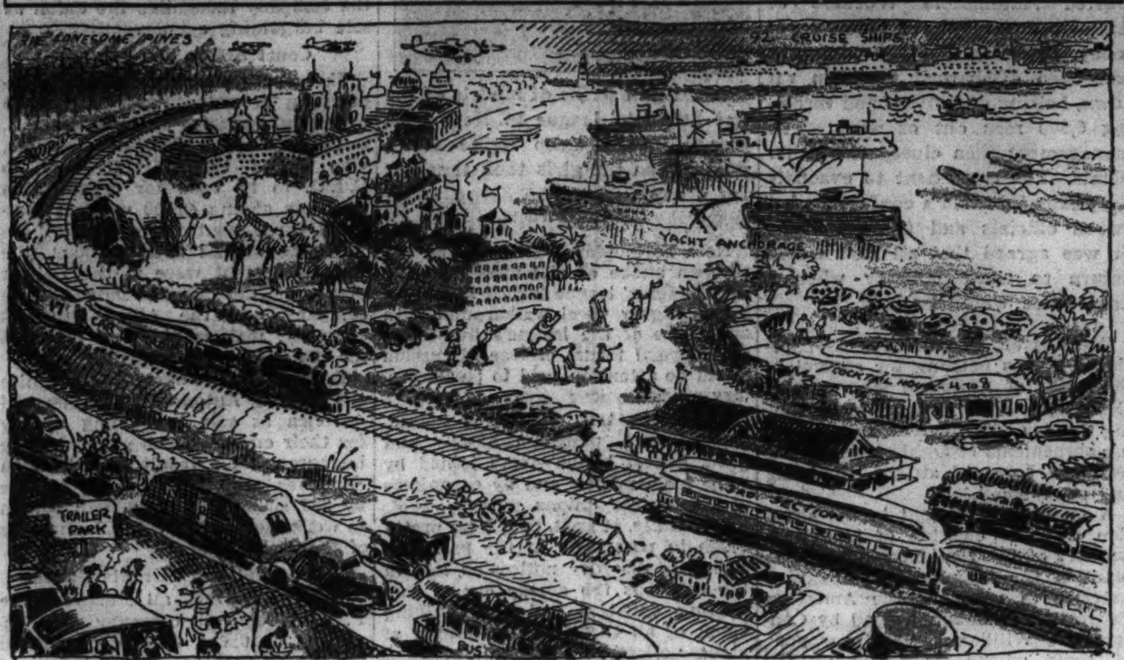
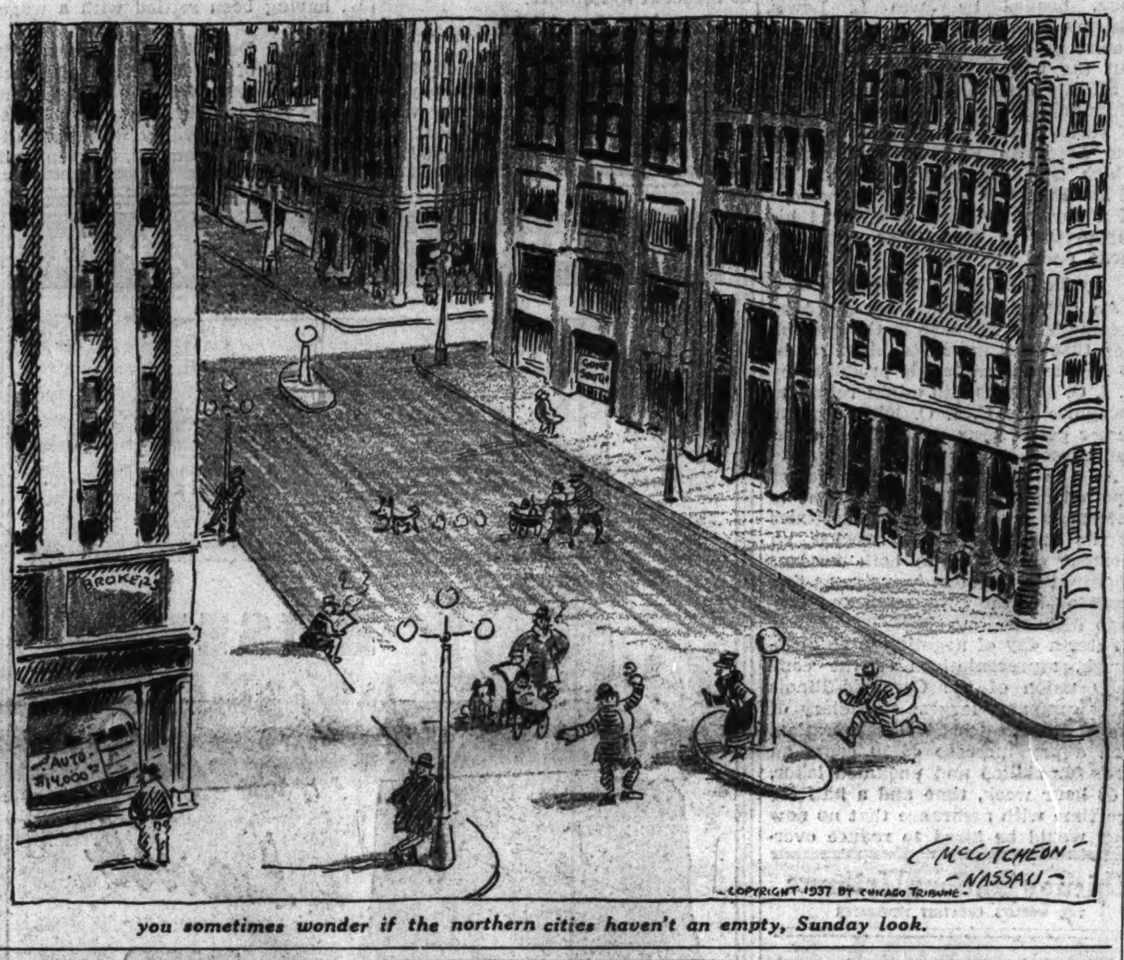
WINTER TOURISTS IN THE SOUTH



When you see the swarm of idle rich and idle poor that are crowding the south—



you sometimes wonder if the northern cities haven't an empty, Sunday look.

PAYMENT OF INCOME TAXES HERE ALMOST DOUBLES DURING '36

The average income tax payment in the Chicago area has nearly doubled in a year, according to figures made public yesterday by Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue for this area, which includes 26 counties in northern Illinois.

From Jan. 1 to last Friday, inclusive, 56,480 taxpayers paid in $20,177,028. This is an increase of only 2,180 taxpayers, but an increase of $9,621,622 in their total payments. March 15 is the deadline for the filing of 1936 income tax returns and the payment of the first quarterly instalment.

The first figures on social security tax collection in this area were also released by Mr. Harrison yesterday. They show that for January 66,334 employers turned over $3,539,399 to the collector's office. This represents both the tax levied directly against employers and a like amount assessed against employés and deducted from salaries.

FINDS A 93 CARAT DIAMOND; RUSH INTO JUNGLE ON

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, March 6.—(AP)—A diamond reported to weigh 93 carats, found by a colored laborer 100 miles in the jungle, has precipitated a rush to the scene, wireless advices received here said today. Stampeding fortune seekers were said to have found one 18 carat stone and several smaller ones.

Wealth came suddenly to an aged prospector three years ago near Pretoria, Union of South Africa, when he discovered two large stones—one of 500 carats and the other of 726. The larger, which became known as the "Jonkher diamond," was brought to the United States and cut.

Reputedly the fourth largest in the world, it was believed to be a long sought part of the Cullinan diamond, the bulk of which was discovered thirty-two years ago and given to King Edward VII. of Great Britain by the Transvaal government. The Cullinan diamond was the largest in the world, weighing 3,025¾ carats [19.97 ounces] before it was cut up.

Haskell Lease System for His Gifts Revealed

The late Frederick T. Haskell gave everything from electric cocktail shakers to limousines to his friends.

Lila T. Haskell.

But they didn't get their presents at the time. Mr. Haskell kept his gifts and went right on using them until his death in September, 1935, at the age of 81. The banker and philanthropist had drawn up life term leases for "one dollar and other good and valuable consideration" under which he kept and used the gifts during his lifetime. When Mr. Haskell died, the friends were to get their presents, which, legally, they already owned. A list of these leased gifts was found yesterday in the inventory of Mr. Haskell's estate in Probate court.

System Attacked in Suit.

The leasing system is one of the things complained of Wednesday in the suit filed by his widow, Mrs. Lila Haskell. She brought the suit against the Art institute for a share in the forty paintings, valued at $100,000, which her husband gave the institute with the provision that he might retain them until his death.

In her suit, Mrs. Haskell charged that the leasing, and the manner in which the gift was made to the institute, were legal devices intended to keep her from getting her full portion of her husband's wealth. She had a suit for separate maintenance pending at the time of Mr. Haskell's death.

Widow Renounces Will.

Mrs. Haskell has renounced her husband's will and is asking her widow's share under the law. She does not want the pictures, but wishes to have their value included in the total value of the estate, she says, so her share will be larger. Although the estate was valued at $600,000 when the inventory was filed, its value has risen to $800,000 without the pictures or the gifts to Mr. Haskell's friends, valued at $25,000.

Among the friends listed as the recipients of title to Mr. Haskell's gifts—they still haven't the actual gifts—are these:

James C. and Zoe Kendall Ames, one Cadillac limousine, a brass fireplace set, and 22 packs of playing cards.

Roger K. Ballard, a backgammon table, an electrical cocktail shaker, a cane with a dagger in the handle, and a sculptured bronze paper weight.

David O. Dunbar, two mahogany armchairs, one bearing the name plate of Mr. Haskell and the other that of John J. Mitchell; an etching of Quincy street, and a print of the old Illinois Trust and Savings bank.

Franco Hereford, 22 packs of playing cards.

John Bayard Chevalier, a cane made from a strut of Mr. Chevalier's war airplane, a chair with a bronze tablet reading "Bankers' Trust of New York," and a sterling loving cup from the Illinois Merchants' Trust company.

Frederick J. Flagg, Mr. Haskell's rowing medals.

John McBride Murray, a pair of gold cuff links marking 25 years' service with the Illinois Merchants' Trust company.

Lucia Madill, a set of Crown Derby dishes brought over when Prescott became governor of Canada in 1796.

The largest of the leased gifts was thirty-seven paintings and numerous art objects to Mr. Haskell's home town library, in Ogdensburg, N. Y. Mr. Dunbar, co-executor of the estate, denied that the gifts were intended to reduce the widow's share.

NEW MOVIES OF WALLY TO BE MADE IN FRANCE FOR DUKE OF WINDSOR

CANNES, France, March 6.—(AP)—Edward, duke of Windsor, who has had to remember Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson by pictures made in days when he still occupied the British throne, soon will have new motion pictures of her.

Herman L. Rogers of New York, host to the woman for whom Edward quit his throne, said today he would take the pictures, the first movies to be made of Mrs. Simpson since she came here from England in December. The duke is in Austria.

Liner Crashes in Golden Gate Fog; 36 Saved

San Francisco, Cal., March 6.—(AP)—More than 1,000 passengers and crew members escaped with no more than a scare as the trans-Pacific liner President Coolidge collided with the tanker Frank H. Buck today in a dense Golden Gate fog.

Both vessels were damaged, but dramatically swift rescue work by the Dollar liner proved to have been unnecessary when the tanker remained afloat. All the thirty-six crew members of the Frank H. Buck were aboard the President Coolidge within 20 minutes after the crash, but the captain and seven crew members returned later to their own ship while the liner slowly returned to port.

Tanker Hull Submerged.

The tanker floated in the channel tonight, down by the head and half submerged, with a coast guard cutter standing by. The President Coolidge, her forward pumps going, lay at her dock after discharging the other twenty-eight tanker crew members. Aboard the President Coolidge were 678 passengers and a crew of 350.

The ships met almost bow to bow, in midchannel, about one mile west of the Golden Gate bridge, as the President Coolidge was heading for Honolulu and the orient and the tanker was bringing a cargo of petroleum here from Ventura, Cal.

"We had only an instant," said Chief Engineer Peter Peltret of the tanker as he walked ashore from the President Coolidge. "We heard the foghorns, of course, but did not know we were going to be struck until a split second before the President Coolidge hit.

Begins to Sink at Once.

"She struck right at the fo'c's'le head and our ship began to settle in 30 seconds. We lowered two boats and all took off. It took only a few minutes. Nobody was hurt."

Peltret said Capt. Robert Kelly of the tanker and his skeleton crew returned to the smaller vessel immediately upon perceiving she was not going to sink at once.

Both Peltret and John Novak, a tanker seaman, said the Frank H. Buck was not moving when she was struck.

Workmen on the Golden Gate bridge about a mile away could not see the drama, first accounts of which came only from the President Coolidge's wireless.

Fog was so thick it extended from the surface of the harbor to above the highest cables of the bridge, more than 400 feet aloft.

Sun shone over the blue ocean and the rest of the bay, but the ghostly patch of fog covered the "Gate" near the giant span nearing completion.

Liner Badly Damaged.

Bands played a greeting as the President Coolidge crept back into her dock amid the tangle of serpentine streamers she had left only three hours previously.

Her port bow was stove in for a length of 25 feet and from the water line half way to her rail. Her stem was bent far to starboard from the water line to a point about 15 feet up. The starboard bow bulged out from the effects of the impact.

The President Coolidge is one of the largest liners of United States registry in the Pacific trade.

TAXI SERVICE KNOCKED OUT; BEGIN PARLEYS

Negotiations Snag on Union Demands.

Chicago's taxicab service was paralyzed by the drivers' strike last night, except for a few cabs that operated in the loop, most of them with company guards. In front of some of the hotels stood a cab or two, but these were for emergency service for guests and could not be hired by the casual rider.

Joseph Jacobs.

Meanwhile taxicab company officials conferred on peace terms with representatives of the hastily organized Midwest Taxicab Drivers' union, represented by Joseph M. Jacobs, labor attorney.

Union Is Stumbling Block.

The stumbling block was the union's demand for complete unionization of the taxi business and for a larger share of receipts for the drivers. John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization was also a factor, as the Checker Taxi company's drivers appealed to the C. I. O. for support in a message looked upon as the drivers' bid for affiliation.

With the strike already in its second day, the city had the prospect of the rest of the week-end with no taxis.

Strike leaders were working to establish a semblance of effective organization and present a united front in their demands on the Checker company and the Yellow Cab company.

No Checkers Downtown.

Not a Checker cab was seen in a tour of the downtown district. In Wabash avenue 9 Yellow cabs were seen on a drive from Wacker drive to Roosevelt road. In State street, but one was seen from Congress street to Wacker drive. Few were seen in the rest of the downtown section. There was not a cab in front of the Morrison and La Salle hotels. In front of the Hotel Sherman stood a lone cab. Another was in front of the Palmer house.

In front of a loop night club it was noted that most of the cabs in which guests arrived had two guards—one in front for the driver and one inside for the passengers.

Denies Using Strikebreakers.

Thomas B. Hogan, president of the Yellow company, said a few former employés were being hired to protect regular drivers of cabs used for emergency service in the loop, but he denied emphatically that strikebreakers were being employed. He said the company had no intention of breaking the strike by force.

In a tour of the loop a reporter finally picked up a Yellow cab after a 10 minute wait in front of the Congress hotel, where two other drivers had stolidly refused all offers.

"I'm liable to get it any minute," the driver mumbled as he drove rapidly up Michigan avenue to the Drake. "But I need the money. No one'll bother you, though. They won't harm a passenger.

"My orders are not to go out of the loop. I took a chance, anyway, and went out on the south side. Where you're going is as far north as I'd go. Too many strike zones to go through up there."

At the Drake, a young man who said he had been waiting a long time took the cab to make a train. As he pushed his bags inside, he inquired of the reporter:

"Anything—ah—happen to you?"

Checker Negotiations Begin.

Headed by Attorney Jacobs, labor attorney who represented the C. I. O. strikers in the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation sitdown at North Chicago, a drivers' committee last night met in the Checker headquarters with Michael M. Sokol, president.

The conference broke up at 1 a. m. today with little progress achieved. Sokol flatly rejected the demands for a reduction of maintenance charges for independent cabs, 50 per cent of gross receipts and free gasoline. He said such terms would put the company out of business. Demands that the company recognize the union as sole bargaining agency found him luke warm. He told Jacobs that before that came about the union would have to sign up every one of the company's 2,702 drivers.

In the Yellow offices waited President Hogan, and Benjamin Samuels, vice president. Jacobs had canceled plans for meeting them at 9 p. m., because of other engagements, and arranged to meet them this morning.

Hogan said 40 per cent of the Yellow cabs were operating. Although this was discounted, the Yellow officials seemed little concerned by the situation, and insisted that they would have more cabs on the streets today.

Hogan said that only a small percentage of Yellow drivers were actual strikers. Many had been intimidated into quitting work, he said, and others had quit to avoid any trouble.

Peaceful Methods Prevail.

For a major strike which tied up an entire transportation system, the strike was remarkably free from violence.

At the railroad stations, cabs were formed in barricades in front of the unloading platforms, and the drivers who had at first tried to take advantage of the extra business caused by the shortage soon took their cabs to the garages and joined the strikers' ranks.

Loop crowds witnessed a few rough and tumble incidents. Three men in a private car pursued a Yellow cab through the loop to Randolph street and Wabash avenue, where they forced it to the curb. While the three passengers fled, the pursuers advanced on Frank Clausen, 28 years old, of 326 East 69th street. Clausen kicked one of the pursuers in the face.

The other two leaped into their car and raced off. Police seized the man who was kicked, Fred Johnson, 30, of 1855 North Mozart street, and locked him up.

Walter Longa, a Yellow driver, was halted in Washington street near Clark street. Sergt. Rocco Filetti hurried up with his squad and all the five men fled except Louis Silverstein, 26 years old, who was taken to a cell.

Thirty Drivers Locked Up.

About thirty drivers in all were locked up during the day for becoming too enthusiastic in persuading other cabbies to take part in the strike. Some of these later were released on bond.

One of those arrested was Oscar Kofkin, 28 years old, of 3727 Pine Grove avenue, chairman of the Yellow cab strikers' committee and one of the small group that organized the strike Friday morning. He was arrested near the Yellow cab garage at 3226 North Halsted street because of a suspicious bulge in his pocket. Investigation disclosed that it was caused by a beer stein and not a gun, but the police arrested Kofkin nevertheless.

Virtually identical demands were formulated by the Checker and the Yellow drivers at two separate meetings in Atlas hall at 1440 Cortez street. Both meetings were addressed by Attorney Jacobs.

The Strikers' Demands.

The strikers' demands in addition to complete unionization were:

Fifty per cent of gross receipts; oil, gasoline, repair service, and washing of cabs to be paid for by the company; one week vacation with pay for drivers employed for one year, and two weeks for those employed for three years; no dismissal without cause, and final appeal to a board of arbitration; all licenses to be furnished by the company.

Checker drivers now get 50 per cent of receipts, but must buy their gas and service their cabs. Yellow drivers get 38¼ per cent of receipts and pay one-half of the cost of the gas. The company services their cabs.

It was at the Checker meeting, attended by 1,000 drivers, that Jacobs announced he had telephoned John Brophy, C. I. O. leader, and that Brophy, from his headquarters in Pittsburgh, had suggested that the question of C. I. O. help be taken up with Lewis' men in Washington.

Eight hundred Yellow drivers attended the meeting that followed. They set up a clamor for Kofkin, their jailed leader, who was later released on bond, as were 13 others, by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in the South State street court when their case was continued until March 20.

187 Diamonds in Estate; Leaves $500 to Brother

New York, March 6.—(AP)—The will of Mrs. Lillian Langford, who died recently with 187 diamonds strung about her neck in a chamois bag, was filed today and disclosed she had left only $500 of her fortune to a brother, Clarence F. James of Barrington, Ill. The bequest was made contingent on his not contesting her decision to leave virtually all of her estate to a hospital here. The value of the estate was listed at over "$20,000."

TELEGRAPH BOYS IN EVANSTON WIN STRIKE OVER PAY

Eleven Western Union telegraph messenger boys in Evanston took the day off yesterday and within six hours had won Evanston's first strike. Their wages will be increased from 22c to 31c an hour, and they will be allowed to work eight hours daily, instead of seven and one-half hours as heretofore. The boys congregated in the lobby of the building at 1615 Sherman avenue while their spokesman, Raymond Milz, 18 years old, conferred with Chester Keller, manager of the Evanston branch. Service continued during their walk-out, with Miss Catharine Keller, daughter of the manager, heading the pinch-hitting messenger corps.

GREEN AND LEWIS MOVE CLOSER TO LABOR WAR CRISIS

A. F. of L. Considers Plan for Boycotting C. I. O.

BULLETIN.

Flint, Mich., March 7 (Sunday).—(Special.)—After holding possession of two plants of the Chevrolet Motor company here for three hours last night, 500 members of the United Automobile Workers of America evacuated the plants early today. Claiming that five union men had been discharged the men sat down, halting operations and throwing 6,500 men out of work. The management then closed two other plants. The agreement to evacuate the plants followed a conference between officials and union leaders. It was agreed that all men would return to work Monday when a conference would be held.

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Forces battling for control of the ranks of American labor moved closer to a crisis tonight, while during the day wage increases and working agreements brought settlement of nearly a score of strikes, some big and some small.

A major development in the situation was the decision of aluminum workers at the New Kensington, Pa., plant of the Aluminum Company of America to renounce the American Federation of Labor, headed by Conservative Willliam Green, proponent of craft unions, in favor of the Committee for Industrial Organization, headed by John L. Lewis, Green's arch enemy who seeks to organize production industries throughout the nation into vertical unions.

Shortly after announcement of the aluminum workers' decision, leaders of various craft unions revealed that the American Federation of Labor, which has suspended Lewis and 10 of his unions, is toying with the idea of a boycott to force Lewis and his supporters to stop their encroachment upon the crafts.

Double Edged Weapon.

An example of how this could be accomplished was seen in the declaration that craft unionists might refuse to handle any materials produced by C. I. O. affiliates and might refuse to recognize the C. I. O. label on consumer goods, thus establishing a second boycott.

As the Green and Lewis forces squared off for a showdown fight to determine who will control destinies of the American factory worker, an element disturbing to both factions appeared in the steel industry as represented by the Pittsburgh and Chicago districts.

After a day of negotiation at Pittsburgh, representatives of the company union of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company, largest subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, won a pay increase of 10 cents an hour for skilled and unskilled labor, a 40 hour week, time and a half for overtime with assurance that no new men would be hired to reduce overtime, and an agreement to meet Monday to discuss vacations with pay.

The agreement reached today was said to affect about 90 per cent of the 120,000 employés of Carnegie-Illinois, 45,000 of whom are in the Chicago district. The management assured the committee that salaries of office workers would be revised upward within a short time.

Earlier in the week the company announced a 40 hour week and $5 daily minimum wage for workers, and agreed to meet next Wednesday with C. I. O. representatives for negotiation of wages and hours as affects members of its union. Resentment of this recognition accorded C. I. O. resulted in the demands of the company union, which were met today.

Reaching out further to strengthen its position in industry, the C. I. O. won the right to negotiate wage and hour agreements with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company of Pittsburgh for those of its employés who are members of the United Electrical and Radio Workers of America.

At Akron, O., employés of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, who are members of the United Rubber Workers of America, voted not to return to the company's plants until the company recognizes the union as sole bargaining agency.

Court Action Threatened.

Threat of court action for an accounting of union funds was made by a representative of the A. F. of L. in the case of the aluminum workers, who turned their $27,000 over to C. I. O. to be used for organization purposes among 40,000 workers scattered throughout the country.

Of the strikes settled today, the most important were at the Detroit plants of the Timken-Detroit Axle company and the Allied Products company, makers of screw products for the automotive industry.

Both companies agreed to recognize the United Automobile Workers of America as sole bargaining agency for their employés and granted wage increases. As a result 2,200 Timken employés, who have been kept idle by 300 sitdown strikers, will return to work Monday, as will 300 employés of the Allied firm.

"Five and Ten" Grants Raises.

Also in Detroit, all stores of the F. W. Woolworth company were operating as usual, a six day sitdown strike of 100 sales girls, members of a union affiliated with the A. F. of L., having been settled with a wage increase.

Another Detroit strike, which left 690 guests of the Webster Hall hotel without service for five hours, was settled late tonight. A union spokesman said that seventy waiters, waitresses, cooks, bartenders, firemen, and oilers who joined in the strike obtained wage increases.

Negotiations are in progress in an effort to settle strikes in plants of the Bohn Aluminum and Brass company, the Michigan Smelting and Refining company, Zenith Carburetor company, Newton Packing company, and Michigan Malleable Iron company, all of Detroit.

In northern Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, five iron mining companies granted wage increases to 10,000 employés. The Seeger Refrigerating company of St. Paul boosted the wages of 2,000 employés by 10 per cent, as did the United States Metals Refining company of New Jersey.

Ten per cent wage increases for workers in the Hillsdale, Jackson, and Columbiaville, Mich., plants of the Hillsdale Manufacturing company ended strikes in these plants.

SNOOZE STRIKE

A sitdown strike of models of the Art Students' league in New York turned into a sleep strike for a while when the girls took time out for a nap.

New York, March 6.—(AP)—The big sitdown strike of girl models at the Art Students' league turned late today into a highly vocal walkaround with every one of the league's five floors an informal forum of free discussion—and no attention paid to parliamentary practice.

The girls—tall, short, red haired, black haired, platinum blonde and good, honest henna—were joined by some male models and by organizers of the models' unions.

Physically, at least, they were pretty much in possession of the premises. The only disorder noticeable late in the day was the steady cry of contending debaters and the shuffling about of all these plus a number of stout policemen with half abashed grins, and people who just walked in as innocent bystanders.

STRIKING GOAT

His regular work is to lead lambs to slaughter in a Detroit packing house, but when sitdown strikers took over the plant this goat became their mascot. He is looking out a window with some of the strikers.

BOSS SENDS 20 SITTERS HOME —TO REST UP

No sitdown strike is going to cause unpleasantness between the 75 employés of the Gud-Fit Shoe company and their boss. Because he thought the 20 girls in the sitters' ranks would be more comfortable at home, he announced yesterday, he let them all go home Friday night from the factory at 224 North Desplaines street and promised that they might return yesterday to resume their sitting.

He kept his word.

The boss, Joseph Moskowitz, let the men remain overnight without a police guard. When he came down yesterday morning, he complimented them on keeping the factory in apple pie order.

DISLODGED RADIO PHONE PLUNGED PLANE INTO BAY

Investigators Find Control Lever Was Locked.

San Francisco, Cal., March 6.—[Special.]—For once the mystery of why a huge airliner crashed, bringing death to all its occupants, has been solved. The explanation was given officially tonight in connection with the plunge of a United Air Lines plane into the bay here on the night of Feb. 9. Eleven persons perished in the accident.

A little microphone, no larger than a small apple, was responsible. This instrument had fallen and lodged against the control column, locking the controls and causing the ship to dive into the bay.

The solution was theoretical, but based on solid enough facts.

The airliner, inbound from Los Angeles, plunged into the bay seconds before its scheduled landing on Mills field, Oakland. Aboard were Pilot A. R. [Tommy] Thompson, veteran flyer; Co-Pilot Joseph De Cesaro, a stewardess, and eight passengers. Almost over the field the co-pilot spoke to the landing crew via the microphone. This brief conversation opened the way to the tragedy.

"Mike" Hangs from Hook.

In Douglas ships of the type that crashed, the microphone is hung on a hook. To it is attached a telephone cord, so that it can be handled freely by the co-pilot. In this particular case the wire was long enough to permit the microphone to reach the floor of the control room.

According to the evidence supplied by the bent microphone itself, the co-pilot, after his conversation with the field, dropped the "mike." It lodged in the folds of the canvas covering the floor slot through which the control column moves. [The control column is the successor to the old "joy stick" by which the controls of the older type planes were handled.] In the folds of the slot covering the "mike" became jammed between the control column and one side of the slot.

Holds Ship in "Dive" Position.

At the moment Pilot Thompson had set his plane in a steep glide for the field, intending to "flatten out" as he approached the field. The jammed microphone, however, held the control column in the "dive" position and the dents in the case of the "mike" told of the powerful efforts of the pilot to pull the plane out of its dive.

In all probability De Cesaro attempted frantically to remove the microphone with his fingers, but the time was too short. The plane was only 400 feet above water.

In its official statement the United Air Lines, through S. A. Simpson, district trafic manager, declared:

"Reconstruction of the accident shows that the co-pilot's microphone dropped . . . in such a manner as to lock the controls. The accident was due to a unique situation which could not have been anticipated, but for which a prevention has been invented."

This invention is simple. A safety cord, which will permit the "mike" to drop no more than a foot or eighteen inches from its hook, has been attached to the instrument. Also a boot or safety hood has been built over the control slot.

SECRET OF CRASH

How a dislodged radio microphone plummeted air liner into San Francisco bay on Feb. 9, killing 11 persons. In this closeup of control cockpit in similar plane, all is in order, with microphone (arrow) hanging from its hook. Then something dislodged it and——

—here it is, after its fall to the floor, wedged between the plane's control column and the canvas covering around it. Before the instrument fell, the plane's tail surfaces were——in this position. Closeup of rear control surfaces shows elevator in neutral, holding the airliner in level flight. Then the pilot pushed the control forward—

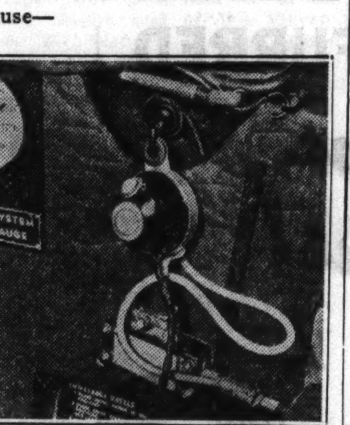
—dropping elevator sharply. The effect of the air stream striking the under surface of the elevator was to dive the plane. It was at this moment that microphone fell and jammed the controls. But there'll be no more crashes from this cause—



—since safety measure shown here has now been adopted universally. White safety cord holds "mike" within 18 inches of its hook..

ACTOR VANISHES FROM SHIP; HINT AT LOVE SUICIDE

Death Threat at Drinking Party on Liner Told.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 6.—Frank Vosper, British actor-playwright-producer, stepped to his death in the Atlantic ocean at 4 a. m. today from the veranda of a cabin of the liner Paris, where half a dozen friends were holding a farewell champagne party before the ship's arrival at Plymouth, England, an hour later. Vosper was 37 years old.

The story of a passenger that he heard some one in the cabin shout: "If you do not marry me I will jump overboard" was called "fantastic" by members of the party, among whom were Ernest Hemingway, the marquis de Polignac, and the hostess, Miss Great Britain of 1936—Muriel Oxford, 22 years old.

Companion Tells Story.

Vosper thought a window opened onto the promenade deck and intended to slip away from the party to his own stateroom, said Peter Willes, his companion and former secretary.

"I am fed up with the party. I am going to bed," Willes said Vosper told him just before his disappearance.

Vosper, who made a hit in New York in 1929 with the production of his own play, "Spellbound," was returning to England from Hollywood. He had been in the United States since December.

The actor was cheerful and took part in the general conversation, Miss Oxford said. She denied there was any romance between her and Vosper, whom she had met only a few times, she said. The last she saw of him, she said, was when she left him on the veranda of the stateroom and returned to talk to her other guests.

"The veranda had a window whose sill is about three feet from the level of the deck," Miss Oxford explained. "The window was about five feet above the sill."

Dotted line shows how Vosper fell to death.

It was on that sill that traces of footprints gave a clew to the fate of the actor when his disappearance was discovered. An alarm was given after a hasty search and a visit to his cabin proved the actor was missing. The ship put back over its course, but was unable to find any trace of the passenger.

TRAFIC ADDS FIVE PEDESTRIANS TO ITS DEATH ROLL

One Is Believed Hit-Run Driver's Victim.

The names of four pedestrians struck by motor vehicles were added yesterday to Cook county's trafic death roll and one was killed near by in Du Page county.

Rade Vrlecz, 45 years old, 10345 Torrence avenue, died in South Chicago hospital early yesterday, four hours after he was found unconscious in the street at 10135 Commercial avenue. South Chicago police said that apparently Vrlecz was struck by the car of a hit and run driver.

Mrs. Mary Lahlin, 53 years old, 330 South Winchester avenue, died in the County hospital last night of injuries suffered when she was struck by an automobile at Warren boulevard and Paulina street earlier in the day. The driver, George Swatek, 45 years old, 4943 Lake Park avenue, took her to the hospital.

John M. Murphy, 59 years old, 5552 Gladys avenue, a former jail guard, was fatally injured by a Chicago Motor Coach company bus in Jackson boulevard at Lotus avenue last night. The driver was Milton Sorenson, 4500 Adams street.

Elderly Man Dies.

Hugh Priestley, 80 years old, 6604 Loomis street, died in Chicago Memorial hospital of injuries incurred on Jan. 20 when he was struck while walking near his home by the car of James Calek, 53 years old, 8025 Throop street, former vice president of the old Southwest bank. Calek, now an insurance and real estate agent, engaged brain specialists to treat Priestley, but to no avail.

Veronica Vancata, 11 years old, 2534 South Spaulding avenue, who was struck by a truck while walking at 26th street and Spaulding avenue on Dec. 16, died of her injuries in St. Anthonys hospital yesterday. Rudolph Kodadek, 27 years old, 2748 South Spaulding avenue, said she walked from behind a parked car into the side of his truck.

George Colovos, 65 years old, 3939 Grenshaw street, died in County hospital yesterday of injuries incurred on Tuesday when he was hit by a driverless truck while pushing his fruit cart at 1811 West 13th street. Robert Murdock, 19 years old, 1805 West 13th street, cranked his truck, forgetting that it was in reverse gear.

Dies at Elmhurst.

Edward E. Kavanagh, 61 years old, owner of a dairy farm at Roosevelt and Finley roads in Lombard, which is in Du Page county, died in Elmhurst hospital yesterday soon after he was found unconscious beside Roosevelt road a mile west of his home. Glen Ellyn police said he had been struck by two or more cars.

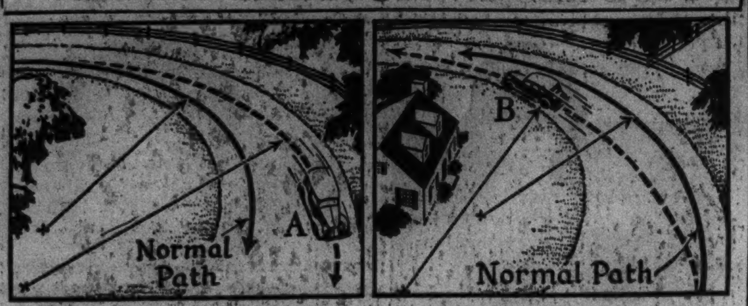
A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury that investigated the death on Friday of Miss Kay Otto, 50 years old, 6335 Ingleside avenue. Miss Otto was killed at 63d street and Ingleside avenue by an automobile driven by Ben H. Geagan, 34 years old, 6533 South Kimbark avenue.

147 Killed in Chicago.

From Jan. 1 until 2 p. m. yesterday 185 persons were killed by motor vehicles in Cook county, the coroner's office reported. Chicago's casualties for the same period was 147 deaths and 3,423 injuries.

There were 119 trafic deaths in the city in the first two months of this year, as compared with 130 for the corresponding period in 1936, George W. Fleming, general secretary of Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Safe committee, reported yesterday.

Lesson in Driving Around Curve



In driving on the highway don't wait until you are on the curve before starting to decelerate. Decelerate on the approach to the curve to a speed that will permit your car to remain in its proper lane with ease.

This is one of the lessons to be taught to high school pupils under a course recommended by the American Automobile association and being taught in some of Chicago's suburban schools by the Chicago Motor club.

In the illustrations, the car "A" is going so fast that the driver has to lengthen the radius to avoid a skid. In so doing, he is exposing himself to a head-on collision with any automobile traveling in the opposite direction.

The driver of the car "B" is lengthening his radius by deliberately usurping the side of the road reserved for opposing trafic. He, too, is exposing himself to a head-on collision.

Speeds on curves should be such that the normal path on the right side of the road can be followed.

CAR DAMAGES UNPAID; YOUNG DRIVER JAILED

Judge J. M. Braude in Boys' court yesterday sent James McGraw, 20 years old, a drug clerk living at 4160 Drexel avenue, to the Bridewell for five days when McGraw was unable to pay David C. Ford, 4516 Ellis avenue, $118 in damages arising out of a collision at Greenwood avenue and 47th street Friday night.

McGraw was first taken before Judge Braude on Friday and sentenced to the five days on a reckless driving charge. A motion to vacate the sentence was entered, however, and McGraw was given 24 hours to raise the damage money.

The protestation of Attorney J. A. Tichler that McGraw would not, in his opinion, be liable for civil damages for the accident was answered by Judge Braude with the admonition to settle the civil case in a civil court.

UNION HEAD LAYS DOWN RULES FOR CANNED MUSIC

Wants Radio Stations to Give Players Equal Time.

James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, laid down the union rules yesterday for the use of "canned music" in radio broadcasts and in theaters.

Since Feb. 1, under Petrillo's orders, no union musician in Chicago has been permitted to make any kind of recording. This rule was made, he explained, because "canned music" has affected seriously the employment of musicians.

Hereafter, under the new rules, records may be made by Chicago musicians, but they may not be used by any radio station unless the station, in its broadcast of the recorded music, keeps the same number of musicians standing by as the number used in making the record.

Hopes to Enforce Theater Rule.

Likewise Petrillo hopes to enforce a rule forbidding theaters which charge more than 25 cents admission from using any sound film made in Chicago unless the theater employs the same number of musicians as were used in making the original sound recording. Theaters charging 25 cents or less would be required to hire an organist or pianist.

Few sound films are now made in Chicago, but Petrillo hopes to extend his campaign to include the union musicians of the Hollywood studios so that no sound films could be shown unless theaters met the union terms.

Believes More Would Be Hired.

Several recording companies make records in Chicago for distribution among radio stations, and these would be affected immediately by the new rules, Petrillo said. For example, he explained, an advertiser who puts his radio program on records and sends them to hundreds of small radio stations would not be permitted to use them in any city unless the musicians' union of that city gives its approval.

"If radio stations have to hire the same number of musicians anyway when they use a record," Petrillo said, "then they will use human beings to provide music. Mr. Canned Music has taken the place of 35,000 musicians."

The making of records for use in the home would not be affected by the new union regulations.

Meet 'Sandow' Roosevelt, 'Gypsy Rose Lee'—Guardia

New York, March 6.—(AP)—The President was depicted as "Sandow" Roosevelt undertaking his great "dumb bell" act of lifting the Supreme court, and the mayor was portrayed as "Gypsy Rose Lee"-Guardia in a strip tease act tonight at the annual stunt dinner of the Inner Circle, an organization of New York City political writers. The show, staged and acted by reporters, was witnessed by many of the public figures whose recent activities provided the material for good-natured lampooning.

Hoover's Son, Allan, Asks License to Wed March 17

Los Angeles, Cal., March 6.—(AP)—Allan Henry Hoover, 29, son of former President Hoover, and Miss Margaret Coberly, 25, socially prominent in Los Angeles, applied for a marriage license today. They are to be married March 17 in the home of Miss Coberly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bayley Coberly. The former President and Mrs. Hoover will be present.

SPRING FLOWERS MARK WEDDING AT U. OF C. CHAPEL

Misses Fairweather and Peycke Are Brides.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Miss Jean Phyllis Fairweather and Miss Jane Peycke were married in quiet ceremonies followed by larger receptions yesterday. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Fairweather repeated her marriage vows with Robert Vernon Dilley at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon at Bond chapel at the University of Chicago. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Norris L. Tibbetts. A reception followed at Ida Noyes hall.

Bond chapel was decorated with a profusion of spring flowers and lighted by candles for the wedding. The bride, who was attended by four bridesmaids and her sister, Miss Frances Fairweather, wore a simple gown of ivory satin and carried lilies of the valley and gardenias. The five attendants were dressed alike in soft gray marquisette gowns trimmed with coral.

Donald Dilley of Cleveland was his brother's best man. Following a wedding trip to Biloxi, Miss., Mr. Dilley and his bride will make their home on the south side.

Miss Peycke Is Married.

The wedding of Miss Peycke to Jean Richard Huff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Huff of Sioux City, Ia., was solemnized yesterday in the drawing room of the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Armand H. Peycke, in Kenilworth. The Rev. Leland H. Danforth, who officiated at the bride's christening, read the ceremony at 4 o'clock.

Neither Miss Peycke nor Mr. Huff was attended. The bride wore a gown of blush moire and a tulle veil fastened to a pearl beaded cap. She carried lilies of the valley. Mr. Huff and his bride left for New York after the reception to sail on a West Indies cruise.

Boston Girl to Wed Lee Wendell.

From Boston comes the announcement of an engagement of interest to Chicagoans, that of Miss Camilla Alsop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. O. Alsop, to F. Lee H. Wendell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell Jr. of 1260 Astor street.

Miss Alsop made her debut in Boston during the season of 1933-'34, after studying for two years in Europe. She is a member of the Junior league and of the Vincent club. Mr. Wendell attended Milton academy and Harvard university. No date has been set for the wedding.

VASSAR WOMEN TAKE UNEXPECTED INTEREST IN STUDY OF MARRIAGE

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 6.—(AP)—Girls at Vassar college, whose president believes that education should make women more self-sufficient, have shown an unexpected interest in marriage.

Administrative officials were astounded when about 600 young women, more than half the student body, attended the first lecture in a new course on "marriage and family life." The course was originated by Dr. Mary Hooke, assistant physician at the college.

So many young women attempted to attend the first lecture, "The Biological and Anatomical Aspects of Marriage," by Dr. Madeleine Grant, that Vassar's Blodgett hall was filled and a second lecture had to be given later in the day.

Some of the topics to be studied include: "Phychological Aspects of Marriage," "Sex Relation in Its Physical and Psychological Aspects," "Courtship and Choosing a Husband," "Techniques of Emotional Self-Management," "Philosophy of the Budget," Marriage and Career," and "Leisure and Marriage."

FAROUK, EGYPT'S BOY KING, BEGINS SWISS HOLIDAY

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, March 6.—(AP)—Laughing and shouting, Egypt's 17 year old boy king, Farouk, went skiing and sledding over heavy snow today at the start of his three month holiday.

Soon to become ruler of Egypt's 15,000,000 people—now governed by a regency—the boy king was joined in play under a brilliant sun by four sisters—Fawzieh, Faiza, Faika, and Fathia.

Farouk is on a tour of Europe.

Accompanying him on the long holiday before his coronation next July 31 in addition to the four princesses was his mother, Queen Nazli, beautiful widow of King Fuad I.

Tall and broad shouldered, the handsome boy king already firmly holds the affection of Egypt's people. An accomplished linguist—speaking English, French, and Arabic fluently—the six foot Farouk is an active sportsman.

Dog Produces Wedding Ring Missing 3 Years

Niagara Falls, N. Y., March 6.—(AP)—Mrs. David Hann suspected her pet dog today of carrying her wedding ring in its mouth for three years. The ring, missing since 1934, dropped from the animal's mouth yesterday.

Wilmette Student Works on Streets to Pay Fine

Vernon Brown Jr., 20 years old, 823 15th street, Wilmette, a Northwestern university freshman, donned working clothes yesterday and paid one-third of his debt to his home village. He worked as a helper on a village truck. He was sentenced to work three days by Police Magistrate John J. Peters for reckless driving that caused a trafic crash in the suburb on Feb. 22.

CAPTURED U. OF C. STUDENT BLAMES ATTACK ON URGE

Impulse Uncontrolable, He Tells Police.

Edward Largent, 24 years old, a graduate student in biology at the University of Chicago, who explained he suffered from an uncontrolable urge, was under arrest at the Woodlawn police station yesterday for assaulting a young married woman.

Edward Largent.

He was captured Friday night after he beat Mrs. Rosabella Leistera, 29 years old, night supervisor at the Woodlawn hospital, when she drove her car into the garage at the rear of her home at 6128 Ellis avenue. Largent struck her from behind and knocked her down, but made no attempt to rape her. She was not seriously hurt.

Horrified at What He Did.

Her screams brought James Denan, 2512 Lowe avenue, a taxicab driver, who caught Largent after a short chase. Yesterday Largent was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Sam Papanek at the sex bureau in the state's attorney's office.

"I don't know what came over me," he said. "For the last two weeks I have felt an urge to assault some one. I can't explain it and I'm horrified at what I did."

Friends Blame Overwork.

Largent, married and the father of a child, lives at 6021 Drexel avenue. He was graduated in 1935 from Westminster college at Fulton, Mo., and was attending the University of Chicago on a scholarship. He specialized in histology and was considered a good student, according to his associates. They said overwork may have caused his act.

After being questioned at the state's attorney's office he was returned to the Woodlawn station for the night.

Sends Railroad $5 for Coal Brother Stole Long Ago

The Chicago office of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad got an unsigned letter from Detroit yesterday with a $5 bill in it. The letter read: "It is God's will that I remit five dollars for coal my brother Arthur stole from your railroad some 25 years ago."

BOY, 5, TELLS STRANGE STORY OF CHILD KILLING

Says Other Boy Drowned Little Girl.

Windsor, Vt., March 6.—(AP)—State's Attorney Albion Parker tonight reported a 5 year old boy had informed him another boy, "just a few years older," hit tiny Beverly Ann Page with "a piece of a brick, knocked her out," and rolled her into the shallow mill stream, where her body was found yesterday.

The young informant told his story, Parker reported, while sitting on the knee of Sherif Ernest Schoenfeld in the office of Police Chief John Edmund. According to the boy, while Beverly lay in the water he "held her down by the hair for a short time" while the other boy stepped on her stomach.

Parker quoted that boy as saying:

"Me and Beverly Ann were playing near the river when the other boy came along. He pushed her down and pulled off her overshoes.

"She cried some. He hit her with a piece of brick. He knocked her out. He rolled her in the river. Then —threw one of her overshoes out into deep water about fifty feet away and I threw the other one in beside her. Then he stepped on her stomach while she lay in the water and I held her down by the hair a short time.

"The boy ran away and I picked up an iron hoop and tried to pull her out by putting that around her neck. I couldn't move her because she was too heavy."

When Beverly Ann was found by searchers yesterday, five hours after she disappeared from the home of her aunt, her jaw bone was punctured and an iron hoop was around her chest. Referring to the story of the boy, Parker declared:

"I can't believe a child of that age could imagine such a story, but I do not like to see any person incriminated on a 5 year old child's story. We are continuing the investigation."

The prosecutor said the older boy had denied the charges during an hour's questioning.

NEW HOME LIFE IS CALLED SHORT CUT TO ASYLUM

Expert Denounces World of Paradoxes.

Parents of today, in rearing their children, are conducting highly successful preparatory courses for insane asylums, Burton P. Fowler, headmaster of the Tower Hill school of Wilmington, Del., declared here yesterday.

Addressing a one day conference on conflicts between parents and children, held at the Palmer house under the auspices of the Chicago Association for Child Study and Parent Education, Mr. Fowler tried to answer the question: Why are modern parents confused?

The simplest answer, he said, lies in the fact that the parents live in a confused world, a world of paradoxes. Confusion of pressures, shifting of pressures and decentralization of the family leaves every one, he said, bewildered and uncertain.

"And the result," he said, "is that at a time when the greatest resources the world has ever known are at hand for parents to rear a generation of physical, mental and emotional giants, we seem to be doing little more than conducting highly successful preparatory courses for early admission to sanitariums for nervous patients."

RAINS ROUT TEXAS DUST.

Amarillo, Tex., March 6.—(AP)—Spring rains routed drouth from most of the Texas panhandle today, mimimizing the prospect of dust storm damage and soaking winter wheat fields. Showers fell over parts of the Oklahoma panhandle.

SLAYER MOVED

DR. FRANK J. FURCH JR.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Indictment of Dr. Frank J. Furch Jr., on a murder charge will be asked of the grand jury tomorrow or Tuesday, according to Morris Meyers, assistant state's attorney. Dr. Furch, a foot specialist, shot and killed his second divorced wife, Mrs. Norma Schmidt, 39 years old, and then shot himself in her apartment at 317 Belden avenue on Feb. 28. Dr. Furch, who is 38 years old, was moved yesterday from the Augustana hospital to the Bridewell hospital. Meyers said an attorney had been retained for Furch by his first divorced wife, Mrs. Myrtle Furch.

Ex-U. S. Consul in Paris, Alphonse Gaulin, Dies Poor

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—Alphonse Gaulin, who from 1926 to 1929 was American consul general in Paris, died in St. Vincent's hospital today half an hour after he had been taken in an ambulance from the Mills hotel. Mr. Gaulin, whose age was recorded as 59, had suffered from a stomach ailment, and the cause of death was given as an intestinal hemorrhage. The hotel rents 1,500 rooms at 35 and 40 cents a night, mostly to transients.

QUALITY BEYOND COMPETITION AT THIS PRICE

Men! The Super Sale is on! 5000 new Spring Suits and Topcoats are on the racks for the biggest value-giving festival in our basement store history. Staged with all the dramatics befitting our Golden Jubilee Celebration, this event will be one of the most memorable in your experience. Planned months ago, we caught the market before the rise, and you get the benefit! Because of our huge buying power, we asked for and received high standards of tailoring . . . choice top grade woolens . . . and fresh, advance styles, impossible under ordinary circumstances! It's the one event you want to attend—it's the chance to cash in on a record breaking merchandising scoop! Monday is the day of days—and no previous engagement should be important enough to keep you away.

Timely!

With the Spring season just opened and Easter on March 28th only 20 days away, this event comes just when it can benefit you the most.

Complete!

The range of patterns, models and sizes is complete in every respect. We can fit any man or young man—regular, long, short or stout from size 34 to 52.

Unrivalled!

Aside from the extra quality tailoring features, found usually on much higher priced clothing—you will be amazed by the variety of fabrics which include the highly desirable gabardines in suits and camel hair in topcoats.

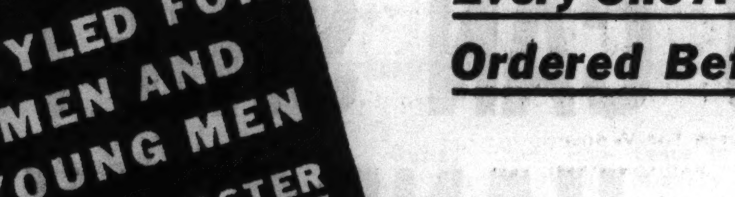
'3 Ways to Buy'

You can buy one of three ways—Cash, Charge or Budget. Whichever way you choose, the price and service are the same.

Free Parking

We have arranged 2-hour free parking for you at the South Loop Motor-Ramp Garage on Federal Street between VanBuren and Jackson. Just drive your car in, have your claim check O. K.'d at store after purchase, and drive out.

THE SUITS



Worsteds, cheviots, cassimeres, twists, imported and domestic tweeds and GABARDINES. Grays, browns and blues—in Glen plaids, shadow plaids, double plaids, shadow stripes, bold chalk stripes, fancy candy stripes, fancy pin checks and all-over combinations. Also the high style powder blues and platinum grays and the ever popular oxford and banker's grays and blue serges. Single and double breasted business suits, drapes and fancy backs. Sizes 34 to 52.

THE TOPCOATS

Coverts in tan, brown or blue, Glen plaids and herringbones. Imported tweeds in big bold plaids and all-over patterns in gray, brown and tan. Llama cloths in Glen plaid browns, tans, grays, or blues. Plain shades of camel hair in tan, also worsted backs and fleece fabrics in brown, blue and gray. Wrap-around fancy backs, raglans, fitted guards, and military collar coats. Most models both single and double breasted. Sizes 34 to 50.

For This Event The Hub Will Be Open Monday From 9:30 A.M. TO 9 P.M.

JOHN L. LEWIS HAS EXPERIENCE AS A DICTATOR

Rules Over Labor Domain with an Iron Hand.

termination he indicated Thursday night not to seek a third term.

Steadily and relentlessly Mr. Lewis has extended the power of his labor dictatorship. In Washington he is a formidable power behind the throne. He dominates the department of labor. In the recent General Motors strike it was Mr. Lewis who inspired the most important moves made by the labor department to settle the dispute—moves advantageous to the C. I. O. and disadvantageous to the corporation. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins never took an important step without getting his consent.

Wields Powerful Influence.

The navy ran short of steel for warship construction because Dictator Lewis would not consent to an exception being made by Miss Perkins to the provisions of the Walsh-Healey act stipulating minimum wages and maximum hours on government contracts. Thus Mr. Lewis brought increased pressure to bear on the steel companies to grant his wage and hour concessions which would enable them to qualify for navy steel contracts.

When the blizzard produced a coal shortage in the northwest this winter it was to Dictator Lewis that Gov. Henry H. Blood of Utah was compelled to appeal to get permission for Utah coal miners to work overtime in order to stepup production. Mr. Lewis permitted the increase of production, but not to the full extent requested.

Most striking of all his displays of the talent for dictatorship was the demand Mr. Lewis barked at President Roosevelt to bring the influence of the administration to the support of the C. I. O. in the motor strike by way of compensation for the support given Mr. Roosevelt by the Lewis following in the election.

Mr. Roosevelt swallowed the affront and gave Mr. Lewis aid of the greatest potency. He condoned the sitdown strike, uttered no word in support of enforcement of the law, and refrained from invoking an election by the national labor relations board to determine whether the Lewis union represented a majority of the employés.

Henry Co. to PayAll Claims for Stock Injured by Dogs

'AVERAGE' STEEL PAY JUMPS FROM $34.44 A WEEK UP TO $49.80

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 6.—(AP)—The steel worker who receives the "average" pay of 73 cents an hour and is working 48 hours a week will have his weekly pay check increased from $34.44 to $49.80 under tonight's increase announced by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation.

The American Iron and Steel institute estimated the average wage of the industry's 550,000 workers at 73 cents.

Under the time and a half plan for all who work over 40 hours a week, the "average" worker would make $6.64 a day instead of $5.84 and for his eight hours overtime would receive $9.96.

The common laborer, now getting 52½ cents an hour, would have his weekly check boosted from $25.20 to $37.50.

Women—there are several hundred employed in the tin mills as trimmers—will have their pay raised from 46 cents an hour to 56.

GLASS WORKERS MYSTERY STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

As mysteriously as it began, the walkout of union glass workers from some of the largest glass plants in the city on Friday apparently was ended yesterday.

Managers of these plants were informed by telephone yesterday by Local 27 of the Glaziers' union that their men would be at work tomorrow. The message was just as cryptic and devoid of details as the one given Thursday night stating that the glaziers would not work on Friday.

No statement came from union headquarters at 100 North La Salle street nor could any one be reached there, but on Friday it was announced that the question of wages was not involved. The glaziers receive $1.80 an hour for a seven hour day and a five day week.

RUGGIERO RICCI GIVES FLAWLESS VIOLIN RECITAL

BY CECIL SMITH.

When Ruggiero Ricci last gave a violin recital in Chicago, seven years ago, he was a 9 year old child wonder. At 8:20 last evening a swarthy, stocky lad of 16 strode onto the stage of Orchestra hall and bowed confidently to his applauding audience. The lad was Ruggiero Ricci, 1937 version.

The seven silent years which lay behind last night's recital created an air of suspense about the occasion which might easily have taxed the nerves of an artist twice young Ricci's age. The first eight measures of Corelli's variations called "La Folia" immediately put all disquieting worries to rest. For out of the prodigy of seven years ago a seasoned musician and a scintillating violinist has developed.

Ricci's sheer skill in handling his instrument can be described as flawless. His rapid passages stay clean and rhythmic, and his double-stopping is beautifully exact in pitch.

On the interpretative side the young violinist was at his best in the one movement concerto by Glazounoff. Both the long, sustained melodies of the opening part and the brilliant fireworks of the finale were well suited to the half maturity of his mind.

Throughout the evening Ricci's tone was opulent and bold. The instrument on which he played, a Guarnerius made in 1737, must surely be one of the most ravishing instruments in the world.

Passes Up Turkey Dinner to Spend Townsend Cash

Greenfield, Mass., March 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Carrie Saben changed her mind today and spent $27 of the dwindling $200 furnished her by the Townsend club in a test of a transaction tax to furnish old age pensions. Mrs. Saben had planned to spend the day at home roasting a turkey in preparation for her grandson's birthday party tomorrow. Instead, she went shopping. She has $67 left.

Steve O'Donnell's Truck Drivers Go on Strike

Some 25 independent truck drivers employed by the Garfield Trucking company to aid company drivers in removing slag from the Calumet Sag canal, south of Blue Island, went on a sitdown strike yesterday. They complained that since they were paid by the amount of slag they hauled away, company drivers were given the preference in loading. The Garfield company is operated by Steve O'Donnell, brother of Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, beer baron during prohibition.

NOW YOU CAN SHIFT GEARS WITH Both HANDS ON THE WHEEL

Try this NEW WAY TO DRIVE Before you buy your 1937 car

The easier, safer way to drive! No need to pull a gear lever or push a clutch YET . . . NOTHING NEW TO LEARN!

All around you are drivers who shift gears without ever lifting a hand from the wheel. Low, second, high, neutral or reverse . . . a flick of a finger does it.

More than 115,000 Hudson and Terraplane owners have already driven over a billion miles without a gear shift lever. And thousands more are now discovering this easier, safer way to drive.

You Are Invited!

Come in and drive a Hudson or Terraplane with Selective Automatic Shift (an optional extra on all models). Lift a toe, flick a finger . . . and gears shift themselves. No more tugging at a gear lever. You can forget the clutch pedal.

Enjoy the extra foot and leg room of a clear front floor. No hand brake there! It's up at the cowl. A finger touch releases it.

Discover the many other advantages that make these the No. 1 Cars of the moderate and low price fields. No. 1 size and room, with 117, 122 and 129-inch wheelbases. Front seats several inches wider than in any other popular cars . . . 55 full inches from door to door.

No. 1 in Each Price Class

Top power in each price class . . . 96 or 101 in Terraplane; 101 to 107 in Hudson Six; 122 in Hudson Eight. No. 1 performance and endurance, officially proved as no other 1937 cars have proved them.

No. 1 economy, too, proved in the 352-mile Los Angeles-Yosemite Economy Run. Hudson led the Eights, with 22.71 miles per gallon. Terraplane topped other leading low priced cars, with 22 miles per gallon. With 5 passengers and baggage; no coasting allowed.

Accept the special invitation of Hudson and Terraplane dealers—try the driving sensation of 1937. A car is waiting for you, today.

Conventional gear lever available on all models at no cost, if desired.

See ALL you get for these low delivered prices

$695 and up for De Luxe Terraplane; $815 and up for Hudson Custom Six; $900 and up for Hudson De Luxe Eight . . . in Detroit, prepared for delivery, with Federal taxes paid. All prices start with coupe.

For price delivered to you, merely add transportation costs to your city—and state and local taxes, if any.

All prices include following equipment: Front and rear bumpers and bumper guards; one spare wheel, tire and tube; special radiator ornament; double windshield wipers; heavy duty stabilizer; Safety Glass. Hudson and Super Terraplane prices also include spring covers.

Deduction will be made if Safety Glass is not required by state law and not wanted by purchaser. Other accessories at prices quoted by dealers. Ask about the new low cost Hudson-C. I. T. Time Payment Plan—terms to suit your income.

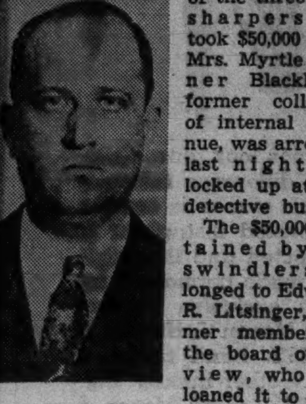
ARREST SHARPER IN OLD $50,000 LITSINGER FRAUD

Famous Springfield Faro Game Recalled.

Roy Browder, alias Burgess, 39 years old, sought for six years as one of the three card sharpers who took $50,000 from Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, was arrested last night and locked up at the detective bureau.



ROY BROWDER.

The $50,000 obtained by the swindlers belonged to Edward R. Litsinger, former member of the board of review, who had loaned it to Mrs. Blacklidge to help her collect "winnings" in a faro game in a Springfield, Ill., hotel in January, 1931.

Recognized on Street.

Browder was recognized at Clark street and Diversey parkway by Sergt. Roy Van Herrick of the detective bureau, who asked the suspect where he had been hiding since the swindle. "In the east," replied Browder. Asked what he had done with his share of the $50,000, he said:

"Well, you know how those things are."

At the detective bureau records showed Browder has been arrested seven times in Louisville, Ky., his home town, and at least once in each of nine other cities. Police said they had no record of warants having been issued against him and his alleged associates in the Blacklidge-Litsinger swindle, but they explained such warants would be in Springfield.

Litsinger Puts Up Money.

Mrs. Blacklidge told Litsinger she had won $207,000 from the three sharpers and they refused to pay her unless she showed money to prove she could have made good had she lost. She persuaded Litsinger to send $50,000 from Chicago to Springfield and when the money arrived the sharpers seized it and fled.

Eight days after the swindle Mrs. Blacklidge resigned as collector. Three months later one George L. Perry, a mysteriously affluent resident of South Bend, Ind., was shot to death there. Police subsequently identified the body as that of "Big George" Parker, one of the three faro swindlers. His accomplices were named at the time as Roy Burgess and Roscoe Reynolds.

A year after the famous game Mrs. Blacklidge filed suit asking $150,000 damages of Litsinger, charging defamation of character because of his statements concerning his loan to her and the swindle the suit was dismissed last May 28.

Illness Ends Strike

Mrs. Mildred E. Agness as she stoked furnace in husband's window shade shop before attack of hysteria forced her removal to a hospital. [Acme Photo.]

Rochester, N. Y., March 6.—(AP)—A rundown condition and a sudden attack of hysteria forced Mrs. Mildred E. Agness into a hospital this afternoon and ended a sitdown strike she started last Wednesday morning in her husband's shop to collect back alimony.

The 35 year old estranged wife was ordered to the hospital by Dr. J. F. Zielinski, a physician who had called at her request to treat her for a bad cold.

Dr. Zielinski said she was suffering from a rundown condition engendered by nearly four days and three nights in the window shade shop of her husband, Howard Agness.

While she was being examined Mrs. Agness suffered an hysterical attack and was ordered by the doctor to the Municipal hospital.

10 NEW STATIONS ENTER MUTUAL RADIO NETWORK

Coast to Coast Total Now Stands at 51.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Ten more stations are to be added to the Mutual Broadcasting system's coast to coast network within five weeks, bringing the total number of stations in the newest major chains to 51. Starting April 1 the Oklahoma network, composed of eight stations, will be linked with the Mutual system through permanent lines and on April 15 two Texas stations are to join the network.

The Oklahoma Stations.

The Oklahoma stations joining Mutual are: KGFG, Oklahoma City; KCRC, Enid; KGFF, Shawnee; KBIX, Muskogee; KADA, Ada; KVSO, Ardmore; WBBZ, Ponca City, and KASA, Elk City. These stations are so located that they will provide complete coverage of Oklahoma and in addition cover a widespread portion of the southwest. The negotiations were conducted by R. U. Porter, Shawnee, president of the Oklahoma network; Glenn Condon, Tulsa, managing director, and Fred Weber, general manager of Mutual.

The Texas stations are: KTAT, Fort Worth, operated by the Tarrant Broadcasting company, headed by Raymond E. Buck, and WRR, the city owned Dallas station, directed by John Thorwald. Special dedicatory programs are to be arranged for the two evenings when the new stations join the Mutual chain.

Fifth Chain to Join.

The Oklahoma network will be the fifth regional chain to comprise the Mutual coast to coast system. The others are the Don Lee network of the Pacific coast, which joined Mutual Dec. 29, the day it expanded to trans-continental proportions; the Central States Broadcasting corporation, the Colonial network of New England, the Iowa network and the original Mutual group extending from New York to Chicago, with W-G-N as the local outlet.

The Mutual system now covers every major listening center in the country.

NOTRE DAME AWARDS HARVARD PROFESSOR ITS LAETARE MEDAL

South Bend, Ind., March 6.—(AP)—Prof. Jeremiah D. M. Ford, chairman of the department of romance languages of Harvard university, tonight was announced as winner of the Laetare medal, recognized as the highest honor received by a Catholic layman in the United States. The medal will be presented in June at commencement exercises at Notre Dame university here.

Announcing the award, the Rev. John F. O'Hara, Notre Dame president, said:

"Catholic scholarship is recognized in this year's award of the Laetare medal. For more than 40 years Prof. Ford has contributed in a very scholarly way to our knowledge."

Notre Dame has awarded the medal annually since 1883.

GYPSIES ROB AGED MAN.

U. S. AND JAPAN REACH ACCORD ON LEASEHOLDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Conclusion of an agreement with the Japanese government under which $3,000,000 of property held under perpetual municipal tax exempt leases in Japan will be converted to American ownership April 1, today was announced by the state department. A similar agreement respecting British nationals was entered into recently by Japan and Great Britain.

Last year the American embassy in Tokio was authorized to enter into discussions with the Japanese foreign office looking toward a final disposal of the system under which American citizens, as well as other foreign nationals, are exempt from municipal taxation in respect of real property held under perpetual leaseholds granted by the Japanese government during the period when extra-territoriality obtained in Japan, the state department announced.

Esteem

To have one's product held in high esteem by the buying public is the desire of every honest manufacturer. To gain that lasting esteem, one policy must prevail: No Compromise with Quality. The quality of Baldwin built pianos is written into the record. So we say, is it any wonder that leading artists the world over prefer the Baldwin? Your piano should be a Baldwin, too.

JULY

By CALEB

CAN you remember and actually feel what you felt in July? We had been coasting along with wonderfully cool weather, and right after the Fourth, the demons of hades and heat descended upon us. Do you remember?

One hundred and more in the shade! Pavements soft and melting. Parked cars growing hot and stifling in the sun. Workmen abandoning sunny jobs.

Energy seeping and oozing out through pores. Bodies limp. Perspiration transforming comfortable, clean garments. Hair stringy, faces shiny, foreheads beaded.

Shirt sleeves everywhere—in restaurants, trains, automobiles, buses. In crowded areas, pillows on window sills—heads projected. Cots on porches, half-clothed figures draped on back steps, block after block of people vainly seeking relief outdoors.

Parks crowded. Grass strewn with humans and the debris they create. Beaches seething with steaming people. Humanity in the fluid—flowing like a crevice-filling stream wherever grass was green—and public.

Dates canceled—people with cool homes closing themselves within the dark confines of walls made tight to sun. Pastors preaching to empty pews. Prisoners in jail—hanging against hot bars—mouths open, seeking to suck in a little of freshness.

Headaches common—nerves on edge—people irritable. Crowds seeking the shady sides of streets. Soda fountains crowded. Long lines of cars on busy streets. Families driving aimlessly, stirring dead air into feeble motion.

Movie theaters crowded—people gasping on emerging into the heat outside. Sand flies—in swarms and numbers beyond estimate.

At that time we were serving you with things to wear and use that made the weather more bearable. White, light merchandise—thin, cool things—items and ideas akin to summer. We are emerging from a period when we have served you with opposite types of goods. Darker apparel—warmer, woolen things. Now we are entering the spring season—a period of transition. Light colors and bright fabrics. The passing seasons bring great change to our functions and offerings. Literally thousands upon thousands of items are radically replaced as the seasons roll.

A department store is never static. It is a changing dynamic thing revolving and functioning always around the fixed center of its own ideals.

RAILROAD CHIEF TELLS STAND ON AIRPORT TRACKS

Insists Removal Is Balked by Technicalities.

The Chicago & Western Indiana railroad is willing to remove the tracks which are retarding the development of the Municipal airport, but there are many technical difficulties attendant upon the acquiring of a new right of way that must be settled first. This statement was made yesterday by A. N. Williams, president of the railroad.

The airport is now squeezed into the area between 63d street and the tracks, which run on a line with 59th street. The city has offered the railroad a new right of way at 54th street, which would permit the expansion of the airport northward to 55th street, making use of the entire section of 640 acres.

Points Out Difficulties.

"The Guaranty Trust company of New York, trustee of our first mortgage bonds, demands that we secure clear title to the new right of way and that the new right of way be equal in appraisal value to our present location before they will approve the transfer of properties," Williams said.

In an ordinance which the railroad has until April 25 to approve, the city offers the railroad the new right of way and promises to pay for moving the tracks, but the railroad objected to 19 of the 20 provisions in the ordinance on the ground that it does not guarantee the railroad a clear title to new trackage space before the old is deeded over.

Conference Is Postponed.

A conference on the situation scheduled for last Friday morning was postponed at the request of Mayor Kelly because Ald. Roger Kiley [37th], chairman of the aviation subcommittee of the city council, will be absent from the city for the next two weeks. The mayor wants a daily series of conferences if possible when work begins on ironing out the kinks in the present ordinance.

New York Bar Opposes Court Plan by 10 to 1 Vote

Albany, N. Y., March 6.—(AP)—By a preliminary vote of almost ten to one, the bar association of President Roosevelt's home state today recorded opposition to his Supreme court reorganization plan. A poll, conducted by the New York State Bar association's executive committee, on first returns showed 2,363 members against and 283 favoring the President's proposal to appoint an additional Supreme court justice for each one who has not retired at the age of 70.

JOBLESS BARTENDER KILLS SELF.

George Dreher, 42 years old, 1456 Oak avenue, Evanston, an unemployed bartender who had been ill, hanged himself in his home yesterday. He lived with his brother-in-law, George Wacker, assistant sales manager of the C. J. Tagliabue Manufacturing company, 608 South Dearborn street.

Finds Relatives

MRS. DAN MacDOUGALD.
[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Atlanta, Ga., March 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Dan MacDougald, socially prominent Atlantan reared as a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilmer Speed Adams of Louisville, said tonight she had just learned she was an adopted child—really the sister of Fontaine Fox, cartoonist.

Mrs. MacDougald, wife of an Atlanta lawyer, explained she was informed of her parentage in a letter from a "new" sister, Mrs. A Reutlinger of Louisville.

The letter, the Atlanta woman said, contained the information she was a daughter of Fontaine Talbot Fox, a Louisville attorney.

Mrs. Fox died when Mrs. MacDougald was born. The mother's closest friend, a sister of Mrs. Adams, volunteered to care for the baby. Finally the Adamses adopted the child, naming her Jessie Adams. Mrs. MacDougald said she never was told of her real name even when she became an heir to the Adams estate last summer.

The letter said there is another brother, Barton Fox of New York, a broker, and a sister, Frances Fox, a writer, also of New York.

Car Plunges Into Lake; Two Occupants Rescued

S. Wade Greaves, 34 years old, 56 East Chicago avenue, and Miss Esther O'Donnell, 35, of 1015 North Clark street, occupants of Greaves' car when it plunged into the lake at the foot of Randolph street early yesterday, were little the worse for their experience. Anton Greenwood and Eric Anderson, attendants at the Chicago Yacht club, saw the car fall from the pier and rescued the occupants. Greaves is an employé of the WPA.

SUPREME COURT ISSUE REACHES A BITTER STAGE

President and Own Party Leaders Clash.

judiciary. Reproaches are heaped upon the membership of the Supreme court, because that court has dared to exercise an independent judgment. A subordinate of the President, charted with the disbursement of billions of public funds for the relief of our needy citizens, tells them that a reactionary Supreme court may prevent future payments.

Sees Whirlwind Reaping.

"They have sown the wind. They should not be surprised if now we reap the whirlwind. Following each fresh attack an increasing number of our people whose need is great and whose confidence in our chosen leadership is high are responding:

"'We can't have everything we want, and as quickly as we want it, because the courts stand in the way. The President says so; Hopkins says the same. Then why wait? Away with the courts! Out with the judges! We will leave it all to the President.'

"No one seeks to forestall legitimate criticism of the decisions of any court. That is our sacred right. But unless we are willing as a people to face the whirlwind there must be an end to loose, misleading, exaggerated and unfounded tirades against the Supreme court as reactionary, a usurper of a power never granted to it, an obstacle in the path of progress toward national well-being.

Finds Few Court Errors.

"The Supreme court has a function to perform under our system of divided and limited governmental powers that is fully as vital as that of the legislature and executive departments. An unbiased study of our development as a nation under a written constitution will convince the intelligent, fair minded citizen that the court has fallen into error much less frequently than either of the other departments."

Persons inclined to abuse the judiciary should remember, the senator warned, that the "preservation of our liberties is dependent to a peculiar degree upon its retaining in full measure the confidence and esteem of the great masses of our people.

"No greater disservice ever was done to the cause of democracy than may well result from the diligent and surpassingly cunning and deceptive program to discredit the Supreme court in the minds of the people," he declared.

"The congress has before it today for consideration a proposal submitted by the President which seems on its face to have for its purpose to overpower, awe, or influence the Supreme court. That court, in performing a duty which it has exercised for nearly 150 years, has found that certain acts of congress and the President could not find justification under any of the powers granted to them by the people when the constitution was ordained and established.

Would Add Six Judges.

"Instead of going before the people with 'clarifying amendments' to ascertain whether the people now desire to enlarge the powers heretofore granted to congress and the executive, it is proposed to add six judges to the court so that quick and favorable action can be obtained on the desired legislation. If six of the nine present members of the court can by this means be overpowered, awed, or influenced to resign, then the number of judges will not be increased, but two-thirds of its membership will be newly appointed for a definite and understood objective. New and old judges alike will serve thereafter with the sword of Damocles in plain sight, with this warning writ so large that none could fail to read.

"'Interpret the law as congress and the executive want to have it interpreted or tomorrow we will stretch or compress your number to make effective what we think is best for the people.'

"So we have this simple question to decide. Are the people willing to surrender in exchange for some supposed and plausibly presented immediate advantage, that independent judiciary which every great student of our democracy has characterized as its crowning glory and strong fortress?

"Are the people of a mind to say that hereafter they will take their chance that no state legislature in an hour of hysteria will legislate to deprive its citizens of some cherished right? That no President, now or hereafter, will attempt to exercise powers never granted to him? That no congress will step across the line and enact laws in a field of action reserved to the states or retained in the people themselves?"

METHODISTS ASK ALL LOVERS OF LIBERTY TO FIGHT COURT PACKING

Philadelphia, Pa., March 6.—[Special.]—Philadelphia Methodism denounced President Roosevelt's Supreme court proposal today as "executive seizure of the safeguards of American government."

Criticizing the chief executive's plan "to seize control of the Supreme court," delegates attending the 150th annual Philadelphia Methodist Episcopal conference called on "lovers of liberty" to fight its adoption.

Immediately after hotly worded debate the conference, in its fourth day's session, adopted a resolution by a vote of 104 to 25 assailing the plan as an "undisguised effort to seize control."

LINCOLN'S COUSIN WHO WITNESSED SLAYING IS DEAD

Cincinnati, O., March 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary V. Thompson, 78, second cousin of Abraham Lincoln and a witness to his assassination, died tonight in the home of a son. Mrs. Thompson, a native of Zanesville, O., was the daughter of Hugh Pinkerton, a member of the secret service. Her mother, Mary Brown Pinkerton, was Lincoln's first cousin. Mrs. Thompson often recalled that as a child she was a playmate of Tad Lincoln in the White House. She and her parents were in the audience at Ford's theater the night Lincoln was shot.

Butcher Shoots Wife to Death and Kills Himself

Apparently crazed by illness, Anton Dishis, 44 years old, a butcher, shot and fatally wounded his wife, Emily, 42, and then killed himself last night. The double killing took place in their flat behind his meat market at 4454 South Rockwell street. The shots were heard by their son, Anton Jr., 6 years old, and Mrs. Dishis' son by a former marriage, Albert Vasilauskas, 20 years old. Anton Jr., who was sleeping and was awakened by the shots, went back to sleep without learning he had been orphaned.

Georgia County to Vote on Court Packing Plan

Donalsonville, Ga., March 6.—(AP)—Seminole county today made plans to become the first in the nation to ballot on President Roosevelt's court reorganization plan. At the request of the Democratic executive committee of the county, Ordinary Gordon B. Garwood has called a referendum vote for March 19 on the proposed court change.

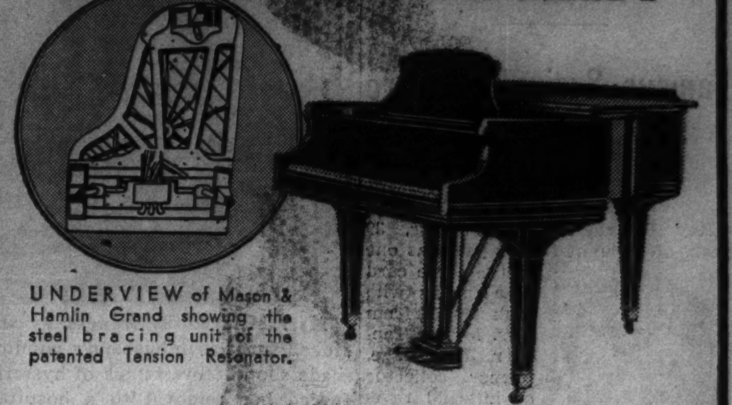
Consider THE GREATER VALUE of the MASON & HAMLIN



UNDERVIEW of Mason & Hamlin Grand showing the steel bracing unit of the patented Tension Resonator.

On casual inspection most pianos look alike. Critically examined, however, the difference between Mason & Hamlin and all other pianos is readily apparent. Only in this celebrated instrument is the sounding board arch protected and the original tonal beauty of the piano made permanent by means of Mason & Hamlin's exclusive Tension Resonator construction. Each Mason & Hamlin is an individual work of art—85% hand made—a practice unapproached by any other maker. Significant, too, is the fact that 75% of all Mason & Hamlin pianos are owned by professional musicians. Still at the lowest price in 20 years,

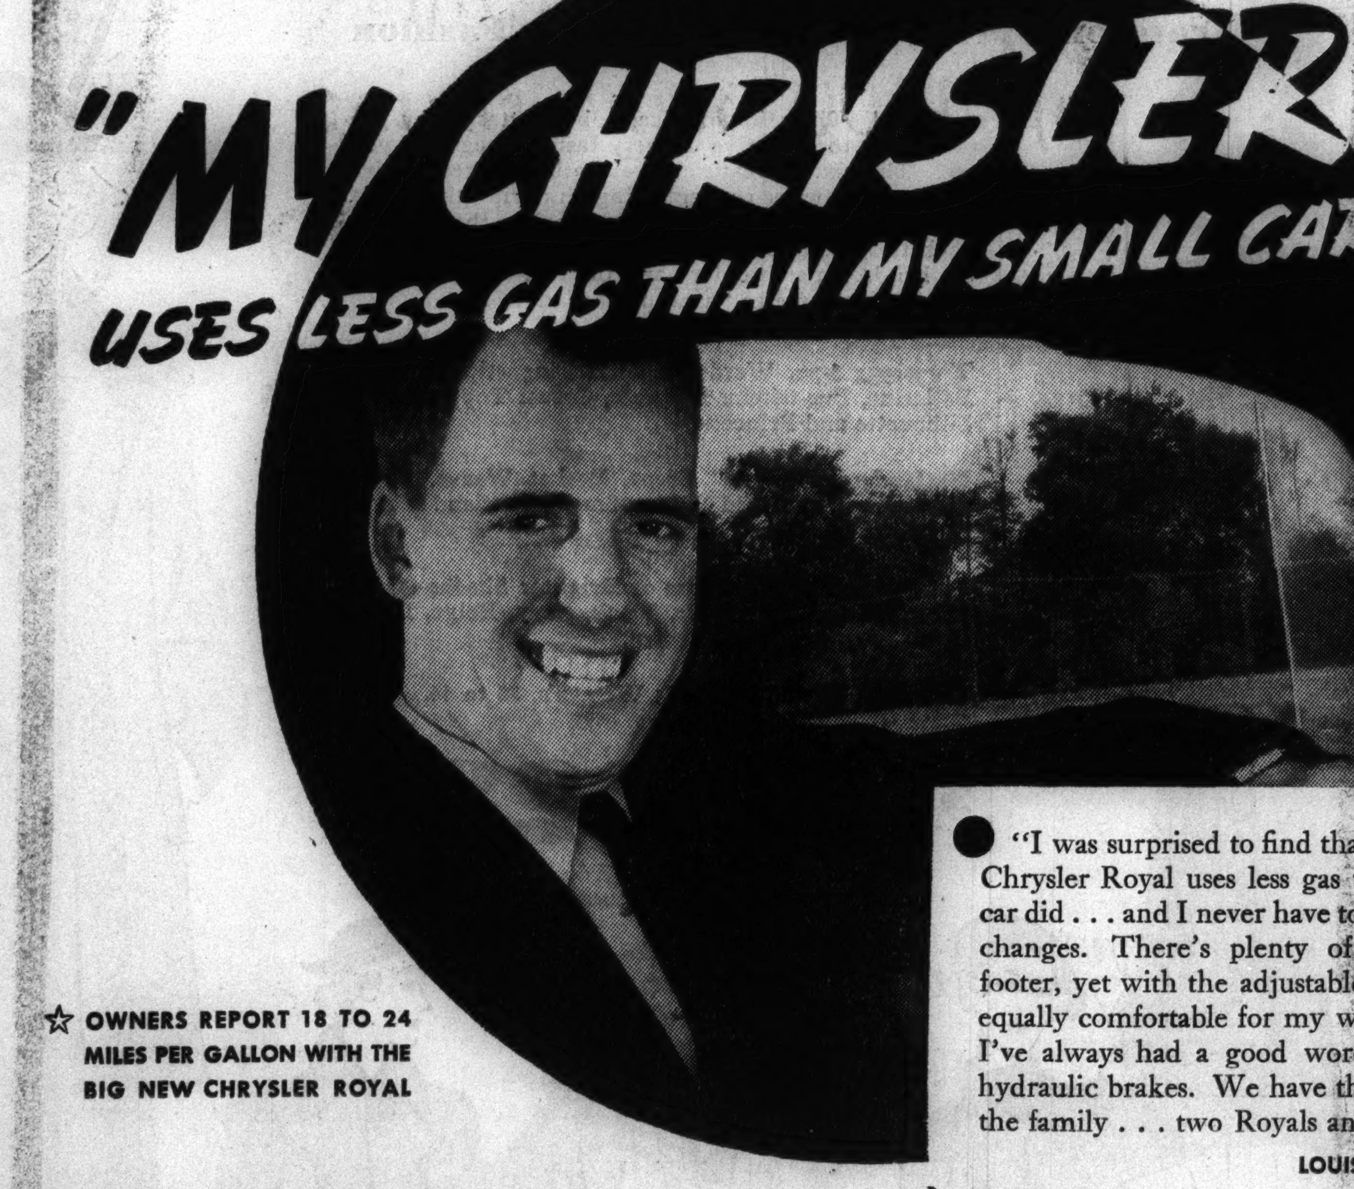
"MY CHRYSLER USES LESS GAS THAN MY SMALL CAR DID!" —says LOUIS THEBAULT, Jr. CHICAGO

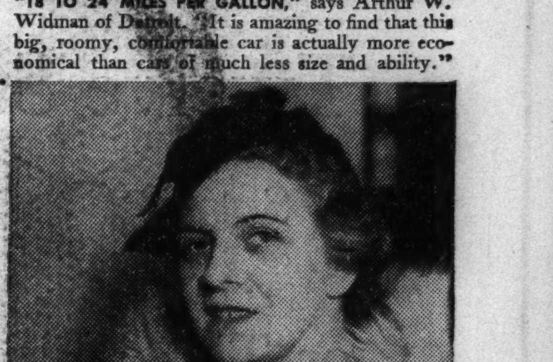


☆ OWNERS REPORT 18 TO 24 MILES PER GALLON WITH THE BIG NEW CHRYSLER ROYAL

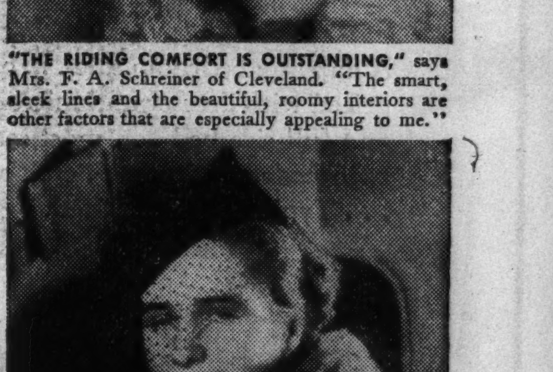
"I was surprised to find that my big, roomy Chrysler Royal uses less gas than my smaller car did . . . and I never have to add oil between changes. There's plenty of room for a six footer, yet with the adjustable seat, the car is equally comfortable for my wife and mother. I've always had a good word for Chrysler's hydraulic brakes. We have three Chryslers in the family . . . two Royals and an Imperial!"

LOUIS J. THEBAULT, JR.

"18 TO 24 MILES PER GALLON," says Arthur W. Widman of Detroit. "It is amazing to find that this big, roomy, comfortable car is actually more economical than cars of much less size and ability."



"THE RIDING COMFORT IS OUTSTANDING," says Mrs. F. A. Schreiner of Cleveland. "The smart, sleek lines and the beautiful, roomy interiors are other factors that are especially appealing to me."



"I GET 18 MILES PER GALLON IN CITY TRAFFIC," says Miss Lois Brandt of New York, "and I love the feeling of effortless freedom that the automatic overdrive provides in country driving."

☆WHEREVER you go you'll find that owners of 1937 Chryslers are the happiest motorists in town.

Reports of 18 to 24 miles per gallon come from all parts of the country.

Experiences with oil economy are equally outstanding.

Many owners speak of the amazing quietness of the new Safety All-Steel Bodies.

Everyone agrees that there are no brakes like Chrysler's famous hydraulics.

Room . . . safety . . . riding ease . . . low upkeep . . . reliability . . . dashing beauty . . . all these things and more!

The plain fact is that Chrysler has invaded the low-priced field with an entirely new kind of low-priced car . . . bringing advantages no low-priced car ever had before.

See the 1937 Chryslers today . . . the Royal . . . Imperial . . . the Airflow. You'll agree . . . for 1937 Chrysler tops 'em all!

MINNEAPOLIS — State at Jackson, Chicago — ST. PAUL

TIGHTEN RULES AT STATEVILLE; FAVORITISM GOES

The Biggest Big Shot Only a Number Now.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

The job of making a prison out of the Illinois penitentiary at Statesville is complete. This is the belief of Joseph E. Ragen, superintendent of state prisons and acting warden at Statesville and Joliet penitentiaries, who is responsible for the changes.

Warden Ragen.

A visit to the Stateville prison gives evidence of complete eradication of clubhouse comforts, of cliques among favored prisoners such as prevailed under former régimes. The prison visitor sees a strict military discipline and a job for every one of the 3,033 inmates of the prison.

They're All Just Numbers.

Every inmate, including such notorious front page criminals of the past as Nathan Leopold, scion of a wealthy family and slayer of little Bobby Franks; Martin Durkin, killer of a government agent; and Hugh Basil [The Owl] Banghart, one of the kidnapers of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, are just numbers under the Ragen régime.

The so-called big shots of other days work like any other prisoner, according to their capabilities. They march to the military tunes of the prison band past the steam tables in the dining room, with tin cup and plate in hand for the plain, substantial prison fare, in company with the lesser array of robbers, killers, and thieves. They eat the same food as the others or they go hungry.

It is the privilege of any prisoner to go hungry if he does not like the prison fare. But it is a sin to waste the food of the state of Illinois. He may eat as much as he desires, except meat, but he must not take more than he can get away with.

When Warden Regan took charge of Stateville less than two years ago some 200 huts and shacks built and maintained by prisoners were scattered over the prison grounds. These were the breeding places of deviltry. They were the throne rooms of the favored group "with a pull." Now they are gone and each prisoner has only his cell to call home.

New Safety Measures Taken.

The repetition of slaying such as that of Richard [Dickie] Loeb by a fellow convict, James Day, on Jan. 28, 1936, is impossible under the new rules, the warden believes. Loeb was cut to death with a razor in a little bathroom adjoining the correspondence school office, where Leopold, his partner in the thrill murder, still works. The killing was possible because the door to the room contained opaque glass. All such glass has been removed from places where convicts are allowed. A guard, under the new system, can always have prisoners under observation.

Also, it is impossible for a prisoner to obtain a razor as Day did, unless a guard slips in his duty. A barber shop has been installed where each prisoner gets a weekly shave. Every razor is checked in and out of the barber shop by a guard at intervals during the day. Prisoners no longer are allowed to handle a razor unless they are working in the barber shop, and then only under the eyes of guards.

Idleness Is Warden's Problem.

The big problem facing Warden Ragen was idleness. Convicts with nothing to do but plan and scheme to outsmart the prison authorities are dangerous. When prisoners are kept busy during the day and are tired enough to be ready for bed at night their minds are not so active, the warden said.

The labor problem was solved in an ingenuous manner, and at the same time a former dangerous manner of bringing supplies into the prison from the outside world was stopped. Many a weapon or secret message was formerly smuggled in freight cars coming into the prison grounds.

Now everything is unloaded outside the prison under guards' supervision. It is sent into the prison through special chutes after a second inspection by guards. This does away with machine unloading and supplies work for more prisoners. Warden Ragen is always combating the machine age because it works against his plan of a job for every convict. Every conceivable work which can be done by hand is done so to supply more jobs.

Brick Carried a Half Mile.

For instance, a new chapel is being built on the prison grounds. Brick for the building is unloaded a half mile from the site. Prisoners carry the brick to the scene of the building in discarded roasting pans. This keeps scores of them busy where they otherwise would have nothing to do. The stone to resurface the prison yards is carried in a similar manner by other prisoners.

The newly established vocational school is an innovation in the prison. At present it is in the basement, but a new building is to be erected this spring. The purpose is to give prisoners who want to be rehabilitated text books and practical experience in trades instead of balls and chains.

In his placing of convicts at work the warden is trying another new experiment. A man is not placed in a position with which he was familiar outside. If a man is a printer by trade he may find himself learning carpentry or the barber business in the penitentiary.

"Our theory is that if a man did not make good at his trade outside of prison he was a failure at that occupation," explained the warden. "A new or different trade may be more to his liking and may help keep him employed and out of mischief when he is released."

311 Rule Changes Made.

Warden Ragen, a six footer weighing well over 200 pounds, is young and vigorous and not afraid to assume personal responsibility. He has demonstrated to the prisoners that he can be as tough as he can be humane.

He has made 311 changes in rules and regulations since he took over the job. In the most important ones he assumes personal responsibility. For instance, no prisoner under any circumstances can go through the prison gates without his personal O. K. or that of the first deputy. One or the other is always on duty. Formerly ten captains had the right to pass a prisoner. It was through this manner that Henry [Midget] Fernekes managed to escape by walking through the front door while posing as another prisoner.

Another personal task set for himself by the warden is that of watching money sent out of the prison. No one can send out money without his approval. This is to stop stock market gambling and outside investments, another trick of the late midget bandit, Fernekes, who committed suicide after he was recaptured.

Gangs Are Broken Up.

Among the important changes listed by the warden are the following:

1. Breaking up of gangs and elimination of favoritism to moneyed prisoners
2. A work assignment for every prisoner.
3. A business like system of records whereby one prisoner cannot possibly substitute for another. Each prisoner must carry a card showing his photograph and finger prints when he is sent away from his regular assignment, where a guard personally knows him.
4. Personal assignment of all prisoners outside of prison walls. No prisoner can work on the honor farm now without the warden's sanction.
5. Uniformity of dress for all inmates regardless of past fame or wealth.
6. Uniforms for all guards.
7. Prohibition of money possession inside the prison walls. Each prisoner, however, may buy $3 worth each week from the prison commissary. This system stops gambling.
8. Military discipline for both employés and inmates.
9. The establishment of a paddle system bearing the name, number, and destination of every prisoner not on his regular assignment. Each prisoner off his assignment or trusty must carry a paddle showing when he left a certain destination and when he is to arrive. These are inspected by guards.
10. Establishment of a pin record system showing the whereabouts of every prisoner and guard at all times.

Life Regulated by Signals.

The life of a convict is far from pleasant, the warden said, although the prisoner can make it easier by behaving. Although the work is not always of a back breaking nature, the routine is strict and rigid. The prisoners are regulated in everything by bells or whistles and must obey strictly or find themselves in solitary. The daily routine in summertime is as follows:

Arise at 5 a. m. to the tune of a bell. Clean cell.

Breakfast at 5:30 a. m.; seventeen minutes allowed for each meal.

Go to assignment or work at 6 a. m.

Return to cell at 10 a. m. and given one hour to wash up and eat lunch.

Stay in cell until 12:30 o'clock p. m. while officers eat.

Go into open air one hour for recreation.

Return to work at 1:30 p. m. until 5 p. m.

Dinner and back in cell by 6 p. m. From then until 9 p. m. reading of censored books or magazines or listening to a censored radio program is permitted.

Go to bed at 9 o'clock whether the prisoner feels like it or not. Lights out.

Warden Ragen is 39 years old. His father was William Ragen, for twelve years sherif of Clinton county, just east of St. Louis. The warden was first deputy sherif for his father for eight years and sherif himself for four years. He was then elected county treasurer and in 1933 resigned to take an appointment from Gov. Henry Horner as warden at Menard penitentiary. From then on he has been in prison work.

ARRESTED

GRACE H. SHARPE.

Sought for more than a month for the alleged theft of $3,200 in clothing and jewelry from the New York home of Carlyle Bennett, a radio singer, Miss Grace Houston Sharpe, 21 years old, 2900 Burling street, a dancer, was seized here early yesterday.

The girl was arrested by Sergt. Edwin Meisterheim of the Sheffield avenue station as she alighted from an automobile at Lake and Dearborn streets. She was wearing a fox fur neckpiece valued at $1,000 that had been taken from the Bennett home.

Detectives who trailed Miss Sharpe to Chicago said she was taken to the Bennett home during the family's absence on Jan. 25, by Albert McGowen, Bennett's chauffeur, who declared that he "passed out" and awoke later to find the girl gone. Miss Sharpe said that McGowen had posed as Bennett and had given her the clothing. She said she would waive extradition to New York.

Mattson Kidnap Suspect Is Arrested in Maryland

Havre de Grace, Md., March 6.—(AP)—A man who railroad detectives said resembled the kidnaper of slain 10 year old Charles Mattson was arrested today on a charge of trespass and held for further investigation. He gave his name as Frank Kravic, 38, of Chicago. He said he had not been in the state of Washington, where the kidnaping occurred for two years.

SEARCH IS LAUNCHED FOR 10 YEAR OLD GIRL MISSING FOR A DAY

Police of the Town Hall and Sheffield avenue stations were searching last night for Wilhelmina Strahammer, 10 years old, 3243 Lakewood avenue [Herndon street], who disappeared Friday afternoon. The child was last seen at prayer in St. Alphonsus church, Lincoln and Southport avenues, at 3:30 p. m. Friday.

Wilhelmina Strahammer

Her father, Joseph, a cabinetmaker, told police that Wilhelmina had been visiting the church at the same hour each day during Lent for prayer. From this the police theorized that a moron may have been watching the child.

Wilhelmina was a pupil in the fifth grade at St. Alphonsus school. Groups of school mates helped in the search last night, and will resume the hunt today. Police plan to question some of them in regard to her departure from the church Friday. Communication with family relatives at Grafton, Wis., with whom she has spent three summer vacations, failed to show the child had gone there.

SQUAD REVIVES GAS VICTIM.

Mrs. Marie Burke, 35 years old, owner of a delicatessen at 6011 Blackstone avenue, was revived by a fire department inhalator squad yesterday when she was accidentally overcome by gas in her home behind the store.

AUSTRALIA BEATS 2 AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 7 [Sunday].—(AP)—Two constitutional amendments regulating interstate commerce appeared today to have been defeated in a nation-wide poll.

Majorities in all six of Australia's states opposed a proposal to change the interstate free trade provision of the constitution so as to permit congress to prohibit movement of certain goods across state borders. Late returns showed 662,824 voters favoring the amendment and 1,323,647 opposing it.

A proposal to regulate air transporation between the states brought an affirmative vote of 1,062,556 with only 985,364 negative votes, but it held leads in only two of the states, Victoria and Queensland, and thus was beaten. The marketing amendment was opposed on the ground it might endanger the consumer by supplanting free trade with government control.

Salvation Army to Hold Services in Prisons Today

Salvation Army workers will hold devotional services today in all penal institutions in the Chicago area as part of the army's 25th annual observance of "Prison Sunday." Maj. John Ward and Adjt. Linus Mortensen will lead visits to county jails. The Chicago staf band, directed by John Stewart, will go to Joliet prison, where it will assist Adjt. Thomas Gates. Lieut. Col. John C. Habkirk will conduct services in Indiana State prison.

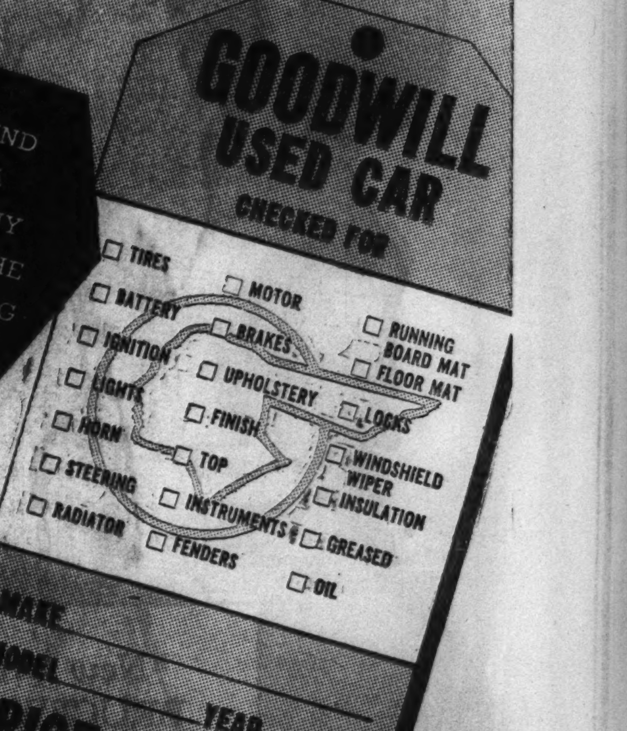
IT'S BOUND TO BE A BETTER BUY IF IT HAS THE GOODWILL TAG



THAT'S WHY "GOODWILL" USED CARS . . . THE FINEST IN TOWN—SELL AT THE LOWEST PRICES

Our business is based on selling new cars—but, naturally, we must sell used cars too, for nearly every person who buys a new car has a used car to trade. However, we don't figure on making a big profit from our used car operation—we rely on this part of our business to bring us friends and future new car buyers. And, here's what we do to earn your friendship. We carefully recondition all "Goodwill" used cars before placing them on sale. Engines are inspected . . . brakes adjusted . . . tires checked . . . and all reconditioning operations performed on each car are indicated on the "Goodwill" tag. Now is the time for you to buy a "Goodwill" used car—for we are selling them at lowest prices in order to make room for the flood of trade-ins on the 1937 Pontiac. See the "Goodwill" bargains listed in today's classified section. Select the car that best meets your requirements, then hurry to the dealer who has it for sale. There you can be sure of receiving the fullest measure of value for your money.

OUSTER OF JEWS IS DEMANDED BY GERMAN CHURCH

Segregation Is Plank in Election Platform.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 6.—The ousting of all baptized Jews from the Evangelical church and their segregation in a separate church is one of the main planks in the platform of the German Christians, it was learned today when the resolutions adopted at a recent meeting of leaders of the German Christians were announced.

In the forthcoming general synod election the German Christians, who enjoy the backing of the government and the all-powerful Nazi party and the Nazi press, will be the main rivals of the Confessional pastors, who are fighting for freedom of creed.

Combine Gospel and Naziism.

Efforts of the German Christians to combine the gospel with the Nazi philosophy of Alfred Rosenberg, philosophical leader of the Nazi party, were evidenced in their resolution passed at the same meeting. The resolution said:

"German Christians recognize as their special task the gathering of all the forces based on the gospel from the religious viewpoint of the philosophy of life. We are fighting for a German Protestant reich church free of Jews."

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler continued to study the draft of proposed procedure for the synod election placed before him by Hans Kerrl, minister of church affairs. As he did so leaders of the Confessional pastors circulated a strongly worded protest among their followers, branding the election a "new attack on the church and the gospel."

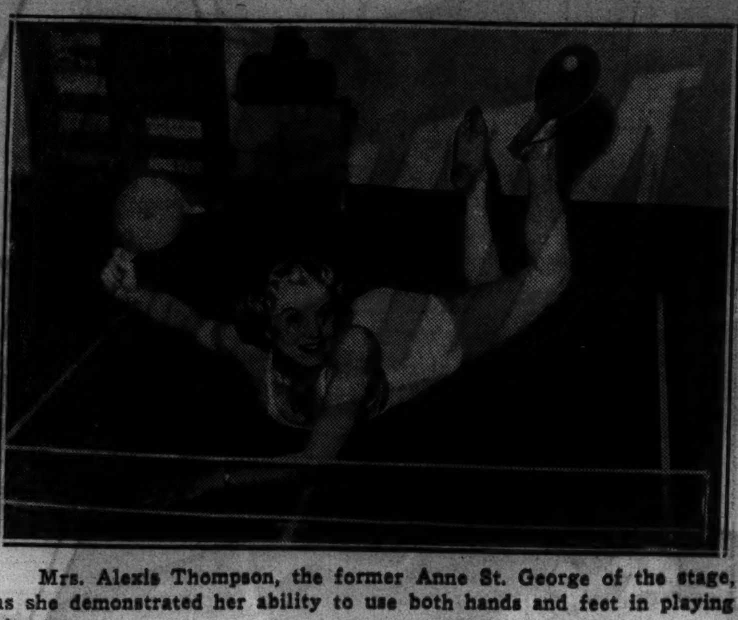
"We know Kerrl aims for a new church," the circular declares. "He, himself, told us the new church was to preach the doctrin of 'positive, true Christianity.'

"According to Kerrl, this means a Christianity of action and of party, and to love God means to place the nation above everything."

"The faithful must know that the new elections are to serve the purpose of making the church subservient to the state," the circular added.

Reviewing the history of the church conflict, the circular states that "the coming elections are the third attempt by the state for the pacification of the Evangelical church. The first attempt was made in 1933, when the German Christians began abolishing the old testament. The second attempt, made by Kerrl in 1935, was doomed to fail, since it constituted an inroad of unbiblical religion into the church."

WEDS "CHICAGO'S RICHEST BOY"



Mrs. Alexis Thompson, the former Anne St. George of the stage, as she demonstrated her ability to use both hands and feet in playing ping-pong.

Ceremony in South

Thomasville, Ga., March 6.—[Special.]—Alexis Thompson, 22 years old, who when 15 inherited $6,000,000 to become "Chicago's richest boy," and Miss Anne St. George, 19, brunette and on the New York stage, were married here late today.

The wedding took place at White Lodge, the plantation of Thompson's mother, Mrs. Mille Caffe Thompson Beaufort, in the presence of 30 friends, several of them Chicagoans. The couple left after the ceremony for Miami Beach, Fla. After April 1 they will live at the Carlton House in New York. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Betty Row of Chicago was maid of honor, and Bruce Babcock, Yale classmate of Mr. Thompson's, best man.

Young Thompson, who was graduated from Yale last June, now is employed by the Luciden Chemical company in New York. In 1930, when a student at St. Paul's academy, Concord, Mass., he received the entire estate of his father, David P. Thompson, assistant to the president and director of the Inland Steel company.

Miss St. George is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maximilian J. St. George, 2816 Wilson avenue, Chicago, both of whom were present at the wedding. Her father is an attorney with offices at 39 South La Salle street, Chicago. She was educated at the Sacred Heart convent in Rome, Italy, and has been in New York for three years.

CATHOLICS OPEN "PASSIVE" FIGHT IN MEXICAN CITY

ORIZABA, Vera Cruz, Mexico, March 6.—(AP)—Roman Catholics seeking return of their long-closed churches today sought to reinforce their demands through a campaign of "passive resistance." Leaflets distributed throughout the city instructed Catholics to follow three general lines of procedure:

1. To withdraw their children from public schools. 2. To attend no theaters or other public spectacles. 3. To buy only the most urgent necessities.

The last two measures, it was said, were designed to decrease tax revenues.

Leaders said new steps would be taken if the three passive resistance rules proved unavailing within a fortnight.

NEW ROW BLOCKS PLAN TO ISOLATE SPAIN'S CIVIL WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 6.—Enforcement of the international scheme to control the Spanish frontiers and prevent intervention in the Spanish civil war was postponed again tonight, when it should have come into operation.

The chairman's subcommittee of the international committee on nonintervention in Spain met today, but met many snags. The most difficult was a dispute over whether Portuguese ports should be among those in which observers would join ships bound for Spain.

SPANISH REBEL WARSHIP SHELLS STEAMER; KILLS 6

Ship with 180 Passengers Is Hit Twice.

BAYONNE, France, March 6.—(AP)—Two women and four children were killed when the Spanish rebel cruiser Canarias shelled and captured the steamer Galdames, advices reaching Bayonne said today.

The Galdames, carrying 180 passengers, was struck twice by eight inch shells before the Canarias, fighting off a fleet of government fishing boats, made the capture, the reports said. The 3,337 ton Galdames is owned by a Spanish company.

Passengers Thrown Into Jail.

The vessel was reported to have been taken in tow to Pasajes, on the northern Spanish coast. While the passengers were being disembarked at that rebel held port, the reports said, a policeman tried to attack three government counselors from Irun who were in the group, but was held in check.

The passengers—45 children, 65 women and 70 men—were refugees returning to their homes in Bilbao from Bayonne. The adults were taken to jail at Pasajes, pending investigation, the accounts related.

The fishing boats, vessels of about 80 tons each and armed with three inch cannon, put up a dogged four hour battle to save the passenger ship, but were driven off. There was one unconfirmed report that the Canarias was hit by a shell.

Hospital Crash Buries Rebels.

MADRID, March 6.—(AP)—Another big section of Clinic hospital, where rebels are fortified in University City, collapsed today under the pounding of government artillery.

Little by little, the rebels appear to be losing their foothold in the huge building, where for months they have held a commanding position over the suburban area at the very doors of Madrid. The portion of the building which crashed today crushed a part of the garrison, which is estimated to number 600 men.

A portion of the central section of the building collapsed three days ago, also trapping some of the garrison and exposing part of a basement redoubt.

Many Die in Air Raids.

Fighting in and near the capital today was limited mostly to aerial warfare, government headquarters reported. There was much bombing by both sides on the Jarama river front, southeast of Madrid.

Unofficial reports placed at 40 the dead in a semicircular raid around Madrid by rebel planes last night, with 120 wounded. Twenty were reported killed in Aranjuez, some 30 miles south of Madrid, and six at Tarancon, southeast of the city. The raiders struck also at Villanueva del Pardillo, west of Madrid, and Alcala de Henares, to the east.

Military authorities ordered immediate distribution of all avilable gas masks among the troops in and near Madrid at points where rebel concentrations were thought to preface a new violent offensive.

The El Pardo sector, northwest of Madrid, was the scene of heavy fighting tonight. Shortly before midnight the sounds of a fierce battle in that sector were clearly audible in the center of Madrid. Government guns in the capital bombarded rebel positions and enemy guns replied with counter battery fire in an attempt to silence the Madrid artillery. An insurgent air raid in the El Pardo area added to the din.

Madrid itself was threatened by last night's air raids, but the insurgent planes sped off, when searchlights picked them out in the star bright sky.

Two rebel planes, operating off Spain's east coast, dropped bombs near the steamer Le Gazpi, just off Rosas, Tarragona province. The crew jumped into the water and swam ashore, but the craft was not hit. It drifted ashore.

ITALIAN MOVIE SHOWS ITALIANS FIGHTING IN SPAIN

ROME, March 6.—(AP)—A film, "The Liberation of Malaga," made by the Luce institute [Italy's semi-official news reel institute], was withdrawn from circulation today because it showed too many Italian soldiers, officers, and army trucks in Malaga.

The picture had been shown for two nights at the Rome Super Cinema, leading movie house. Some trucks seen in the film bore the lettering of the royal Italian army.

Former King Alfonso of Spain expressed a desire to see the picture, but was informed it would not be shown any more.

Several fiancées of Italian "volunteers" in the advance on Malaga recently received letters saying, "If you want to see me go to see the film, 'The Liberation of Malaga.'"

WITH AN ENTIRELY NEW STANDARD OF FOOD PRESERVATION—

LOW-TEMP ROLLATOR REFRIGERATION

In refrigeration engineering, in cabinet styling, in kitchen-proved convenience features—Norge has been setting the pace for ten years. But not since the first 3-moving-parts Rollator Compressor was introduced in 1926, has Norge announced as important an advance as this—the new Low-Temp Rollator Refrigerator.

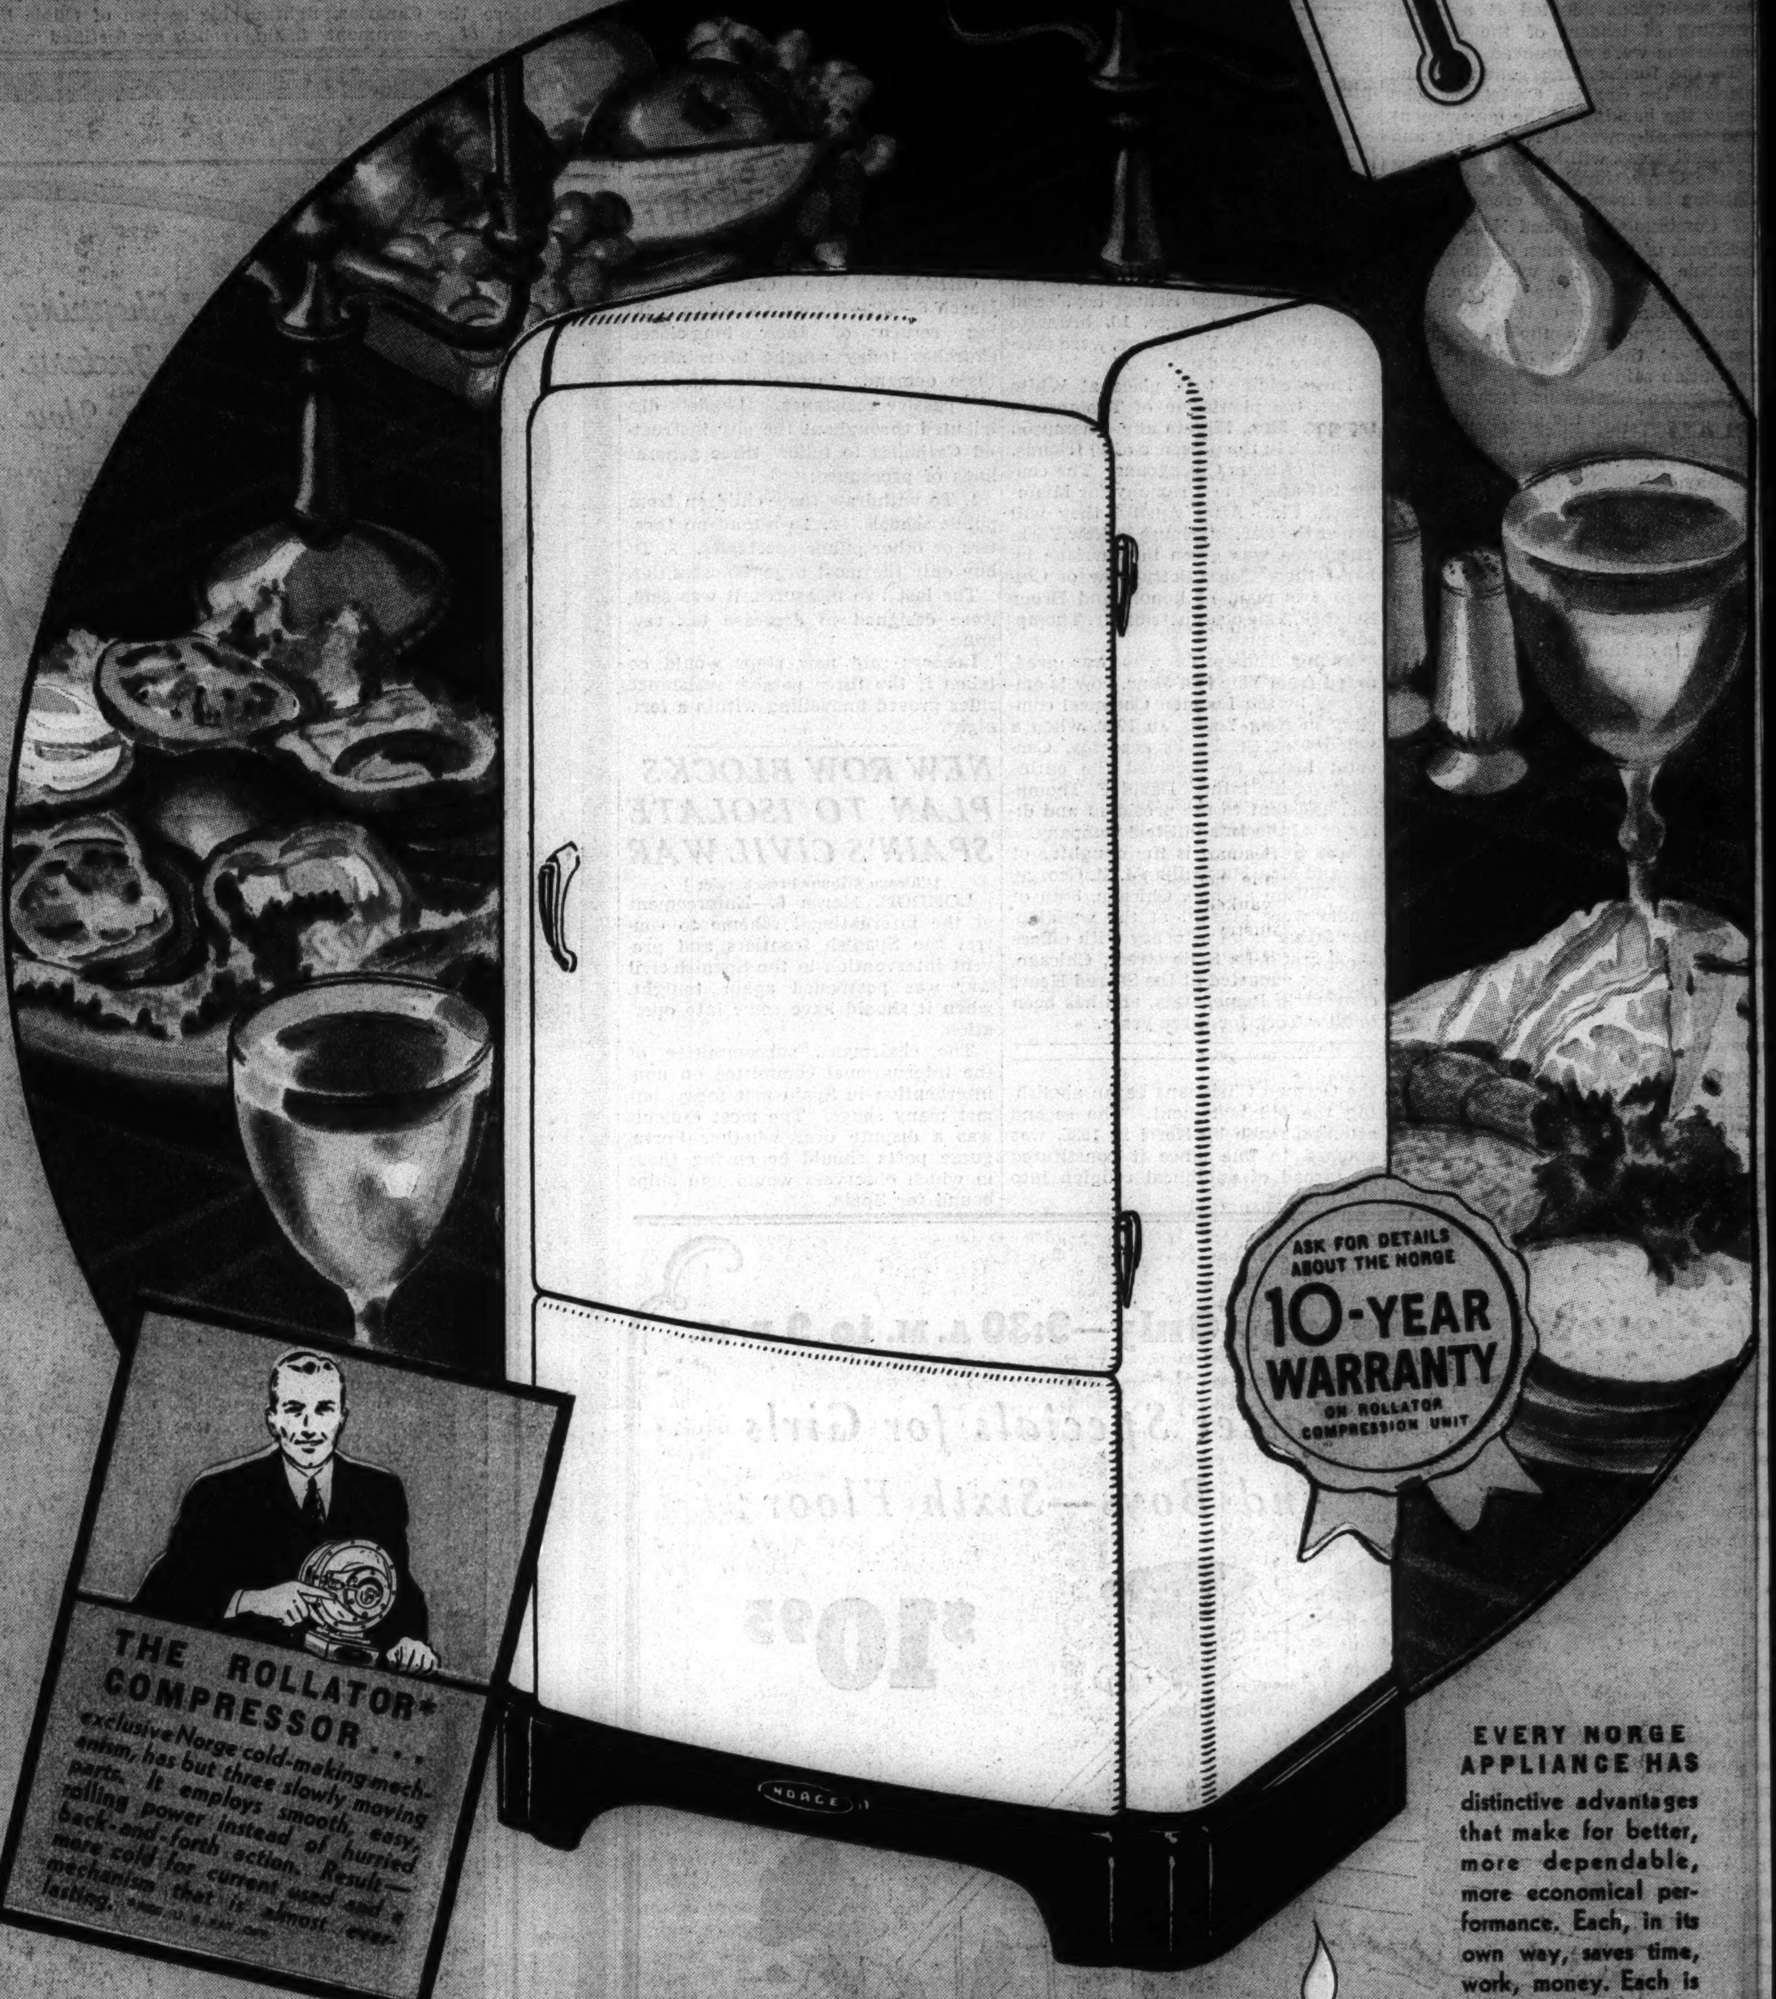
Here's a refrigerator that maintains temperatures below 40° instead of below 50°—as much as 20% colder than many refrigerators. It allows foods to retain their natural moisture. It keeps even the most perishable foods PRIME FRESH from 2 to 5 times longer than the ordinary refrigerator and it doesn't use any more current!

BUY FOODS FRESH···STORE THEM FRESH···SERVE THEM FRESH

"PRIME FRESH" is a new standard of food preservation—introduced by Norge—made possible by a new application of the surplus power of the Rollator Compressor that combines lower temperatures with higher humidity—Low-Temp Rollator Refrigeration keeps foods not merely "edible," but in the ZONE OF PRIME FRESHNESS long after they would be hopelessly spoiled with ordinary methods of refrigeration.

See the beautiful new refrigerators on display in the Norge dealer's showroom. See the many new features of convenience—the many improvements inside and out. Get the details of the amazing story of Low-Temp Rollator Refrigeration. And learn how easily you can afford to have a new Norge in your home.

NORGE DIVISION Borg-Warner Corp., 606-670 E. Woodbridge St., Detroit, Mich.



THE ROLLATOR* COMPRESSOR . . . exclusive Norge cold-making mechanism, has but three slowly moving parts. It employs smooth, easy, rolling power instead of hurried back-and-forth action. Result—more cold for current used and a mechanism that is almost ever-lasting.

New Flexibility of Interior Arrangement

MONEY MOVEMENTS TO AMERICA.

When in the course of debate over the extension of the reciprocal trade treaty powers of the President for another three years Senator Lewis wanted to exclude countries in debt default, Senator Robinson volunteered the prediction that something real in debt settlement would be achieved next year. He added that this was his own opinion.

Senator Borah said there undoubtedly was a movement to obtain reconsideration of the debts, but it was in hope of further reductions, which he would oppose. The debtors are spending money at home for rearmament and the amounts are already on a great war scale. Great Britain's figure is 7½ billion dollars, which is 2½ billion more than its debts to the United States. Many Americans cannot understand the justification of default on one hand and greater war expenditures on the other. The answer has been that the debt requires dollars. The battleships can be built for pounds. The exchange would wreck debtors and creditor.

When the figures on foreign investments in the United States—8 billion dollars—are analyzed the estimate is that about 2 billion 300 million has come in in the last twenty-one months, over half of it going into short term banking funds. Some of the money paid claims. Some of it is money coming back home. When the transfer has been reduced to what may be regarded as a net influx of foreign owned money the amount is about a billion 500 million. Some dollar exchange has been obtained abroad by our silver purchases. Most of the transfer has been in gold.

The total amount defaulted on the war debts is over one billion 165 million dollars. Within the period of default there has been transferred, for one purpose or another, over 2 billion dollars. Not all of it has come from the debtor nations, but there has been such a transfer, although nothing to apply on the debts.

Economists have said the debts could not be paid because the problem of transfer was unsolvable and the obstacles insuperable. We were told that we did not want the gold, even if the debtor nations could ship it over here on the payments. The transfer would drain them to exhaustion and it would be injurious to us. We did not want their goods or services because the import would affect our own production. Therefore, if we did not wish to accept any of the things in which payment could be made, we could not collect.

Now it appears that, however the foreign investments be whittled down to make them applicable to the present situation, we have received the gold and equivalents in a greater amount than the amount which was due on the defaults. Whatever may be the difference in effect upon the foreign countries in getting our dollars for investment or safekeeping rather than paying them down on an obligation, the effect upon our economy in its supposedly injurious aspect is the same. The difference with us is that the money has remained in European possession and has not reduced American indebtedness.

It is expected that there will be more talk of further refunding, and probably with a view to getting a final settlement at a great reduction, possibly with an idea of one final payment satisfying all claims. When these proposals are made it is fairly certain that the recent transfers into American dollars for other purposes than debt payment will come up for discussion. It will be hard work for the economists to teach the American people or their representatives that the transfer problem is one of insurmountable obstacles. When for private reasons it was thought advantageous to get a great deal of money into the United States, either for safekeeping against what is dreaded abroad or for profit in attractive American investments, the money made the jump over. It is here in foreign ownership and the American government says no more is wanted on such terms.

CORRECTION.

An error was made in an editorial published some weeks ago entitled "Tax Dodgers, New Type." We were discussing the government's large scale housing project in Milwaukee known as Parklawn. We called attention to the negotiations with the city regarding a payment to be made by the government in lieu of taxes. As Parklawn is government property it is not subject to local taxation. We commented on the apparent disposition of the government to pay less than it would have to pay if it were a private owner and we raised the question whether, in view of this fact, the government was justified in regarding its housing project as in any sense a yardstick for private capital.

The point was good then and it is still good. Whatever is owned by the federal government pays no local or state taxes. Parklawn is tax-exempt. The error lay in attributing the Parklawn project to the Federal Housing administration. This agency of the government has nothing to do with tax-exempt government properties. Its function is to guarantee loans made by private lenders, under certain restrictions, to borrowers who wish money to buy or improve homes. Parklawn is run not by the housing administration but by the Public Works administration under Secretary Ickes.

THE COST OF STRIKES.

Joseph B. Padway, general counsel for the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, appearing before a state legislative committee places the cost in money of recent strikes at $48,000,000 to employers, employés, and to the general public.

Mr. Padway has been involved in the settlement of most of the labor disputes in Wisconsin and his figures of the palpable losses they have caused is probably as nearly accurate as it is possible to be. It covers at least the loss of wages to workmen, the loss of profits to industry and the loss to the public in additional taxes for relief, loss of tax revenue and the costs of additional patrol and guard service.

It is obviously impossible for any estimate to give the true cost of extended labor trouble. They reach too remotely into channels far from direct contact. They mean loss of trade to local merchants and loss of savings to idle workmen, loss of rents to house owners, and loss of income to the professions. In a smaller city it is not too much to say that a protracted strike affects every resident either directly or indirectly.

Mr. Padway gives figures of Wisconsin's recent strikes with which he is familiar. They are well worth studying by the public as well as by employers and workers. All can get something from them. They are proof of the old axiom that no one ever completely won a strike.

There have been 109 recent strikes in Wisconsin, the state committee was told. Most of them were purely local, involved relatively few men and were settled without great loss of time. Mr. Padway's figures, it is understood, involve only the tangibles. Yet the costs of these strikes were beyond belief.

The loss in the Kohler strike two years ago, Padway says, was $1,500,000. The loss in the Milwaukee electric traction strike, involving a good many men but lasting little more than a week, was $800,000. Some of the others so local in application that they were scarcely heard of outside their own locality, were conducted without violence and quickly ended were the Gridley Dairy strike, cost $100,000; the Luick Dairy strike, $125,000; Lindemann & Hoverson, a long drawn out strike of a small factory, $500,000; Seaman Body company, makers of Nash automobile bodies, $500,000; the Boston Store, a Milwaukee department store, $400,000; the shoe industry, numerous minor strikes, $500,000; laundry strikes, $200,000 and, to mention only a few, the mattress manufacturers, $200,000.

When it is realized that these are the costs of only the smaller disputes, often conducted without great animosity and settled with little delay, the cost of a strike in a great far-flung industry like the General Motors strike is almost beyond understanding.

The labor lawyer perhaps did not sufficiently emphasize the concern the public has in every dispute that upsets the even tenor of industry and the harmonious pattern of life. However, he has done a service in making his figures public.

If they could be extended to reveal all of the collateral costs both in money and human deprivations and disappointment, neither labor nor industry nor the public ever would permit a disagreement to reach the strike stage without exhausting every conceivable means for peaceful settlement.

SHOW BOATS.

The railways swept the packet from the Mississippi in the seventies or eighties, but many die-hard groups continued to insist that the destruction of river service was unfair and an economic calamity. Reinstatement was demanded. The stage coach and canal boat might go, but the packet had a romantic appeal that was confused with utilitarian value. Prior to 1917 the efforts of these visionaries were fruitless, but in the breakdown of the railways under wartime pressure and the subsequent government operation of these properties, a golden opportunity presented itself. Germany, it was said, was having no transportation troubles because back of her armies was a fully coördinated system of railway and waterway facilities that had not broken down.

The secretary of commerce took notice of this argument, and reports were made to congress. The railway administration was authorized to proceed with the assembly of floating equipment. After nine months of effort service was inaugurated on the lower Mississippi when a tow boat with three barges of grain left St. Louis for New Orleans—a somewhat pitiable beginning for a transportation agency that was to move unaided the tremendous resources of the middle west. Lack of capacity was the principal drawback, but this was to be speedily remedied. Orders were placed for steel barges and tow boats.

The armistice had scarcely been signed when the citizens of the United States discovered that they had been enduring very inferior railway service under government wartime operation. A demand arose for the return of the carriers to their former owners. The barge line, however, was a different matter. It was the government's own baby. A suggestion that its operation be discontinued met with protests from boat builders. The thing had not been a financial success, and its services were certainly not required, but there were those vessel construction contracts, with the usual political entanglements. Congress had a bull by the tail.

The Inland Waterways corporation and the Federal Barge Lines were conceived as a face-saving solution. The barges and tow boats would be completed and placed in service. Water enthusiasts insisted that the line would quickly demonstrate the advantages of barge transportation and form the nucleus of a huge new industry. The government could then dispose of its properties at a profit after blazing a trail for private investment.

But the Federal Barge Lines have done no such thing. They have amply proved the contention of trafic experts that common carrier service by water cannot compete with rails. Forced to make a showing, the war department has resorted to all of the former secret rate practices of the railways with devastating effect on what little genuine water service there exists.

This government operation on the inland waterways was established to evade cancelation of wartime orders for barges and tow boats. It continues to exist for the purpose of providing more orders as well as jobs for federal employés. Backed by the long purse of government, it can extend its operations to include service on any and all of the fool projects of the canal digging racketeers.

CHANGING THE SUPREME COURT.

[The Pittsburgh Courier.]

No one in America today can afford to be indifferent to the proposal to change or "modernize" the Supreme court.

It is one of the three separate and independent branches of our government, and because government and law are the only great bulwarks protecting colored people from periodical public passions we cannot ignore efforts to change their structure or functioning.

While the Supreme court, like all American institutions of the pre-civil war era, blessed chattel slavery, it has also handed down some decisions which have gone a long way toward solidifying our position as free citizens of the republic.

It outlawed the grandfather clause in 1915, and thus nullified that effort of the solid south to disfranchise the Negro.

It outlawed the Louisville residential segregation ordinance in 1917, and thus halted the drive to establish rigid ghettos for Negroes in every American city.

In the Arkansas riot case in 1923 it established the principle that trial in a court dominated by mob is not due process of law.

In 1927 and again in 1932 it held in the Texas white primary cases that barring Negroes from Democratic primaries was illegal.

In 1927 it held the New Orleans residential segregation ordinance to be unconstitutional, thus again halting another drive to legislate Negroes into ghettos.

In the Scottsboro cases it outlawed convictions obtained where Negroes were barred from jury service, and this has resulted in Negroes being called for jury service all over the south, and the trend is increasing.

In the Brown, Ellington, and Shields case from Mississippi last year the court ruled that "confessions" obtained by torture [a familiar procedure in the south and elsewhere] could not be considered.

No, allegedly reactionary or not, the Nine Old Men have saved colored people from slipping back into a lower status.

It is true that the Supreme court has declared most of the New Deal legislation unconstitutional, and thus interfered with administration efforts, wise or otherwise, to bring about economic recovery.

It is difficult to see, however, how some of this legislation could stand within the present framework of our constitution.

The United States is just what the name implies—a federation of forty-eight free and independent states joined together for mutual protection and relinquishing certain sovereign rights to better realize this ideal.

If this arrangement becomes unsatisfactory and interferes with the normal and proper development of the nation the solution would seem to lie not in curbing or intimidating the Supreme court, whose business is merely to interpret the law, but in changing the constitution as has been done many times in the past.

Party domination of the court may work no injury to colored people while a high minded liberal like President Roosevelt masters the ship of state. But it may well prove disastrous with a reactionary in the White House.

With rabid nationalism and radicalism rapidly sweeping over the world, the Supreme court, relying on the letter and spirit of the constitution rather than bending to momentary popular will, may well prove a bulwark of freedom.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

BREATHLESSNESS: A HEART SIGNAL.

SOME day preventive medicine will replace much of the emphasis upon cure which physicians are obliged to stress because the public lacks the necessary foresight in matters of health. Medical men will become architects and engineers of well being instead of repairmen, as most of them are today.

No organ of the body requires more consideration than the heart, and few of us are sufficiently well informed to be able to identify early signs of heart failure—a situation relatively easy to remedy. It is safe to say that there are tens of thousands of heart victims who are fighting for life because the true state of affairs was not appreciated early enough. We should be treating many who are potential cases of heart failure, in order to decrease the number of those who will actually suffer from deficient circulation in years to come.

But some one will say, "O, dear, you are making everybody heart conscious, rheumatism conscious, cancer conscious. You are creating fears of this or that disease when there is no occasion for it. Our forbears went along and paid but little attention to their physical bodies, why can't we?"

If human life is worth conserving—and most of it is—it would have been far better if our grandparents had known more about health and had been able to teach their children the rules of good hygiene. Of their ten children, four died in infancy, three more before attaining the age of 20, and only three lived to the age of 50. From the point of view of most families of that day the fittest or the luckiest survived.

What is a cardinal sign of beginning heart weakness? In reply we should name breathlessness whenever it appears after slight effort. Of course, any one subject to extraordinary activity will breathe more rapidly and more deeply. But when the symptom develops in the course of one's daily routine it should not go unheeded. If every minor bit of exercise is followed by air hunger we are entitled to the inference that we are dealing with a factor which, if unchecked, may become disabling. Many a patient will relate that he cannot exercise as easily as he did and he will ascribe the phenomenon to the fact that he has become heavier. His explanation is correct—in part. He has added many unnecessary pounds of tissue—each ounce of which must be supplied with blood. This means more work on the part of the heart.

What do we mean by breathlessness? A patient may say, "I have great difficulty in taking a full breath," or "Every now and then I catch myself sighing as though I did not have enough air in the lungs." If this occurs when one is seated and at rest in 99 cases out of 100 it is merely a symptom of fatigue. Sometimes excitement or nervous strain will be responsible. Patients may complain of the feeling that the chest wall is unable to expand fully, as though some force were pressing in from the outside. These are not indications of heart difficulty but are of nervous origin or have come about because the individual is not securing enough rest.

The occasional instance of breathlessness is relatively unimportant unless it is progressive. If one observes, however, that he is becoming, as he will say, short of breath, and that the trouble is increasing ever so slightly, the state of the heart muscle should be investigated. Ways and means are at hand for checking accurately the work of the heart. Its capacity can be measured and the condition of the muscle determined with great precision. Why not take advantage of a type of inventory that can be made by any skilled physician? If the circulatory output is deficient, even to a mild degree, simple but effective remedies are available.

For health's sake we must begin to save the heart and spare it before damage has gone to the point at which repair is impossible. A large number of our sudden deaths from positive heart causes will thus be averted. Let's begin to prevent heart disease so that we will not need to cure it.

BREAST CANCER.

E. B. U. writes:

1. Is it possible or probable for a girl of 18 to be a victim of cancer of the breast?

2. What is the reason for the absence of nipples on the breast?

REPLY.

1. While cancer is considered a disease of middle life and beyond, there is no age limit.

2. This is a congenital deformity the cause of which is unknown. Some malformation of the developing embryo is responsible for structural defects.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

CO-SIGNER ON LOAN.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About a year ago I signed as a co-signer on a loan to a friend, the amount being $50. This party had not paid on the loan for months and there is an unpaid balance of $12. The loan company now wants me to make good or will garnishee my wages.

1. My first question is, can the loan company garnishee my wages without writing or advising me?

2. If they cannot stop my wages before advising me [3] can I file suit against the company? 4. I know for a fact that once the wages are garnisheed my credit with stores would be jeopardized.

5. At least they could notify me by letter and I would arrange somehow to see the party and iron the matter out.

My second question is [6] can the loan company garnishee the wages of the wife of the party that made the loan?

This cousin of mine who made the loan [7] is willing to pay, but on account of being unemployed at present cannot.

8. I guess I am the goat now. T. P.

1. Garnishment would not be in order until they had obtained judgment against you, but if you executed a wage assignment then such preliminary court proceedings would not be necessary.

2. We will assume that you did not execute a wage assignment.

3. We see no basis for you to bring suit on the bare facts stated.

4. If they take the proper legal steps and tie up your wages by garnishment we see no basis for you to bring suit against them.

5. No preliminary letter would be necessary.

6. If the debt was for a family expense, then judgment could be obtained against her, and it could be followed up with garnishment. The garnishment exemption is $20 per week to the head of a family. There is no exemption for other persons.

7. If this is the case we see no reason for your asking for legal advice.

8. When you signed the contract you should have recognized that the only purpose of your signature was to cover this type of liability. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH.

Keokuk, Ia., March 2.—Should it be necessary for an antique newspaper man, aged 75, and representing the tall grass sector of the news field, to inform W-G-N as to the location and accessibility of material for head lines and incentive for talk on all planes of business, politics and society?

Yes? Very well! Tickets for the coronation of George VI. are selling up to $50? What? My word! Why does not W-G-N offer $1,000,000 and half the gate to the duke of Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Simpson to have their marriage solemnized in Chicago? Pack 'em in? Standing room would be at a premium between South Chicago and Gary, Ind., and parking space for automobiles would command $200 a rod from Milwaukee to the south line of Cook county.

Of course, New York would "see Chicago," double the bet and try to call, and Baltimore would ask to be dealt a hand.

If it is courteous to sell tickets for the coronation it is decorous to seek the consent of the contracting parties to have their marriage solemnized among friends.

Talk about $27.50 ringside seats to see a Detroit mulatto knock some effigy of a boxer for a row of box cars! Phooey! Madison Square would not be big enough for an ante-room for the attendance if Chicago could have the pleasure of the company of the duke of Windsor and Mrs. Simpson.

WASHINGTON I. ENDICOTT.

UP GO LIVING COSTS.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—I am indeed surprised that there have been so few protests against the exorbitant increase in living expenses. Food prices have gone up, clothing has gone up; in fact everything has gone up except salaries. By far the worst offenders are the real estate holders.

On the 1st of March the new May leases will be issued, all bearing a 10 to 20 per cent increase. And we are all supposed to be very docile and pay. If any of our clever economists can explain to me how we can meet doubled expenses on depression salaries, I would appreciate the lesson.

It happens that my husband is one of the hundreds of school teachers who has received no salary for six weeks, despite the fact that school teachers are already working on a 25 per cent cut. Yet we are expected to pay an increase of from $5 to $10 a month in our rent, besides all the other increased expenses. On what? E. M. F.

OVERCROWDED BUSES.

Chicago, March 2.—Is it not possible for something to be done regarding the flagrant manner in which the buses are being overcrowded in Chicago? Twice during the last week I have been a passenger on north side buses in which the people were packed like the proverbial sardine. In view of the fact that quite recently one of the new north side buses burst into flames unexpectedly, it is very evident that there would have been a considerable loss of human lives had that unfortunate event occurred during the time of day when the buses are overcrowded. In New York City it is against the law for any one to stand in a bus, and it seems to me that rule could be applied very successfully in Chicago at the present time.

FOR MORE RESTRICTIONS ON GOVERNMENT.

Oak Park, Ill., March 1.—Recent political developments and contemplated developments cannot fail to set sober-minded people to thinking ahead. It is quite evident that we, the citizens, should take immediate steps to strengthen our defenses against demolition from within as well as from without. Inasmuch as the chief function of the Supreme court of the United States is to guard the rights of the citizenry of the nation against encroachment by either the executive or legislative departments of our government, would it not be wise to extend its power to place limits on the costs of government as such, and also upon the permissible rate of federal taxation?

With reference to amendments to our constitution, should we not consider an amendment limiting the power of the government to declare war against a foreign power? Always it is the citizens of a nation who must do both the fighting and the financing of a war. Should they not have the deciding voice in the matter through a special, yes or no, nation-wide poll? To insure earnest, thoughtful voting, every ballot should be identifiable through social security numbers or names and addresses with fingerprints and every vote for war should be considered as an enlistment pledge.

It should remain the duty of government officials to prepare for eventualities and to employ the armed forces of the country to repulse armed invasion of any kind; but actual declaration of war should not be possible save by consent of a majority of the voters of the nation. Nowadays such a referendum could be held within a few short weeks.

THE DECLINE OF DIGNITY.

Chicago, March 2.—Our honorable President makes the headlines as one of the best dressed men of this and other worlds. The modest first lady parades before the movie camera as a mannequin displaying the latest modes. The President's aged mother speaks over the radio, boosting the sale of that good old gasoline. The mug of one of our senators implants a lingering kiss on the lips of a famous movie queen, and others adorn the pages of our magazines and newspapers, advertising the cigaret you love to touch.

Surely a three ring circus and side show combined! But we elected them.

20 Years Ago Today

MARCH 7, 1917.

WASHINGTON.—The fight for a cloture rule in the senate which could prevent future filibusters like the one that killed the armed neutrality bill got under way late today. The change proposed would put the power in the hands of two-thirds of the senators present at any time to shut off debate and prevent dilatory tactics.

CHICAGO.—An explosion is not improbable at the Union League club over the action of Congressman William W. Wilson of the Third [Chicago] district in voting against the armed neutrality bill in the house of representatives. The question as to whether Wilson had forfeited his right to remain a member of the club has been raised by President Frank J. Loesch.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson's decision whether to arm, convoy or otherwise protect American ships from German submarines is still hanging fire. Attorney General Gregory continued his examination of the statutes—particularly the piracy act of 1819—seeking to determine finally whether Mr. Wilson may arm ships legally.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Gov. Brough of Arkansas signed the bill which allows women to vote in all primary elections in this state. After the bill was passed by the house, the governor affixed his signature at a suffrage massmeeting.

NEW YORK.—The police of this city and Hoboken, in coöperation with the federal authorities, made three arrests in a campaign to clean up the remnants of the German spy system left in this country by Wolf von Igel, Capt. Boy-Ed, Franz von Papen, and other agents of the German government.

LONDON.—The German government's plan for involving Mexico and Japan in war with the United States in event of hostilities between Germany and America was defended in an address before the reichstag by the foreign secretary, Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, as quoted in a Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam. Dr. Zimmermann said it was "a natural and justified precaution and I am not sorry that through its publication in America it also became known in Japan."

WASHINGTON.—Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, ranking Republican member of the senate foreign relations committee, made a move designed to put it squarely up to President Wilson to fish or cut bait on the armed ship issue.

WAR SUMMARY.—Paris reports all enemy attacks in Verdun sector repulsed and grip on reconquered positions unshaken. London reports further progress northwest of Iries. Berlin reports repulse of British attack on right bank of Somme.

When This Happened

Tribune Insurance Again Proved Its Worth!

THE tragic experience of the victims of this horrible wreck, which occurred in Chicago last November, still resounds in the minds of millions of people. . . . One minute two trains of passengers homeward bound after the day's work . . . the next minute a hopeless mass of splinters and human agony.

We never know, from one minute to the next, what may betide.

Although no amount of money received by the victims or their families could compensate for their terrible suffering, the sums paid through Tribune Accident Insurance nevertheless proved very helpful. The beneficiaries of four of the victims who were fatally injured and who carried Tribune insurance were awarded $40,500. (The total amount paid in premiums for these four policies was $31.) Other victims, who were hurt but who lived, also received substantial sums.

Here again is conclusive proof of the value of Tribune insurance. If you have one of these valuable policies DON'T LET IT EXPIRE! Renew it continuously! You cannot get a bargain like this anywhere else in America. It has paid more than FOUR MILLION FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS to holders and beneficiaries.

This $7,500-$11,250 insurance policy is now available in the following manner: To people who live in Chicago or suburbs and subscribe for home delivery of the Daily Tribune, the policy is issued for the small sum of 25c (Preliminary Term Fee) and 10c a month thereafter. Where home delivery service is not available the policy is issued on a yearly basis. For full particulars send the coupon. (NOTE: This procedure does not affect old policyholders in any way.)

1. IF YOU HAVE A YEARLY POLICY:
To renew it for another year, send $1.25 to "Tribune Insurance Dept.," Federal Life Insurance Co., 168 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago.

2. IF YOU HAVE A MONTHLY POLICY:
Keep up your insurance by prompt payment each month to your Official Tribune Newspaper Carrier. If subscription is stopped Insurance will expire!

3. IF YOU WANT A POLICY:

FREE OUR JAILED LEADERS! WELSH CRY TO BRITAIN

Students Raise Agitation for Independence.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BANGOR, Wales, March 6.—By listening carefully, people in the crowded shopping thoroughfare of High street, Bangor, recently could hear Welsh words being sung to the music of familiar Welsh tunes as a group of thirty men and women students of the University college, Bangor, threaded their way through the trafic. They marched behind the Welsh flag and a printed invitation to "Follow the Welsh Dragon."

The procession was orderly, and by the nature of things in the busy main streets the sound of the singing was subdued. But one caught snatches of parody, declaring "There's a devil in Porth Neigwl and a brother in Llundain [London]." They sang, too, "Hwyl, hwyl, hwyl, to Lewis, 'D. J.' and Valentine." This regard for three Nationalist leaders imprisoned by Great Britain, was developed and expressed in several verses. Another song shouted defiance to the "alien government."

Cites Irish Refusal to Fight.

The dragon led to the Reformers' Tree, the recognized tribune for outdoor declarations in Bangor, and after further singing of songs which left no excuse for misunderstanding of the students' viewpoint on the recent burning of a British bombing school in Wales and the fate of the Nationalist leaders who admitted setting the fire as a protest against British rule.

The principal speaker was the Rev. Ben Owen of Llanberis. He warned young Wales against the "recruiting wiles of Duff-Cooper [British war secretary] and his clique," and remarked that in 1916 Irish patriots had refused to join in the fight for the freedom of Belgium while their own country remained in bondage.

"In the next war you must say, 'We will see your country fall to dust before we shall raise a finger to defend it,'" he said.

Calls Three in Jail Heroes.

It was reported that Prime Minister Baldwin wept when King Edward VIII. of Great Britain left his home for exile, the Rev. Mr. Owen continued. Fifty young Welshmen were being hustled out of their homes in the Rhondda weekly to be exiled in England, he said. He had not heard that Mr. Baldwin had wept for them.

Referring to the bombing school fire, he said that in 400 years Wales had never borne braver sons than Prof. John Saunders Lewis, D. J. Williams, and the Rev. Lewis Valentine, the three in prison.

"Blessing be upon their heads," he said. "We demand their release from prison, not as a coronation gift—which I am sure would be refused by the prisoners themselves—but as a right. They were given nine months when they should have had five years; but the government was afraid, and knew that if it imposed the heavier penalty there would not now be left a vestige of that bombing school in Lleyn. We demand their release forthwith."

Unless their release was forthcoming, he continued, there would be no participation in the celebrations of the royal visit to Caernarvon this summer.

Raps Coronation Gifts.

He had observed with surprise that Bethesda quarrymen were preparing coronation gifts for the king.

"I am sure of this," he remarked, "their comrades in the Llanberis quarries will not follow their example."

Resolutions were passed protesting against the removal of the trial of the three Nationalists from Wales to the Old Bailey in London; demanding the release of the prisoners, and calling upon all Wales to refrain from participation in the coronation celebrations unless those urgent claims were recognized.

Goronwy O. Roberts, a former chairman of the College Socialist party, speaking as a member of the Socialist party in Wales, said the three Welsh Nationalist leaders in prison were patterns for all.

"The time has come to make it clear that we should turn against all oppression," he said.

SEEKS FREEDOM

Aroused by the imprisonment of three leaders for burning a bombing school, Welsh Nationalists are raising a greater outcry for independence from Britain, as told in an adjoining column.

GANGSTERS GET BULK OF CAFE RACKET MONEY

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—About 90 per cent of the money paid into the Metropolitan Restaurant and Cafeteria association was turned over to Jules Martin and Sam Krantz, Phillip Grossel, defendant secretary of the association testified at the restaurant racket trial today under questioning by Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey. Dewey, at the point of adjournment, had not brought out the total amount the association received from 1934 to 1936.

The most important part of Dewey's cross-examination hinged around a payment of $10,200 to the association by the Chase Commissary company, operator of a chain of cafeterias and sandwich shops, on Oct. 27, 1934.

Grossel testified that he was engaged for two or three weeks in working out unionization problems for the company, and that at the end a contract was signed with various unions, including a teamsters local, which was dated as of the beginning of negotiations.

Grossel had testified Friday that Sam Furstenber, a disbarred lawyer and a fugitive, gave him his job and that on Oct. 25, 1934, Furstenberg walked out of the organization without an explanation and never came back. He said it was learned later that Martin was a gangster and the representative of Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer.

Bridegroom Is in Jail; Bride of 15 Sent Home

Rockford, Ill., March 6.—[Special.]—A 22 year old bridegroom today was held in Winnebago county jail while his 15 year old bride was returned to her mother. The bride, Annabelle Thompson, skipped her classes at Rockford High school yesterday to be married at nearby Belvidere, Ill. She told County Judge Frank A. Oakley, who performed the ceremony that she was 18. The bridegroom, Sherman Rhodes, told police he did not know Illinois law barred marriages of persons under 16.

NAVY WILL ASK BIDS ON 2 NEW WARSHIPS SOON

Construction Expected to Start in June.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Plans for the two new 60 million dollar American battleships to be known as the Washington and North Carolina are nearing completion in the navy department. The navy expects to ask for bids for the construction of the vessels in private and navy yards about April 1 and hopes that construction of the ships will begin in June.

In the two vessels the American navy will place more reliance in heavier armor, larger guns, and superior training than on speed. In the carrying out of this policy the new men-of-war will differ radically from other capital ships.

To Equal Any Ships Afloat.

At 35,000 tons the new ships will be the equal of any afloat and 2,500 tons heavier than any American fighting craft. Both ships will have a waterline length of more than 600 feet and an overall length of more than 625 feet. They will have a beam or width of about 100 feet.

The new capital ships will have a speed of 26 or 27 knots, which is less than the top speed of foreign battleships. The new British, German, French, and Italian capital ships are to have a top speed of 30 knots. Japan has not revealed her plans for two capital ships, but it is believed they will have a top speed of 30 knots or better.

The fastest American battleship at present—the California—has a top speed of 21.49 knots, as against a top speed of 23 knots for foreign vessels of the same type. Foreign battle cruisers, a type of craft not developed in the American navy, have top speeds ranging from 26 to 31 knots.

The American naval high command clings to the theory that slower but heavier ships are more effective. In achieving greater speed foreign powers have been forced to sacrifice armor so much that the battle cruiser, which carries the same armor as a dreadnaught, has no heavier armor than a cruiser. The Washington and North Carolina, however, will be the fastest capital ships in the American navy.

Carry Additional Armor.

While other nations are stripping armor, American naval experts are planning to increase the armor of the two new ships. Both vessels will carry as their heaviest armor a 14 to 16 inch belt at and above the water line to protect engines, ammunition, turrets, and other vital sections. This protection now is carried by the newest of the present ships, the U. S. S. Maryland.

The increasing of armor defense against air and long range gunfire attack will account for the bulk of additional armor, it is believed.

Less vital sections of the vessels may have slightly heavier defense coats.

In addition to the increased speed the new vessels will be given a larger cruising radius. At present the capital ships have a cruising radius of between 6,000 and 10,000 miles at an economical speed of about 12 knots.

The new ships probably will be armed with nine 16 inch guns in three turrets. It has been reported that the architects also have under consideration plans for twelve 14 inch guns in three turrets, but the American navy never has had four gun turrets and most of the high command is opposed to the innovation.

In secondary armament the vessels probably will cary sixteen or more double purpose five inch guns. These are the most effective weapons to employ against air craft and destroyers.

The Washington and North Carolina will not carry torpedoes or torpedo tubes. The navy has learned that capital ships seldom if ever get close enough to their targets to employ torpedoes.

The men-of-war will carry four and possibly six planes. These will be used for observation of gunfire and as offensive and defensive weapons against enemy aircraft.

The new vessels will have even less in the way of masts than the present capital ships of the fleet. The foremast will be a tower which will house the fire control room, the bridge will be the brain of the ship as the engine room is its heart. The mainmast will be only a stub.

Hindenburg Is Scheduled for 18 Trips to U. S.

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—The German dirigible Hindenburg will make eighteen round trips between Germany and the United States this year, it was announced today by American agents of the Deutsche Zeppelin Reederei, operators of the airship. The program was approved by the navy department, which again has leased the facilities of its airship base at Lakehurst, N. J., for the Hindenburg's use.

Nicky, Park Chimpanzees' Patriarch, Is Dead at 18

Nicky, swaggering patriarch of the chimpanzees of the Linclon park zoo, died Friday afternoon of bronchial pneumonia, Director Floyd S. Young of the zoo said yesterday. Nicky, whose tough capers amused zoo audiences for nine years, was 18 years old, the age equivalent in man of 70 years. His body will be given to the Field museum for an exhibit, Mr. Young said.

POLAND BLOCKS PEACE, LITHUANIA LEADER CHARGES

Explains Nation's Stand on Vilna Putsch.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, March 6.—Poland's policy toward Lithuania is not helping to strengthen the peace of northeastern Europe, according to Dr. Stasys Lozoraitis, Lithuanian minister for foreign affairs, who addressed the nation today by radio, explaining the government's attitude toward recent statements of Josef Beck, Polish foreign minister.

Beck had complained to the Polish parliament that it was Lithuania's fault that an unofficial state of war continues to exist between the two countries.

Blames the Vilna Putsch.

Protesting that he disliked to reopen old wounds, Lozoraitis recalled that the quarrel between Lithuania and Poland was caused by the putsch against the Vilna territory carried out by Gen. Lucjan Zeligovski, for whose action the Polish government first refused to accept responsibility. The late Marshal Josef Pilsudski, however, finally admitted the putsch was due to his orders.

Through continuing to ignore these facts, Poland shows she does not wish normal relations with Lithuania, whose attitude is the desire of a cheated nation to keep its self respect, the foreign minister said.

Lozoraitis said Lithuania welcomed the Polish overtures of last year which led to negotiations between the two countries. These were continuing when the Poles began what Lithuania considered fresh repressions against the Lithuanian minority in the Vilna district.

Agree on Demarcation Line.

Because of the persecution of Lithuanians in the Vilna district, Lozoraitis said, his recent meeting with Beck had failed to improve the situation.

The Lithuanian foreign office announced that negotiations between local Lithuanian and Polish officials concerning the opening of a demarcation line for "a little border trafic" had resulted in an agreement and that the frontier, which has been closed for five months, will be opened March 15. This will permit peasants whose farms were split by the Vilna putsch to cultivate their land.

MOTHER URGES SIX HOUR DAYS AND APPRENTICES

Columbus, O., March 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Laura Chassell Toops, former psychology instructor at Ohio State university, pressed her argument today for shorter hours for that "overlooked army of workers, the mothers of America," urging a system of "mother apprentices."

"Why not a six hour day for mother?" inquired Mrs. Toops, who is the mother of five children.

"There are times when motherhood is a 24 hour responsibility," she declared. "Along with the movement to shorten working hours for men, women should not be forgotten. A system of mother apprentices would go a long way toward effecting this step and give otherwise idle children something useful and gainful to do."

Mrs. Toops first proposed a six hour day for mothers and mother apprentices at a recent conference of the American Council of Guidance and Personal Associations in New Orleans.

She is a national fellow in child development of the Rockefeller Foundation and has taken graduate study in psychology at Columbia university, New York. Her husband is Dr. Herbert A. Toops of the Ohio State university psychology department.

CHICAGOAN WINS A PARDON FROM GOV. MARLAND

Gov. E. W. Marland of Oklahoma granted a full pardon yesterday to John W. Dick, 38 years old, a Chicago rug salesman who escaped from the Oklahoma state reformatory at Granite in 1919 and surrendered to the Chicago police a month ago. Now he is free to return to his wife, Frances, and his home at 3046 North Kedzie avenue.

Dick was serving a five year term for robbery in the reformatory when he escaped. When he walked into the Shakespeare avenue police station and reported that he wanted to ease his conscience, police doubted his story. Oklahoma authorities verified his account of the escape, and he was returned to the reformatory on Feb. 12.

Gov. Marland said he had received letters from several Chicago city officials urging clemency in view of Dick's good record.

2 Women Agents of "L" Lines Robbed by Gunman

A gunman with a large scar on his face yesterday robbed Miss Leona Nelson, 5257 Crystal street, of $25 in the Ogden avenue station of the Lake street elevated branch, where she is ticket agent. A few minutes later the same man obtained a similar amount from Miss Augusta Stanner, 4049 Monroe street, agent at the Hoyne avenue station.

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—European reports that Italian troops invaded the American legation compound in Addis Ababa after the bombing of Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Italian viceroy of Ethiopia, and killed many natives who had sought refuge there, were denied today by Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He received an official report from Cornelius Van H. Engert, American consul general in Addis Ababa.

Cornelius Van H. Engert.

In the confusion following the attack on the marshal, Hull explained, natives fled in all directions, and many entered the compound. The legation requested the protection of an Italian military guard which promptly arrived, but the natives had in the meantime filtered out and no one was hurt, Engert reported to Hull. The bombing occurred Feb. 19. The viceroy was injured.

The incident did not have even a remote connection with the subsequent decision to close the United States legation at the end of this month, Hull said.

Idaho Passes New Law to Share Divorce Trade

Boise, Ida., March 6.—(AP)—Idaho lined up today for some of Reno's divorce business. Gov. Barzilla W. Clark signed a law to reduce from three months to six weeks the time divorce seekers must reside in Idano before starting legal proceedings. The measure becomes effective 60 days after adjournment of the legislature, still in session.

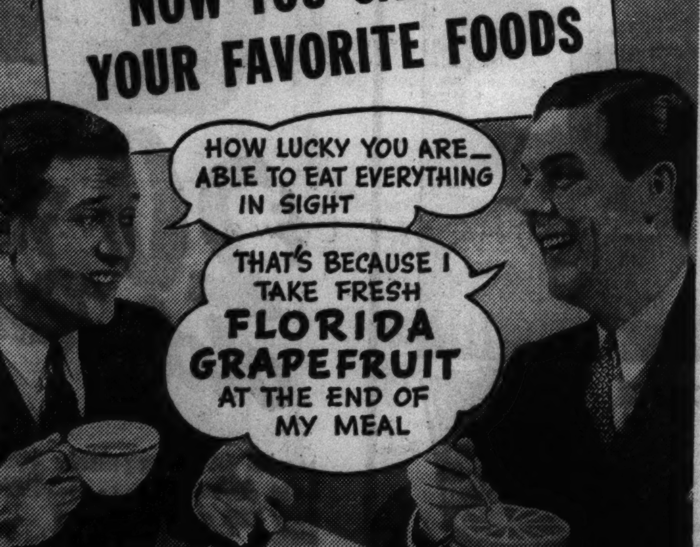
CHINA EXECUTES LEPERS; WOMEN AMONG VICTIMS

SHANGHAI, March 7 [Sunday].—The Chinese government's use of the supreme penalty to eradicate the narcotic menace, which has resulted in executions of dope dealers and incurable addicts, has been extended with the object of stamping out and preventing the spread of leprosy, according to a report from Canton. It stated that officials of the town of Samshui rounded up twenty-five lepers, twelve of whom were in advanced stages of illness, and executed them before a firing squad under military orders. Some of the victims were women.

NOW YOU CAN EAT YOUR FAVORITE FOODS



Helps digest the proteins—check acidity. So delicious, too!

ARE you afraid to eat the things you like? Are you forced to "go easy" on meats, eggs, sea foods because they upset your digestion, make your system over-acid? Here's a simple thing to do that will work wonders. Eat fresh Florida grapefruit at the end of every hearty meal.

Here's what happens

Promptly you lose that full, stuffy feeling. You find foods digest easier, especially protein foods like fish, meat and eggs. Then, too, grapefruit alkalizes the system, thus helping neutralize the acid-forming tendencies of the other foods.

Health benefits, too

As a result, not only your digestion improves but your general health as well. You'll find you escape colds, sleep better, have more energy. Thousands are saying, "I feel like a new man since I got the Florida grapefruit habit." Why not start today? But get Florida grapefruit. It's heavy with juice, richer in flavor, every spoonful a treat!

End every hearty meal with Florida GRAPEFRUIT

2,000 ATTEND LAST MEETING IN TURNER HALL

The last meeting in Turner hall at 820 North Clark street, old gathering place for Chicago's German colony was held last night. The old building, which was raised above the ashes of the first hall, destroyed in the fire of 1871, is to be demolished this month to reduce taxes.

More than two thousand members of Chicago Turngemeinde, which now has its headquarters at 4217 Lincoln avenue, returned for the last time to dance and sing under its rooftree. The crowd included many pioneer Germans who recalled the early days of the hall, when it was as famous for its Czerwonky Sunday afternoon concerts as its gymnastic exhibitions.

Paul K. Neuses, 5811 North Rockwell avenue, acted as host, and introduced several prominent Germans to the audience. Postmaster Ernest Kruetgen, Karl and Otto Eitel, and Oscar Mayer were guests.

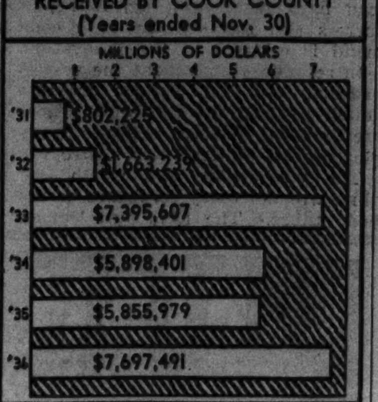
CZECHS FREE 400 GERMANS; SEND 8 NAZIS TO PRISON

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 6.—(AP)—President Eduard Benes liberated 400 Germans imprisoned for political offenses today in an amnesty decree commemorating the 87th birthday of Former President T. G. Masaryk.

It was announced at the same time that eight youths, members of the outlawed Nazi party, had been sentenced to terms up to 15 years for military treason. All eight are students from Germanic sections of the republic who had been studying in Prague.

[European commentators have expressed recurrent fears of trouble in Czechoslovakia, due both to its militant German minority and to its strategic position in any conflict between Nazi Germany and soviet Russia.]

Tax Penalties



Nearly 30 million dollars of penalties have been paid on delinquent taxes in Cook county in the last six years. All penalties are paid to the county government which uses them for operating purposes.

The county received a record amount of penalties in the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1936. Prior to 1932 penalties provided only a small portion of county revenues. During the last four years, however, they have accounted for more than one-third of the total income of the county government.

Duchess Named Mistress of Robes to British Queen

LONDON, March 6.—(AP)—The duchess of Northumberland, close friend of the royal family, today was appointed mistress of the robes to Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain. Her principal duties are to attend the queen at state functions. The last holder of the position was the duchess of Devonshire, who was mistress of the robes to Queen Mary for many years.

COUNTY WILL TRY FORECLOSURES TO GET BACK TAXES

The use of foreclosure as an instrument of tax collection will be invoked tomorrow when Horace G. Lindheimer, acting as county collector, auctions off 320 vacant lots in Park Ridge in the hope of realizing $100,000 owed upon them in unpaid taxes from 1913 to 1931.

Heretofore tax sales were resorted to, but were less than satisfactory because practically they result merely in a clouded title to the property which the owner must clear only in case he wants to sell. The foreclosure law under which the Park Ridge lots are to be sold will guarantee the purchaser clear title after a two year redemption period.

The property at auction is unimproved and comprises the Ira Brown and the Powell subdivisions within the corporate limits of the village. The foreclosure action is in the Circuit court of Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski, who turned it over to his master in chancery, Gerald R. Gorman, for a hearing.

Master Gorman recommended the foreclosure sale, which was approved by Judge Klarkowski last month. The auction will be held in Lindheimer's office in the county building tomorrow.

Ten similar suits involving $750,000 in unpaid taxes are pending in the courts.

SYPHILIS, according to many authorities, is one of the principal causes of death. Individuals who know they are infected and are untreated or inadequately treated are in danger of heart disease, insanity, blindness, paralysis, and many other disabling afflictions. In its many stages it may appear in the guise of almost any ailment or disease. And yet serious as it is this dangerous plague of humanity can be cured by modern medication and care.

But cure depends upon—

1st—early diagnosis and prompt treatment. 2nd—experience of attending physician. 3rd—adequate facilities for diagnosis in all of its manifestations. 4th—continuity and regularity of treatment.

There are no short cuts—no quick cures—self treatment is futile and dangerous and permanent cures can be determined only by repeated blood tests.

Syphilis can be contracted by individuals without their knowledge and give no immediate signs of its presence. For this reason a blood test should be performed routinely in every medical examination. Ignorance of these facts on the part of the general public accounts largely for the widespread misery and death it has caused. Another important factor has been the high cost of medical care. Many persons aware of their infection have been unable to pay for the treatment required to effect a cure and were too proud to turn to charity. And there are others who have gone untreated through fear of public exposure.

Knowing that as long as these conditions exist no fight against syphilis and gonorrhea can be successful, a UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE through its complete medical facilities provides competent and experienced services under conditions that do not call attention to these ailments, and at lower costs than was previously thought possible. Its complete medical facilities, X-ray and other scientific equipment for the treatment of all diseases have been mobilized to provide examinations of recognized medical value, and treatment by trained physicians using drugs for intravenous injections that conform with the regulations and tests prescribed by the U. S. Public Health Service.

The first examination, to determine whether or not the patient is infected, includes a medical examination by a trained physician, urinalysis, complete blood examination, microscopic examination of all secretions and discharges, dark field and serological Kahn or Wassermann test of the blood. BRILLIANT DINNER PROGRAM TO END WOMAN CONGRESS

Baker, Nye and Thomas to Speak Next Thursday.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

A dinner and program of brilliant distinction will bring the fourth annual Woman Congress, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S nonpartisan forum for the discussion of current affairs, to a close next Thursday evening in the Palmer house. The two day congress will convene at noon on Wednesday.

Newton D. Baker, secretary of war in President Wilson's cabinet and one of America's foremost lawyers; Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], and Norman Thomas, Socialist party leader, will deliver the three principal addresses. America's stand internationally will be the theme of the three speeches.

Betty Jaynes to Sing.

Variety will be provided by Miss Betty Jaynes, 16 year old operatic sensation. The congress will be closed with a ten minute summary, "The Road Ahead," by Miss Lena Madesin Phillips of New York City, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Unusual interest is anticipated in the three points of view that will be presented by Mr. Baker, Senator Nye, and Mr. Thomas.

As secretary of war in the Wilson cabinet, Mr. Baker carried through the most stupendous job ever faced by an occupant of that post. For five years he managed affairs in connection with the world war and the later task of demobilization.

Proponent of League.

Since his retirement to practice law in Cleveland, Mr. Baker has been mentioned several times for the presidency. Ever since President Wilson's league of nations program was defeated in 1920, Mr. Baker has continued a strong proponent of the league. Before the assembly of the Woman Congress his subject will be "Constructive Efforts Toward the Maintenance of Peace."

With neutrality one of the important legislative matters before congress this spring, Senator Nye's message is awaited with much interest. He has pointed out that the nation's only hope of true neutrality is in arousing public opinion in favor of a constitutional amendment that will enable and compel government officials to withstand pressure of interested banking and munitions groups.

Thrice Presidential Candidate.

Mr. Thomas has been recognized as the Socialist party leader in America for many years. In the past three national elections he has been the candidate of his party for the presidency. He is a student of international affairs, a friend of minorities, and advocate of world peace.

Miss Jaynes is leaving April 1 for Culver City to keep her contract with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer movie studios. Since her debut as Mimi in "La Boheme," Dec. 6, in the opera house here she has had screen tests, a radio debut, and a concert tour.

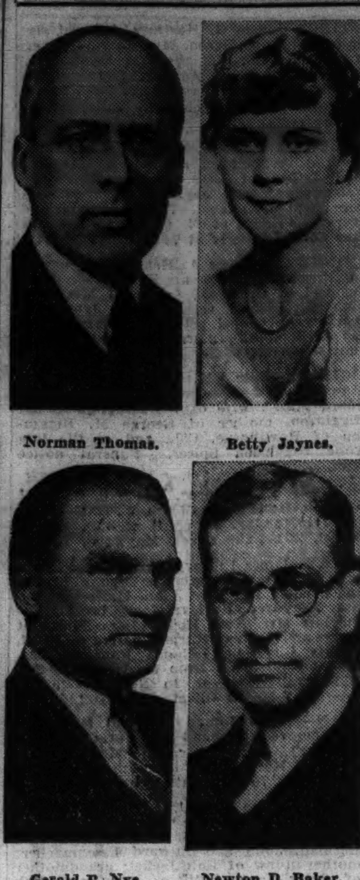
The dinner of the Woman Congress has as its honorary sponsors a committee of 100 distinguished women of the central west, including the wives of the governors of ten states.

More than 1,200 dinner tickets already have been purchased in the congress headquarters. Reservations at $2 a plate should be accompanied by checks and addressed to the headquarters, room 1421, Tribune Tower.

INJURIES IN FALL FATAL.

John Ballantyne, 71 years old, 437 West 42d street, died in the County hospital yesterday of an infection resulting from injuries incurred in a fall on Feb. 23.

On Dinner Program



Norman Thomas. Betty Jaynes.

Gerald P. Nye. Newton D. Baker.

International authorities, representing three points of view, will be the principal speakers at the dinner that will close the fourth annual Woman Congress next Thursday evening in the Palmer house. An added attraction will be a program of songs presented by Miss Betty Jaynes, the world's youngest grand opera star. The Woman Congress is under the sponsorship of the Chicago Tribune.

OPIUM SELLING GANG CAPTURED WITH THE DRUG

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—Treasury agents today arrested six men and seized 1,200 tins of opium, valued at nearly a half million dollars, aboard the S. S. Taybank, a small steamer plying between United States and far east ports.

Agents long have been seeking to break up an opium smuggling gang that has been bringing large quantities of the drug into this country. Today they arrested Willie Bonanzi, a bookmaker, who made his headquarters at the Syrian club in Brooklyn, as a suspect. Bonanzi had $1,400 and a torn paper on which there was writing in Chinese characters.

Raiding the vessel, which already has touched Boston and Baltimore and returned to this port for final loading for Shanghai, the agents seized Ah Man, Chinese carpenter aboard the craft, along with four others. Ah Man was searched and had in his possession a torn paper that fitted exactly the piece found on Bonanzi. Joined, the paper was an order for delivery of the opium.

Seize 50 Army Officers in Hungary War on Fascism

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 6.—(AP)—Fifty army officers were reported under arrest today in a government campaign to suppress Fascism in Hungary. Reports of money sent from abroad, presumably from Germany, to finance a "putsch" are being investigated in the drive against extremists. High police officials are said to face dismissal for failure to stamp out radicalism. Prime Minister Kalman Daranyi said danger of a "putsch" had been averted. Numerous former supporters of the late Premier Julius Goemboes were believed under observation.

NEWFOUNDLAND CITIZENS ASKING FOR HOME RULE

Call Commission Form of Government Failure.

BY JOHN M. BROWNE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, March 6.—Sealers and other citizens, at a crowded massmeeting last night in Mechanics' hall, unanimously adopted a resolution condemning Newfoundland's commission form of government, which is now three years old.

A memorial was placed today in the hands of Vice Admiral Sir Humphrey Thomas Walwyn, the governor, to be forwarded to King George VI. of Great Britain.

Says Conditions Grow Worse.

Under the Newfoundland act, passed on Dec. 21, 1933, by the British parliament, Newfoundland's former representative government was replaced by a commission government. Under it legislative and executive power are vested in the governor, who acts on the advice of a commission.

The resolution adopted last night said:

"Conditions in the country generally, instead of improving, are alarmingly worse at the present moment and intolerable to a people bearing the insignia of the British.

"Fully cognizant of the responsibility which a return to the former status will involve, we are convinced that ways and means will be found to meet the country's financial obligations.

No Faith in Commission.

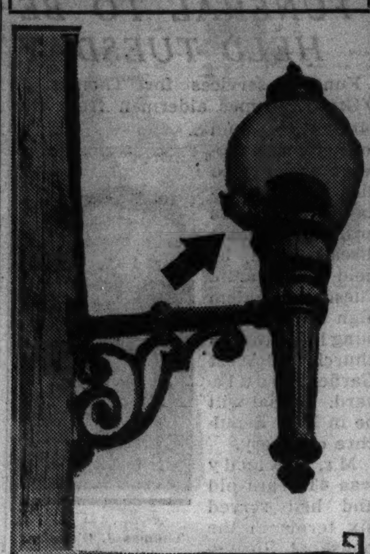
"Three of the original English commissioners have been recalled or transferred in the last three months.

"We have no faith in this particular form of government.

"It is resolved that the present form of government be abolished, with an early restoration of the former constitution, full legislative status, and a general election to be held next October as the alternative."

The petition suggested that if it was not considered sufficiently representative the king will cause a plebiscite to be taken forthwith to decide the issues.

MATERNITY WARD



This street lamp was the home in which mother cat (indicated by arrow) gave birth to kittens.

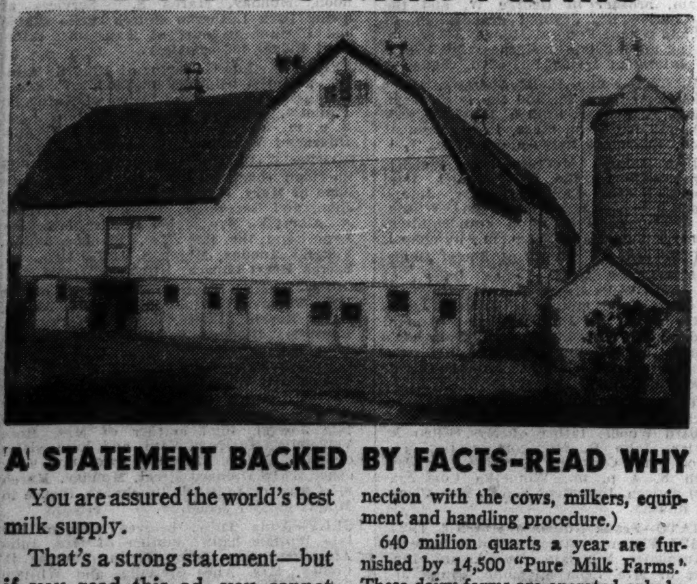
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—They were born in a broken street lamp, but they're doing nicely, thank you! Passersby on Northern boulevard, Manhasset, who heard a chorus of young mewing looked skyward and discovered that a litter of kittens had been born in the globe. The mother cat had crawled on an iron supporting bar to the overhanging lamp to raise her family, and there, perturbed not at all, she cares for her young and looks down calmly at the curious folk below.

Committee Drafts Plans for Women's Pageant

Plans for the second Women's Pageant of Progress, presenting displays to show the achievements of women, are being made by Mrs. Burnett Dewey Warner, pageant president, and her committee. The pageant, proceeds from which go to the Chicago Milk fund, will open May 29 at the Coliseum and continue through June 6.

World's Best Milk Supply From Pure Milk Farms



A STATEMENT BACKED BY FACTS—READ WHY

You are assured the world's best milk supply.

That's a strong statement—but if you read this ad, you cannot help but agree.

To produce your milk, a farm must have:

—healthy, regularly inspected cows
—clean, light, well-ventilated dairy barns —sanitary separate milk-cooling houses —sanitary milking conditions.

(You'd be astonished and pleased at the sanitary measures enforced in connection with the cows, milkers, equipment and handling procedure.)

640 million quarts a year are furnished by 14,500 "Pure Milk Farms." These dairy farms are operated only by members of the Pure Milk Association the dairy farmers cooperative.

Pure Milk Farms are co-operating vigorously in complying with the health requirements of all localities where their milk is sold.

DR. HORNADAY, FRIEND OF BIRDS, BEASTS, IS DEAD

Former New York Zoo Head Long Ailing.

Stamford, Conn., March 6.—(AP)—Dr. William T. Hornaday, 82 years old, the first director of the New York Zoölogical park and a widely known naturalist, died tonight at his home here. He had been ill for half a year. His daughter, Mrs. George Temple Fielding of Stamford and Chicago, and three grandchildren, Temple Hornaday Fielding, George Temple Fielding Jr., and Loraine Hornaday Fielding, survive.

W. T. Hornaday.

Dr. William Temple Hornaday, whose concept of wild life conservation transcended the mere placing of animals in cages for adults and children to look at, saw one of his cherished dreams realized when the federal government enacted measures to protect ducks, geese, and other migratory fowl.

Worked to Curb Hunters.

For years he had fought against the high bag limits on ducks and geese. In some states these at one time ranged as high as 25 ducks and 10 geese per season and Dr. Hornaday and other conservationists warned that America must curtail its slaughter or see those birds go the way of the buffalo.

Today the 48 states set their limits within the federal restrictions of ten ducks and four geese per season and in addition there exist pacts of coöperation with Canada and Mexico on water fowl conservation.

Dr. Hornaday also was aware of the menace of drouth and extreme cold to waterfowl. He was a leader in the fight for creation of federal game refuges and saw this dream too realized in many sections of the country.

Helped U. S. Work.

After his retirement as head of the New York Zoölogical gardens in 1926, Dr. Hornaday supported federal efforts to conserve waterfowl. It was a manifestation of his love for wild life that manifested itself soon after he left college.

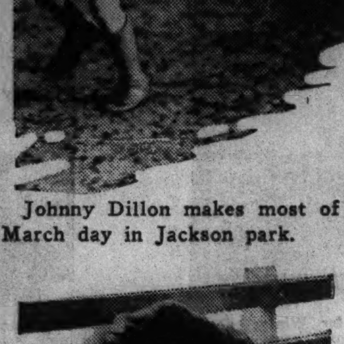
It's Spring in Chicago

Johnny Dillon makes most of a March day in Jackson park.



A gentleman of leisure basks in warm sunshine on a bench in park.

Chicago enjoyed a typical early spring day yesterday, and took full advantage of it. Parks were crowded with strollers. Baby carriages were in evidence everywhere, their tiny occupants getting generous benefit from the friendly sunshine. Other signs of the balmy weather and approaching spring were boys playing marbles and flying kites.

The temperature rose to 53 degrees just before noon. The average temperature was 46 degrees, which is the normal average for April 11 and 12, according to Forecaster J. R. Lloyd.

Mrs. Nicoline Fieldse Dies; Resident Here for 65 Years

MARK L. REQUA, HOOVER FRIEND, DEAD IN WEST

Republican Leader in California.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 6.—[Special.]—Mark Lawrence Requa, Republican national committeeman from California, 1932 to 1936, and a dominant figure in national Republican circles, died today at St. Vincent's hospital here. He was 71 years of age.

Mr. Requa, who maintained his residence in Santa Barbara, was brought to St. Vincent's hospital about two weeks ago in the hope he could regain his failing health. Mr. Requa gained national note during world war days as director of the oil division of the United States fuel administration.

Strong Friend of Hoover.

Mr. Requa was both a practical politician and, in a sense, a political philosopher. A personal friend of former President Herbert Hoover, he led his 1928 and 1932 campaigns in California. The two men, both engineers, first met in 1905. However, they never were associated in business.

Mr. Requa is survived by his widow, Mrs. Florence Herrick Requa, one son and two daughters.

Mr. Requa was a mining man both by inheritance and profession. In the early fifties his father went westward seeking a fortune. He amassed it from the gold and silver mines of Virginia City, Nev., where he settled. His son turned his talents first to copper. But it was oil which brought him fame.

Thousands of Americans who recall Herbert Hoover's "meatless Thursdays" recall also Mr. Requa's "motorless week-ends." Virtual dictator of the oil resources of the United States during the war, he was best known to the general public for his woeful warnings of the country's dwindling oil supply and his insistence that even the Sunday driver "do his bit" to save petroleum for the battleships and tanks.

Opposes Public Ownership.

Mr. Requa was an ardent opponent of public ownership of natural resources, however, although he did go so far as to advocate "industrial regulation," with the authority of the government in the background.

In California politics his broad-shouldered figure was familiar, as it was throughout the west, where he had wide holdings in oil and minerals. As close friend, adviser, and backer of Mr. Hoover he was, until the 1936 campaign, relegated the old guard to the background, a powerful political influence.

Mrs. Agnes Meegan Dies; Son Aid to Bishop Sheil

Mrs. Agnes Meegan, 68 years old, a resident of Chicago for fifty years, died yesterday in her home at 4506 South Wells street of injuries suffered in a fall in May, 1935. Her husband, Owen, died on Feb. 10. She is survived by four sons, the Rev. Peter Meegan, secretary to Bishop Bernard Sheil; Eugene, an attorney; John, a teacher at Wendell Phillips High school, and Joseph, a director of Mann park.

DIES IN CISTERN

MRS. LUELLA K. CODY.

Mrs. Luella Klemann Cody, 32 years old, was found drowned yesterday in the cistern of the farm home of her father, Peter Klemann, five miles northwest of Peotone. Her husband, Louis, to whom she was married nine months ago, said that they planned to move yesterday to Harvey, Ill., where he is employed. Mr. Klemann told Deputy Coroner Ruth Brannon of Will county that his daughter had been brooding about the approaching separation from her parents. An autopsy revealed she had drowned and no evidence of violence was discovered.

JACOB W. GIMBEL ESTATE VALUE RISES TO MILLION

The value of the estate of Jacob W. Gimbel has risen to approximately $1,000,000, it was revealed yesterday when Judge John F. O'Connell approved distribution of $38,000 in securities to the three heirs in Probate court. When Mr. Gimbel died in November, 1935, the value was estimated at only $250,000.

Mr. Gimbel, who lived at the Ambassador East hotel, was the retired head of a Chicago hat and glove company and the head of the Home for Aged Jews. He was a cousin of the Gimbels operating stores in New York, Philadelphia, and Milwaukee. Heirs are the widow, Mrs. Pauline K. Gimbel, and a son, J. William Gimbel, both of 1301 North State street, and a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Oppenheimer of Atlantic City.

Holdings include $500,000 worth of bonds, mostly governmental; $105,000 in notes and mortgages; and $362,985 worth of stocks. Among these are 2,000 shares of Gimbel Brothers, Inc., worth $56,740.

Miss Nellie McAndrews Dies at 78 Following Fall

Miss Nellie F. McAndrews, 78 years old, 650 Arlington place, a lifelong Chicagoan, died at home yesterday of complications following a fall on Feb. 15. She is survived by two brothers, William T., employed in the Chicago office of the secretary of state, and James, a representative in congress from the 9th Illinois district.

THOMAS O'GRADY FUNERAL TO BE HELD TUESDAY

Funeral services for Thomas J. O'Grady, former alderman from the 14th ward and former state representative, who died early yesterday in St. Luke's hospital of heart disease, will be held at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday. Requiem high mass will be sung in Visitation church, 843 West Garfield boulevard. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Thomas J. O'Grady.

Mr. O'Grady was 43 years old and had served six terms in the house at Springfield, from 1921 to 1933, and two years in the city council, from 1933 to 1935. He was a Democrat but was by no means always in harmony with the prevailing Democratic machines.

After his defeat for reëlection as alderman in 1935 O'Grady was out of politics until the April 1936, primary fight, which he entered on behalf of Gov. Horner. As a reward he was made superintendent of lodging houses, which position he held at his death.

Surviving Mr. O'Grady are his widow, the former Madeline Koch, and two small children, Thomas Jr. and Patricia. A brother is Police Captain Michael O'Grady. The O'Grady home is at 1118 Garfield boulevard.

MOISE DREYFUS, STEEL CONCERN FOUNDER, DIES

Moise Dreyfus, 75 years old, 3330 Lake Shore drive, retired steel and iron manufacturer, died yesterday in Phoenix, Ariz., after an illness of fifteen months of heart disease.

A native of Strasbourg in Alsace, Mr. Dreyfus was educated in France, coming to America in 1880 and to Chicago in 1898. He founded the Ohio Iron and Metal company in Chicago, serving as its president until his retirement in 1920. He also was president of the United States Crushed Stone company.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Carolyn Stern Dreyfus; a daughter, Mrs. Samuel R. Rosenthal, and a son, Philip S. Dreyfus, all of Chicago. Funeral services will be held tomorrow in Phoenix, with Rabbi Philip Y. Jaffa officiating. The body will be cremated.

GERMAN VOTERS LAUNCH MOVE TO 'BEAT LA GUARDIA'

N. Y. Societies Protest Attack on Hitler.

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—Protests, partially offset by words of approval for Mayor F. H. La Guardia's famous "chamber of horrors" speech concerning Adolf Hitler, continued to manifest themselves today.

Two German-American organizations, claiming a membership of several hundred thousand, announced they would fight to prevent Mayor La Guardia's reëlection in the fall. Words of commendation came from former State Senator George Blumberg and Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg.

Noting that "our mayor again is on the rampage," the Steuben Society of America pointed out that criticism of a foreign power is not within the proper province of a mayor.

"No Criticism of Italy."

"Never in all his speeches," the society's statement continues, "has this professed great lover of mankind, as far as we can learn, uttered a single word in criticism of the suppression of personal rights in the land of his Italian forbears; never a word of abhorrence about the conditions existing on the Liparian Islands, Italy's concentration camp, nor did he at any time give evidence of an urge to denounce Stalin as an enemy of mankind.

"We therefore appeal to the better element of all citizens to unite for the purpose of eliminating from public office all such as may be guilty of spreading antagonisms between the races in this country."

Seek "United Front" at Polls.

The German-American conference made known that it "deeply resents the statement of the mayor in attacking the German government, a nation with which our government maintains friendly relations.

"We consider this unwarranted and uncalled for attack an insult to every American citizen of German birth or extraction.

"All of the societies affiliated with the German-American Conference have taken steps to present a united front at the coming election."

NAZI CRITICS GET A REAL WORKOUT; FORCED TO DANCE

NUREMBERG, Germany, March 6.—(AP)—Perspiring drama critics puffed across the stage of the Apollo theater here today in a program of acrobatic dances for the entertainment of an audience of chorus girls, comedians and other stage folk.

Julius Streicher, editor and Nazi leader, put the critics through their paces. He said he wanted to teach them to have warmer appreciation for "the hard work, personal sacrifice and physical danger" which theatrical players must undergo in order to win public favor.

The militant Streicher recently inaugurated a policy of lampooning flippant and derogatory critics, after which Dr. Paul Joseph Goebels, minister of press and propaganda, announced that cultural criticism as such was "abolished and critics henceforth would be observers."

Nazis to Oust Officials Linked to Peace Society

BERLIN, March 6.—(AP)—Government officials who belonged to the German Peace society or the Pan-European union before the Nazi assumption of power, an official decree announced today, henceforth either will be removed from their posts or will be barred from future advancement.

125 Policemen Warned to Wear Their Uniforms

Capt. John Prendergast, head of the uniformed police, acting commissioner in the absence on vacation of James P. Allman, made a tour of the Central police building yesterday and noted that 125 policemen were wearing civilian clothes. Thereafter he directed attention to an order issued six months ago instructing all men in clerical positions to wear their uniforms. The order was issued, he said, in the belief that more uniformed men on the streets may act as a deterrent to crime. The order has not been rescinded, Capt. Prendergast said.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 6.—(AP)—Police today arrested Mrs. Kathryn Enright on charges that she held the hands of her 3 year old son over the pilot light of a water heater until they were blistered.

TROOPS PATROL JERUSALEM; JEW SHOT, ARAB SLAIN

JERUSALEM, March 6.—(AP)—Truckloads of British troops armed with rifles patrolled streets today after the shooting of a Jew, the killing of an Arab and the wounding of another.

A curfew order, effective between 9 p. m., and 5 a. m., was proclaimed as a result of renewed Arab-Jewish disturbances. Excitement in the city increased with the appearance of army trucks with tin hatted troops en route to guard duty.

A young Jew, Leibel Schneersohn, was shot in the shoulder as he walked to the wailing wall. He said an Arab shot him. Subsequently, an Arab was shot to death and another wounded in the leg during a quarrel between Arab and Jewish promenaders in a residential section of Jerusalem.

NAZIS LASH U. S. FREE SPEECH AS PERIL TO PEACE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 6.—The Nazi press accepted today, with some reservation, the apology offered to the German government by the United States department of state for the attack on Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler made Wednesday by Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York City.

The newspapers criticized the complete freedom of speech in America which was stressed in the American apology. Such freedom of speech, the press said, endangers the peaceful international relations.

"It is hard for us to understand the American view of freedom of speech," lamented Der Angriff. "La Guardia's case turned into license the use of abusive language and we are surprised by the impotence of the American government."

SAIL FOR ITALY

William J. Babington Macauley, Irish Free State minister to the Vatican, and his bride, the former Mrs. Genevieve Garvan Brady, aboard the Conte di Savoia after their marriage, which is told in an adjoining column.

Youth, 17, Dies of Wound Inflicted in Police Chase

John Ciezopka, 17 years old, 4844 South Seeley avenue, died in the Bridewell hospital yesterday of a bullet wound inflicted by Policeman Edward Smurowski of the New City station. The boy had fled as the policeman attempted to question him in his home on Thursday on the burglary of a hardware store. The policeman said he fired into the ground, but that the bullet ricocheted.

IRISH DIPLOMAT WEDS WIDOW OF NICHOLAS BRADY

New York, March 6.—[Special.]—Mrs. Genevieve Garvan Brady, widow of Nicholas F. Brady, and William J. Babington Macaulay, Irish Free State minister to the Vatican, were married today in the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola on Park avenue. They sailed for Rome at noon in the Italian liner Conte di Savoia.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Most Rev. John Gregory Murray, archbishop of St. Paul, Minn., an old friend of the Garvan family. There were no attendants at the simple ceremony and only a few early morning worshipers were witnesses of the wedding.

Mrs. Macaulay's late husband, Nicholas F. Brady, a public utilities financier, left an estate of at least $10,000,000 at his death in 1930. Mrs. Macaulay's contributions to Roman Catholic charities have been generous.

In 1926 Mr. and Mrs. Brady were made papal duke and duchess, the highest titles conferred on the laity in the United States, in recognition of their philanthropies. Recently Mrs. Macaulay presented her famous estate, Innisfada, near Manhasset, Long Island, to the Society of Jesus for use by the young men of that order.

Mr. Macaulay came to New York in 1930 as consul-general of the Irish Free State after serving as counselor of the Free State legation in Washington from its establishment in 1924. He was a friend of the late Mr. Brady.

Give Older Workers Jobs, Nazi Decree to Industry

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 6.—To help older employés and clerks find jobs, German labor exchanges were authorized by a government decree today to compel employers to engage older men and women instead of young people to whom they have been giving preference in recent months. The decree refers mostly to married men more than 40 years of age, of whom 80,000 are reported to be out of work.

Review of the Week: Chicago: The Nation: The World:

Foreign

Insult and Apology.

The German government and press burst into a rage last week over a speech delivered in New York by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia in which he referred to a "brown shirted fanatic menacing the peace of the world."

The La Guardia speech was delivered on Wednesday. On Thursday the German embassy made a formal protest to Secretary of State Hull. In a press conference Mr. Hull expressed regret over the incident. The next day the state department offered the German embassy a formal apology. It pointed out, however, that citizens of this country are guaranteed freedom of speech.

Mayor La Guardia was the target of a bitter attack in Berlin newspapers. They called him a "scoundrel super-Jew" and accused him of making "infamous insults" against Realmleader Adolf Hitler. Some papers devoted their whole front pages to the La Guardia denunciation, using such epithets as lout, gangster, ruffian, and lummox.

The mayor expressed defiance Friday in New York. "I stand by what I said and repeat it," he said.

Yesterday two German-American organizations in New York started a move to fight the reëlection of the mayor next fall. [See main news section.]

Churches in Arms.

The dispute between the Nazi government and the German churches grew warm during the week. It is the contention of the churches that the government is trying to seize complete control of religious worship. [See main news section.]

The Rev. Dr. Otto Dibelius, pastor of the Berlin cathedral, at one time a favorite preacher of former Kaiser Wilhelm II., charged Hans Kerrl, Nazi minister of church affairs, with attempting to prevent the teaching of the gospel. He said that a recent pronouncement by Kerrl was an effort to censor the words of Jesus Christ.

The controversy is centered in the coming election of members of the Evangelical general synod. The elections were called by a Hitler decree for the purpose of giving the Protestant church a new constitution. The Rev. Martin Niemoeller, leader of the opposition to Nazi interference with the church, announced in a sermon last week that the Rev. Dr. Weisler, imprisoned for his opposition activity, had committed suicide.

Spanish War.

Battles raged all week in the vicinity of Madrid, stronghold of the Spanish loyalist government, which the rebel [Fascist] armies have been trying for months to capture. On Thursday a Greek steamship, the Loukia, struck a floating mine off Capo de Creus on the Mediterranean coast, easternmost point of the Spanish mainland. The ship sank. Twenty-one members of the crew perished.

Earlier in the week a French ship, the Marie Therese le Borgne, was damaged by a floating mine in the same vicinity.

At Madrid loyalist forces held off rebel attempts to encircle and invade the city. Late in the week a rebel force launched a new attack against government positions. The battle was accompanied by a terrific artillery duel.

Loyalist troops were reported on Tuesday to have forced an entry into Toledo, historic Spanish city captured by the rebels last September. Toledo is 41 miles southeast of Madrid. Later reports, however, indicated the government forces were still nearly two miles from Toledo. [See main news section.]

Great Britain.

By a vote of 241 to 117 the house of commons on Wednesday passed the defense loan bill, authorizing the government to borrow 2 billion dollars to aid Britain's 7 billion 500 million dollar rearmament program. The bill was sent to the house of lords.

On Monday the house of commons, by a vote of 243 to 134, indorsed the new British foreign policy, recently outlined by Anthony Eden, foreign secretary. The new policy rests on the demand of Great Britain for a general European accord to guarantee peace. The rearmament program was begun to back this demand.

The government on Tuesday submitted to the house of commons its request for appropriations for 80 new warships, including three battleships of 35,000 tons each. The naval building plan is to be financed largely by increased taxation, which will provide $390,325,000 of the $525,325,000 cost.

Italy.

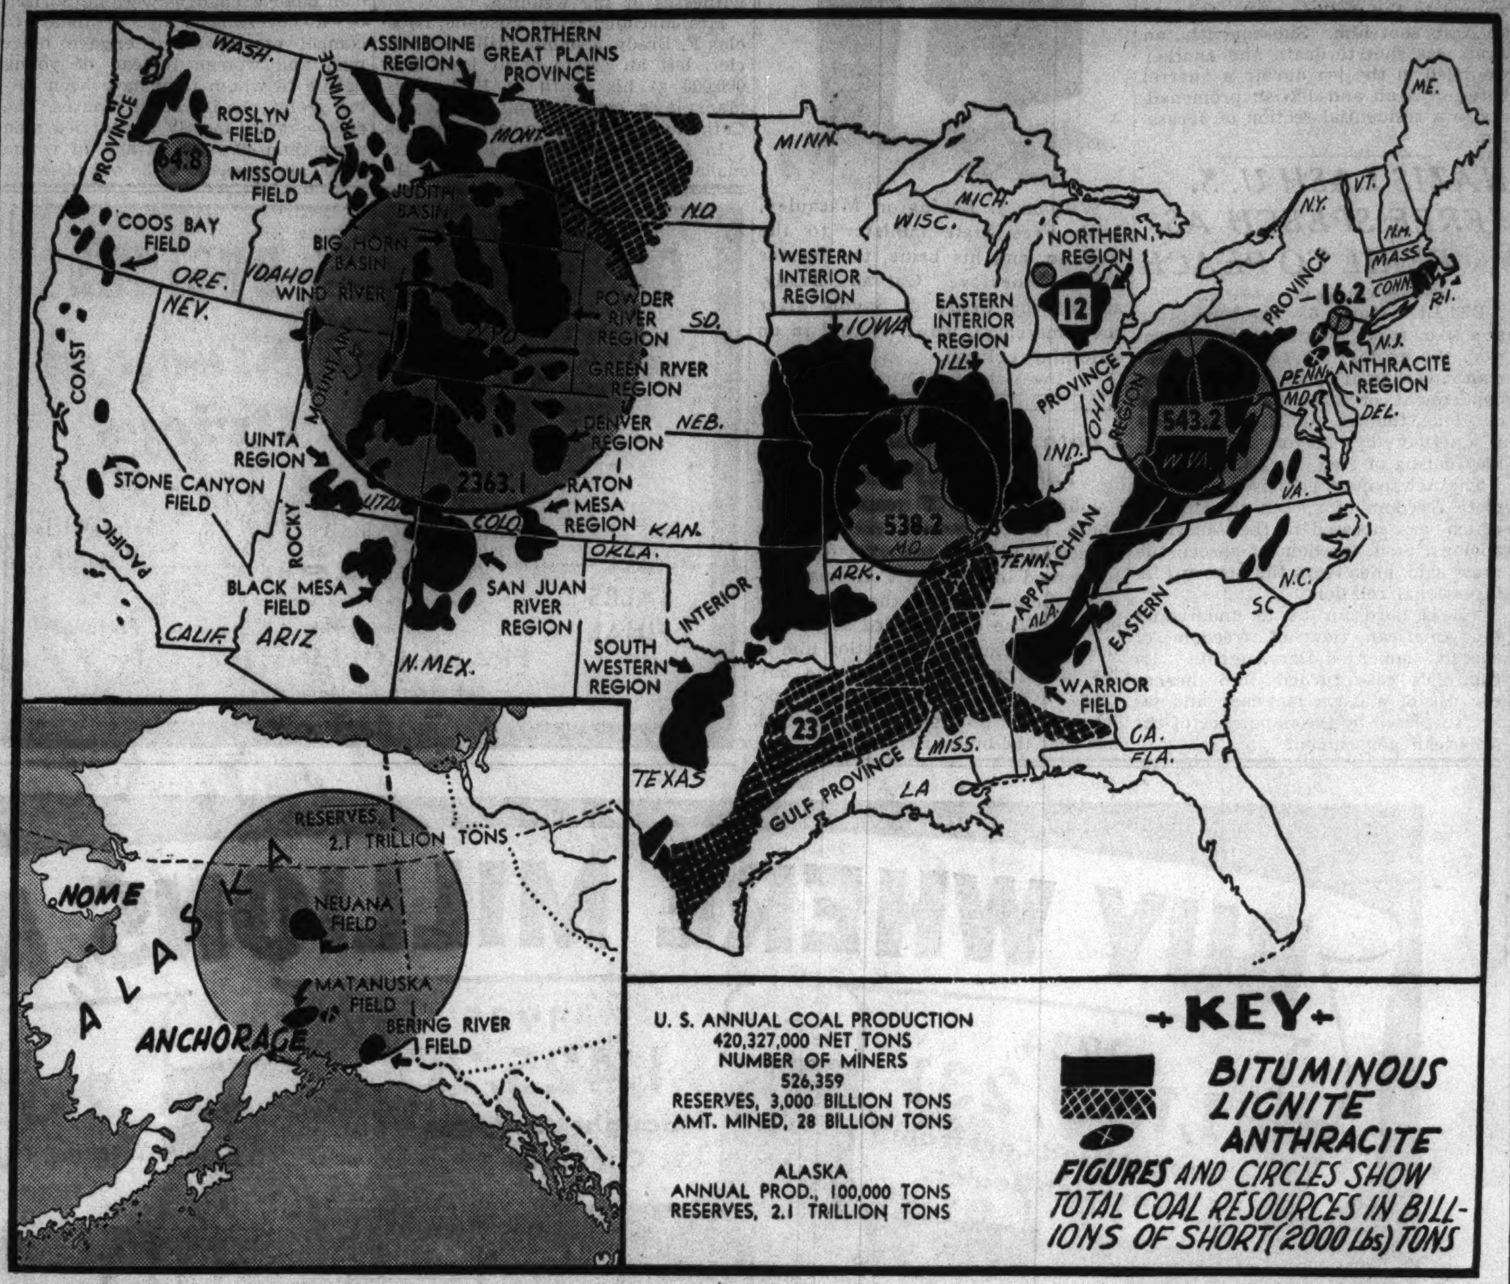
The effect of the British rearmament program on Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy was made known at a special meeting in Rome of the Fascist grand council, supreme authority of the Italian state. Mussolini was reported to have demanded a speeding up of Italy's arms program.

The council also gave serious attention to Italy's declining birth rate. It approved a seven point program for increasing the population to meet the need of more soldiers for Italy's future armies. The program sets up a series of economic advantages for fathers of large families.

Geisha Girls.

In the Japanese city of Osaka 300 geisha girl singers and dancers started a sitdown strike in a Buddhist temple on a mountain top. They demanded the right to form a guild of their own and the right to pick their own gentlemen friends. Japanese geisha girls correspond to night club hostesses in America. Late in the week the strikers marched from the temple to present their demands to the head of the Osaka police. The strike ended yesterday with recognition of the guild. [See main news section.]

Labor Dickers for New Deal in Nation's Coal Fields



The coal industry in late years has suffered increasingly from the competition of fuel oil and natural gas and from the growing demands of union mine labor. As the income of the industry has declined the demands of the miners have increased. In recent weeks the largest union, the United Mine Workers of America, headed by John L. Lewis, began a campaign to gain for the coal miners a large share of the more abundant life promised to labor by New Deal orators.

Negotiating with operators of eastern bituminous mines, Mr. Lewis demanded a 30 hour week, wage increases of 15 to 25 per cent in various mine labor classifications, a guaranteed minimum annual wage of $1,200 and two weeks' vacations with pay at $6 a day. If his demands are met in the east, they will be made to operators of the other coal fields.

The map gives a striking illustration of the vastness of the nation's coal industry. Since coal mining began in this country 28 billion tons have been taken from the ground. Reserves of 3,000 billion tons remain untapped. Coal deposits exist in almost all the states, but since they often cross state lines, mining men usually speak of them as coal regions or provinces.

There are three types of coal. Anthracite is a very hard, valuable fuel. Bituminous is softer, but is the coal most generally used. Lignite is a soft brown coal, not highly prized for commercial use.

Crime

Lies and Dies.

Joseph Rappaport, convicted murderer of Max Dent, government informer, had one chance to save himself from the electric chair in the Cook county jail last Monday—and failed. He was executed early on Tuesday after taking a lie detector test which showed that he lied when he said he did not kill Dent. Prof. Leonarde Keeler of the Northwestern university crime detection laboratory gave the test.

Gov. Horner had said he might consider another reprieve for the slayer if the lie test result were favorable. The governor already had given Rappaport four reprieves.

Chloroform Slaying.

The body of Cleo Sprouse, 18, a high school pupil was found in Charlottesville, Va., last Tuesday. Her head was tied in a chloroform soaked towel. A can containing the fluid, tilted on the girl's face, was traced to the office of Dr. R. G. Miller, a dentist. He confessed the girl had died as he was about to perform an illegal operation in an automobile he had borrowed.

The dentist, married and the father of two children, was hurried to Richmond to avert mob violence. He denied having been intimate with the girl.

Pepper Thrower.

Mrs. Bernard M. Vinissky, the former Jennie Dolly of the Dolly sisters' stage dancing team, was temporarily blinded in Chicago on Thursday when a man threw white pepper into her face. The mysterious assailant called at the Vinissky apartment at 1540 Lake Shore drive. He said he came to deliver a package. When Mrs. Vinissky opened the door to admit him he threw the pepper and fled. The victim's eyes were painfully injured. She and her husband, an attorney, were unable to explain the strange attack.

New York Murder.

New York was shocked by the brutal sex murder of Joan Morvan, 4 years old. Howard Magnussen, a candy maker, confessed. The child died of peritonitis resulting from the attack. Magnussen's sister, Mrs. Norma Gatto, and George Morvan, her common law husband who was the father of the child, were arrested on a charge of beating the little girl.

Jury Deadlock.

After deliberating 21 hours a Chicago jury disagreed Friday on the guilt or innocence of Maxwell Dowdell, park district foreman, charged with mistreating a 10 year old girl in Rogers Park on Jan. 30. Judge John J. Lupe discharged the jury and sent the case back to the chief justice of the Criminal court for assignment to another judge and retrial.

NEW HORMONE

Discovery of a new hormone—a chemical substance produced in one organ of the body and carried in the blood circulation to another organ with beneficial effect—was reported in a German medical journal. The article said the hormone had been tried successfully in the treatment of decayed or loose teeth.

Labor

Steel Pay Boost.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel company, largest producer in the industry and largest subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, granted a $5 a day minimum wage and a forty hour week to its 120,000 employés. At the same time the company signed a collective bargaining contract with John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization—the C. I. O. The larger steel companies immediately followed the lead of Carnegie-Illinois in adjusting hours and wages. A total of 350,000 steel workers were benefited.

Philip Murray, C. I. O. organizer, who negotiated the bargaining contract with Benjamin T. Fairless, president of the Carnegie-Illinois company, called the agreement the greatest victory for organized labor in the history of the movement in America.

The steel company later in the week emphasized that its agreement with the C. I. O. applied only to C. I. O. union members and that the company was free to bargain with any other employé groups.

At Pittsburgh yesterday the employé council of Carnegie-Illinois, a rival labor group, announced it had been given full recognition by the company.

Green vs. Lewis.

Meanwhile Lewis' "victories" over the automobile and steel industries were challenged by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, which suspended the C. I. O. unions. Green launched an active campaign to strengthen A. F. of L. unions in both the auto and steel industries and to combat inroads by C. I. O. organizers. He warned federation leaders that the organization would not tolerate support for any rival labor organization.

Negotiations between the United Automobile Workers and the Chrysler Motors corporation struck a snag. Homer Martin, union president, remained firm in his demand that the union be recognized as the sole bargaining agent for all Chrysler employés. The company with equal firmness refused the demand.

Chicago Taxi Strike.

A strike of Yellow and Checker taxicab drivers developed in Chicago Friday and spread quickly. Yesterday it was estimated the strike was 95 per cent effective. This would mean that more than 5,000 drivers had quit work. Complete unionization was a major demand of the strikers.

The Yellow drivers also demanded 50 per cent of their passenger receipts and free gasoline. They now receive 38¼ per cent of receipts, free servicing of their cabs, and pay the company 8½ cents a gallon for gasoline. Checker drivers, who already get 50 per cent of their receipts, demanded free gasoline and free servicing. Checker men now pay 16½ cents a gallon for gasoline and pay for the servicing of their cabs. Drivers for both companies also demanded vacations with pay. [See main news section.]

Messenger Boys.

In a holiday mood several hundred telegraph messenger boys of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies conducted a run-around strike in downtown Chicago on Thursday. The boys returned to work when the companies promised to listen to their demands for wage increases. On Friday Western Union announced the boys in its employ would get a pay raise of about 50 per cent.

Other Strikes.

The epidemic of sitdown strikes and other labor disputes continued to spread through the country. A few were settled but many new troubles developed. Some of them were:

The Bethlehem Steel company plant at Lebanon, O., was closed down because of a misunderstanding over the company's recent wage increase. The plant employs 2,500 men.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber company plant No. 2 at Akron, O., was closed down, throwing 9,000 men out of work. The company charged union employés were trying to force other workers to join the union.

Demanding wage and hour concessions, girl clerks in a large 5 and 10 cent store of the F. W. Woolworth company in Detroit went on a sitdown strike. This strike ended yesterday with a wage increase.

Throughout the country it was estimated that more than 25,000 workers were idle because of strikes. More pay, shorter hours, and union recognition were the issues in most of the disputes. [See main news section.]

The City

First Hundred Years.

Chicago on Thursday launched its Charter Jubilee—a seven month celebration of its 100th birthday as a city. The observance will continue until Oct. 9, which is noted each year as the anniversary of the great fire of 1871. Four years ago the 1933 Century of Progress Exposition marked the 100th anniversary of Chicago's incorporation as a village.

Last Thursday's ceremonies, formally opening the Charter Jubilee, celebrated the granting to Chicago of its charter as a city. This was done by the state legislature on March 4, 1837.

The day's observance began with a salute of 100 cannon shots. Messages of congratulation came to Mayor Kelly from mayors and other officials in many parts of the world. In his address of the occasion the mayor pictured the future Chicago as the "greatest city in the world." In the evening a pageant at the Chicago Stadium depicted the city's growth.

New Street Signs.

A high point of Charter day was Mayor Kelly's placing of a new street sign at State and Madison streets. This was the first of 16,862 new signs that will mark Chicago corners. The signs are 26x5½ inches, with the street names appearing in 4½ inch black letters on a yellow background. That color combination, according to the United States bureau of standards, has the greatest visibility.

Nineteen Chicago streets are named after Presidents, 16 after states, 35 after trees, and 46 after girls. Other streets are named after prominent persons or are numbered. The longest street, 23½ miles, is Western avenue. The shortest, 86 feet, is Armstrong street, west from Michigan avenue, just south of Chicago avenue.

Track Removal.

A 13 year dispute between the Chicago Surface lines and the park commissioners over removal of the street car tracks along Lake Shore drive between Chicago avenue and Ohio street was settled Thursday. Guy A. Richardson, president of the Surface lines, said the company would start taking up the tracks within two weeks.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district, had pointed out that unless the removal was started at once the building of a wider boulevard approach to the new outer drive bridge would be delayed. Mr. Richardson then agreed not to appeal from a recent order of the Illinois commerce commission requiring removal of the tracks.

City Council

The aldermen voted on Wednesday to ask the state legislature for power to license businesses and occupations not now licensed and for the right to impose excise taxes on commodities, such as the proposed levy of 1 cent a package on cigarets. The city at present has power to license only certain businesses for regulatory purposes.

The Massacre.

Fifteen persons were killed and 231 injured last week in Chicago trafic accidents.

Washington

The President.

Mr. Roosevelt's first direct appeal to the nation in his campaign against the Supreme court came on Thursday night. If the campaign is successful he will be able to overcome the court's opposition to New Deal policies by appointing an additional member for each of the six justices now more than 70 years old. This would pack the court with a New Deal majority since many of the decisions against the administration's laws have been by a 5 to 4 or 6 to 3 vote of the nine present justices.

The President's address on Thursday was delivered before a Democratic dinner in Washington celebrating the party's victory in the November election. His talk was carried by radio to similar dinners throughout the country and to the public.

Mr. Roosevelt assailed the Supreme court decisions which invalidated such New Deal laws as the AAA, NRA, and the Guffey coal control act. He said a national crisis exists and that immediate action is necessary to solve the problems of floods, drouth, crop surpluses, and labor troubles. He said these problems could not be handled forever on a catch-as-catch-can basis.

In the course of his address the President related a story which listeners regarded as an indication that he does not intend to seek a third term in the White House.

An important White House guest of the week was Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King of Canada. He conferred with Mr. Roosevelt on Thursday and Friday. It was reported the defeated St. Lawrence waterway treaty, the Canadian position under the American neutrality policy, and Canada's part in the pan-American peace program developed at the Buenos Aires conference last December were the chief topics of discussion.

On Tuesday Mr. Roosevelt sent a special message to congress urging passage at this session of a law establishing minimum hours and maximum wages to replace the invalidated NRA.

During the week Mr. Roosevelt was requested by the governors of New York, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island to call a conference on unemployment. The governors protested against the shifting of the relief burden to state and local governments.

The Senate.

The senate controversy over the administration's Supreme court scheme increased after Mr. Roosevelt's Thursday night speech. Democratic senators opposed to the court plan were especially resentful of the speech. During the week radio addresses opposing the plan were made by the two senators from Michigan, Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, and Prentiss M. Brown, Democrat.

It was estimated that more than a million letters on the Supreme court issue have been received by senators from voters. A survey showed the letters to be 10 to 1 against the court proposal.

On Wednesday the senate passed by a vote of 62 to 6 the "peace act of 1937," a neutrality measure designed to keep the country out of foreign wars. It abandons the principle of freedom of the seas, which has been a part of American policy for 150 years. The measure would continue the President's power to declare embargoes against shipment of war materials to warring nations and would further empower him to prohibit American vessels or aircraft from carrying to belligerents any articles he may enumerate. A similar neutrality bill is pending before the house.

The national election campaigns of last November cost the political parties taking part more than 14 million dollars, it was reported Wednesday by a senate investigating committee. Reports of the two major parties showed the Republicans spent $8,892,971 and the Democrats $5,651,118.

The House.

In a house speech on Tuesday Representative Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.], chairman of the house judiciary committee, urged the six justices of the Supreme court now eligible to retire on full pay of $20,000 a year to do so. He insisted there was nothing coercive about the retirement bill. He intimated that if the six justices retire voluntarily now, the judiciary crisis will be ended.

The house appropriations committee cut the navy budget by more than 35 million dollars on Tuesday. The action brought an immediate protest from high navy officers, who said national security was endangered. The committee approved a total appropriation for the navy of $526,555,000. On Friday the house appropriated that amount and sent the bill to the senate.

Representative Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the house naval affairs committee, on Wednesday accused Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins of obstructing the naval building program. He said she had refused to permit exemptions on copper and steel construction work under the Walsh-Healy act, which sets up labor standards for manufacturers doing work for the government. Several manufacturers, he said, refused to bid on navy contracts because of the law's restrictions. The law, however, gives the secretary of labor discretion to make exemptions. It was expected Mr. Vinson's complaint would be withdrawn in view of the action of big steel companies last week in granting steel labor a 40 hour week and wage increases. [See Labor.]

Sports

Big Ten Basketball.

Jewell Young, Purdue forward, set an all-time season's scoring record for Big Ten basketball when he made 9 points in his team's final game Monday night against Wisconsin. His total, 172 points in 12 games, bettered by 4 the record of the previous high scorer, Joe Reiff of Northwestern, in 1933. Purdue closed the season by losing to Wisconsin, 46 to 43. In other Big Ten games Monday Minnesota defeated Northwestern, 34 to 33, and Indiana upset Michigan, 31 to 27. [For last night's scores and the final Big Ten standings see Sports section.]

Golden Glove Champions.

Eight young amateur boxers from Chicago and five other cities fought their way to the championships in the eight weight divisions of the tenth annual Golden Gloves tournament Friday night. A crowd of 21,768, which packed the Chicago Stadium, saw 32 fighters in the semifinal and final bouts. The eight winners are survivors of the 21,000 youths who started competition in cities throughout the central west and south two months ago. They are the team that will meet the New York Golden Gloves boxers in the intercity matches on March 24. The eight are:

112 pounds—Jimmy Urso, Detroit.

118 pounds—Frank Kainrath of the Catholic Youth organization, Chicago.

126 pounds—William Joyce of Gary, Ind.

135 pounds—Edward Kozole of Detroit.

147 pounds—Verne Patterson of the Savoy Athletic club, Chicago.

160 pounds—Al Wardlow of Dayton, O.

175 pounds—Herman West of Centralia, Ill.

Heavyweight — Paul Hartnek of Omaha, Neb.

Revived Blackhawks.

The Chicago Blackhawks played and won three games during the week. Thus they retained a chance of reaching the playoffs for the Stanley cup, emblem of the National Hockey league championship. On Sunday the Blackhawks defeated the New York Rangers, 4 to 3; on Tuesday they whipped the Boston Bruins, 4 to 2; and on Thursday they beat the Montreal Canadiens, 5 to 3.

Sox and Cubs.

Pitchers and catchers of the Chicago White Sox started spring training at Pasadena, Cal., on Wednesday. The squad lacked one man, Pitcher Merritt Cain, only Sox player who has not signed a 1937 contract. The club's infielders and outfielders will leave Chicago tonight for Pasadena.

The Cubs, who as usual are to train on Catalina Island, will take the boat from the California mainland Wednesday night.

Flying

Plans started three years ago to double the size of the Chicago airport ran into a new delay last week. Officials of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, whose tracks cut in two the area available for the landing field, rejected the terms of a proposed city ordinance providing for removal of the tracks. The city has asked the federal Public Works administration for $2,500,000 to carry out the project. The present airport occupies the south half of the square mile bounded by Cicero avenue, 63d street, Central avenue, and 55th street.

Fred D. Fagg Jr., expert on aviation law, a professor in the Northwestern university law school, was appointed director of the federal bureau of air commerce on Monday to succeed Eugene L. Vidal, resigned.

Last Feb. 9 a United Air Lines passenger plane crashed into San Francisco bay, killing eleven persons. Yesterday air line officials announced that investigation showed the plunge was caused by a radio microphone which, falling, jammed the control apparatus. [See main news section.]

Business

Buying Power.

American buying power is definitly on the upgrade. Projects announced since the start of 1937 indicate that business and industry will spend at least $1,100,000,000 this year on research, new equipment, and plants. Approximately a million workmen in the major industries have been granted pay increases which will amount to $160,000,000 a year. Many employers now have wage negotiations pending. More than a billion dollars in special and extra dividends has been poured into the pocketbooks of stockholders in recent months.

Automobile manufacturers so far this year have given their employés a pay boost estimated at $30,000,000 annually. Last week the steel industry joined the parade, granting a forty hour week and a minimum wage of $5 a day. This is expected to swell the total income of steel workers by more than $100,000,000 a year.

Business Barometers.

Steel—Production rose to 85.8 per cent of the steel plants' capacity, the highest since October, 1929. Price increases of $3 to $8 a ton were announced to meet the higher costs of materials and wage boosts.

Automobiles—Output climbed to 127,000 cars and trucks, also an eight year high mark. The week before 115,000 units were produced.

Trade—Retail business was 6 to 10 per cent above that of the previous week. The volume of wholesale trade continued upward.

Power—Electricity production totaled 2,207,285,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 2,211,818,000 in the preceding week. Last week's total, however, was 13.7 per cent above that for the same period in 1936.

Car loadings—The railroads handled 696,727 cars of freight. The previous week's figure was 714,884.

Bank clearings—Banks in the twenty-two leading cities exchanged $7,109,623,000 in checks and drafts, the largest amount since Christmas.

Stocks—Higher. The prices of steel shares rose sharply. U. S. Steel reached a high of $126.25 a share.

Bonds—Price changes were small as traders awaited announcement by the United States treasury of its March 15 financing plans.

1936 Earnings.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company reported a net profit of $184,744,464 for 1936. This compares with $132,918,493 in 1935. It was the first year since 1931 that the $9 annual dividend rate was earned by the company, although payments of that amount were made throughout the depression.

The National City bank of New York reported that 1936 earnings of 940 of the country's leading corporations totaled $1,624,000,000 in 1936—a gain of about 51 per cent over 1935.

Strange

A divorce bill filed in Evansville, Ind., by the Rev. James P. Sandefur, 22, charged that his wife, June, 19, made faces while he preached and went to sleep during services.

A woman in Pekin, Ill., sent the Red Cross some clothing for flood victims. Later she asked that a search be made for a diamond pin she forgot to remove from a garment.

A girl cashier, 18, and a candy man, 45, working side by side in circus concessions, became pals. At Cleveland the girl introduced the man to her mother, who recognized him as her former husband. The girl was his daughter.

Navajo Indians of the southwest predicted a severely cold winter. The federal weather bureau forecast a warm and rainy winter. The Indians were right.

A brass band at Ellinwood, Kas., was rehersing "The Mickey Mouse March." The French horn emitted only a squeak. The director blew into it. Out came a mouse.

In South Bend, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hodes were treated after tasting pancakes made with insect powder, which Mrs. Hodes had mistaken for flour.

CHILE WILL CAST VOTE TODAY WITH ONE EYE ON SPAIN

Right and Left Struggle for Chamber Seats.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 6.—Chilean eyes were turned towards Spain, the mother country, today as leftist and rightist political groups prepared for the general election tomorrow when all seats in the chamber of deputies will be filled and half of the ninety senators will be elected.

Every development in the Spanish civil war has been reflected in the campaign here, and the news of a major victory on either side might mean a decisive switch of votes.

The rightists are represented by Conservatives, Liberals, and Democrats, who had a substantial majority in the old chamber and a narrow one in the senate, and the leftists by the Radicals, Socialists, and communists, who have formed a popular front on Spanish lines.

Nazis Enter 58 Candidates.

Electoral experts declared it is impossible to predict the outcome of the vote, as the country seems to be equally divided between the "law and order" platform of the right and the socialization advocated by the left.

The usual calculations also have been upset by the Nazis who have lately gained strength and are running two candidates for the senate and fifty-six for the chamber. They are expected to win some seats in the south where there is a strong German-Chilean colony.

Guard Against Disorders.

The government has taken special police precautions — including the mobilization of the carabineers—to guard against voting disorders because of the bitter feeling between the opposing groups. All sides have cited the Spanish war in their speeches.

Only one-tenth of the population, approximately 500,000, is eligible to vote. There will be nearly a 100 per cent poll, however, as citizens who fail to go to the booths are liable to a fine of $7.50.

The new chamber will hold office for the next four years. Senators, however, are elected for eight year terms.

BRIBED WITH FUR COAT, GIRL SAYS, IN ARSON TRIAL

Marion, Ill., March 6.—[U. P.]—Margaret Dubose, 16 year old Herrin, Ill., girl who appeared as a court witness in the arson trial of Claude Mann and three co-defendants, suddenly blurted out today that she had been bribed with a new coat into "swearing a lie."

When questioned concerning the burning of a roadhouse near Johnston City in February, 1936, she denied any knowledge of the incident, but under cross examination of defense and prosecution attorneys, she said A. E. Hartwell, owner of the roadhouse, had given her a coat to falsify her statements.

French Statue of Liberty Turned Toward U.S.'Sister'

PARIS, March 6.—(AP)—The French statue of liberty cast an eye for the first time today toward her famous American sister. Paris officials, getting ready for the International exposition, decided to turn the 58-foot bronze around as a French gesture of friendship so that Miss Liberty would no longer give the cold shoulder to the United States.

Call Three Judges

Indianapolis, Ind., March 6.—[Special.]—Subpenas for more than twenty persons, including three county judges and the five members of the county welfare board, were served this afternoon as the joint legislative committee resumed investigation of the disappearance of the official state welfare bill, said to be in possession of Joel A. Baker, deposed this week as county welfare head. Baker is wanted to explain the "borrowing of the bill" from a committee chairman.

Sherif Otto Ray got a "tip" as to the whereabouts of Peter A. Cancilla, Baker's bodyguard, who fled Monday after slugging into unconsciousness Wayne Coy, state welfare director and regional WPA chief.

Among those subpenaed are:

Judge Frank P. Baker of county Criminal court.

Judge Earl R. Cox of county Circuit court.

Judge L. Ert Slack of county Superior court, who heads the county welfare board which named Baker as its director.

Virgil Sheppard, who succeeded Baker temporarily as acting county welfare head after the latter was ousted by emergency legislation.

Paul McNutt, until recently, Indiana governor and the new U. S. high commissioner to the Philippines, is demanding "a complete showdown." Coy, McNutt's former secretary, will become his executive assistant at Manila, if he recovers. Coy will undergo a second operation Monday to have the bones about his left eye reset.

JAPS CELEBRATE AS GEISHA GIRLS END THEIR STRIKE

OSAKA, Japan, March 6.—(AP)—Victorious geisha girls and relieved teahouse owners prepared tonight to celebrate the end of the singing and dancing girls' sitdown strike.

Welcoming parties were arranged along the city's gay white way for the return of the 300 gayly clad entertainers who secluded themselves in a mountain top temple for eight days and won recognition of their geisha guild.

Another strike continued, however, and threatened to prevent Prince Chichibu, eldest brother of Emperor Hirohito of Japan, from attending the coronation of King George VI. of Great Britain in London. Ship officers are on strike as a patriotic protest, charging that the Japanese mail ship line was disrespectful of the emperor last Oct. 29 in failing to order the rising sun flag flown from all its vessels when he reviewed the grand fleet.

Chute Fails; Flyer Grabs Comrade's Ropes; Is Saved

KHABAROVSK, U. S. S. R., March 6.—(AP)—Army officers told today of a parachute jumper's strange escape from death. Junior Officer Krevoschev jumped from a plane and plummeted into the ropes of a comrade's parachute. Unable to open his own 'chute, Krevoschev grasped his comrade's ropes and together they glided safely to earth.

SIX GOVERNORS PROTEST CUTS IN RELIEF ROLLS

Ask Roosevelt to Maintain WPA Programs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—In a three and a half hour White House conference, the governors of six industrial states this afternoon pleaded with President Roosevelt against a projected 25 per cent curtailment of the Works Progress administration.

The governors began their plea over a White House luncheon and remained until late afternoon to protest that their states already are groaning under the burden of relief and cannot take on those who would be dropped from the national program. The states represented were Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, New York, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts.

Calls Morgenthau, Hopkins.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and WPA Administrator Hopkins were summoned to the conference by the President. Hopkins and Morgenthau underwent a heavy barrage of questioning on federal ability to continue the WPA program.

Hopkins bore the brunt of the barrage, because he was responsible for the presence of the governors. He formulated the plan to cut the WPA rolls from 2,150,000 persons to 1,600,000 by June 1. At its peak the WPA employed 3,500,000 persons.

Lehman Talks for All.

After the conference Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York acted as spokesman for the group, which met originally a week ago at his invitation in Albany. At the Albany meeting the group drafted a telegram of protest to the President which resulted in the invitation to today's luncheon.

"We had a long conference with the President," he said, "and discussed with him the matters contained in our telegram of last Sunday to the effect that:

"1. The workers now on WPA who are actually in need be cut off the relief rolls only on the understanding they can be absorbed by private industry.

"2. These workers so cut off shall be replaced with the same number of other needy employables from state relief rolls.

"The President promised to give the matter his very careful consideration and we expect to confer with him again on his return to the White House."

Starts Vacation Soon.

Mr. Roosevelt is leaving Thursday afternoon on a two weeks vacation at the infantile paralysis resort he founded at Warm Springs, Ga. During his absence he expects to draft a special message for presentation to congress on relief needs for the fiscal year which begins July 1.

Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois said the governors were hopeful that the Hopkins curtailment plan would be set aside by the President on his return to the capital.

"My impression is that he is going to give this problem very careful consideration," Gov. Horner said. "He has a sympathetic feeling for it.

"I am unalterably opposed to any cut. In our judgment the states could not stand the added burden which will be thrust upon them. In Illinois the state and municipalities are doing their very best to handle the direct relief load and can take no more."

Gov. Horner said the question of resumption of the care of unemployable needy by the federal government was not discussed.

Gov. La Follette There.

Gov. Philip La Follette of Wisconsin said that the government should continue to provide for all those at present on WPA rolls. None of these should be dropped, he insisted, unless they are absorbed by private industry.

He said the reduction program, which Hopkins outlined before a house committee, would create a serious financial problem in his state. He estimated that half of the persons on relief in Wisconsin are employable, but have been unable to get work. Curtailment of the WPA will put more employables on the state relief roll and increase the state's relief by 50 per cent, he said.

"I found I could Switch to the Big Dodge AS 'EASY' AS I COULD BUY A SMALL CAR!"
says WILLIAM E. KERSTEN, NEW YORK CITY

"I SAW that the new low 'delivered' Dodge price was just a trifle more than a similar model of the smaller car I had been considering," explains Mr. Kersten. "And now the money Dodge is saving on gas alone will easily offset that small difference in price. I'm averaging 20 miles to the gallon. What's more, I know the higher price this Dodge will bring me when I trade it in will also more than offset the difference in original cost."

Just as enthusiastic as Mr. Kersten are thousands of new Dodge owners who have switched from smaller, competitive-make cars to Dodge—and have discovered that the bigger Dodge actually costs no more in the long run to own and drive! 18 to 24 miles to the gallon of gasoline, they report...along with substantial savings on oil, lubrication, tires, and upkeep!

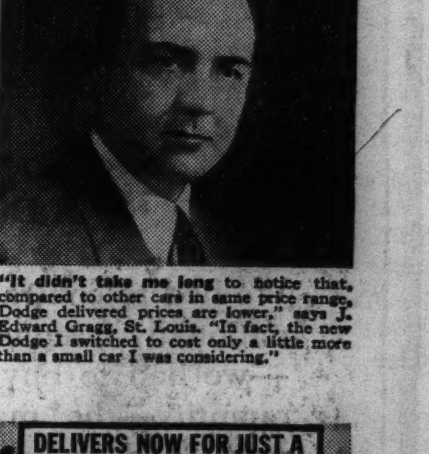
"20½ miles to the gallon of gas," says C. B. Edwards, Glendale, Calif. "That's what I click off in my big, new Dodge. I never drove a car so economical to operate."

"We'll save $70 before the year is out," says Gladys McGill Barron, Chicago. "Using our old smaller car for comparison, we're getting 8 miles more to the gallon from our new Dodge. Our oil costs are much lower, too."



"It didn't take me long to notice that, compared to other cars in same price range, Dodge delivered prices are lower," says J. Edward Gragg, St. Louis. "In fact, the new Dodge I switched to cost only a little more than a small car I was considering."

LOSES 98 LBS.!

Reduces Waistline 22 Inches!
No one need suffer from unhealthy, unsightly fat. Science has found a new, safe and easy way to combat glandular inactivity, the major cause of most corpulency.

CHENO is the pathway to a slender waistline!
Cheno supplies the lacking elements for oxidizing fatty tissue. Cheno does what your sluggish glands refuse to do. Cheno contains no drugs, nor are there any gland products in it. It does not upset the stomach or affect the heart.

Use CHENO—Quit storing up fat!

100 FAT WOMEN REDUCED BY ACTUAL TEST
Some months ago special tests were made on a group of 100 fat women, under medical supervision. Results were extremely satisfactory. Every woman, without exception, reduced through the waistline and hips first. The tested and proved product used was Cheno—the slendering easy-to-take, safe combatant of fat.

Mrs. Suzanne Thompson, who weighed 238 pounds, wore size 56 dresses and could not sleep. Now she weighs 140, wears size 18 dresses and sleeps like a rock. As she is today, at the left. (Original letter on file.)

FREE BOOKLET
THERE ARE SEVEN TYPES OF OVERWEIGHT WHICH TYPE ARE YOU?

Thyroid Type, Fat all over, capable of becoming enormously fat. . . Large double chin.

Write or ask for this free booklet and reduce intelligently and scientifically. It tells you what is wrong and why you need to combat fat. Why the numbers of fat people are on the increase, why most reducing remedies are failures. It is filled with a wealth of scientific information.

ILLINOIS AND MINNESOTA SHARE BIG 10 TITLE

COLUMBIANA TIES TRACK RECORD TO WIN WIDENER CUP

BEATS FINANCE BY 2 LENGTHS; DELLOR IS THIRD

Hirsch Filly Comes Up in Stretch.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., March 6.—Charging through the stretch from a contending position just off the pace, Columbiana, lightly weighted daughter of Petee Wrack, left no doubt of her superiority as she bounded over the finish line two lengths ahead of Finance to win the second Widener cup before 20,000 at Hialeah park today. Dellor was third with Count Arthur fourth. Columbiana is owned and trained by W. J. [Buddy] Hirsch, a professional horseman, not a millionaire.

Time for the mile and one-quarter, 2:01 4-5, equaled the track record set last year by Mantagna in the same event.

Although Columbiana had a time trial in 2:02 and had won four of her last five starts, she paid $14.20, $5.40, and $4.30. Finance, coupled in the betting with Two Bob and Floradora, returned $3.40 and $2.90. Dellor, a field horse, paid $8.20 to show. The race was worth $52,000 to the winner with $8,000, $4,000, and $2,000 respectively for the placed horses.

Handle Sets Record.

The mutuel handle set a new record of $733,033 of which $131,281 was wagered on Widener stake. This surpassed the previous mark of $672,378 set last Saturday.

While the great crowd, setting a new grandstand attendance record despite increased admission charges, fancied the Denemark-Shaffer entry and the oft-frustrated Whopper, Columbiana was the third choice in the speculation. But among horsemen—men who make their living by training or racing horses—the victory was especially popular.

Columbiana's 28 year old owner is a scion of the famous Hirsch dynasty. Maxie Hirsch, his father, saddled Bold Venture for the Kentucky Derby and Preakness last year and has been before the American turf public for three decades. Miss Mary Hirsch, Buddy's sister, is the only licensed woman trainer in America. She trains and races a string of her own.

Jocky Hubert Leblanc, who has been kicking home many long shots this meeting, a rising kid whose apprentice allowance has not yet expired, kept Columbiana out of the bumping at the start and back stretch jams. He took no chance of a stretch cutoff, but came by the overland route to win easily.

Bumping at Start.

The stake feature, run for the first time with $50,000 added, brought out the most distinguished crowd of notables since the régime of the man for whom the race was named. With the complimentary list suspended, all admission charges raised and half the grandstand dedicated to reserved seats, records were neared if not broken.

After short delay at the post, the sixteen starters were sent away in good alignment, but bumping interferred with Count Arthur and White Cockade. There was a wild scramble at the first turn and several times down the back stretch. It was the natural luck of racing and no objections were filed.

White Cockade, which Lucky Townsend Martin bought yesterday for $10,000, broke in front but was bumped so badly Jocky Wright dropped to the rear at once. Finance assumed command with Mucho Gusto second. Whopper and Dellor were in attendance. Whopper supporters were high at this stage because the big fellow seldom has been up there so early. Columbiana was being rated sixth.

Columbiana Makes Move.

After the half mile had been reeled off in :47 2-5, Finance, under Veteran Charlie Kurtsinger's guidance, was still on top, with Mucho Gusto second, and Dellor, running easily under his light impost, in third place, lapped on Whopper, whom Jocky Eddie Arcaro seemed to be restraining. Columbiana remained sixth.

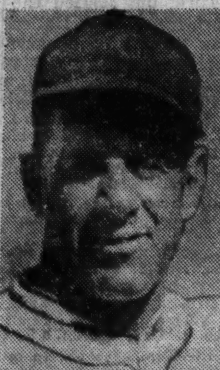
The furlongs were covered in 1:11 3-5. Finance continued as pacemaker, with Dellor second, and Whopper third. Columbiana had not made her move. Then there was a bunching after passing the far turn. Dellor drew to almost even terms with Finance, while Columbiana, on the outside, was being given her head, moving quickly from sixth place to third. Count Arthur and Azucar moved past tired contenders.

As the crowd was settling for a stretch duel, possibly between Finance and Dellor, Jocky Leblanc applied his whip, nudged Columbiana in the ribs, and she moved ahead to supremacy, winning handily, although Leblanc took no chances on a close finish and rode her out to the end. Finance was two lengths back at the wire and a length and half ahead of Dellor, which was a similar distance ahead of Count Arthur. Count Arthur made up much ground in the last quarter mile.

Cubs Depart for Catalina Camp Tonight

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs, making their latest start for spring training in many years, tonight will set out for their exercising base at Avalon, Catalina Island, California. Manager Grimm, at 9:45 o'clock, will lead one of the largest group of players ever assembled in Chicago for the take-off. The start will be made from the Dearborn street station.



Charley Grimm.

For many years the Cubs left for California in mid-February. Gabby Hartnett, dean of the Cub players, who is going to his fifteenth training camp, says he never experienced a March day in Chicago until this year. He has, however, utilized the lingering here to complete the most arduous winter conditioning program he ever attempted and goes to California with his arm in shape to start throwing in the first practice.

16 Days of Work at Avalon.

Despite the late start the Cubs will have sixteen days of work at Avalon. They left Chicago on Feb. 18 last year and were on the island twenty-one days. They remained in Los Angeles only three days, then started their cross-country tour to Florida. The Cubs' farthest venture east this year in their exhibition tour will be the game with the St. Louis Browns in Springfield, Mo., on April 15, their last road show before returning to Chicago to play three games with the White Sox.

The Cubs, as befits their modesty after the horrible whipping the White Sox gave them in the city series last fall, will surround their migration to the coast with no such glamor as the Sox displayed in their getaway Monday. It will take the Cubs 60 hours and 45 minutes to reach Los Angeles, as contrasted with the Sox's streamlined flight of 40 hours and 15 minutes.

Cubs Have Largest Squad.

The National leaguers, moving in one squad, will have a much larger party than the sporty Sox, however. Heading the outfit will be Manager Charley Grimm, making his fifth trip to the coast as manager, but his first in twelve journeys with the Cubs in which he has not been listed as a player. In charge of arrangements will be Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis, the eleventh straight year he has so served in the trek to California. The Pullman reservation cards show the following names, among others:

Coach Johnny Corriden, Clay Bryant, Irving Cherry, Al Epperly, Walter Higbe, Leroy Parmelee, and Clyde Shoun, pitchers; Bob Garbark, Gabby Hartnett, Ken O'Day, catchers; Rip Collins, Phil Cavarreta, Stan Hack, Bill Herman, Bill Jurges, and Henry Majeski, infielders, and Henry Meyer, outfielder.

Take Workout Wednesday.

Catcher Hal Sueme, Pitcher Wes Flowers, and Infielder Linus Frey will board the train at Kansas City. Tex Carleton and Bill Lee went to California direct from their homes in Louisiana and the remaining players are residents of California.

The Cubs will arrive at Catalina in time for a workout Wednesday afternoon, mostly for the benefit of photographers. Thereafter the procedure will be the same as all years in which the pitchers do not go out to get a week's edge on the hitters.

Helene Madison, Former Swim Champion, Marries

Wenatchee, Wash., March 6.—(AP)—Helene Madison, 24 years old, Seattle, former world and Olympic swimming champion, was secretly married here today to Luther C. McIver, about 45, builder of the Great Rock Island dam here. The couple came here from Seattle by automobile late this afternoon for the ceremony.

SIMPLE, WATSON!

If you don't get tickets early for the tenth annual Intercity Golden Gloves bouts with New York at the Chicago Stadium March 24, you may find the supply exhausted.

Mail order requests still are being accepted. Prices are $1.10, $1.65, $2.20, and $3.30. All seats reserved.

Send money order, draft or cashier's check to the Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago. Make them payable to The Chicago Public Service offices, Tribune Tower and 1 South Dearborn street.

SAN ROMANI 1ST IN MILE RUN AT CHICAGO RELAYS

Cunningham Beaten by Yard; Lash Wins.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Archie San Romani, spindle legged middle distance runner from Kansas State Teachers college of Emporia, sensation of the eastern indoor track season and widely heralded as probable United States' number one man in the 1,500 meter event in the 1940 Olympic games, whipped Glenn Cunningham, world's champion miler, in the Bankers' mile, feature event of the Chicago relays, at the International amphitheater last night. San Romani's victory climaxed the renewal of indoor track in Chicago and was witnessed by a capacity throng of 7,500.

In addition to Cunningham and San Romani, Gene Venzke of the New York A. C., former Pennsylvania star, and Blaine Rideout, an Illinois youngster, running for the North Texas State Teachers college, competed.

Rideout Sets Early Pace.

Rideout stepped out in the 11 lap event as if he intended to make it a runaway. But the veterans, bunched 15 yards behind him, were willing to wait. At the end of six laps the steadily increasing tempo of battle brought them up to and then past the tiring Rideout. San Romani led the veteran milers as they swept past Rideout. Cunningham followed one stride back and Venzke trailed. This was the order of finish.

San Romani had the advantage of the pole on the flat dirt track and could not be dislodged. Cunningham made a gallant effort on the backstretch of the final lap and pulled up on even terms. But when the men hit the final turn the pole advantage gave San Romani the margin of a yard by which he won.

San Romani's time was 4 minutes 21 seconds. Cunningham's indoor world record is 4 minutes 8 4-10 seconds.

Rosenkrantz Beats Beetham.

Abraham Rosenkrantz of Michigan Normal, Ypsilanti, Mich., whipped Charles Beetham of Ohio State in the 1,000 yard run. Rosenkrantz won by a yard, the relative distance he gained at the start. Rosenkrantz' time was 2 minutes 21 seconds. Mel Trutt of Indiana was third.

Don Lash of Indiana led his Hoosier teammates to a sweep in the two mile event. Lash ran the 22 laps in 9 minutes 24 3-10 seconds. He was followed across the finish line by Tommy Deckard, then by Jimmy Smith, colored star. Smith took the lead with two laps to go, but Lash's sprint was superior to Smith's best.

St. Ignatius Wins.

St. Ignatius defeated Loyola and De Paul academies in the one mile relay for Chicago parochial high schools in the first event. Each contestant sprinted two and two-thirds times around the dirt track with St. Ignatius taking the lead in the battle with Loyola just before the baton was changed for the anchor quarter mile.

North Central college of Naperville, Ill., won the one mile relay for Little Nineteen schools. North Central took the lead shortly after the start and never was challenged seriously.

Bob Grieve of the University of Illinois took the opening 40 yard dash in the sprint series when he nosed out Eulace Peacock of Temple by nearly two yards. Grieve's time was 4.6 seconds. Wittox of Oklahoma university finished third.

Allen Wins Hurdles.

Sam Allen, national high hurdles champion, had no difficulty winning the 50 yard hurdles. Allen's superior form in clearing the four barriers made up the margin by which he licked Dick Brunton of Illinois. Jack Robinson of Illinois was third.

Allen had the best time in the qualifying heats. Jack Kellner, Wisconsin's Big Ten champion, fell in a qualifying heat and was eliminated.

Beetham of Ohio State captured

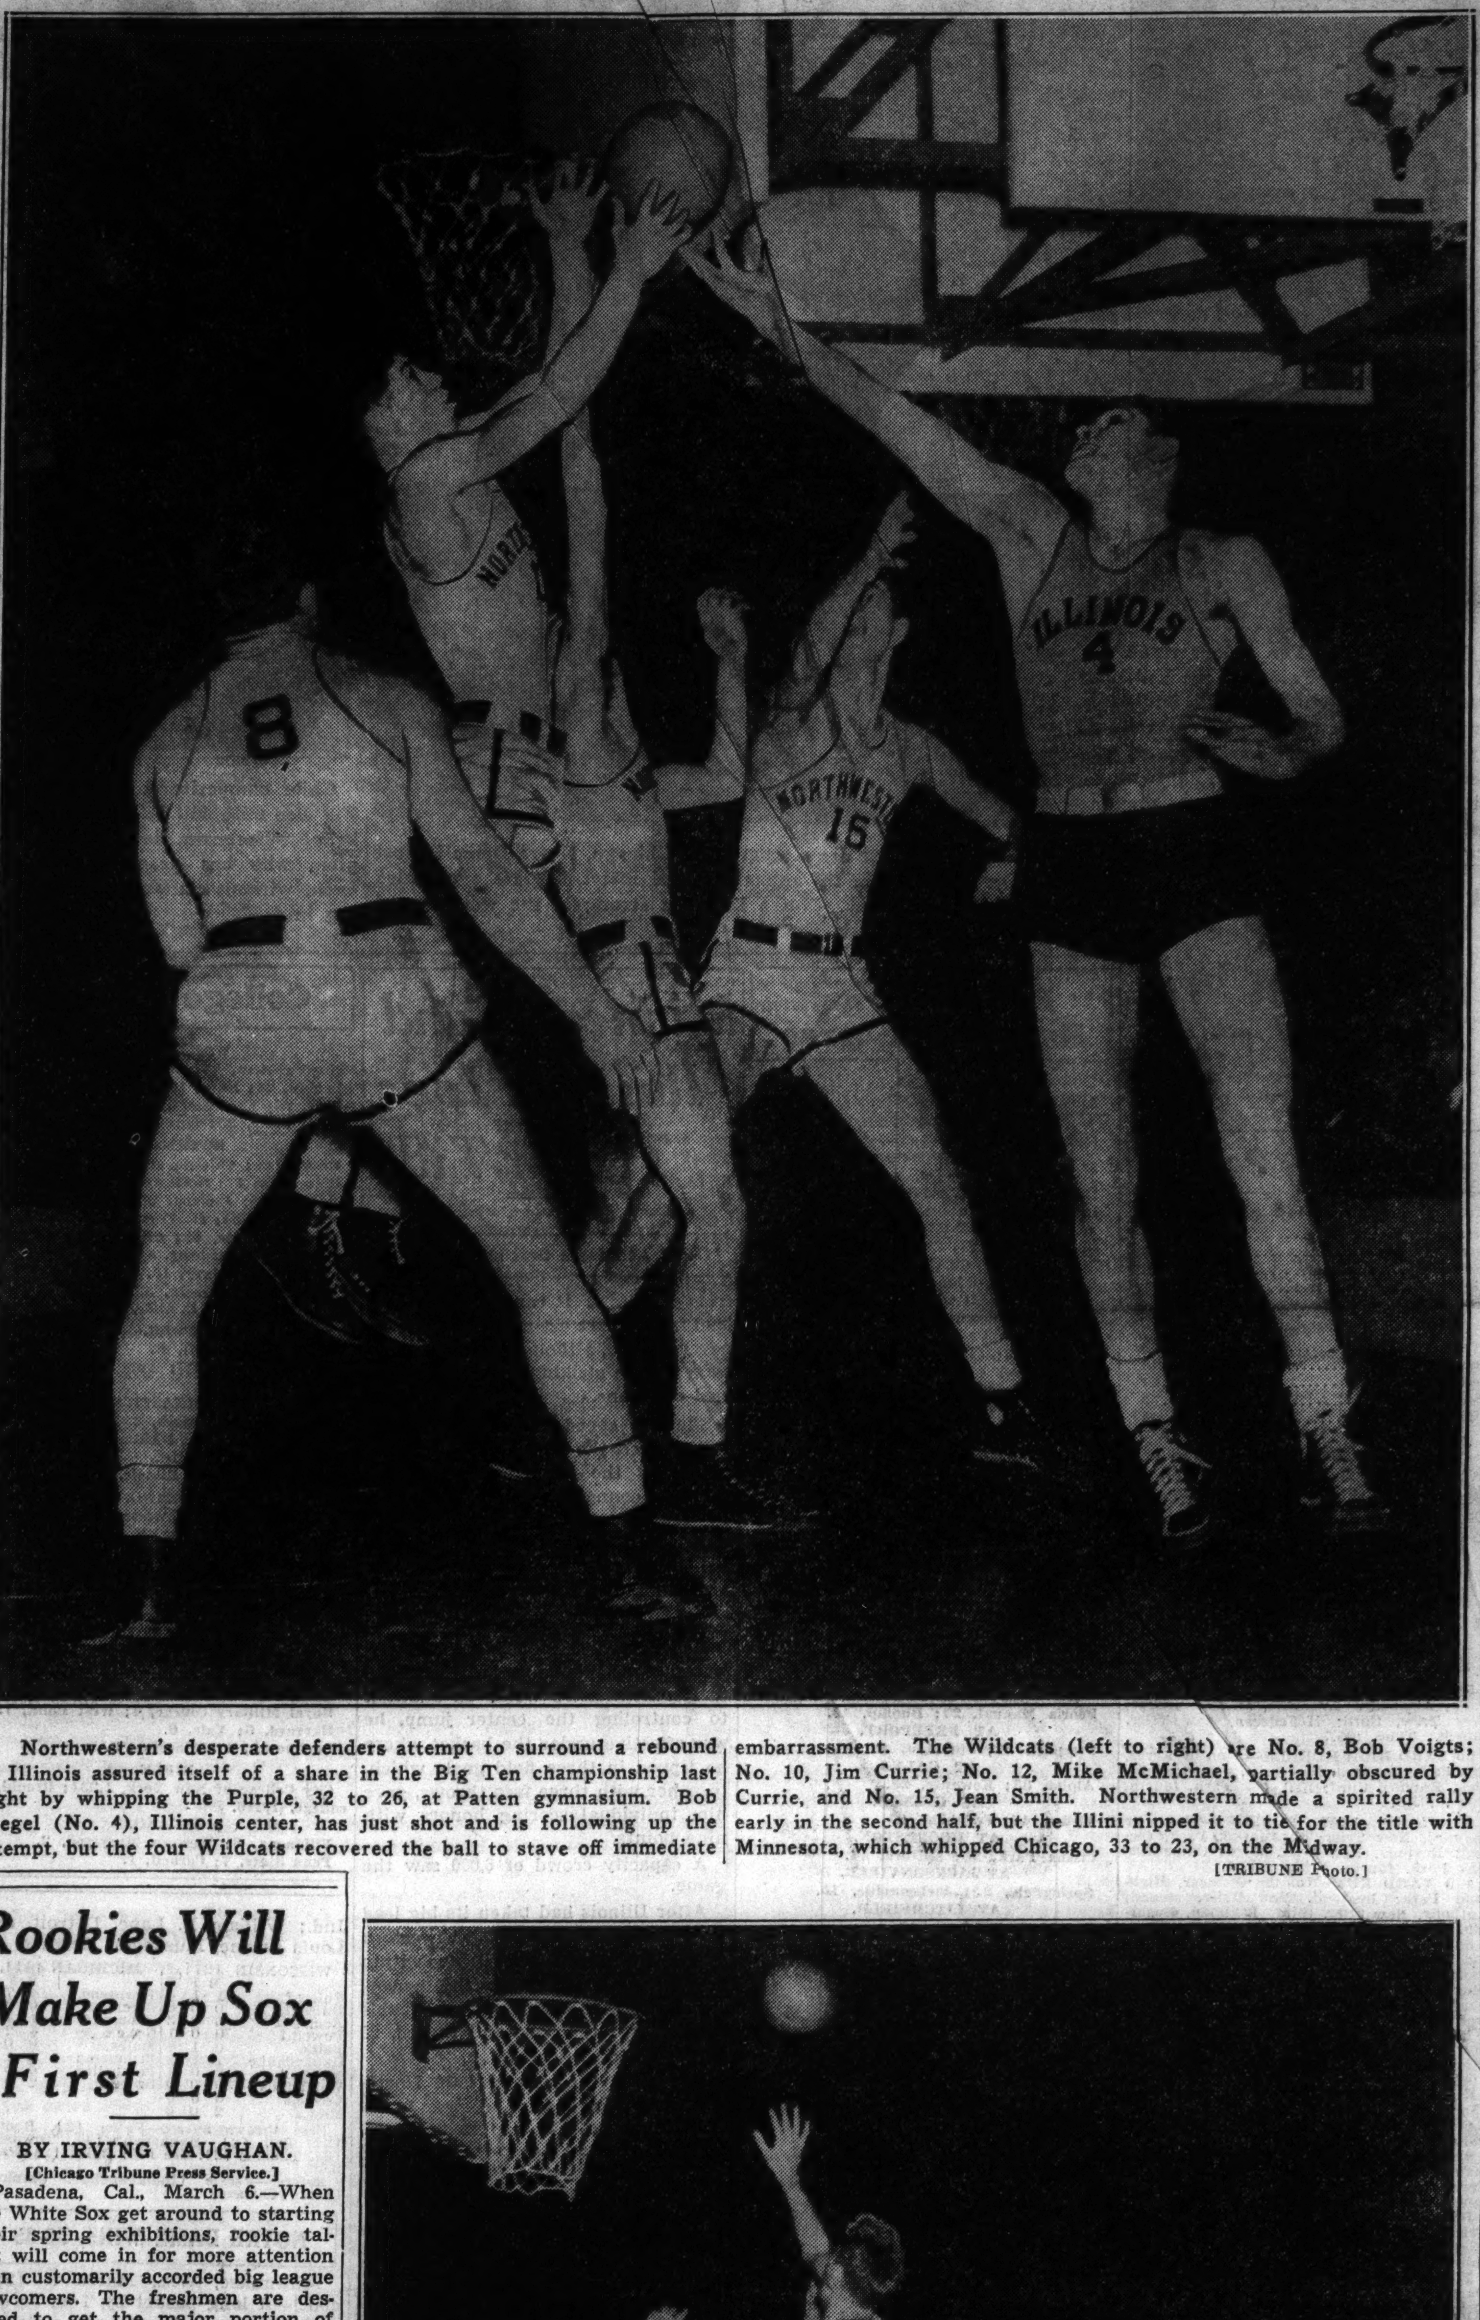
NEW CHAMPIONS TAKE CHARGE



Northwestern's desperate defenders attempt to surround a rebound as Illinois assured itself of a share in the Big Ten championship last night by whipping the Purple, 32 to 26, at Patten gymnasium. Bob Riegel (No. 4), Illinois center, has just shot and is following up the attempt, but the four Wildcats recovered the ball to stave off immediate embarrassment. The Wildcats (left to right) are No. 8, Bob Voigts; No. 10, Jim Currie; No. 12, Mike McMichael, partially obscured by Currie, and No. 15, Jean Smith. Northwestern made a spirited rally early in the second half, but the Illini nipped it to tie for the title with Minnesota, which whipped Chicago, 33 to 23, on the Midway.

Rookies Will Make Up Sox First Lineup

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 6.—When the White Sox get around to starting their spring exhibitions, rookie talent will come in for more attention than customarily accorded big league newcomers. The freshmen are destined to get the major portion of assignments, at least for the first half dozen games. This scheme probably will sacrifice a few victories, but Manager James Dykes says he's willing to pay that much in return for proof that his new lads either are possibilities or flops.

Naturally enough, Steve Mesner will be given just a little more consideration than the others. If he makes the grade he will be the most costly of the lot, but that isn't exactly why the manager wants to find out the truth about the 19 year old coast league phenom. Dykes actually believes Mesner has the ability, so he will permit him to be the third baseman over an indefinite period. Of course, Dykes will do a little third basing himself, but not enough to prevent him from getting a fairly accurate line on the rookie before the American league season opens April 20.

He's Gotten Bigger.

Mesner, who has grown a few inches since Dykes first took a fancy to him a year ago, isn't supposed to be highly talented as a fielder, and when the Coast league loudspeakers admit a weakness it must be real. The west coast ballyhoo experts, being anxious that the Los Angeles club get the money the Sox must pay on June 1 if Mesner is retained, prefer to expand on the pudgy athlete's hitting. He was quite a stick artist out there last season, batting .344. But the pitching in the big leagues is different.

Dykes apparently refuses to be annoyed by Mesner's conceded weakness or that the big league pitching

Minnesota's surprising team had to come from behind to whip the Maroons. Here is one of the shots that helped turn the tide. Manly (No. 23), shoots while the Maroons gather around to block the attempt. No. 15 in the center of the pack is Petersen of Chicago and No. 9 at the right is Rossin.

Illinois and Minnesota tied for the Western conference basketball championship by winning their final games last night. The Illini defeated Northwestern, 32 to 26, at Patten gymnasium in Evanston while the Gophers were whipping Chicago, 33 to 23 at the Midway Field house. These triumphs gave each team a season total of ten conference victories and two defeats.

Michigan, which went into its game with Wisconsin at Ann Arbor last night with a mathematical chance of sharing a three-way tie for the title providing it won while the two leaders lost, fulfilled its part of the requirement by beating the Badgers, 41 to 27. This gave the Wolverines a season total of nine conference victories and three defeats.

Minnesota is sharing in the Big Ten basketball championship for the first time in eighteen years. The Gophers went through their 1919 schedule undefeated.

Minnesota's defeats this season were at the hands of Ohio State and Purdue, both by one point margins. Illinois lost to Purdue and Northwestern.

GOPHERS, 33; MAROONS, 23

Minnesota was forced to put on pressure in the second half for its 33 to 23 triumph over Chicago. The Maroons led at the intermission, 14 to 13.

The defeat was Chicago's 26th consecutive setback in conference play. It marked the close of a second straight season without a victory in Big Ten competition.

The Gophers' rally was brilliant. Within 3½ minutes at the start of the second period they scored 11 points in a row on five baskets and a free throw. That was the ultimate margin of victory.

In those minutes Minnesota scored more baskets than in the rest of the game. The Gophers won on free throws—six of them by Manley—for both teams made nine baskets. Three Maroons—Mullins, Amundsen, and Peterson—were ejected on fouls. Mullins led Chicago's scoring with eight points.

A crowd of 2,700 watched the season finale.

NAME 32 BOXERS FOR INTERCITY GOLDEN GLOVES

Squad Starts Training Tomorrow.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Chicago began to prepare yesterday for its annual Intercity Golden Gloves battle with the champions from New York which is to take place at the Stadium on the night of March 24.

While the eight new champions and the boys they had thumped were rubbing their sore spots, Johnny Behr, who will coach the Chicago team, got together with representatives of THE TRIBUNE and selected the members of the Chicago squad which will pitch camp at the Illinois Athletic club tomorrow and start training for the annual battle.

The rules of the Intercity competition call for Chicago's eight champions to meet the eight champions from New York.

There are eight other battles on the Intercity program, however, and in the scoring those secondary scraps are of the same value as the struggles between the champions.

Thirty-two on Squad.

The Chicago squad includes 32 boys. Those who improve the most during the forthcoming training period under the direction of Coach Behr, or who have made an exceptional showing in the Tournament of Champions, even though they were beaten, are selected then for those eight secondary places on the Chicago team.

Seven of the 32 boys on the squad are from Chicago. The other 25 hail from widely scattered parts of the vast Golden Gloves territory. The members of the squad are:

112 POUND DIVISION.
Jimmy Urso, Detroit.
Johnny Noto, Chicago C. Y. O.
Benjamin Rich, Kansas City.

118 POUND DIVISION.
Frank Kainrath, Chicago C. Y. O.
Al Scarlata, Green Bay.
Hayes O'Neal, Oklahoma City.
Julles Davies, Streator.

126 POUND DIVISION.
William Joyce, Gary.
Clayton Johnson, Sioux City.
Stanley Stockins, Chicago.
H. P. Davis, Nashville.

135 POUND DIVISION.
Edward Kozole, Detroit.
Tommy Pallatin, South Bend.
Cliff Bordeau, Davenport.
Savior Canadeo, Green Bay.

147 POUND DIVISION.
Verne Patterson, Savoys A. C., Chicago.
Louis Angelucci, Chicago.
Joe Benna, Terre Haute.
Porter Davis, Atlanta.

160 POUND DIVISION.
Al Wardlow, Dayton.
John Gordon, Kansas City.
Nate Bolden, Chicago.
Cornelius Young, Chicago C. Y. O.
Frank Nelson, Davenport.

175 POUND DIVISION.
Herman West, Centralia.
Mike Minnich, Cleveland.
Nick Lubovich, Milwaukee.
Nathan Logan, St. Louis.

HEAVYWEIGHT DIVISION.
Paul Hartnek, Omaha.
Lem Franklin, Cleveland.
Elza Thompson, Indianapolis.
Alex Kettles, South Bend.

Four boys—Canadeo of Green Bay, Nelson of Davenport, Bolden of Chicago, and Kettles of South Bend—are the only ones on the squad who did not appear in the semi-final round of battles.

Caserio to Help Behr.

Canadeo had been beaten earlier in the Tournament of Champions by Tommy Pallatin of South Bend by the narrow margin of one point. Nelson, a terrific puncher, doesn't seem to be able to whip a left hander. Southpaw Al Wardlow eliminated him in one of the early round struggles. Bolden wasn't permitted to fight in the semi-final round because of an eye injury sustained in training. Kettles was narrowly beaten in one of his early round bouts.

There is a possibility that one or maybe all of these boys will get a chance to fight against New York. It all depends of course on the progress they make during the training period.

Assisting Coach Behr in the preparation of the Chicago boys will be Fred Caserio, one of the greatest of all Golden Gloves champions. Early tomorrow morning he plans to take the members of the Chicago squad out for some road work in Grant park. That move will officially open the training season.

Chicago Golden Gloves fans were united yesterday in the opinion that Father Dearborn's boys this year are fully capable of giving the New Yorkers all they bargain for in the Intercity bouts.

According to their way of sizing it up, the Chicago team is one of the strongest ever developed. Every one of the eight champions appears to be outstanding.

Champs Earn Titles.

The veteran Paul Hartnek and Herman West reached new heights while fighting their way to the championships in the heavyweight and light heavyweight classes. Wardlow is one of the stoutest punchers ever to fight his way to the front in the middleweight division. Few Chicago welterweights have displayed more boxing skill and punching ability than the colored boy, Verne Patterson, while he was gaining his crown.

Bill Joyce of Gary, the featherweight titleholder, appears to be a finished boxing product and Eddie Kozole of Detroit had to whip some very shifty lightweights before he finished on top. Jimmy Urso never fought more brilliantly than he did this year while winning the flyweight title. Kainrath of the C. Y. O. is one of the most rugged 118 pounders a Golden Gloves throng ever saw.

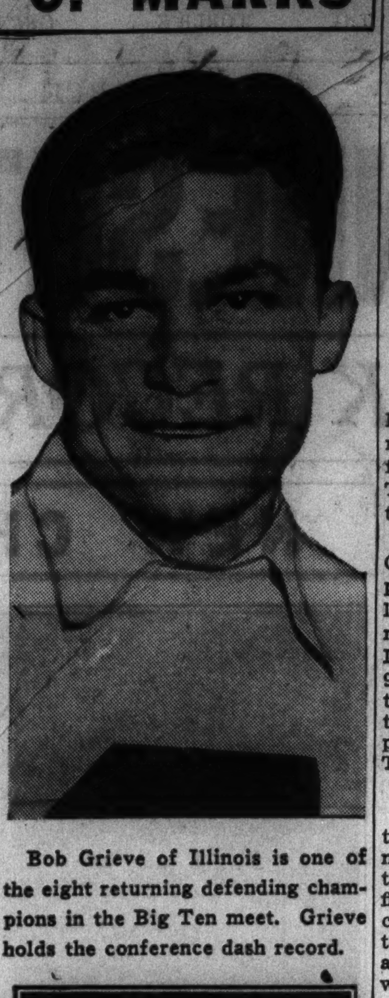
He won all of his Tournament of Champions bouts in easy fashion. Most Chicagoans figure him as the one fellow who is sure to trounce his New York opponent.

New York selects its team for the intercity battle in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Atlantic seaboard cities from Maine to Florida have sent their champions into the New York meet this year. The team will be a powerful one and for the first time the intercity fights shape up as strictly a struggle between the east and the west.

AFTER NEW BIG TEN AND C. I. C. MARKS

When the Big Ten indoor track title events open Friday at the University of Chicago fieldhouse Indiana's Don Lash will be the central figure of the meet. Lash appears certain to crack the Big Ten two mile record and also may lower the mile mark.

While Big Ten stars are competing at Chicago, Notre Dame is host to central states stars in the annual Central intercollegiate event also next Friday and Saturday. Notre Dame is strong in the weights and counts on John Levicki in the shot put.



Bob Grieve of Illinois is one of the eight returning defending champions in the Big Ten meet. Grieve holds the conference dash record.

Chief competitor of Lash in the Big Ten mile will be Charles Fenske of Wisconsin, defending champion, who has been running the event without competition in training in 4:17.

DEBRUYCKER AND AERTS WIN 6 DAY BICYCLE RACE

New York, March 6.—(AP)—In one of the hottest finishes ever seen in Madison Square Garden, the Belgian team of Jean Aerts and Omer Debruycker won New York's 62d international six day bicycle race tonight by coming from behind in the last hour of sprinting for a point victory.

Fifteen thousand fans turned out in the big sports arena to see the Belgians overtake the team of Emile Ignat and Emile Diot with a series of sprint victories to pile up 1,091 points to the 977 for the French riders.

Minnesota and Illinois Fives Tie for Title

from the start. It ran up an 11 to 3 lead in the first six minutes and was never headed, although Northwestern came within striking distance on several occasions.

Superior speed and accurate passing enabled the Orange and Blue to dominate the play. Although he failed to connect from the floor, Harry Combes, senior forward, added punch to the Illini attack. His brilliant dribbling and passing set up numerous scoring opportunities.

N. U. Fights Back.

Bob Riegel, 6 foot 5 inch center, was another Illinois senior who added to Northwestern's woes. In addition to controling the center jump, he was effective under the basket where he tipped in three field goals which, together with three free throws, gave him individual scoring honors with nine points.

A capacity crowd of 6,000 saw the game.

After Illinois had taken its big lead in the early minutes, Northwestern fought back and pulled up within five points midway in the period. However, the Wildcats were unable to maintain the pace and trailed, 20 to 12, at the intermission.

Again in the second half Northwestern uncorked a scoring flurry that narrowed the gap to 24 to 20. The Illini were equal to the challenge and they not only protected their lead but added to it in the remaining minutes of the half.

MICHIGAN WINS, 41-27

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 6.—[Special.]—Michigan's basketball team closed its most successful season since 1929 by defeating Wisconsin, 41 to 27. The triumph assured Mich-41 to 27, tonight. The triumph assured Michigan of third place in the Western conference.

Paced by John Townsend, who scored 15 points on four field goals and seven free throws, the Wolverines fought off a Badger rally in the second half, then closed with a rush.

Townsend, who missed three free throw attempts, went ahead of Jewell Young, Purdue sophomore and conference scoring champion, running his season's total of free throws for the twelve games to 43, five more than the Boilermaker forward.

Coach Franklin [Cappy] Cappon announced the award of varsity letters to eight players. They were Capt. John Gee, Syracuse, N. Y., and Matt Patanelli, Elkhart, Ind., seniors; Bill Barclay, Flint; John Townsend, Indianapolis, and Herm Fishman, Detroit, juniors, and Ed Thomas, Ishpeming; Danny Smick, Hazelpark, and Leo Beebe, Garden City, Mich., sophomores.

Reserve awards went to Ferris Jennings, Ann Arbor; Manny Slavin, Cleveland, O.; Dick Long, Butler, Ind.; William B. Lane, Detroit, and Louis Levine, Muskegon Heights.

NOTRE DAME WINS, 39-35

Milwaukee, Wis., March 6.—[Special.]—A long basket by Tom Jordan with 13 seconds to play and a sleeper by Earl Brown at the gun enabled Notre Dame to defeat Marquette university, 39 to 35, in basketball tonight.

After trailing, 22 to 17, at the half, Marquette spurted and took a 28 to 26 lead. It was Notre Dame's eleventh straight victory. Johnny Moir of Notre Dame and Chuck Eirich of Marquette each scored 12 points.

Independence Park Girls Capture City Swim Title

Independence Park girls won the Chicago park district city-wide swimming title yesterday by scoring 31 points. Other finishers were: Blackhawk Park, 28; Portage, 20; Austin Town Hall, 16; La Follette, 11; Douglas, 6; Marquette and Lake Shore, 5 each; Riis, 2, and Gage and Mark White, 1 point each.

Maroon Fencers Defeat Purdue; Win Big 10 Title

The University of Chicago won the Big Ten fencing championship yesterday for the second straight year by defeating Purdue, 12 to 5. The Maroons won three matches, lost one and tied one, while Illinois placed second in the final standings with three victories and one defeat.

WALTER BREWER WINS TRIBUNE CASTING TITLE

Beats Bryan and Didier in Cast-Off.

Walter Brewer won the Chicagoland bait casting championship last night at Navy Pier by defeating a field of 17 in the finals of THE TRIBUNE tournament held at the National Boat and Sport show.

Brewer, who won the Lincoln Park Casting club championship at the pier Wednesday night, scored 97 in last night's event, equaling the scores made by Clare Bryan and G. F. Didier. In the castoff, Brewer scored 98, Bryan 95, and Didier 88. Bryan took home the runnerup trophy for the second consecutive year, having placed second to Eddie Davis in THE TRIBUNE's 1936 tourney.

Meyer and Davis Tie.

Didier provided the surprise of the tournament by his score of 97 last night. He qualified by making 93 in the fishermen's event Thursday using fishing equipment. Competing against club casters using light lines and tournament reels, he scored high with a 14 pound line and the rod and reel with which he fishes.

Other high scorers in last night's event were Arno Meyer and Eddie Davis, 96; Bob Clarkson and Eddie Yasulaitis, 95, and George Morrison and George Cook, 94.

Moeng Novice Champion.

In the novice event, held yesterday afternoon, Albert Moeng, 14 years old, won with a score of 97. Milton Huguelet, 15, was second with 96, and Yasulaitis, 14, third with 95.

The boat and sport show will be concluded tonight. The show is open from 1 to 11 p. m. No competition will be held at the casting pool, but there will be exhibitions and instruction by well-known bait and fly casters, including Grove Walters, Tony Accetta, Stuart Pritchard, Richard Summerhays, and Sterling Moulton. Persons wanting instructions should contact W. J. Butler at THE TRIBUNE booth near the center of the pier.

Detroit Beats 124th Poloists in Overtime

A foul by Capt. Bill Everett in an overtime period lost for the 124th Field Artillery polo team, and the Detroit Gold Hats won 7½ to 7, last night at the 124th Field Artillery armory before a capacity crowd. The winners went into the Metropolitan Polo league senior division lead.

Volney Bayley of Detroit and Lieut. Don Rice of the 124th Field Artillery staged a scoring duel with honors even at 6 goals apiece.

After Capt. Everett had counted with the tieing goal just at the final gong of regular play, an agreement was made to have the first goal or foul determine the overtime winner or loser.

FORMER DETROIT PITCHING STAR CRITICALLY ILL

Hastings, Mich., March 6.—(AP)—Fifty years ago Charles [Lady] Baldwin pitched the Detroit baseball team to a world championship. Tonight he lay critically ill in his Hastings home.

His baseball career lasted only four years. Now 79 years old, he has been a real estate dealer here for 47 years.

Baldwin pitched 55 games and won 43 in 1886. The next year he pitched Detroit to four victories in five appearances on the mound against St. Louis in the world series.

Records credit him with 344 strikeouts in 1887 when the rules did not recognize fouls as strikes.

Baldwin got the name "Lady" because he never took a drink.

San Romani Wins Bankers' Mile in 4:21

the 600 yard run, the first of the featured events, in 1:17.1. Beetham permitted James Herbert of the New York Curb exchange, sensation of the eastern indoor season, to lead for the first two laps. On the final lap Beetham cut loose to cross the finish line 15 feet ahead of Herbert. Sam Miller of Indiana university was third.

Peacock Wins Sprint Title.

Grieve was ruled out of the 50 yard dash because of two false starts. When his competitors permitted him to run anyway, Grieve proved his superiority by beating all to the finish line. Peacock, however, won the battle for points to determine the sprint title. Bob Collier of Indiana was second in the official standings, and Floyd Hoffman of Michigan State Normal of Ypsilanti was third.

Earle Meadows of Southern California, Olympic pole vault champion, and Sueo Ohe of Japan tied at 14 feet 3 inches. Each nearly cleared 14 feet 5 inches, which would have set a world's record, but jostled the bar from the uprights. Albert Haller of Wisconsin was third in the vault with a height of 14 feet.

HIGH JUMP—Edward Burke, Marquette, and Mell Walker, Ohio State, tied for first; Cornelius Johnson, Los Angeles, Cal., third. Height, 6 feet 4½ inches.

65 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Allen, Oklahoma Baptist; Brunton, Illinois, second; Robinson, Illinois, third. Time, :08.1.

60 YARD DASH—Won by Grieve, Illinois; Peacock, Temple, second; Cox, Oklahoma, third. Time, :06.3.

ONE MILE COLLEGE RELAY—Won by Ohio State; Indiana, second; Purdue, third. Time, 3:29.6.

60 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Allen, Oklahoma Baptist; Robinson, Illinois, second; Brunton, Illinois, third. Time—:07.4.

1,000 YARD RUN—Won by Abe Rosenkrantz, Michigan Normal, Ypsilanti; Charles Beetham, Ohio State, second; Mel Trutt, Indiana, third. Time—2:21.

BANKERS' ONE MILE—Won by Archie San Romani, Kansas State Teachers, Emporia Glenn Cunningham, New York Curb exchange, second; Gene Venzke, New York A. C., third; Blaine Rideout, North Texas State Teachers College, fourth. Time—4:21.

ONE MILE COLLEGE RELAY—Won by Notre Dame; Marquette, second. Time, 3:38.7.

POLE VAULT—Earle Meadows, Southern California and Sueo Ohe, Japan, tied for first, 14 feet 3 inches; Haller, Wisconsin, third, 14 feet.

600 YARD RUN—Won by Charles Beetham, Ohio State; James Herbert, New York Curb exchange, second; Samuel Miller, Indiana, third. Time—1:17.1.

50 YARD DASH—Won by Peacock, Temple; Collier, Indiana, second; Hoffman, Michigan Normal, Ypsilanti, third. Time—:05.4.

40 YARD DASH—Won by Bobby Grieve, Illinois; Eulace Peacock, Temple, second; Wittcox, Oklahoma, third. Time—:04.6.

50 YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Sam Allen, Oklahoma Bapist; Richard Brunton, Illinois, second; Jack Robinson, Illinois, third. Time—:06.4.

ONE MILE COLLEGE RELAY—Won by North Central [Lindstrom, Teichman, Rikle, Keyes]; Illinois Normal, second; North Illinois Normal, third. Time—3:40.8.

ONE MILE PAROCHIAL HIGH SCHOOL RELAY—Won by St. Ignatius [Grob, Derner, Voightman, and Bastian]; Loyola academy, second; DePaul academy, third. Time—3:59.4.

TWO MILE RUN—Won by Don Lash, Indiana; Tommy Deckard, Indiana, second; Jimmy Smith, Indiana, third. Time—9:24.3.

ONE MILE COLLEGE RELAY—Won by Northwestern; Chicago, second; Illinois, third. Time, 3:34.6.

Play 2d Round Today in K. C. Title Playoffs

With a girls' game as an added feature, second round games in the championship playoff of the Knights of Columbus basketball league will be held this afternoon at the 124th Field Artillery armory.

The feminine contest will involve the Fellmeth Paints, semi-finalists in the recent city championship meet, and the Kraft Caramel girls. The game will open the program at 2:15 p. m.

Carroll and St. Cyr, which got off to a winning start in the opening games of the title play last Sunday, face possible defeat today, which would throw the four contenders into a tie for the lead. Carroll, league champion for the last two years, will play Santa Maria at 3 o'clock and St. Cyr meets Loyola-Hyde Park in the final contest.

PROVISO WINS ILLINOIS PREP WRESTLING TITLE

Champaign, Ill., March 6.—(AP)—Proviso of Maywood won the first annual Illinois high school wrestling meet today, accumulating 29 points and taking three of the nine individual championships. Champaign won second place with 21 points and Fenger of Chicago was third with 14 points.

Other schools scoring points were: Lewistown and Urbana, 9; Granite City, East St. Louis, Bowen [Chicago], 7; Calumet [Chicago], 6; University High [Urbana], 5; Tilden [Chicago], 4; Edwardsville, 3; Danville, 2, and Blue Island, 1.

Besides winning first place in the 95, 125, and 145 pound divisions, the Maywood team annexed a third place in the 165 pound class.

John Sikich, Bowen's all around athlete, put on one of the best exhibitions of high school wrestling ever seen here when he won his preliminary bouts by falls and easily won a time advantage decision over Dave Hoare of Calumet in the 185 pound class final.

The only falls gained in the final matches were scored by Fred Bishop of Proviso at 95 pounds, Gene Bearce, Lewistown, at 105 pounds, and Delmar Fincham, Champaign, at 115. Summaries:

95 POUNDS—Bishop [Proviso] pinned Weirauch [Lewistown]. Time, 4:15.

105 POUNDS—Bearce [Lewistown] pinned Ambrose [Champaign]. Time, 5:25.

115 POUNDS—Finchan [Champaign] pinned Blommaert [Fenger]. Time, 5:31.

125 POUNDS—Schmidt [Proviso] beat Henderson [Lewistown]. Time advantage, 1:47.

135 POUNDS—Petry [Champaign] beat Schwehr [East St. Louis]. Time advantage, 6:50.

145 POUNDS—Seabrook [Proviso] beat Lambros [Calumet]. Time advantage, 5:47.

155 POUNDS—Deutschman [University High] beat Burroughs [Champaign]. Time advantage, 4:33.

165 POUNDS—Carlson [Fenger] beat Collard [Proviso]. Time advantage, 3:41.

185 POUNDS—Sikich [Bowen beat Hoare [Calumet]. Time advtange, 5:41.

HOLD BADMINTON FINALS.

The Illinois state Y. M. C. A. badminton championship will be decided this afternoon in five classes at the Hyde Park Y gym.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.
Montreal Maroons, 4; New York Americans, 3.
Toronto, 3; Montreal Canadiens, 1 [overtime].

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The newly inspired Blackhawks who are staging a desperate finish in a frantic effort to qualify for the Stanley cup finals, will battle the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Stadium tonight. Unless the unexpected happens and they do qualify it will be the last appearance of the Leafs and also the last game except one of the present season in Chicago. The Boston Bruins will furnish opposition for the final game booked for Thursday.

Doc Romnes.

The Hawks have won three in a row from the toughest kind of opposition. Last Sunday they defeated the New York Rangers, 4 to 3, the following Tuesday they vanquished their bitterest foes, the Bruins, at Boston, 4 to 2, and last Thursday they ran wild at Montreal to conquer the Canadiens, who are topping the International division, 5 to 3.

Much of the Hawks' revivification has been attributed to Center Doc Romnes, who recently returned to his center job after an absence of 22 games caused by an injury. Doc, who won the Lady Byng trophy last season for sportsmanship and all around excellence, has little chance of retaining it this year because of all of the time he lost, but has demonstrated conclusively in the last few games why he won it last season.

MAROONS, 4; AMERICANS, 3

MONTREAL, March 6.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons wiped out the New York Americans' final hope of entering the national hocky league playoffs this season when they came from behind to win, 4 to 3, tonight. As Toronto's third place Maple Leafs also won, the defeat put the Americans too far behind to overtake either one. The Maroons remained a single point ahead of Toronto. Lineups:

LAST DAY TODAY!

GIANTS DEFEATED BY CUBANS, 4-0, IN PITCHERS' DUEL

Almendares Triumph on Schumacher's Wildness

HAVANA, March 6.—(AP)—The New York Giants today received their best pitching of the training camp season but suffered their first shutout as the Almendares team landed on Hal Schumacher in the third inning for all their runs in a 4 to 0 victory.

Schumacher, Cliff Melton, and Clyde Castleman allowed the Cubans only three hits, but Schumacher was wild in the third and the Almendares took advantage of it to do all their scoring.

Rodolf Fernandez stopped the National league champions with four hits, and was never in trouble. Score:

Almendares	004	000	000—4	3	1
New York [N.]	000	000	000—0	4	2

Batteries—Schumacher, Melton, Castleman, and Mancuso; Fernandez and Guerra.

NEWSOM ONLY ABSENTEE.

Orlando, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—With the exception of Pitcher Buck Newsom, the Washington baseball squad was all present or accounted for tonight.

Arrivals today were Harry Kelle y, big right hand pitcher from Albany, and Jesse Hill, outfielder. Ben Chapman and Johnny Stone, outfielders, were expected tonight. Newsom is still a holdout.

CARDINALS PLAY GAME.

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Frankie Frisch sent his St. Louis Cardinals through their first competitive baseball of the spring training season today, the "Mickey Owens" defeating the "Pepper Martins," 8 to 0, in a seven inning practice game.

The Martins got only four hits off Mike Ryba, Jim Winford, and Nate Andrews and made six errors to help Rookie Catcher Owen's team to its one-sided victory. Si Johnson, Ira Smith, and Morton Cooper pitched for the Martins.

Frisch said there would be another practice game tomorrow.

ENGLISH JOINS DODGERS.

Clearwater, Fla., March 6. — (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers' infielders began arriving at spring training camp today, a day in advance of the deadline. Woody English, obtained in a winter trade with the Chicago Cubs, reached camp with the word any other candidate will find it hard to oust him from the shortstop berth.

The day's intra-squad game was featured by some free hitting off Van Lingle Mungo's pitching, particularly a home run by Rookie Infielder Johnny Hudson.

TIGERS HUNT PITCHERS.

Lakeland, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers' hunt for pitching talent will begin officially tomorrow morning with the first workout of pitchers and catchers. Fifteen pitchers, recruits and veterans, will get a chance to show their stuff to Manager Mickey Cochrane, who admitted tonight that "if we are going to give those Yankees, Indians, and White Sox any kind of a battle we've got to get some pitching strength."

WEATHERLY WORKS IN INFIELD.

New Orleans, La., March 6.—(AP)—Manager Steve O'Neill of the Cleveland Indians said today he would encourage Roy Weatherly, hard hitting diminutive outfielder, to work out in the infield. Weatherly played both second and third base before graduating to the majors and O'Neill needs a reliable hitter as a reserve infielder.

HAYES HITS THREE HOMERS.

MEXICO CITY, March 6.—(AP)—Catcher Frank Hayes hit three home runs to lead a 16 hit bombardment today as the Philadelphia Athletics whipped the Necaxa club, 8 to 2. It was the third straight victory for the Athletics in the Mexican exhibition series.

Hayes' trio of home runs gives him four in two days. Manager Connie Mack used 17 players during the game. Score:

Philadelphia	010	300	013—8	16	1
Necaxa	000	100	100—2	3	1

Batteries—Benton, Turbeville, Williams and Hayes; Martinez, Stoopen and Rocha, Becceril.

DRESSEN PRAISES PITCHERS.

Tampa, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Manager Charley Dressen of the Cincinnati Reds surveyed results of three days training today and declared the team to be the "best Cincinnati has had in more than 10 years."

"Our pitchers," he said, "would cause any major league pilot to become enthused. The new acquisitions are so good that one or two hurlers who were with us last year will have to hustle to hold their jobs."

HEMSLEY SIGNS CONTRACT.

St. Louis, Mo., March 6.—(AP)—The Browns' office announced tonight Catcher Rollie Hemsley, one of four Brown holdouts, had signed his 1937 contract shortly before the St. Louis clubs' special train left for the spring training camp at San Antonio, Tex., late today. Hemsley was with the departing players.

BEES IMPRESS QUINN.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—President Bob Quinn watched his Boston Bees work out for the first time today, and then remarked: "I'd say the club has better prospects than any I had in all my years with the Red Sox."

Quinn expressed himself as well pleased with the work of Vince Di Maggio at third base and Elbie Fletcher at first.

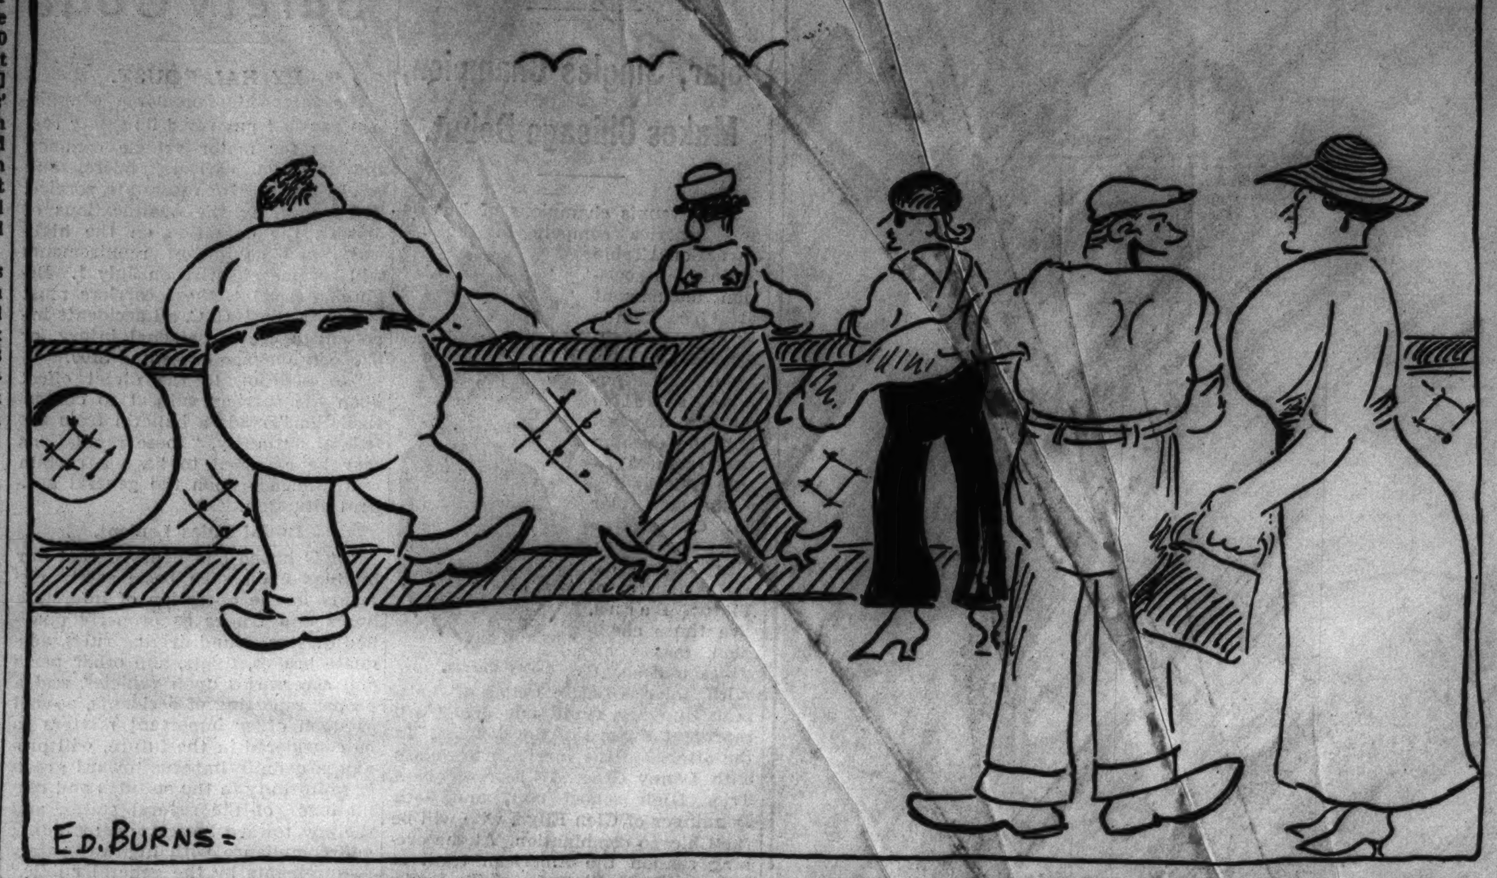
PAUL WANER STILL BALKS.

Sarasota, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Paul Waner's salary dispute with the Pittsburgh Pirates apparently was no nearer a solution tonight than it was several days ago.

The National league's champion batter said here tonight he had received a new contract from the Pirate management but had immediately "tossed it in the waste basket."

Waner still refused to class himself as a holdout, however. He said he was not supposed to leave for the Pittsburgh training camp until next Wednesday and added that a player is not a holdout until he's late in reporting.

YOU MAY NOT BE INTERESTED IN SEA GULLS, BUT * * * DR. LOTSHAW JUST HAS A WAY OF GETTING INTO PRINT!



BY EDWARD BURNS.

THE 1937 Cubs, most of whom will leave Chicago tonight for Los Angeles, will be on the dock at Wilmington, Cal., at 10 o'clock next Wednesday morning. At the stroke of 10 [noon Chicago time] they are to take a boat to their boss' magic isle, Santa Catalina, which was not magic enough to have helped that Wrigley bank roll fatten from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 in the last five years, but, just the same, a swell island even when surrounded by red ink.

Only the most avid humanitarians will be interested in our observation that it is high time that boat floated the Cubs across that very deep [six miles deep in the spot where the 1933 earthquake originated] Catalina channel. The important thing to us right now is not that the Cubs will be on the boat, but that we will be with them on the boat.

The last week furnished the first March days we have experienced in Chicago in eleven years. Usually we have cleared out by not later than mid-February. While Chicago has been having better weather than California this year, we still say that the three extra weeks we have spent at our desk since mid-February have been torturous. And all on account of our being so conscientious about journalism.

An Author Has an Idea on Holdout Yarns.

Staying in town has meant writing more holdout pieces than we ever wrote in our life. And holdout stories for the most part form the most futile endeavor in sports writing, excepting, perhaps, trying to keep up with the smokeup of a heavyweight championship prize fight when the racket is fresh out of champions.

The Cubs have given out more news than ever before about the status of their slow signers, but they have considered the amounts offered and demanded private matters, and perhaps properly. The White Sox have given out figures, and, apparently, bona fide salary figures interest the fans. Actual amounts involved in the annual bickering, however, have not justified more than 10 per cent of the stuff printed about balky players who knew all the time they would sign well before the deadline.

We hope that next winter our editor orders a table showing the unsigned players on the Cubs and Sox. When a player signs all the journalistic work under our plan will be to persuade a printer to take the right name off the list. If some players are missing after the roll call at training camp it should be worth a few hundred words.

More Reliable than a Groundhog, for Instance.

The news out of a training camp isn't the hottest stuff in athletics, perhaps, but box scores and pictures of ball players certainly are more reliable harbingers of spring than the thoroughly discredited groundhog and robin.

The reason we are anxious to get on that boat is not because we consider a training camp a soft touch. In fact, when persons call us a lucky stiff just before each spring departure, we always sit down and tell them some of the hardships. Why, here it is the morning of departure day and we haven't started to pack our trunk. Think how worried we'll be over things we can't find to put in the trunk come 2 o'clock this afternoon and the transfer man hammering on the door.

The trip out, as you may have and perhaps will notice, means a lot of hard work getting acquainted with rookies and looking at cactus and sage brush. The old travel story about how the rookies eat with their knives isn't as good as it once was, and we are thinking of dropping it completely. In 1929 we won $85, most of it from Joe McCarthy, who could afford to lose, playing cumulative rhummy between here and Los Angeles. We still associate with fellows on the train who can afford to lose $85, but things haven't been the same since that 1929 trip—the boys don't seem to speculate in cumulative rhummy with the same reckless abandon that proved so jolly that historic year.

Once on the island we have found it a pretty good idea to stick pretty close to baseball. If an anecdote jumps right up and sits on our keyboard we may try it, but sandwiched between a couple of base hits or a couple of sore arms.

A Wandering Sea Gull Upsets Andy's Luncheon Plans.

We learned this several years ago when we wrote and wrote about the then well known Cubs until one day Dr. Andy Lotshaw went out on the diving stand of the bathhouse which serves in the spring as the Cub clubhouse. Andy thought that would be a good place to eat his box lunch. The doctor had just opened a bottle of milk and was working on the string around his lunch box when the telephone rang. Andy sensed it was Mrs. Lotshaw calling and promptly put everything on the pier near the springboard and ran to answer the call. After chatting with Mrs. Lotshaw for several minutes Andy returned to the great outdoors, fixing to go at his lunch. He discovered, however, that a sea gull had upset the milk bottle in dipping his bill in same. And before he could get to his lunch the sea gull picked up Andy's lunch box, with lunch inside, flying away with the string thereof grimly clamped in his neb.

Because we saw this tragedy with our very eyes and knew there wasn't the slightest bit of nature faking we unfolded the incident with a scientific handling in the hope that we might give the world a new slant on sea gulls and perhaps warn other seashore owners of box lunches.

It Seems They Didn't Care About Sea Gulls.

In the course of a few days a large roll of manuscript came to us. On opening, a sheaf of signed papers like those petitions you see in cigar stores and saloons in preëlection times was revealed.

Across the top of the first sheet was typewritten: TELL US ABOUT OUR CUBS. WE DO NOT GIVE A HOOT ABOUT LOTSHAW'S SILLY EXPERIENCES WITH SEA GULLS.

Then followed scores of signatures purporting to be those of male and female employés of the Western Electric company—all different kinds of handwriting, with addresses and even telephone numbers in some instances.

Well, we resolved right there never to write about sea gulls again. But we refused to be bluffed out of writing about Lotshaw, who is a very important man in the Cub setup.

At that, we let the anti-sea gull petition get us down several years later when we wanted to tell you about Lotshaw getting in bad in another marine episode in which no sea gulls were involved.

That was the year that all the players' wives showed up with slacks, and some mighty cute getups, you may be sure. On the south end of Catalina Island there is a colony of a million seals [seals, not sea gulls], and the Cub management chartered a boat and invited all the Cub party to sail down and see the seals. All the ladies showed up in slacks excepting Mrs. Andy Lotshaw, a very fine lady, who has given us permission to catch up with this history at this late date Mrs. Lotshaw is statuesque and not the type for slacks—a woman of much dignity who minds her own business and who does not care for a lot of noise and commotion, though she loves her husband, Dr. Lotshaw.

Well, we went up and saw the seals for a long time and listened to their billions of barks. Andy listened to the uproar until he seemed to get a little giddy.

Going back to Avalon Andy was downright frolicsome and finally, in his great exuberance, had a big idea. Looking first at his loving wife's figure and then at that portion of duck pants draped on the rear elevation of a certain enormous journalist, he shouted to Mrs. Lotshaw in a voice that outdid 100 of the best seals barking in unison. Andy said: "Don't worry any more, baby, about being unable to buy slacks like the other girls have; I've just closed a deal with Eddie [the enormous journalist] and he's going to let you take a pair of his pants."

It's Just an Old Habit with Andy.

Dr. Lotshaw was about to follow with a great guffaw in appreciation of his own keen wit when he met the steely glint coming through Mrs. Lotshaw's Oxford glasses.

Mrs. Lotshaw never forgot her dignity nor lost her poise in the slightest. Her six foot figure standing majestically erect, she said simply, but with accents sharp and clear, "You big krauthead, I can always count on you to say the wrong thing at the right time."

Shortly afterward we all disembarked and went back to the beautiful St. Catherine hotel, with its enchanting vista of the blue Pacific.

Marshall and Shikma Renew Drill for Bout

Everett Marshall, heavyweight wrestling champion, and Oki Shikina resumed training yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for their return title bout at the Coliseum tomorrow night.

Everett Marshall.

Marshall exercised for an hour, after which he engaged in a 20 minute practice bout with Vic Soldat. Shikina wasted no time getting down to business and wrestled with Lou Talaber for thirty minutes.

After the workouts it was announced that both men will return to gymnasium chores today, Marshall reporting at 1 p. m. and his Japanese antagonist an hour later.

Predicts Crowd of 9,000.

Shikina's training partners will be augmented by Jack Conley and Al George, while Marshall will be assisted by George Mansor, in addition to Soldat.

Fred Kohler, co-promoter of the show with Ed White, predicted that a crowd of 9,000 will attend. At that rate receipts would amount to $9,000.

5,901 at Previous Bout.

A crowd of 5,901 saw the match between Marshall and Shikina at the Coliseum Feb. 4. Everett won the decision when Shikina was pushed out of the ring and counted out. Gross receipts were $6,201.

Nebraska Wins Big Six Swim Title

Ames, Ia., March 6.—(AP)—Nebraska won its third Big Six swimming title since 1929 here today by scoring 58 points in the annual conference meet. The Cornhuskers took eight first places in nine events to swamp three Big Six rivals, including Iowa State, which tied Nebraska for the championship last winter.

Iowa State finished second with 36 points, Kansas university scored 13 points to take third, three more than Kansas State. Missouri and Oklahoma, the other conference members, did not compete.

Barry and Hagelin of Nebraska each won two events while their teammate, Thornton, successfully defended his 200 yard breast stroke championship.

Patterson of Kansas State was first in the diving, the only event in which Nebraska did not finish first.

Hagelin won the 100 yard free style event in :54.2, a pool record. Summaries:

300 YARD MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Nebraska [Ludwick, Thornton, Dort]; Iowa State, second; Kansas, third; Kansas State, fourth. Time, 3:20.9.

220 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Berry, Nebraska; Burkett, Iowa State, second; Wempe, Iowa State, third; Krause, Nebraska, fourth. Time, 2:23.2.

400 YARD RELAY—Won by Nebraska [Dort, Leash, Ludwick, and Krause]; Iowa State, second; Kansas, third; Kansas State, fourth. Time, 3:57.3.

OHIO SWIMMING TEAM ENDS N. U. STRING, 47 TO 37

Zehr Wins in Backstroke, 220 Yard Free Style.

The Northwestern swimming team's string of seven consecutive victories was broken by Ohio State, 47 to 37, at Patten pool yesterday.

The Wildcats lost in spite of the fact that Dan Zehr swam the 150 yard back stroke in 1:36.1 and the 220 yard free style in 2:13.9. Tired after these two events Zehr was no match for Capt. Dexter Woodford of Ohio in the 440 yard free style and the Buckeyes won this event and with it the meet.

Northwestern won the water polo game, 7 to 0.

Swimming summaries:

300 YARD MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Ohio [Neunzig, Pfeiffer, McKee]. Time, 3:00.6.

220 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Zehr [Northwestern]; Woodford [Ohio], second; Howard [Ohio], third. Time, 2:13.9.

PURDUE WINS, 46-38

Bloomington, Ind., March 6.—[Special.]—By winning the 400 yard relay, last event on the program, the Purdue university swimming team defeated Indiana, 46 to 38, today. The Hoosiers had defeated Purdue earlier in the season.

Capt. Paul Vernor of Purdue, who won firsts in the 100 and 220 yard free style events and swam anchor position on the 400 yard relay team, was the star. Summaries:

Princeton Freshman Breaks 150 Yd. Back Stroke Mark

Philadelphia, Pa., March 6. — (AP) — Albert van de Weghe of the Princeton university freshman swimming team, bettered the national intercollegiate 150 yard backstroke record today as his team lost to the University of Pennsylvania freshmen, 36 to 39. Van de Weghe covered the distance in 1:36.4 against the listed mark of 1:36.9 held by Danny Zehr of Northwestern university.

Rookies Will Make Up Sox First Lineup

might shatter his current reputation as a slugger. Dykes has been around long enough to know that the only test for hitting is big league pitching. He has also been around for so many years that he believes a youth with the proper amount of determination can master fielding if given advice from a professor. Dykes certainly knows the answers to all third base problems.

He'll Bat Seventh.

Anyway, Mesner is going to play third base most of the spring, if not longer, and he'll bat seventh in the batting order, which is the notch in which Dykes makes his batting contributions, if any.

If the sight of the Cubs in the first week of barnstorming doesn't arouse Dyke's desire to add a few chapters to the unhappiness of the north siders he'll be able to display quite a rookie assortment. He has four new catchers in George Rensa, Norman Schlueter, Ken Sylvestri, and Ed Skoronski. He has Frank Houska, Lester Rock ,and Frank Hackney, besides Mesner, for the infield. There are only two new outfielders, one being Henry Steinbacher from St. Paul, and Tommy McBride from the Longview, Tex., team. The latter also will be tested as a second baseman and shortstop. There are only two pitchers who haven't been in the big league before.

The workout today was another sun drenched session in which the pitchers were permitted to advance a grade in their spring schooling. This involved the covering of first base. They took turns throwing to Muddy Ruel at the plate, and Muddy then bounced the ball along the ground to Babe Herman, who acted as first baseman. The pitcher who made the throw then had to gallop over to the base and take a toss from the illustrious Babe. Except for this, the squad exercised in the usual manner.

Shea Has Stiff Neck.

Merv Shea, signal thief and understudy to Catcher Luke Sewell, registered as a casualty. He did too much looking skyward yesterday while catching vertical fly balls hit by Coach Webb and was disappointed this morning to discover that his neck wouldn't function. He remained out of uniform, but by Monday, when the squad takes its next workout, he will be as sound as ever.

Coach Jimmy Austin, who abandoned his job last spring because of the illness of his wife, will rejoin the team Monday and provide pepper until camp is broken on April 1. Whether he'll remain thereafter is doubtful.

Miss Hemphill Wins Florida Golf Tourney

St. Augustine, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—Kathryn Hemphill sank a ten foot putt on the twentieth green to defeat Patty Berg today in the final round of the Florida east coast tournament.

Unsteady work on the greens cost Miss Berg dearly. The Minneapolis girl, who captured half of the previous Florida tournaments while Miss Hemphill was taking the others, was nipping the pin with her approaches, but could not follow through. Twice she watched putts hang on the rim, with the victory hers if they dropped.

Miss Berg Scores 77.

Miss Berg's medal score for the regular eighteen was 77, three under women's par, while Miss Hemphill was a stroke higher. But the Columbia, S. C., girl fired consecutive birdies on the extra holes.

Miss Hemphill was 1 up after nine holes, having taken the lead with a 20 foot putt for an eagle 3 on the eighth.

After dropping the eleventh Miss Berg won three in a row to be 1 up after the fourteenth. Miss Hemphill squared it on the seventeenth, where Miss Berg's putt for a half hung on the lip of the cup.

Putt Decides It.

After they had halved the eighteenth a missed six footer cost Miss Berg victory on the first extra hole.

Their drives on the second extra hole were about even in distance and each put her second about ten feet from the pin. Miss Berg's putt was a trifle short and Miss Hemphill made good her effort.

BILL RAY WINS 1,000 YD. RACE IN BALTIMORE MEET

Baltimore, Md., March 6.—(AP)—William Ray of the New York Curb exchange staged a fast finish tonight to beat out J. Kehoe of the University of Maryland in the 1,000 yard A. A. U. race at the Maryland-Fifth regiment indoor track and field meet.

Some 3,500 spectators, most of them college students, saw Ray sprint across the finish line seven yards ahead of Kehoe. Hardy, University of North Carolina freshman, was third. Ray's time was 2 minutes 19.8 seconds.

Iowa State Wins Big Six Wrestling Championship

Lincoln, Neb., March 6.—(AP)—Iowa State today succeeded Oklahoma as Big Six conference wrestling champion. The Sooners finished the annual conference meet with 29 points, Kansas State was second with 25, and Oklahoma third with 24.

Murphy Twins Finish 1-2 in Junior Davis Cup

Bill and Chester Murphy, the University of Chicago's sophomore twins, ranked one and two yesterday at the conclusion of the "Junior Davis cup" round robin tennis tournament which has been under way for a month at the Midway fieldhouse.

Bill Murphy defeated Norman Bickel, his Maroon teammate, who holds the Big Ten singles title, 6-2, 6-2, in yesterday's play and finished the tournament with a record of eight victories and one defeat.

Brother Chester Murphy finished with seven victories and two defeats for second honors.

Third place developed a tie between Norbert Burgess, Maroon captain and only player to defeat Bill Murphy, and George Ball of Northwestern, each with six triumphs and three losses. Bickel was fifth with five victories and four defeats.

In a tie for sixth place were Russell Ball of Northwestern, John Shostrom of Chicago, and Greenberg of Lane Tech. Froehling, Northwestern, was eighth, and Richards, unattached, ninth.

Feature matches yesterday resulted in the defeat of Russell Ball by Shostrom, 6-3, 5-7, 7-5, of Burgess by Greenberg, 6-3, 6-3, and of Russell Ball by George Ball, 6-0, 6-3.

BOBBY WILSON, S. M. U. STAR, WILL MARRY APRIL 14

Dallas, Tex., March 6.—(AP)—A college campus romance in which the principals—Bobby Wilson, 1935 star quarter back, and Miss Betty Bailey—rode to fame with the Southern Methodist university Mustangs will culminate in their marriage here April 14.

The parents of the bride-to-be, Mr. and Mrs. Layton W. Bailey of Dallas, announced the engagement today.

Miss Bailey was acclaimed as the "pretty sweetheart" of the S. M. U. band when it performed in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena two years ago.

After a season of professional football with the Brooklyn club of the National league, Wilson has entered the oil business.

Phipps Wins 4th Straight U. S. Court Tennis Title

Philadelphia, Pa., March 6.—[U. P.]—Ogden Phipps, Roslyn, N. Y., won his fourth consecutive United States court tennis championship today by defeating James H. Van Alen, also of Roslyn, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4. Van Alen was runner-up in the title fight for the fourth year and lost his best opportunity to overthrow the Phipps jinx in the final set when his game fell off after he had piled up a 4 to 1 lead. Phipps won the next five games in a row.

Parker Beats Bowden for Indoor Title

New York, March 6.—(AP)—Frank Parker of Milwaukee, America's No. 2 player, won the United States indoor tennis championship today by defeating Frank J. Bowden of New York, 6-4, 6-4, 1-6, 4-6, 6-1. It was the first time during the tournament that Parker was extended beyond straight sets.

The women's title went to a foreigner for the first time since 1910 when Mme. Sylvia Henrotin of Lyons, France, defeated Millicent Hirsh of New York, 10-8, 1-6, 6-2.

Bowden caused a surprise when he gained the final bracket by defeating Walter Senior of San Francisco, yesterday. When Parker, playing steadily, had won the first two sets, Bowden was not expected to give any trouble.

Bowden Perks Up.

The New York player, a product of the public park courts and former Columbia university captain, got his game under control in the third set, however, and holding Parker to eleven points ran through it with little effort.

Parker had been playing on the baseline throughout the first three sets, but he came to the net frequently in the fourth. Bowden was on top of his game and broke through Parker's service in the fourth game to take a 3-1 lead. Parker broke back immediately, but Bowden with fine placements was through again in the seventh game and held his service to win.

After Parker won the first game of the deciding set, Bowden went into a 40-0 lead in the second. His net game had been to his advantage, but Parker passed him and threw him off stride. The game went to deuce and Bowden lost on a netted ball and double fault. Parker had no trouble from that point on.

American's Strategy Fails.

Miss Hirsh, who had gained the final by staying on the baseline and outwitting Norma Taubele, played the same type of game against Mrs. Henrotin.

Although she held a 5-3 lead in the first set, Miss Hirsh was unable to hold her advantage. The New York girl had been successful sending low, soft shots to the French woman and playing straight down the line to her backhand. She increased her speed in an attempt to force points, but Mme. Henrotin found the faster shot easier to return.

During the second set Mme. Henrotin, playing at the net, attempted to pick up shots from below her knees. Invariably she netted the ball and Miss Hirsh had little trouble running out the set. Playing back again in the final set, Mme. Henrotin outvolleyed her opponent to win.

CADDIES SIT DOWN UNTIL POLICE ARRIVE

Birmingham, Ala., March 6.—[U.P.]—More than a hundred colored caddies went on a sitdown strike today and as many Saturday afternoon golfers at the Highland Park Country club had to carry their own clubs.

The strike began when a group representing the caddies told club Professional Danny Goss they would "set down" all over the course if their demands for 65 cents instead of the customary 50 cents per 18 holes were not met. Goss said the demands would have to be considered.

The caddies spread out over the course and sat down at strategic points. Caddie Master Levi Davis summoned police. At the sight of a score of blue uniformed cops the caddies fled.

With 110 golfers demanding caddies, and the caddies demanding more pay, Goss put the matter before the park and recreation board for consideration next Wednesday.

THOMAS-KLEATS DUO TAKES LEAD IN ROLLER DERBY

Louise Thomas and Joe Kleats skated into the lead in the roller Derby at the Coliseum last night as 8,000 fans saw a session of continuous jamming. The standings of the teams changed several times during the night.

Wes Aronson and Ivy King are tied with Esthern Runne and Jack Cummings for second place as the skaters enter the final afternoon and night of the race.

Washington and Lee Wins Southern Basketball Title

Raleigh, N. C., March 6.—(AP)—Washington and Lee took a lead after the first four minutes and never was headed tonight as it defeated the University of North Carolina, champions for two successive years, 44 to 33, for the Southern conference basketball title.

Snyder Seeks 4th Straight in Midget Races

Jimmy Snyder will try to make it four straight by winning the 30 lap feature of the midget auto racing card tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Snyder started his winning spree early last month when he won an 80 lap feature, followed by victory the succeeding Sunday in the 100 lap main event and a triumph last Sunday in the 30 lap contest.

Others who plan to tighten the competition are Art Hartsfeld, Harry MacQuinn, Ray Richards, Wally Zale, Duke Nalon, Marshall Lewis, Emil Andres, and Paul Russo.

Among the nine events scheduled are four elimination tests at 12 laps each, a popularity race at 15 laps, and a consolation for nonqualifiers at 15 laps.

The time trials are set for 7:30 o'clock. The first race will be run at 8:30.

ILLINOIS BEATS MINNESOTA, 18-6, IN WRESTLING

ROBERTSON ENDS DRILL FOR LEE BOUT TOMORROW

Pat Robertson, aggressive featherweight fighter from New York, yesterday sparred three rounds with Nick Peters, San Antonio, Tex., lightweight, to end hard training in preparation for his return bout at eight rounds against Paul Lee, fiery little Indianapolis, Ind., battler, at Marigold Gardens tomorrow night. A previous meeting between the two ended in a draw.

Lee will arrive in time to do loosening up exercises at Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon.

Young Mickey Walker, Sioux City, Ia., junior lightweight sharpshooter, went two sessions with Ray Baker of Grand Forks, N. D., and then marked time for his five round semifinal encounter with Johnny Cellura of Detroit.

In his Chicago debut Cellura lost a six round decision to Billy Marquart at the Marigold arena Jan. 4, but his performance marked him as a fine prospect. Marquart suffered injuries to his eyes that necessitated a two weeks' layoff. Walker showed he was a bundle of fighting fury in whipping Johnny Campbell last Monday.

Thus, indications are that the Cellura-Walker scrap may steal the show. It is a reason Promoter Irving Schoenwald is making arrangements to handle another capacity crowd.

Henry Rothier, former Chicago Golden Gloves welterweight titleholder, has been signed to meet Puggy Weinert of Brighton Park in an eight round headliner at Rainbo Fronton Friday.

Bouts on this week's schedule include:

Tomorrow.

At Chicago Coliseum—Everett Marshall, heavyweight champion, vs. Oki Shikina, one fall, 90 minute time limit, title [wrestling].

At Marigold Gardens—Pat Robertson vs. Paul Lee [8], Young Mickey Walker vs. Johnny Cellura [5].

At Newark, N. J.—Tony Galento vs. Don Petrin [10], heavyweights.

At Scranton, Pa.—Wildcat O'Connor vs. Mickey Serrian [10], welterweights.

Tuesday.

At New York—Kid Chocolate vs. Schoolboy Bernie Friedkin [8], featherweights.

At Baltimore, Md.—Lew Feldman vs. Howard Scott [10], lightweights.

At Des Moines, Ia.—Joe Louis exhibition.

Thursday.

At Memphis, Tenn.—Frankie Sagilio vs. Battling Burrows [10], welterweights.

Friday.

At Madison Square Garden—Henry Armstrong, featherweight champion, vs. Aldo Spoldi [10], nontitle.

At San Francisco, Cal.—Young Corbett vs. Gus Lesnevich [10], middleweights.

At Hollywood, Cal.—Alberto Arizmendi vs. Jimmy Vaughn [10], lightweights.

La Guardia to Roll First Ball at A. B. C. Wednesday

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

The big city has delivered! When New York went after the 37th annual tournament of the American Bowling congress, Al Lattin of that city promised a record entry for the event starting next Wednesday on 28 new alleys in 212th Coast Artillery armory there.

The boast has materialized with an unsurpassed entry of 4,017 five man teams, and because of the huge list of 22,000 individuals, who also will take part in the doubles and team events, the tournament will extend through May 4 instead of April 19, as first planned, and April 30, the second guess as to the finishing date.

31 States Send Teams.

Teams from 31 states have entered. Topping the entry from the central states is the group of 89 teams from Chicago. With this strong showing Chicago enthusiasts are confident that they will be successful in their bid for the 1938 tournament, which would be held at the Coliseum.

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia will throw the first ball on Wednesday notwithstanding objections from Herr Hitler. For the first few sessions the tournament will be given over to New York booster teams—firemen, policemen, and other civic employés who have become bowling conscious since New York grabbed off the world's largest tenpin event.

Lattin is now first vice president of the A. B. C. and after the next election is slated to become president. Outside of a desire to see bowling go over the top he has no connection with the game. He does not even have an interest in a New York bowling establishment.

Randolph League.

They've finally halted the rush of the Budweisers in the Randolph league. The Birk Brothers did a fairly thorough job of it, taking two of the three games and knocking the Budweisers back into a first place tie with the Mineralites, who swept their series with Bismarck Hotel. The two pace setters have won 47 and lost 19, four games better than the records of the Mary Ann Breads and Birk Brothers, who are tied for third. Drs of Beich Candy topped the individuals with 702, followed by Petersen of Budweisers, 684; Gnadinger of None-Better Ice Cream, 662, and Layden of Admiration Cigars.

North End League.

The Birk Brothers picked up a game on the Michelobs in the North End Traveling league when they won two games from Richter Sausage while the leaders were losing a pair to Fox De Luxe. High series went to Schamberger Schlitz with 3,070, which netted a clean sweep over the Budweisers. Eddie Holcer of Samuelsons shot a 673 series and Norman Hallgren of the Richters collected 667. Tomorrow night's schedule:

Fox De Luxe vs. Richters at Lincoln Square, 7 o'clock; Schambergers vs. Waggoners at Bryn Mawr, 7; Samuelsons at Milford alleys, 7; Birk Brothers at Stack-Ryan, 9; Michelobs vs. Budweisers at Gold Coast, 9.

Windy City League.

The Mineralites appear to have the Windy City Major league title all wrapped. They maintained their seven game lead with two victories over Keeley Brew. The Lauterbachs took a pair from Serrano Cigarros and now have second place to themselves, since the slipping O'Keefe Coals lost two out of three to the J. M. Kralovecs. Charles Drs of Blatz Old Heidelberg hung up a new season record of 735 and second high game of 289. Tomorrow night's schedule:

Budweisers vs Serrano Cigarros; Strachan Old Ben Coal vs. McKesson's Old Crow; Mineralites vs. Blazek Tailors; G. & W. Distillery vs. Betinis Boosters; O'Keefe Coals vs. Vogel Brothers; Lauterbach Coal vs. Burlington Zephyrs; Soper Brothers vs. Keeley Brew; Blatz Old Heidelberg vs. J. M. Kralovecs.

Classic League.

The Classic league will bowl at the North Cicero Recreation, 4812 West North avenue, tonight at 8 o'clock, with the following matches scheduled:

Monarch Beer vs. Oak Leaf Motors.
Prager Beer vs. Charles H. Weber.
Baby Ruth Candy vs. Winkler Motor Service.
Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer vs. Kraft O-ke Doke.

Standings:

	W.	L.	Av.		W.	L.	Av.
Baby Ruth	49	29	974	Winkler	36	42	970
Prager	47	31	987	Kraft	34	44	974
Monarch	46	43	970	Oak Leaf	28	50	945
Pabst	44	34	989	Weber	28	50	942

Individual averages:

Adolph Carlson, 204; Sykes Thoma, Paul Krumske, Bill Lenzen, and Pete Petersen, 200; Ed Zajac and Herb Lange, 199; Herb Freitag, 198; Bill Goldammer, Barney Krause, George Notz, and Al Rankin, 197; Ed Krems and Wally Freitag, 196; Joe Gratz, Fred Rankin, Dom Devito, Eli Maricich, and Frank Farnan, 195.

On South Side Alleys.

Bill Kotil knocked the pins dizzy in the Bruck Major league, getting 784 on games of 239, 266, and 279. Art Henning blasted out 761 and Leo Rollick 701. Among the 600 shooters were Bill Harper, 690; Don Pinc, 684; Milo Wiesner, 682; Jim Garvey, 669; Bill Buckley, 662; Joe Harris, 661, and John Batchellor, 652. With such high marks, it was no wonder that the Bruck-Wiesner team totaled 3,306, the Bleeker Brothers 3,139, and the Phil Smidts 3,020. . . . Clem Lightfoot finally was stopped in the Bruck-Wiesner Major league. He failed to get a 600 series.

About the Women.

Marie Warmbier regained the spotlight in the Bruck Major league by totaling 611. TABLE TENNIS STARS PLAY AT FRONTON TODAY

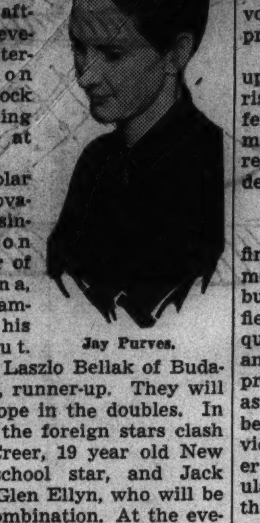
Kolar, Singles Champion, Makes Chicago Debut.

Table tennis champions of Europe and America compete in the International Table Tennis association tournament at the Rainbo Fronton this afternoon and evening. The afternoon session starts at 3 o'clock and the evening performances at 8:30 o'clock.



Jay Purves.

Standa Kolar of Czechoslovakia, world singles champion and conqueror of Viktor Barna, five times champion, makes his Chicago debut. With Kolar is Laszlo Bellak of Budapest, Hungary, runner-up. They will represent Europe in the doubles. In the afternoon the foreign stars clash with Danny Creer, 19 year old New Trier High school star, and Jack Denninger of Glen Ellyn, who will be the Chicago combination. At the evening session the American team of Robert [Bud] Blattner of St. Louis, world doubles champion, and Sandor Glancz face the invaders.

Miss Jay Purves of Des Plaines, Ill., women's world doubles champion, will play at both performances. Miss Purves is paired against Glancz.

Other stars of international reputation are Yoshio Fushimi, Japanese champion; Coleman Clark, former national champion, and Dick Morgan Jr., 12 year old youngster who captured the juvenile title recently. Clark and Fushimi are paired for one set, while the juvenile star meets Bellak in an exhibition.

C. Y. O. Fives Play Today for Four Crowns

Titles will be at stake this afternoon when eight teams meet in the finals of the Catholic Youth organization basketball tournament at the 132d Infantry armory, Rockwell and Madison streets. The teams will compete in the heavyweight, lightweight, girls', and grammar school divisions.

The 1936 heavyweight champion, St. Anthony, and St. Elizabeth, who meet for that title, have not been beaten this season. St. Elizabeth, playing under the name of the Collegians, beat the Universals, 1936 Olympic champions, last week, 29 to 27. St. Anthony [Cicero] boasts a ten man squad of veterans.

In the lightweight division St. Laurence meets St. Angela for the title. Both teams started in the playoffs as dark horse contenders, neither having played in the finals last year. They beat semi-final opponents by 1 point margins, St. Angela whipping St. Valentine, 20 to 19, and St. Laurence defeating St. Dorothy, 21 to 20.

The St. Ignatius girls' team will defend its title and seek a third consecutive championship when it plays St. Philip Neri. Teams from Queen of Angels and St. Bernard's will meet for the grammar school crown.

The first game will start at 2 p. m. The schedule:

HEAVYWEIGHT.

St. Anthony [Cicero] vs. St. Elizabeth, 4:30 p. m.

LIGHTWEIGHT.

St. Laurence vs. St. Angela, 3:30 p. m.

GIRLS'.

St. Ignatius vs. St. Philip Neri, 2:45 p. m.

DE PAUL TO GIVE BANQUET FOR KELLY TUESDAY

Preparations are being made for the farewell dinner to James D. Kelly, football and basketball coach of De Paul university, who leaves after ten years' service to join the coaching staf of the University of Minnesota as track coach and to assist in the coaching of the football and basketball teams there.

Jim Kelly.

The farewell dinner will be held in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house Tuesday as part of the annual testimonial dinner being given by the Monogram club of the university to the football and basketball teams. Patrick T. Driscoll, president of the Monogram club, who announced the arrangements, expressed regret at the departure of Mr. Kelly. His successor and the rest of the new coaching staf at De Paul will be announced at the Tuesday dinner by the Rev. M. J. O'Connell, C. M., president of De Paul university.

HIALEAH SETS NEW ATTENDANCE, MUTUEL RECORDS

Miami, Fla., March 6.—(AP)—New records for attendance and wagering were established today at Hialeah Park, with a pari mutuel turnover of $730,333 and a turnstile count of 20,468.

The eight race windup program, featured by the $50,000 Widener cup, brought total play for the 46 day meeting to $19,131,003, a daily average of $415,891, in Hialeah's most successful season since 1925.

MOTORS—TRAFIC—HIGHWAYS

I. C. C. Issues Bus and Truck Safety Code

BY HAL FOUST.

The interstate commerce commission has just published its safety regulations for motor vehicle common and contract carriers, buses, and trucks for hire in interstate service. Rules covering the qualifications of drivers, the operation on the highways, and equipment requirements will become effective on July 1. Beginning April 1, these carriers must report to the I. C. C. all accidents involving a death, personal injury, or property damage exceeding $100.

"In addition to the direct effect upon the carriers subject to our jurisdiction," reads a bulletin from the federal authority, "these regulations may be expected to have a certain real influence upon the general accident situation.

Initial Rules Lenient.

"It is hoped and believed that our findings upon such basic safety elements in the operation of interstate buses and trucks as properly qualified drivers, sound driving rules, adequate brakes, lights, and other parts and accessories upon vehicles, and a proper reporting of accidents, as well as upon other important matters to be considered in the future, will provide a definite impetus toward greater uniformity in the statutes and regulations of the several states, and thereby toward better understanding and compliance with highway safety requirements by the general public."

As the first safety effort under authority of an act by the 1935 congress, the I. C. C. rules are in many respects lenient and general. It is the announced intention of the commission to make these rules more strict after this activity becomes organized.

All drivers of for hire vehicles in interstate commerce must be registered with the commission under the rules effective on July 1. With the driver's name, age, and address will be listed his experience and other characteristics and, in the future, his accident record. "From these data," reads the bulletin, "can be based consideration of the possible need for and practicality of a federal licensing system."

No Speed Limit Set.

The minimum age for the driver is set at 21 and he must be able to read and to understand trafic signs and signals. Physical and mental health must be good, vision unimpaired, and habits sover.

In the operation on the road the I. C. C. has in the main let state regulations control. No speed limit in miles per hour has been fixed, either for the buses or for trucks, the basic rule being that "speed at no time should be greater than is reasonable or prudent under the existing conditions."

Buses are required to stop at railroad grade crossings and at draw bridges. Hitch-hikers are barred from trucks. Under contemplation, but not as yet required are mechanical or electrical devices to signal intention to turn.

Every vehicle shall have adequate brakes with more than one means of operation, i. e., in addition to the service brake operated with the foot pedal, there must be an emergency brake that will function if the service brake is disabled. By adequate brakes is meant ability to stop from 20 miles an hour within 30 feet.

Self Imposed Rules Strict.

In lighting requirements, as in specifying other equipment, the I. C. C. in promulgating its rules has encountered the wide variety of state rules described on the recent Tribune truck cross country tour. The new federal lighting regulations, which will probably receive precedence in interstate travel, vary with the types of vehicles. In general, they remove all red lights from the front and all green lights from the rear.

In viewing these interstate commerce commission safety efforts from the Chicago standpoint, it seems likely that if enforced the rules should reduce the accident risks of trucks. Interstate bus operation, however, has self imposed regulations that are more strict than federal requirements.

The operations of the Illinois and the Central Greyhound Bus companies from Chicago might be considered as a demonstration of what can be done with careful supervision of driver and vehicle. The Illinois subsidiary buses covered 3,032,738 miles with 13 personal injuries, while the Central Greyhound buses covered 6,231,639 miles with 29 personal injuries. The Illinois has not had a fatality since 1933 and the Central has had none since 1932.

According to the National Safety council, there are one death and 45 personal injuries in each 10 million miles of private automobile operation. The Greyhounds have not had a single death in more than 35 million miles of operation from Chicago.

There has been one personal injury every 220,580 miles of bus travel as might be compared with one injury for every 222,222 miles of private car travel, but this comparison would not be a fair one. The bus company lists every bump and scratch while the National Safety council lists only more serious injuries.

Notwithstanding a common apprehension of these buses when encountered on the highway, their safety record is a good one. Their bulk, their bright lights, and loud horns are somewhat intimidating to private motorists on the road, but the statistics show they have fewer accidents than private automobiles.

This reporter spent three hours in the Greyhound garage at 34th street and Cottage Grove avenue last week learning how this safety record is maintained. In the first place, the drivers, who are paid an average of $1.30 an hour, are carefully selected and closely supervised. A detailed performance record is kept on every member of the road crew and a scratched fender means a loss of bonus money for the driver.

Six Men Must O. K. Bus.

The drivers work on runs of six and seven hours. Those who are away from home when in Chicago between runs are checked in and out of the company's dormitory to make certain that they receive proper rest.

Every bus coming in from the road is closely inspected mechanically. A total of six men must O. K. the job before it returns to the road. A record is kept of the mileage on each mechanical part of the machine and at regular intervals this part comes off for bench work regardless of its condition.

The service or foot brakes of the bus are air powered. With any failure of this system, there's a hand brake that is capable of an emergency stop. It operates on a drum on the drive shaft and with traction on the four rear tires. Both the hand and the foot brakes are tested for equalization and for efficiency each time the bus comes in from a run.

NEW CHRYSLER TOWN CAR

A custom town car is now available in the Chrysler Royal lin This car is built on a chassis of 133 inches and is powered with 100 horse power engine with aluminum head. VOICE OF TRAFIC

TO ARIZONA'S GOVERNOR.

Valparaiso, Ind., Feb. 22.—To Gov. R. C. Stanford, Phoenix, Ariz.: I have read with considerable interest the inclosed story by my good friend Hal Foust of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

It is high time some one got a rise out of your inspection officials for their high handed, hard boiled tactics, and I give Hal credit for his success.

My family will always remember one hot August night at Yuma, where we were forced to listen to a lecture about slippery Indiana citizens and our inadequate laws for nearly an hour. It seems that we were not welcome in Arizona because we had not individually registered our demonstrator, and although we had passed through eight states on our way out, we were arch criminals according to your code.

It so happens that I have business interests in Long Beach which necessitate an occasional trip to California, but you can bet your life I have managed to miss Arizona on the recent trips I have made and I have advised any one who is forced to drive your way to be sure they have not only the registration card for their car but their title, birth certificate, certified photograph, etc., and to be prepared for the most minute inspection of all their belongings.

I hope some day you will come off your high horse and allow citizens of other states who are abiding by their own laws to pass through Arizona without attempting to set us rules and regulations entirely contrary to all other states. As it stands now I would much prefer to tour in Canada.

Yours for reciprocity,

MARSHALL FRENCH.

AGAINST PARKING METERS.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Having been a resident of Dallas, Tex., during the first year of installation and use of parking meters in that city, my experience with them as a store owner and motorist was highly unsatisfactory.

The business of the small shopkeeper suffered greatly from the first day of operation of the meters. The large stores who could afford to furnish parking space for patrons had a great advantage and were able to attract much of the little fellow's trade.

The motorist suffers a great inconvenience if he happens to be without the nickel in his pocket—getting change before he gets a ticket is no small feat. And slugs won't work. I found it just as difficult to find a place to park after the meters were installed.

I believe parking meters are an imposition on already overtaxed motorists and know from experience that they benefit no one except politicians who find it a source of immense additional income, and parking lot owners whose business they will augment, but the poor car owners are the goat; possibly we easy marks deserve no better. ROSWELL FENDER.

SAFETY STOP ETHICS.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Under guise of safety the Chicago motorist, already paying high license fees and tax, is being fleeced out of more dollars. Officers are standing near stop sign corners where vision either way is not obscured and wh trafic is light or intermittent they ha the driver who does not come to a st a ticket. When trafic is heavy at the same nonstop light corners, instead regulating trafic, the officer still stan at his post, one-third to one-half blo from the corner, ready to give the moto ist who comes through without stoppi a ticket.

I feel that a stern warning will do mo toward achieving safety than the deve oping of a get-even attitude [by crossi stop corners without stopping when t officer is not present] with the prese break the spirit method. M. S.

AT UNIVERSITY CLUB.

Chicago, March 2.—I think the abu of parking regulations by employés clubs in the downtown area of Chica should be investigated by our police.

I understand it is unlawful to park car on a level street with brakes a plied; also to park near a fire plug.

My car was jammed against anoth car by a Cadillac March 1 on the nor side of Monroe street, west of the all between Michigan and Wabash. The Ca illac had brakes applied and was n more than a couple of feet from a fi plug.

After trying to get out for some tin I found an attendant for the Universi club telling me to get away from th car. After putting him in his place called the doorman inside the club, wh made him move the car.

I would probably have thought not ing of the matter had the attendant telligence enough to move the car wh I wanted to get out, but he stood by a neither said or did anything to indica he knew anything about the car until began trying to open a window in t Cadillac.

If this street is sacred to the Universi club and its members it should be posted. G. F. FORD.

NARROW, DANGEROUS U. S. 12.

Chicago, March 3.—The day followi last Labor day your column printed article—"Chicago Motor club aerial su vey of roads leading into Chicago aft the holiday"—and the worst congest road was U. S. 12 between Crystal La and Barrington.

This road at that point is a two la highway, mostly hilly and very dangero on account of being up and down, a motorists held back by slow drive are racing out in other lane to pa causing accidents and tying up tra completely.

I understand that protests have bee sent in to the highway department Springfield. I personally have receiv notice from Mr. Lieberman, superi tendent of highways, that it is his opi ion that nothing will be done on th road for the next two years.

This highway is used by motorists g ing to Crystal Lake, Woodstock, Delava Lake Geneva, and Madison, Wis. Don you think highways department ought make some effort to help motor trav of this main travel highway instead the many side roads they are putti in that are seldom used? W. J. FOSTER.

NEWS AND VIEWS

The Goodyear Tire and Rubber company and the United States Rubber company last week announced the development of a new tire design in which rayon is substituted for the usual cotton in the cords of the carcass. The tires with rayon, an artificial silk of processed cellulose, are for bearing heavy weights at high speeds, such as in bus service and some truck service. The engineers say that this new design has advantages in resisting and in dissipating heat generated by the rapid and constant flexing of the tire.

Successful application of an X-ray method in testing motor lubricants for their efficiency in protecting metals from injurious surface wear was announced last week by the Conti nental Oil company. The new tests which are attracting wide attentio among lubrication experts, were de vised by Dr. George L. Clark, fore most authority on X-ray diffractio in collaboration with his Universit of Illinois colleague, Robert R. Ste rett, and with Bert H. Lincoln, Conc co scientist.

Differing radically from any pre vious test of lubrication efficiency the process provides that metal firs be subjected to a powerful X-ra beam. Much as sunlight is diffracte by a pane of glass, the beam is di fracted by the metal and a pictur taken of the pattern created by th diffraction. Then the metal is lubri cated and run under a constant loa for a given time, following which th metal is again subjected to the X-ra beam.

Differences in the pictures of th diffraction pattern taken before an after the metal has been worked re veal the efficiency of the lubricant since they reveal the degree o change which has taken place withi the internal structure of the metal Obviously the lubricant which per mits the least such change is th most efficient lubricant.

ROGAHN TAKES ALL-EVENTS PIN LEAD AT DULUTH

Duluth, Minn., March 6.—(AP)—O. Roghan of Milwaukee took the lead in the all events of the second annual Arrowhead international bowling tournament today.

He added a doubles score of 650 and singles count of 654 to the 576 he chalked up in the team event last night. His aggregate was 1,880, thirty-five pins more than I. Steinhibel of St. Paul.

H. Steers and F. Wright of Chicago hold the doubles lead with 1,222.

SEABISCUIT IS STAKE WINNER AT SANTA ANITA

Breaks Track Record in $10,000 Handicap.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 6.—(AP)—Sea Biscuit won the $10,000 added San Seabiscuit won the $10,000 added San Santa Anita park closed the most successful race meeting in the history of the west.

Forty-five thousand spectators turned out to play a final million dollar melody on the betting machines, planking down nearly a quarter of a million on the feature event that found C. S. Howard's Seabiscuit romping in to win by seven lengths.

Grand Manitou, the bay colt Raoul Walsh of motion picture fame brought over from France, upset the dope in finishing second. The double entry of Maj. Austin C. Taylor, Special Agent and Indian Broom, ran third and fourth in that order.

Sets a Track Record.

Seabiscuit's triumph was achieved in track record time of 1 minute 48 4-5 seconds, lowering the mark of 1 minute 49 2-5 seconds set two years ago by Time Supply for the mile and one furlong.

Jocky Johnny Pollard, who rode Seabiscuit in last week's $100,000 Santa Anita handicap and lost by a nose to Rosemont, piloted his mount in masterly fashion again today.

Top weighted at 120 pounds, six more than last week, Seabiscuit pounded into the lead rounding the turn into the stretch. Gaining distance at each stride, he charged past the grandstands for his impressive victory despite the excess poundage.

Winner Pays $5.

The public's betting favorite along with the Taylor entry, Seabiscuit paid $5, $4, and $2.80. Grand Manitou, a long shot, rewarded his backers with $35 and $5.60 and Special Agent paid $2.40.

Ten horses went to the post, nine of them candidates a week ago in the $100,000 Santa Anita.

Red Rain ran fifth, trailed by Golden Eye, Silk Mask, Star Shadow, Gold Seeker, and Chance View.

Seabiscuit's share of the purse was $9,200, Grand Manitou's $2,000, and the Taylor candidates, which ran three-four a week ago just as today except that they swapped positions, won $1,000 and $500.

Set Betting Mark.

A new mark for a season's betting handle was registered as the 53 day meeting came to a close. The total handle was unofficially placed at $29,509,489 following today's eight race handle of $1,322,673.

Last year in 58 days of racing, $25,251,933 went through the pari-mutuel machines. Average betting this year was better than $533,000 a day, and the state's tax cut of 4 per cent on wagering will mount to more than $1,200,000, exclusive of other levies.

SURPRISE! FILLY BEATS COLTS FOR RICH STAKE

Columbiana, W. J. Hirsch's speedy filly, flashes across the finish line to win the $50,000 Widener cup race yesterday at Hialeah Park. Mrs. Emil Denemark's Finance is getting home second, and J. W. Parrish's Dellor third. Columbiana's victory surprised most of the spectators and as a result she paid $14.20 to win in the mutuel betting. She ran the mile and a quarter in 2:01 4-5, which equaled the track record.

Meet the winner—Columbiana, the filly who outran a fast field of colts in yesterday's rich stake event at Hialeah Park.

Time, 1:11 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Blakeen, $18.50 straight, $8.10 place, $4.30 show; Good Dame, $12.50 place, $6.00 show; Paul Junior, $3.70 show. Winner, blk. f., 4, by Sun Edwin-Hurry Home. Owner, Mrs. J. McGraw. Trainer, J. McGraw. Start good. Won easily; place same. Went to post at 2:01. At post 2 minutes.

BLAKEEN got away fast, was rated along behind GOOD DAME to the final furlong, where she ran into lead and drew away, winning easily. GOOD DAME had plenty of speed, opened wide gap but weakened suddenly. PAUL JUNIOR well up all the way. MANY MOONS failed to close any ground. M. J. BRENNAN failed to get on his toes, but closed some ground.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles, on the turf. Claiming. Four year olds and up that have not won a race on the turf since Jan. 12. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, 1:47 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Albuquerque, $15.60 straight, $6.00 place, $4.00 show; American Belle, $4.10 place, $2.80 show; Briny Deep, $3.40 show. Winner, ch. g., 5, by Monk's Way-Pleasure. Owner, F. L. Flanders. Trainer, R. McIlvain. Start good. Won driving; place easily. Went to post at 2:31. At post 4 minutes.

ALBUQUERQUE was sent to the front soon after the start, saved ground going into first turn and rated along and, though tiring, gamely held on. AMERICAN BELLE broke fast, but was crowded back going into first turn, made up ground gradually, was taken wide on turn and then went to the inside and finished very fast. BRINY DEEP, on the extreme outside at the start, lost considerable ground in early running, closed fast. WATCH HIM, well up, had no mishap. GOLD STANDARD tired badly. QUEEN VIC ran well for seven furlongs, then quit.

THIRD RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Claiming. Four year olds and up. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Owner, Mrs. K. Ramsey. Trainer, K. Ramsey. Start good. Won easily; place same. Went to post at 3:01. At post 2 minutes.

LIVE ONE, well ridden, was hustled along in early part in a nice position, made his move around turn, assumed command entering stretch, drew away at end. ROUND TABLE got away fast, but appeared to try to run out on turn, took lead around turn and was next best. TIME TO GO moved up with a rush. PANALONG trailed far back, came fast on the inside. SWEET GUINEA had no mishap. BRAVADO had plenty of speed, but stopped badly.

FOURTH RACE—Three furlongs, straightaway. Nursery course. Two year olds, foaled in 1935, which have won a race. Hialeah juvenile championship. Purse $2,500 added. Net value to winner, $2,950; second, $500; third, $250; fourth, $100.

Time, 2:01 4-5 [equals track record]. Two dollar mutuels paid: Columbiana, $14.20 straight, $5.40 place, $4.30 show; Finance, $3.40 place, $2.90 show; Dellor, $8.20 show. Winner, b. f., 4, by Petee Wrack-Firetop. Owner, W. J. Hirsch. Trainer same. Start good. Won easily; place same. Went to post at 4:11. At post 5 minutes.

It was a very rough race in which half of the field was knocked completely out of all contention. COLUMBIANA was lucky to escape the crowding. She was rated along for six furlongs, began to move up in last half mile and, closing with a good burst of speed in last furlong, caught FINANCE in stretch and won going away. FINANCE had plenty of speed and got clear of interference early, was sent to the front, displayed good speed, but weakened suddenly. DELLOR ran a remarkable race. He was well up all the way and gave way only in the final sixteenth. COUNT ARTHUR was forced very wide around turn and finished out in the middle of the track. AZUCAR broke slow and suffered early interference, worked his way up and finished with a rush on the inside. WHOPPER was crowded just after the start, but recovered, ran into a contending position, but stopped badly at end of a mile. MUCHO GUSTO had plenty of speed for seven furlongs. TWO BOB got clear sailing on inside all the way. Just at the start BOW AND ARROW swerved to inside, crowding MAERIEL, WHOPPER, AZUCAR and going past the stand. WHITE COCKADE was almost knocked down and boy pulled him up. MAERIEL had no chance.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Claiming. Three year olds and up, nonwinners of two races in 1937. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

F. East. Trainer, C. Raynor. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:50. At post 3½ minutes.

FINISHER, on the outside around turn, came with a rush in between horses in stretch and won going away. PELERINE was allowed to go very wide entering stretch, which cost her the race. PATRIOTIC displayed keen speed, but tired badly.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and a furlong. Three year olds. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

PENNSYLVANIA'S HORSE RACE BILL EARNS BACKING

Philadelphia, Pa., March 6.—[Special.]—Philadelphia's forty-four Democratic members of the general assembly today threw their support behind the proposal to legalize horse racing and pari-mutuel betting at Pennsylvania tracks.

Indorsement of the plan was given at a caucus at the Penn A. C. after Democratic City Chairman John B. Kelly, state secretary of revenue, reiterated his stand in favor of legalizing the sport, although he believes racing in the state should be restricted to three tracks and county fairs.

A bill making horse racing legal in this state is now before the legislature. Gov. Earle, however, is understood to be opposed to its enactment.

Lake Michigan Towns Ready for Smelt Runs

BY BOB BECKER.

Towns and cities along the shores of Lake Michigan that annually look forward to a run of smelt already are preparing for their big festivals and carnivals to celebrate the spring migration of the small silvery fish. There are countless millions of the little smelt in Lake Michigan. During the latter part of March they stage a spawning run from the big water up small streams. When this occurs towns located close to these spectacular fish migrations hold parties that attract visitors from many states.

There are several towns in the northern part of Michigan that have big parties during the smelt run. East Jordan, Mich., already has announced the date for its annual smelt jamboree. It will occur on March 20. The Jordan River Sportsman's club will put on a parade, a banquet for visiting smelt fishermen, and then at 9 o'clock that evening everybody will go to the river bank and dip smelt.

Marinette, Menominee Hold Carnivals.

Marinette, Wis., and Menominee, Mich., again will hold a smelt carnival, according to an announcement just received from Jack Boyle, head of the committee in charge of the event. The observance attending the annual smelt run will continue for six days. The dates for this big party are to be announced within a few days, but it is quite likely that the smelt dippers will gather at the river the latter part of March. It is possible that special trains will be run from Chicago to take visitors to this six day carnival.

The Menominee river smelt run is one of the heaviest around the Great Lakes. Last year 900 tons were caught in that vicinity. The celebration in March, 1936, included fireworks, big bonfires on the river bank after dark so the smelt dippers could do their stuff with every convenience, and nightly band concerts. Outdoor fans in the central states who are interested in visiting this smelt dipping party are advised to write Jack Boyle, Marinette, Wis., for details of this year's celebration. The exact dates of the carnival will be announced by this department within a few days.

Escanaba Event April 1-3.

Escanaba, Mich., has just set April 1 to 3 as the dates for its 1937 smelt jubilee. William Duchaine of that city writes us that Escanaba is planning on having the Queen of Smeltiana, who will be crowned on April 1, visit Chicago. The smelt enter streams near Escanaba, which is on the shore of Lake Michigan above Marinette and Menoninee. Like other cities who celebrate the spring run of smelt Escanaba stages a colorful and gay party at the time of the run.

Yale Deals Cornell 10th Defeat, 39 to 31

Ithaca, N. Y., March 6.—[U. P.]—Led by Larry Kelley and Capt. Miles, the Yale basketball quintet dealt Cornell, its tenth league defeat, 39 to 31, tonight.

AGUA CALIENTE TO REOPEN WITH 100 DAY MEETING

Normile Confirms Rumor of Track's Sale.

MEXICO CITY, March 6.—(AP)—A 100 day racing season for the $3,500,000 Agua Caliente race track in Lower California, idle for two years, was announced here tonight. The meeting will start next week, according to Margarito Arce and Juan Francisco Arevalo, representatives of the workers' organization which owned the track until its recent sale to an American syndicate.

Many of the horses which ran at the Santa Anita track during its season, which closed today, are expected to come to Agua Caliente.

Arce and Arevalo said they had President Lazaro Cardenas' signed authority for the resumption of racing and wagering at the track, which Cardenas' anti-gambling decrees closed in 1935.

Normile Confirms Sale.

Gene Normile, veteran Los Angeles turfman, today confirmed announcements of the track's sale by a Mexican workers' group to an American syndicate. Normile watched the growth of horse racing in Mexico through the Tijuana stage and into the building of the Agua Caliente Jocky club track in 1929.

It was at Agua Caliente that James Coffroth's dream of developing the world's richest horse race came true.

In 1929 Coffroth raised his Coffroth handicap at Tijuana to $108,900. The gala opening of Agua Caliente the following season found the first Agua Caliente handicap of $108,300 won by Victorian. In 1931 7 year old Mike Hall, rising from the ranks of the platers, took the second Agua Caliente handicap by a neck from Sun Beau.

The next year the great Phar Lap, coming from Australia, trained in mystery and secrecy, was the winner over a field which included a Preakness winner, an American Derby winner, the champion of Canada, the New Orleans winter champion, and others. In the following two years Gallant Sir took the big stake in succession.

Cardenas Bans Gambling.

This was during the years of prohibition and closed tracks in adjoining California. Across the road from the jocky club was the famous $10,000,000 spa, the gambling casino which lured famous figures from all walks of life.

In July, 1935, President Cardenas banned gambling in Mexico and the track closed.

MISHAWAKA WINS TOURNEY.

Mishawaka, Ind., March 6.—[Special.]—Mishawaka High school tonight defeated the Lakeville, Ind., High school basketball quintet, 44 to 38, in the finals of the local sectional tournament.

LOOK AT LaSALLE!

THE GREATEST SALES IN HISTORY

The new La Salle V-8 is selling at the fastest rate in La Salle history. And small wonder—for here, surely, is the greatest value the fine-car field has ever seen.

Prices begin at only $1095 for a car designed and built entirely by Cadillac—and powered by a 125 horsepower V-8 Cadillac engine!

And, remember, that is the DELIVERED PRICE AT DETROIT, and includes all standard accessories. Only transportation, state and local sales taxes need be added.

The new La Salle V-8 is economical, too. It is unusually sparing of gasoline and oil, while service costs are surprisingly low.

In fact, many say their new La Salles cost less to drive than cars of even lower price.

Before you buy a car at any price, we urge you to look at La Salle. The chances are your present car will make the down payment.

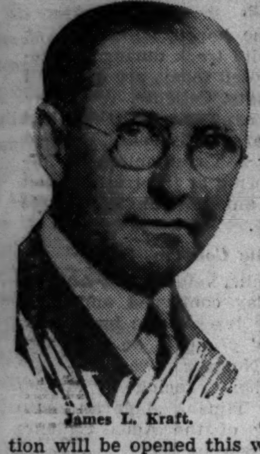
Break Ground This Week for $2,000,000 Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation's Plant

CITY'S LARGEST INDUSTRIAL UNIT IN SEVERAL YEARS

Will Be Headquarters for World Trade.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Ground will be broken this week for Chicago's largest industrial project in several years, the two million dollar plant of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation, to be erected on the west side of Peshtigo court, extending from Grand avenue to Illinois street, on the near north side. Bids for its construction will be opened this week.



James L. Kraft.

President James L. Kraft, who is expected back from Florida tomorrow, will be in charge of the ground breaking ceremonies to take place within a few days. Placing of steel and pouring of concrete will get under way not later than April 1, it was announced, with completion scheduled for fall.

Original Plans Changed.

The big plant, to be one block west of the new outer drive bridge now nearing completion, will be eight stories high on Peshtigo court, with a five story wing fronting on Illinois street. The original plans by the architects, Mundie, Jensen, Bourke & Havens, first published last October, have been considerably changed. Instead of two towers facing east there will be one ten story tower unit.

The entire plant will be air-conditioned both winter and summer throughout the laboratories, offices, and manufacturing units. The temperature control equipment will be housed in the tower.

An architectural feature will be a large bronze and terra cotta staf which will extend from the two story high entrance arch up the front of the main building, over the tower, enclosing a large electric sign.

The exterior walls will be of light buff colored vitreous brick with all window spaces in the five manufacturing floors to be of glass bricks.

The first floor in the new plant will be used mostly for shipping. Manufacturing activities will be housed on the second to fifth floors. Offices and laboratories will be on the sixth, seventh, and eighth floors.

Of reinforced concrete construction, the building will have a total of approximately 382,000 square feet of floor space. Of this the offices and laboratories will occupy nearly 80,000 square feet.

Visible Manufacturing.

Fireproof throughout, the plant will have colored kraft tile walls and floors in the storage and manufacturing units. Washable paint will be used on all ceilings. Floors and walls will have rounded sanitary corners and plain surfaces to make frequent washing easy.

Arrow indicates site of new Kraft-Phenix plant.

In order that visitors may watch the manufacturing processes, large rooms with plate glass partitions dividing them from the work floor space will give a panoramic view of all operations.

The plant site, fronting 218 feet on Peshtigo court and 428 feet on both Grand avenue and Illinois street, was leased for fifty years with an option to renew, from the Chicago Dock and Canal company.

The new plant will supplant the present Kraft building at Rush street and the river and four other Chicago units. It will serve as international headquarters for operations of all Kraft American plants, as well as those in Canada, England, Australia, Germany, Holland, France, and Argentina.

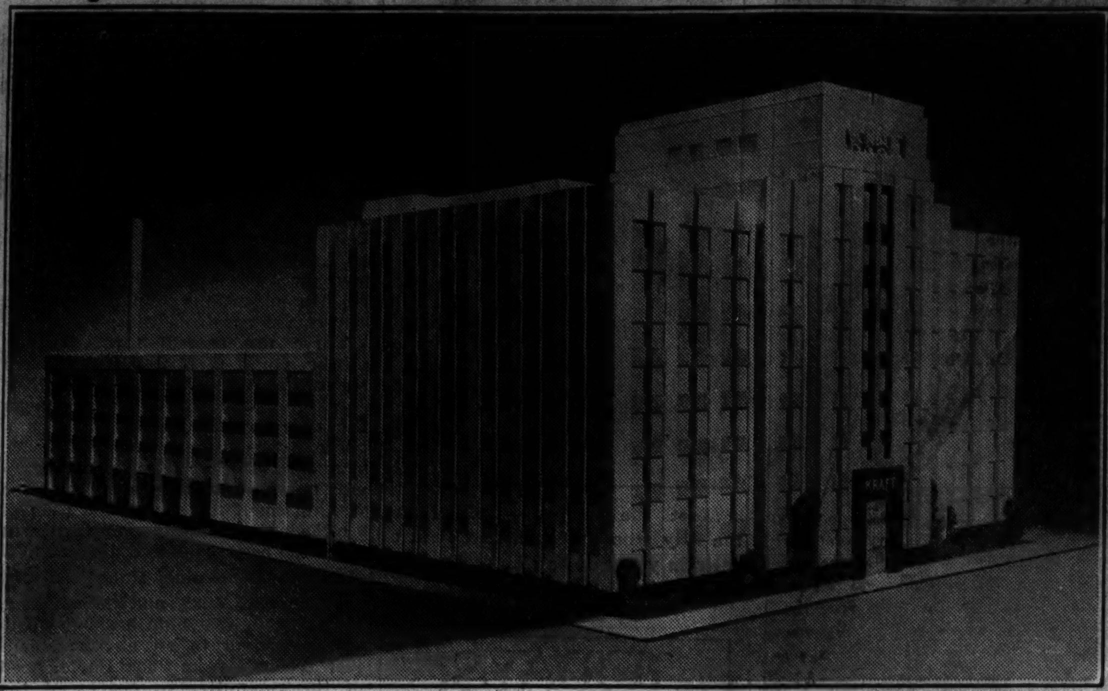
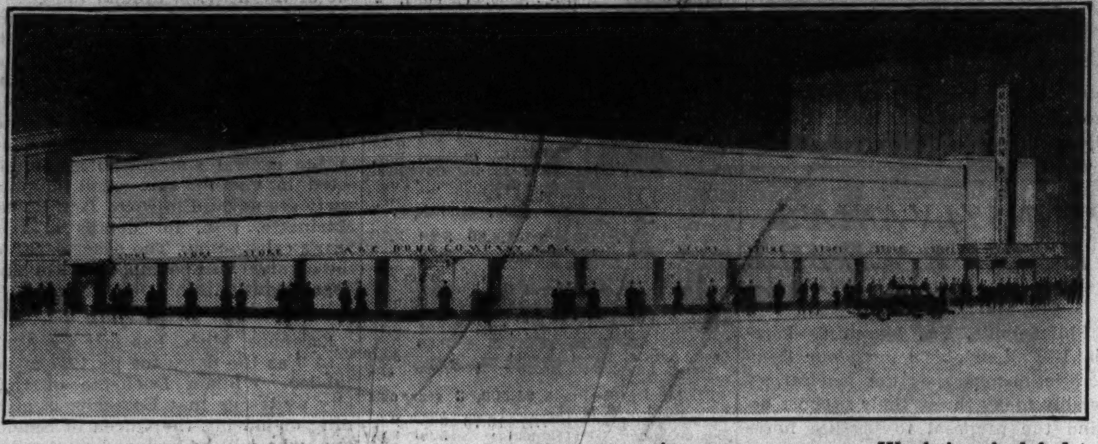
New Project for Near North Side



A dioramic model of the new world headquarters of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation, designed by Mundie, Jensen, Bourke & Havens, is shown above. It will occupy about two-thirds of a leased site on Peshtigo court, Illinois street, and Grand avenue. The exterior design is radically different from the original sketch published last October. Ground will be broken this week by President James L. Kraft.

Improvement for Lincoln-Lawrence Corner



The above combination new construction and remodeling of the northeast corner of Lincoln and Lawrence avenues, from plans by Philip B. Maher, will represent a reported $200,000 investment by the owner, an eastern insurance company. Work is scheduled to start April 15, with completion four months later. Air conditioning will be provided tenants who want it. A theater may be built later.

Plan $200,000 Improvement at Lincoln and Lawrence

About $200,000 will be spent in improving the northeast corner of Lincoln and Lawrence avenues with a combination new and remodeled two story business block, according to Philip B. Maher, architect.

On 50 of the 100 feet of Lincoln avenue frontage a new building will be erected. On the balance of the Lincoln frontage and extending 150 feet along Lawrence avenue the present structure will be completely remodeled to correspond architecturally with the new unit.

May Build Cinema.

On the remaining 20 feet of Lawrence avenue frontage, at the northwest corner of Claremont avenue, and on the large area of vacant land in the rear, a theater is under consideration. Several years ago a playhouse was planned by the owner at that place.

The first floor of the new project will be divided into nine stores, negotiations for which are now under way with several national chains. A large portion of the second floor will be arranged for doctors' and dentists' offices.

Once Occupied by Bank.

The property is owned by a large eastern insurance company, represented by the First Management corporation, of which O. P. Alford is president. The latter concern is represented on the premises by the Lincoln Square Realty company.

The Lincoln-Lawrence corner section at one time was occupied by the Commercial State bank, which later was absorbed by the Bowmanville National bank.

TWO CATHOLIC INSTITUTIONS REFUND LOANS

Two large Catholic institutional refunding loans were reported yesterday by W. E. Gould & Co., recently appointed Chicago representative of B. C. Ziegler & Co. of West Bend, Wis. The Ziegler concern has negotiated catholic loans for thirty-five years.

A $3,100,000 fifteen year refunding loan was made for St. Mary's college and academy, Monroe, Mich., at from 3 to 4 per cent. Gould & Co. recently made a $675,000 ten year loan on St. Francis hospital, Evanston, for Ziegler & Co. The interest was graduated from 3 to 4½ per cent.

Brokers' Notes

Laurence J. White Sr., one of the original subdividers and builders in the Lawrence and Kedzie and the Bryn Mawr avenue districts, has opened an office for general real estate business at 188 West Randolph street.

Harold S. McGuire, active for many years in real estate management and brokerage and later as specialist in realty advertising in subdivision and building campaigns, has reopened offices at 360 North Michigan avenue.

Arthur Rubloff & Co. have been appointed agents of the sixteen story Insurance Center office building, 330 South Wells street.

HAMMANN MORTGAGE COMPANY MOVES TO 805 NORTH CLARK

The Hammann Mortgage company, founded thirty-eight years ago by Albert F. Hammann and said to be the oldest and largest mortgage banking house outside the loop, has leased larger quarters at 805-09 North Clark street, just north of the Cosmopolitan State bank building, at the Chicago avenue corner.

A. F. Hammann.
[Walinger Photo.]

In 1899 Hammann organized the company bearing his name at his home at 939 North Winchester avenue. Later he erected a building at Chicago and Winchester avenues. He moved yesterday from his present quarters at 1604 West Chicago avenue to the new north side location.

In connection with its mortgage business, the concern operates the Hammann Realty company and the Hammann Appraisal organization. Albert F. Hammann is president and Arthur M. Hammann is secretary and treasurer.

HOTEL CONCERN PAYS $110,000 FOR WALDORF

The four story 110 room Waldorf hotel at 6139-41 Ellis avenue was purchased by Raskin Brothers of 530 Diversey parkway from the Liberty National bank, trustee, for a reported $110,000, of which $25,000 was cash. The balance is to be paid in semi-annual installments. O. P. Curran Jr. was broker. George F. Anderson of Anderson & Anderson, was attorney. The buyers operate twelve hotels in Chicago.

Contracts Awarded

Contracts awarded in Chicago during the week of Feb. 26 to March 4, according to figures supplied by the F. W. Dodge corporation, totaled 44, with a combined cost of $982,500. For the corresponding week last year there were 27 contracts totaling $635,700. So far this year the total cost of contracts is $7,182,399, compared with $4,440,592 for the same period last year.

Apartment Building for the West Side

For the first time in many months plans are announced for a three story apartment building. Alexander & Brandt have designed the above fifteen flat structure, with two, three, and four room units, to be erected by J. C. Flexner on the south side of Lyndale street, west of Kilbourn avenue and across from Hermosa park, at a reported cost of $28,000. Miles Sater made this perspective.

"Space Flow" to Be Feature of New Flats

"Space flow" or open concept in planning, as opposed to the traditional space inclosing type, will be a feature of an apartment building announced for erection on the south side of Lyndale street, just west of Kilbourn avenue, opposite Hermosa park. The architects, Alexander & Brandt, state that all partitions within each of the fifteen apartments, except where absolute privacy is required, will be eliminated.

Doors which ordinarily are never closed, are dispensed with and the resulting openings will be made wider and extended to the ceiling. Lightweight sliding screens of translucent decorated plastic will separate living and dining rooms, and dinettes from kitchens, an idea borrowed from the Japanese.

The architects assert this flexibility in floor layouts will reduce the construction cost in addition to making small apartments seem larger than they really are. Glass brick will be used extensively in exterior walls.

This will be one of the first fair sized apartment buildings, with no stores included, to be erected in Chicago in several years. Work is scheduled to start about May 1 with completion set for the middle of the summer. The owner is J. C. Flexner.

START ERECTING DEVON AVENUE PICTURE HOUSE

Erection of steel has been started on the theater at the northeast corner of Devon and Maplewood to be owned and operated jointly by Balaban & Katz and Sam C. Meyers. Avery Brundage yesterday was awarded the contract for the balance of the building. Designed by Rapp & Rapp, the new cinema, tentatively named "The Maple," will be completed during the coming summer.

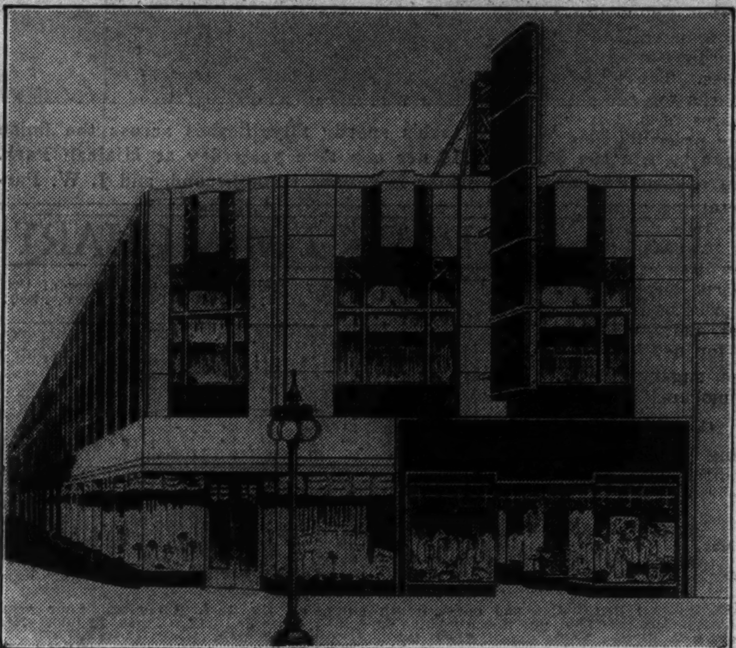
Owing to poor subsoil conditions the boiler room will be placed over the lobby instead of beneath the theater. Glass masonry will be used extensively. According to the architects, the project will cost $150,000 and the theater unit will seat approximately 1,000.

News of the Architects

Election of delegates to the annual convention of the American Institute of Architects in Boston next June, will be held at the monthly meeting of the Chicago chapter of the A. I. A. next Tuesday evening, March 9, at the Architects' club.

Philip D. West, architect, has opened offices at 520 North Michigan avenue.

New Oak Park Store



The Bond Clothing company will open its first suburban store next Wednesday morning at 1133 Lake street, Oak Park, under the management of Walter Elliott. It will occupy two floors. The company has three Chicago stores.

ARCHITECT HEADS SHOW COMMITTEE AT HOME EXPOSITION

Carl E. Heimbrodt, Chicago architect, yesterday was announced as chairman of the show committee of the National House and Garden exposition, to be held at the Coliseum from May 8 to 16. He was chosen at the first organization meeting held on March 2 at the Hotel Sherman. Heimbrodt is secretary of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects, consulting architect for the Electric association, and president of the central division of the Architects' Small House Service bureau.

Hoefeld Rents State Street Store Space

Hoefeld, Inc., acquired some time ago by United Shirt Distributors, Inc., of Detroit, Mich., yesterday leased on a minimum guarantee and percentage basis for ten years the ground floor and sales basement at 206-12 South State street, from the John R. Thompson company. The store has a frontage of 29 feet, with a depth of 100 feet.

The premises are now occupied by Benson & Rixon, who will move about Oct. 15 to their eight story building to be erected at the southwest corner of State and Quincy streets.

Hoefeld, Inc. will remodel the property and install air conditioning at a reported cost of $25,000, and open its eighth Chicago men's furnishings store. According to J. E. Ehrenhalt & Co., who negotiated the lease, Hoefeld contemplates ten more local branch stores.

OAK PARK REALTY BOARD WILL HAVE BIRTHDAY PARTY

In celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Oak Park Real Estate board the program committee of that organization announces an old-fashioned birthday party to be held at the Oak Park Arms hotel, on Tuesday evening, March 16.

Members of the Oak Park Chamber of Commerce, the service clubs and neighboring real estate boards have been invited. The program committee consists of Miss Catherine Concannon, W. B. Ross, P. E. Zimmerman, T. A. Sumner, R. E. Nicholas, and George B. Waterstraat, chairman.

EXPECT RECORD REALTY BOARD SALES SESSION

Plan All-Day Conference at Hotel Sherman.

With nearly 1,000 reservations reported up to last night for the all-day sales conference of the brokers' division of the Chicago Real Estate board at the Hotel Sherman next Wednesday, all records for a similar session will be broken. According to Arthur Kruggel, general chairman of the affair, a minimum attendance of 1,500 is expected. Accommodations, however, will be provided for 2,000.

C. C. Willmore.

From 9:30 a. m. until late in the evening the grand ballroom of the hotel will be the center of clinical discussions of sales problems by nationally known sales executives in the realty field, exhibits of modern administrative methods, and addresses on various realty matters.

Lorish to Welcome Realtors.

Following introductions by Clarence O. Rosain, vice president of the Chicago Real Estate board, in charge of the brokers' division, the program will get under way Wednesday morning with greetings by Fred M. Lorish, president. A keynote address will be made by Arthur Kruggel on "A New Real Estate Cycle Is Here." Other speakers will be Hobart Brady, former president of the Wichita Real Estate board; James C. Downs Jr., and John A. Berge.

The admission ticket includes dinner and entertainment. Following the dinner will come the principal speaker of the evening session, Cyrus Crane Willmore, nationally known real estate developer of St. Louis and former president of the St. Louis Real Estate exchange. His subject will be "Optimism, the Tempo of the New Real Estate Cycle."

Other Boards to Participate.

Suburban real estate boards will take an active part in the conference, according to William C. F. Kolmar, chairman of the publicity committee. Both the Oak Park and the Evanston-North Shore Real Estate boards have accepted invitations to send speakers.

Other chairmen and their committees active in promoting the conference are Elmer Stults, arrangements; Edward F. Rysinger, exhibits; Joseph Dorfman, tickets and advertising; Robert Graham, reception; William C. Regelin, entertainment; William Bender, house committee.

MOVIE THEATER TO BE BUILT ON ROOSEVELT ROAD

Contracts were signed yesterday for the demolition of the property at 3715-19 West Roosevelt road and the construction of a 900 seat movie theater, which has been leased for 25 years to Road Theaters, Inc. The new building will also contain two large stores.

Samuel B. Blanksten, who represented the theater concern, said that razing of the present buildings will be started about April 1. Completion of the new structure, which will cost approximately $100,000, is scheduled for Oct. 1.

The building was designed by Oman and Lilienthal and will be erected by the Benjamin Chemers company. It will be modernistic in design, air conditioned, and heated with oil. The lessors, Sadie and Elmer Fisher, were represented by Ashcraft and Ashcraft. The theater will be known as the Road.

Sheridan Road Flats Are Sold for $115,000

The forty flat building at 7024-34 Sheridan road, at the southwest corner of Greenleaf, was sold by the Casper American State bank to Maurice J. Hall for an indicated $115,000. Frankenstein & Co. were brokers.

DENY ROOSEVELT CLAIM OF HARM IN COURT'S ACTS

Economists Point to Rise in Products.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Stirred by President Roosevelt's latest demand for power to pack the Supreme court in order to jam through New Deal legislation, La Salle street economists have been combing through the figures to discover just what has been the effect of the Supreme court's decisions on the tide of recovery, particularly as applied to agriculture.

"I defy any one to read the majority opinion invalidating the AAA and tell us what we can do for agriculture in this session of the congress with any reasonable certainty that what we do will not be nullified as unconstitutional," the President said in his speech Thursday night.

Challenge Roosevelt's Statement.

Figure experts in the financial district challenge this implication that agricultural recovery is being impeded by the Supreme court's decisions ruling that New Deal farm measures do not measure up to the powers granted the federal government in the constitution as it now stands.

In citing their reasons for questioning the soundness of the contention that the Supreme court is holding back agricultural recovery, these figure men hark back to the now famous White House press conference on May 31, 1935, in which President Roosevelt made his now famous "horse and buggy" attack on the Supreme court. During this interview he predicted that invalidation of the agricultural adjustment act by the court would force the price of wheat down to 36 cents per bushel and the price of cotton down to 5 cents per pound.

The press conference followed the Supreme court's unanimous decision on May 27, 1935, holding the National Recovery act illegal. The AAA was ruled unconstitutional seven months later.

Price of Wheat Higher.

On May 27, 1935, the day of the NRA decision, wheat for May delivery on the Chicago Board of Trade closed at 86⅝ cents per bushel. Yesterday May wheat closed at $1.35⅝ per bushel. Thus, instead of dropping to the 36 cent level predicted by the President, wheat has actually risen 56 per cent since the AAA was thrown out by the court. Wheat this season is selling at the highest prices since the boom days of 1929.

Cotton, too, has risen in the face of the President's forecast of a slump to a nickel a pound. Despite increased production abroad, encouraged by the crop reduction program of the AAA itself, cotton is worth more now than it was on the day of the President's prediction. Yesterday cotton for July delivery closed at 13.44 cents per pound in Chicago, compared with 12.10 cents on May 27, 1935, an increase of 11 per cent.

Other Farm Products Advance.

Other agricultural products not mentioned in the President's "horse and buggy" interview have shown similar gains. Corn for May delivery is now selling in Chicago at $1.08⅝ per bushel, compared with 83½ cents on May, 1935, an increase of 31 per cent. The Associated Press composite average of wholesale prices has risen from 72.48 per cent of the 1926 average to 92.75 per cent since the day when the Supreme court found the NRA unconstitutional.

This improvement in agriculture has also discredited the statement of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in a Detroit speech on June 7, 1935, that there was the gravest possibility of the nation's sinking back to the depression levels of 1932 unless it should continue to import 500 million dollars of gold per year; start loaning money abroad; cancel all debts owed from abroad, both public and private; have a continuation of exceedingly unfavorable weather so that products can't be put on foreign markets; make up its mind to a resolute continuance of the AAA, and import into the country as much as is exported.

Stocks and Bonds Rise.

Improvement since the death of the NRA has not been limited to agriculture. On May 27, 1935, THE TRIBUNE average for fifty stocks stood at 92.68. Yesterday the same average had risen to 142.12. The Associated Press average for 20 selected railroad bonds rose from 70.7 to 97.0 during the same period; the industrial bond average increased from 96.7 to 103.9, and the utility bond average from 92.7 to 101.3.

Cotton, Rubber Climb to New Seasonal Peak

Additional advances in the cotton and rubber markets yesterday send those commodities to the highest prices of the season. European buying was credited with lifting the price of cotton which has been something of a laggard in the latest advances in commodity prices.

Cotton futures in the Chicago, New York, and New Orleans markets advanced 0.15 to 0.39 of a cent a pound. The future contracts maturing after the harvest of the 1937 crop closed a cent a pound, or $5 a bale, above the quotations prevailing a week earlier. Cotton for delivery in May closed in Chicago at 13.61 cents a pound against Friday's price of 13.46.

Building Up Reserves.

Cotton traders said that the buying in the futures market in the last few days by foreign interests indicate that some countries are building up reserve supplies.

Yesterday's advances in rubber prices lifted future contracts to the highest level in seven years. The gains ranged from a third to more than half a cent a pound. Rubber for delivery in May closed in New York at 23.07 cents a pound compared with Friday's price of 22.72 cents. A week ago the same contract was quoted at less than 22 cents a pound.

Other Commodities Rise.

Other commodities which advanced in yesterday's trading were copper and hides. The latter sold at new high marks for the season with net price gains of 0.12 to 0.20 of a cent over the preceding day.

Copper futures advanced approximately a twentieth of a cent a pound. The metal was quoted for delivery in May at 15.16 cents. In the export market transactions were reported between 16.45 to 16.475 cents, at European ports, but there was no change in the price of 15 cents a pound that has been maintained by domestic producers for nearly two weeks.

Coffee, sugar, and cocoa prices declined moderately yesterday.

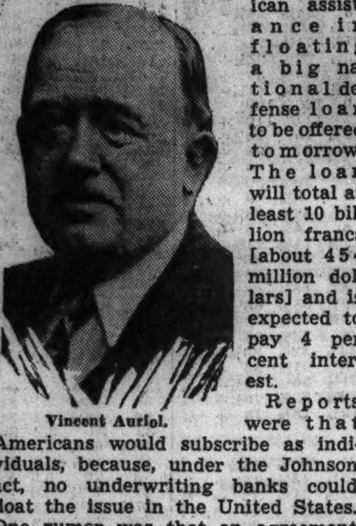
U. S. AIDING BIG FRENCH LOAN, PARIS ASSERTS

Report Loophole in Johnson Act.

Political circles in France were buzzing last night with reports of American assistance in floating a big national defense loan to be offered tomorrow. The loan will total at least 10 billion francs [about 454 million dollars] and is expected to pay 4 per cent interest.



Vincent Auriol.

Reports were that Americans would subscribe as individuals, because, under the Johnson act, no underwriting banks could float the issue in the United States. One rumor was that an agreement had been reached between Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and the government of Premier Leon Blum under which American banks could aid the French in floating the issue.

Comment Is Withheld.

Morgenthau refrained from commenting on the French borrowing at the conclusion of conferences in Washington with Georges Bonnet, new French ambassador; V. A. L. Mallett, counselor of the British embassy, and George L. Harrison, president of the New York Federal Reserve bank. Morgenthau said that the treasury would not make any statement until the terms of the French loan were announced in Paris by Finance Minister Vincent Auriol.

"Anybody who reads the papers can see that the franc is having its troubles, and naturally I am doing all I can to protect our own interests and the tripartite agreement," he asserted. "The tripartite agreement worked yesterday and worked today, and, as far as I know, it will work Monday. The discussions we had consisted primarily of an exchange of information."

How Americans Could Buy.

The French understanding, according to cables from Paris, was that the United States treasury would not permit banks to take up the loan directly, but that the government would not oppose the banks advising clients to buy the bonds. No difficulty would be experienced in this respect, it was said, because the bonds are payable in dollars and pound sterling. The French also anticipated aid from the British bankers.

The Johnson act was designed to prevent lending of money to nations still owing war debts to the United States.

In American financial quarters it was reported that a loophole had been discovered in the law which would allow banks having sums deposited abroad to use these moneys for purchase of the new French securities.

Hints of Cummings' Statement.

When questioned concerning this Morgenthau said he did not consider himself sufficiently versed to render a lawyer's opinion, but intimated that Attorney General Cummings may make a statement on the subject.

The French franc closed at 4.52½ cents yesterday at New York, off .03½ cent.

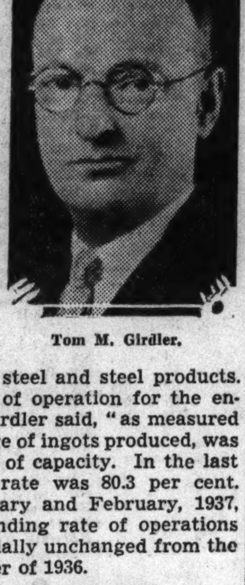
Republic Steel's Earnings Doubled; Others' Profits Rise

Tom M. Girdler, president of the Republic Steel corporation, yesterday reported to stockholders that net profit of the company for the year ended Dec. 31, last, amounted to $9,586,922, or more than double the $4,445,735 earned in the preceding year. The company is one of the largest independent producers of steel and steel products.



Tom M. Girdler.

"The rate of operation for the entire year," Girdler said, "as measured by the tonnage of ingots produced, was 70.9 per cent of capacity. In the last quarter the rate was 80.3 per cent. During January and February, 1937, the corresponding rate of operations was substantially unchanged from the fourth quarter of 1936.

Sales Prospects Promising.

"Sales prospects for the months ahead are promising. Domestic demand for the products of your corporation is being maintained at a very high rate and foreign requirements for steel in all its forms have increased rapidly recently."

Girdler called attention to the "ever increasing charges for federal, state, and local taxes, which amounted to $7,000,000 in 1936." Current assets at the year ended amounted to $93,523,639, including cash of $13,350,302, compared with current liabilities of $20,717,154.

Kellogg Switchboard and Supply company, Chicago, earned a profit of $302,653 last year, equal to $1 a share on common stock, compared with $115,030, or $5.36 a share, on the 7 per cent preferred stock, in the preceding year.

Utility Increases Earnings.

Southwestern Gas and Electric company—controled by Central and Southwest Utilities company—reported net income of $1,805,892 for 1936, equal to $20.44 a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock. This compares with $1,294,348, or $13.63 on the combined 7 and 8 per cent preferred stocks, for the preceding year.

Eagle-Picher Lead company reported for the year ended Dec. 31, 1936, net profit of $696,384 after charges and taxes, equal to 75 cents a share on the common stock, compared with $583,620, or 61 cents a share, in 1935. Current assets on Dec. 31 amounted to $9,090,056 and current liabilities were $1,812,660.

Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting and Power company had a loss for 1936 of $73,862, compared with 1935 net profit of $1,471,475.

Standard Gas Is Expected to File Capital Plan Soon

The Standard Gas and Electric company is expected to file a plan of reorganization under section 77B of the banruptcy act in feedral court here within the next two weeks. The plan is said to provide for reclassification of the funded debt, and retirement of dividend arrearages on the first preferred stock with new common stock. New common will also be offered in exchange for the $4 preferred shares.

WALGREEN FEBRUARY SALES SET RECORD; OTHER STORES GAIN

Walgreen company sales in February set a new high mark for that month, amounting to $5,186,888, an increase of 2½ per cent over the $5,059,383 for the like month of 1936 the company reported yesterday. In the preceding month of this year sales of $5,354,045 were also the largest on record for the month and 12.8 per cent above January, 1936.

In the first two months of 1937 sales totaled $10,540,824 compared with $9,803,976 in the corresponding two months of last year, an increase of $736,848, or 7½ per cent.

Associates Investment Votes Dividends, Elects Officers

Associates Investment company voted a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common and $1.25 on the preferred shares and reelected all officers and directors yesterday. E. M. Morris, president, told stockholders that purchases of receivables in January and February were substantially larger than a year ago.

Pig Iron Price Lifted $2 to Top Since '24

Following closely the advances in finished and semi-finished steel prices posted earlier last week, leading producers of pig iron in the Chicago and Pittsburgh areas yesterday announced an increase of $2 a ton. At the new price of $24 a ton pig iron is selling at the highest figure since 1924, when it brought $24.50 a ton. Including yesterday's $2 advance, the price increase in the last six months has amounted to $4.50.

Trade authorities believe that a world-wide shortage of pig iron is developing. The increase in the foreign demand and the growing requirements of domestic steel industry, which is operating at the highest level since 1929, have been responsible for the sharp price upturn.

Iron Output Largest Since 1929.

Pig iron production during February reached the highest daily rate since October, 1929, according to estimates made yesterday.

Eastern dealers reported that some orders for pig iron have already been placed on the new price basis. Furthermore, producers are not eager to book large forward orders even at the new price scale because they believe that quotations will be raised again. Low phosphorous and charcoal iron have been advanced $2 a ton to meet the higher market level.

Expect Advance in Ore.

Pig iron producers are expecting an advance in the price of iron ore. Each advance of 50 cents a ton in the price of ore adds $1 a ton to the cost of producing pig iron.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube company yesterday announced steel price increases of $3 to $8 a ton. It is understood that leading producers will not change the quotations on tin plate along with other products.

American Steel and Wire company announced increases of $4 to $7 a ton on rods, wire, nails, barbed wire, fending and other products. Wyckoft Drawn Steel company announced an advance of $7 a ton on cold drawn carbon and alloy steel.

WRIGHT GETS BIG AIRPLANE ENGINE ORDER

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—A contract for 141 model R-1820-49 geared Cyclone airplane engines at a cost of $1,099,729 was awarded by the war department today to the Wright Aeronautical corporation of Paterson, N. J.

One hundred nine of them will be installed in that number of O-47-A corps and observation airplanes being constructed by North American Aviation, Inc., of Inglewood, Cal. The rest will be held as spares. The engines are of the single row radial type developing 1,000 horsepower.

STEEL AND RAIL ISSUES VIE FOR MARKET HONORS

Both Groups Attain Recovery Peaks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 6.—Steel and railroad shares vied for leadership honors in a generally bullish stock market today. Both groups established new recovery price peaks on gains ranging as high as 6 points.

While there were some laggard groups, notably the motor, farm, and building issues, the list as a whole reflected a steady flow of constructive sentiment which was transferred into substantial price markups for the rubber, store, silver, and miscellaneous industrial issues.

Turnover was nearly three-quarters of a million shares in excess of that of last Saturday, mounting to 1,767,100 shares. It was the liveliest weekend market since Nov. 23, 1935.

Industrial News Optimistic.

While optimistic news from heavy industries, as well as from retail and wholesale trade, had much to do with the public's buying appetite, it was evident to many that a fresh undercurrent of inflation feeling was developing, stimulated by the steady rise in commodity prices.

The French monetary situation continued to cause some anxiety in trading circles and brokerage house comment showed that the so-called "Washington situation," featured by the administration's drive to pack the United States Supreme court, was as potently influential as ever. Until this fight is settled, traders generally feel that the future will be clouded and that caution in making important commitments had best be the watchword.

Rail Shares Forge Ahead.

Trading in the railroad shares reflected a growing confidence that business will forge ahead in spite of any handicaps ahead. Volume in the carrier group was the heaviest for a Saturday session in a long time and bidding for such issues as New York Central, Delaware and Hudson, Atchison, Great Northern, Baltimore and Ohio, Illinois Central, Pennsylvania, and Southern Pacific was active throughout the session.

New York Central touched 50 before the end of the first hour, a price which was only ten points under the figure at which the proposed new 3¼s will be convertible for ten years, and then plowed on to 51½ for

37% increase

In February this [illegible] personal loan volume showed an increase of 37% over February, 1936.

We take this increase to mean at least two definite things:

✓ It means that confidence in business recovery is becoming more and more a reality—the corner has been turned—the lights are green ahead—people are again acting naturally in going about their day's work.

✓ It means an increasing popularity of this bank in the minds of the people of this community, because our plan of lending is wisely designed to fit into the aims and purposes of forward looking families who know that wise borrowing is an aid to thrift and industry.

We are anxious to meet more and more thrifty-wise people who want to show an increase in their financial status. Call us up or write, if it isn't convenient for you to come in. We have no branches, but we are as near to you as your phone or mail box.

net gain of 2½ points on the day. Delaware and Hudson bettered its position by nearly 3 points, Baltimore and Ohio rose 2, and numerous other issues climbed major fractions to a point.

U. S. Steel Sets New High.

Steel issues came to the fore with a fresh rush in the last hour. United States Steel crossed 126 for a new high on a net advance of more than a point and Bethlehem, Republic, American Rolling Mills, and Gulf States rising 1 to 3 points each. Inland Steel finished more than $3 above its previous price level.

Chemical shares were in a bouyant mood under the leadership of Allied Chemical, which achieved a new high on a jump of 3½ points.

The motors were under pressure most of the time and the close found Chrysler more than a point lower. General Motors was fractionally higher for a while, but sagged in the late trading to finish unchanged from yesterday.

Numerous blocks of 1,000 to 3,000 shares changed hands throughout the session, most of them at rising prices. As usually happens in a market of this kind the ticker lagged behind during the greater part of the first hour.

MARSHALL FIELD HIGHER.

Marshall Field common stock continued to move ahead in active trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, trading between 29⅛ and 29⅞, a new high, and closing at 29¼, up ⅛ point.

The market displayed no definite trend. Of the 113 issues traded 37 finished higher, 33 lower, and 43 unchanged. Volume was 44,000 shares.

Common stock of Chicago corporation again led in volume for a single issue at 4,650 shares, closing ⅛ point higher at 6⅝, equal to its high for the year. Utah Radio Products was also active.

LARD

There was an active trade in lard futures yesterday, with aggressive commission house buying and short covering lifting prices 20 to 25 cents. Final trades were at the highest level of the day. Strength in cottonseed oil and commodities in general as well as the armament race in Europe were the bullish influences. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed unchanged to 5 cents higher. Cash lard was quoted at $12.85, loose $12.27½, leaf $11.62½, and clear bellies at $16.25 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

ALL LIVE STOCK HIGHER, DUE TO LIGHT RECEIPTS

Owing to further decreases in offerings of live stock from the country last week live costs rose sharply at the Chicago stockyards without a corresponding upturn in wholesale meat prices, which are being held in check by huge storage stocks. Pressed for supplies packers bid steers up unevenly 25 to 75 cents per hundred pounds and bought butcher stock 25 to 50 cents higher, in face of the most steady rates prevailing for beef.

Lambs rose 65 cents to $1.10 under some of the liveliest competition in many months. Cattle and lambs led the rise all week, top steers soaring to $15, a new March high for the last seven years, while top lambs at $11.75 were highest for the month since 1929.

The hog market trailed far behind other live stock, averaging only 15 cents above the previous week.

COTTON

Heavy buying of cotton futures, with the trade taking the nearby futures and foreigners and commission houses the new crop months, advanced prices as much as .3[illegible] cent a pound yesterday to a new high level for the season. Closing trades were within a fraction of a cent of the highest level with net gains of .15 to .39 cents in Chicago and .16 to .25 cent a pound in other American markets.

Cables from Liverpool reported the broadest speculative interest in the cotton market in some time, with prices advancing equal to $2 a bale yesterday.

Sales of cotton cloths in New York last week were estimated at 80,000,000 yards, or materially in excess of mill production for that period.

Spot cotton closed .15 to .20 cent higher with New Orleans, 13.95 cents; New York 14.20 cents, and Houston and Galveston at 13.75 cents a pound. Prices follow:

COSTS OF LABOR GOVERN PROFITS OF INDUSTRIES

Management Must Absorb Advancing Wages.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The varying cost of labor in different industries will be an important factor governing earnings of corporations in 1937. Advancing wages place on management the responsibility for absorbing the added cost of manufacturing.

The problem is far more serious in some industries than others. Labor takes such a small share of the value of production in some industries that higher wages do not present a serious problem to some companies. Where the cost of labor constitutes a large share of total operating cost the problem is of vital importance.

Labor Costs to Increase.

The general labor unrest, the tacit support which the administration is giving to union organizers in mass production industries, hitherto unorganized, and the outlook for a continuing advance in living costs makes it appear certain that labor costs in all industries will increase materially this year.

The problem of business generally is illustrated by what is now occuring in the steel industry. Management has met the demands of the workers for higher wages by making a general advance in prices. Steel is a high labor cost industry. When wages go up prices must follow. The industry's labor cost amounts to 20.3 per cent of the total value of its products, compared with the average for all manufacturing of slightly less than 17 per cent.

Auto Labor Costs Low.

On the other hand, the automobile industry has a comparatively small labor cost in relation to the total value of its products. Wages represent 9.5 per cent of the total value of the industry's production. The labor factor is more important in the auto parts and body fields, where wages amount to 19.4 per cent of the total value of production.

The labor cost problem is of vital importance in the agricultural implement industry, where wages equal 32.2 per cent of value production.

Only two important industries rank higher than agricultural implements in the labor cost ratio. They are shipbuilding, where labor takes 36.6 per cent, and aircraft manufacturing, in which labor gets 38.8 per cent. At the bottom of the list stands sugar refining, with a ratio of 3.6 per cent.

Costs of Labor Listed.

The following table shows the ratio of labor cost to total value of products in thirty-one leading industries [based on 1933 census of manufacturing]:

Sugar refining	3.6
Cigars and cigarets	5.6
Petroleum refining	6.5
Meat packing	7.5
Fertilizer	7.7
Paints and varnishes	8.8
Food	9.4
Automobiles	9.5
Chemicals	10.4
Tin cans	10.9
Gas, manufactured	12.5
Paper	14.8
Nonferrous metals	15.6
Cement	16.0
Rubber tires and tubes	18.3
Auto bodies and parts	19.4
Iron and steel	20.3
Printing and publishing	20.4
Electrical equipment	21.0
Textiles	21.2
Bread and bakery products	21.4
Lether	22.2
Glass	23.6
Machinery	24.2
Radio and phonographs	24.3
Boots and shoes	25.7
Machine tools	30.4
Office and business equipment	30.9
Agricultural implements	32.2
Shipbuilding	36.6
Aircraft	38.8

Price advances, further technological improvements, which will reduce the demand for manual labor, and efforts to expand volume are the avenues open to industry to prevent the rising cost of labor from eliminating or cutting down the margin of profit.

The Right to Call.

"What gives a company the right to force its bondholders to turn in their bonds for cash and either buy new bonds paying less interest or look elsewhere for a place to put their money," asks Mrs. R. T. F.

The terms under which an issue of bonds is floated are contained in a document called the "indenture." It is a sort of contract specifying what the issuing corporation may or may not do in connection with the bonds.

Usually an indenture contains provisions authorizing the management of the corporation to pay off the bondholders and redeem the bonds on certain dates at specified prices. This is the same sort of arrangement made by a homeowner whose contract with the mortgage holder contains a clause permitting him to pay off the mortgage before it is due.

To compensate the bondholder for the uncertainty concerning the length of time he may be able to hold his bond the indenture usually provides that the debtor corporation must pay a premium in case it chooses to retire the bonds before they are due. Thus, although the company only owes the bondholder $1,000 on each bond it may have to pay him $1,070, $1,050, or some similar amount if the bonds are not allowed to run to the maturity date.

Ordinarily, the premium declines as the maturity date approaches, the bondholder getting a bigger bonus if the bonds are called in their earlier years than if they are called when they only have a short time to run.

BANK CLEARINGS RISE SHARPLY FOR LAST WEEK

A sharp rise in clearings was recorded for Chicago banks last week, according to figures released yesterday by the Chicago Clearing House association. Total clearings for the week ended yesterday were $360,600,000, against $312,100,000 in the preceding week and $315,000,000 in the like week of 1936.

Following are the comparative totals for the week:

	Clearings.	Balances.
Monday	$ 62,500,000	$ 7,200,000

JUDGE APPOINTS AGENT TO PROBE UTILITIES POWER

Charges of Rival Groups to Be Investigated.

Judge William H. Holly in the federal district court here yesterday appointed J. L. Houghteling as special investigator for the court to look into affairs of the Utilities Power and Light corporation.

Floyd B. Odlum.

The action follows acrimonious charges by rival factions throughout the fight for control of the company. Harley L. Clarke, deposed head, charges the present management is dominated by Floyd B. Odlum, president of Atlas corporation, and is seeking to liquidate assets of the utility and perpetrate a fraud upon security holders. Clarke is charged with misappropriation of company funds.

Yesterday's session marked the first gathering of principals in the case. More than a score of attorneys were present, either as representatives of various interests or as observers.

Clarke Makes First Appearance.

Clarke made his first appearance at the proceedings, although he took no part. He was accompanied by his counsel, Roy D. Keehn.

Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney, accompanied by his first assistant, Warren Canady, also appeared as observers. Igoe is conducting a separate investigation into the tangled affairs of the company. A special inspector for the postoffice department also was present.

Pending Houghteling's report to court Judge Holly continued the present management in possession of the property. Clarke had asked that it be removed.

Judge Holly said he decided to appoint a special investigator to guide him in determining whether or not a trustee for the company should be named. This was made necessary, he added, because of the serious charges made by both sides.

Court Seeks to Sift Charges.

"If the charges are true I want to know about it," the court continued. "This is necessary for my own information because the appointment of a trustee would involve enormous expense in litigation. I selected Mr. Houghteling because I have confidence in him."

Nathan Blumberg, counsel for the Atlas corporation, termed Clarke's charges of fraud and mismanagement against Atlas and Odlum as "wild, unfounded, baseless, and malicious." He favored appointment of Houghteling.

Weymouth Kirkland, representing a group of debenture holders, urged the investigation. He termed the dispute between Clarke and Odlum a spite matter, but said the debenture holders want to know if Clarke owes the company $3,000,000, as charged, and whether or not Odlum sold the company's British properties at a sacrifice.

REPORT RAILS, LABOR AGREE ON PENSION PLAN

Would End Court Test, Reduce Taxes.

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Railroad executives and labor leaders tonight were reported to have arrived at an agreement on a railroad retirement pension program. The compact, which is expected to be announced during the week, is the result of negotiations sponsored by President Roosevelt. The announcement of the agreement will not be made until formal recommendations are drafted for submission to congress.

The first step of the railroad operators in the latest series of conciliations between capital and labor will be to drop its court test of constitutionality of the present railroad retirement act. Both employers and employés will agree on amendments to the act.

Oppose 3½ Per Cent Tax.

The railroads attacked the 3½ per cent tax on railroad pay rolls to finance the pension program. Employés were to pay 3½ per cent of their salaries into the pension fund. The tax was declared unconstitutional by the district of Columbia federal court and is now pending in the Circuit court of Appeals here. Pending a Supreme court decision in the case railroads have been holding the pension money in reserve, although the federal retirement board is paying pensions of retired workers.

Under the agreement, according to reports, the tax on railroads and employés would be cut to 2½ per cent for three years and then be raised by ¼ of 1 per cent every three years until 3½ per cent is reached in 1949. The taxes under the present plan, totaling $50,000,000 for both the roads and employés, would be refunded. Each employé would get about $50.

Pension Program Broader.

The pension program would be broadened to include representatives of railroads associations and railway labor organizations. This would give union organizers, union employés, and employés of such rail subsidiary organizations as trafic associations, pension rights. The employés and the organizations would pay the tax.

Persons now on company pensions would be shifted to the federal pension roll. If such persons should lose anything by the transfer the railroads would make up the loss. The amount of the pensions is to remain at the present level with the $120 a month limit. The retirement age is to remain at 65.

Under the agreement unions pledged not to seek a higher pension payment by carriers than is to be assessed against union members, it was said. There are also to be minor revisions in the act.

LARGE STOCK MARKET PROFITS

On December 7th we selected INSPIRATION COPPER as an outstanding bargain stock It was then selling at 13½. Since then it has sold above 32. Here is a profit of more than 140% in a few weeks.

Of course, this is a rare and exceptional gain to make in such a short time, but it demonstrates what can be done if you ferret out stocks quoted at bargain prices.

We have located another issue which appears especially promising. Earnings point higher. The stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange Its action leads us to believe that it is due for a good advance. Still it may be picked up now at a very reasonable figure.

The name of this stock will be sent to you absolutely free. Also an interesting booklet, "MAKING MONEY IN STOCKS." No charge—no obligation. Just address:

WHEAT! CORN! WHAT NOW??

Was $1.29 outlined to you as an important support and buying level for last week's decline in wheat?

Were you advised to buy within 2 cents of the lows, after selling considerably higher?

This was covered in GRAIN MARKET TREND, a grain market letter service mailed to reach subscribers every other trading day, outlining probable moves and giving definite trading advice.

Incidentally, what position will you take in corn now? Will it be ready soon for a move of 10 to 15 cents?

Information showing past opinions at important turns and a record of past profit possibilities by trading with Trend-icator Letter (grains) will be mailed to those interested, by writing

Cupid's Influence on Real Estate

During 1929-1936 inclusive, 24,385 new houses and apartments were built in Chicago. In the same period 296,764 couples were married.

This lop-sided relationship between new families and new homes to house them is bringing a general rise in rents and in interest in real estate ownership.

To keep in touch with real estate opportunities, follow the offers in the real estate want ad columns of the Tribune.

The Tribune today, as for almost a quarter of a century, prints more real estate want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

Do You Recall That Dollar Stock?

A short time ago we urged trial subscriptions and promised to send particulars of a stock at $1 that had splendid speculative possibilities. That stock was Mesabi Iron on the Curb; for days it sold at $1; since then SOLD AT $2.50.

THAT WAS DOUBLING OUR MONEY IN JIG-TIME

We merely took cognizance of the huge demand for iron and expected this demand to run into speculative stocks of iron ore companies. That sort of advice wins praise for our service and money for our subscribers.

PLAN OFFERING OF PHILADELPHIA ELECTRIC BONDS

Stock Issue of Spiegel, Inc., Also Scheduled.

An issue of 130 million dollars in Philadelphia Electric company bonds is the largest prospective offering that will become eligible for sale this week after completion of the required period since registration with the Securities and Exchange commission.

A new issue of Spiegel, Inc., Chicago, preferred stock will also qualify for public offering, which may be made tomorrow or later.

Philadelphia Electric's issue consists of 3½ per cent first and refunding mortgage bonds, due March 1, 1967. Morgan Stanley & Co., heads the list of 70 underwriters, its participation amounting to 18 millions. Proceeds will be used for refunding. The issue qualifies on Wednesday.

Spiegel Stock Underwriters.

Brown Harriman & Co., Inc., and Goldman, Sachs & Co. head the firms underwriting the 100,000 shares of Spiegel preferred stock. The company operates a mail order business.

The registration statement also covers 333,334 shares of $2 par common reserved for conversion of the preferred, on a basis of 3 1-3 shares of common for each share of preferred for a period of three years, and 10,658 shares of $2 par common to be offered to employés.

The preferred shares are of no par value, but bear a dividend rate of $4.50 annually. The offering price has not been announced. Proceeds will be used to redeem the 6½ per cent preferred and for working capital.

Kansas Pipe Line Issue.

Kansas Pipe Line and Gas company of Phillipsburg, Kas., plans to issue on Wednesday or later $1,000,000 in first class A 5s of 1952 with warrants. The statement also covers 36,000 shares of $5 par common reserved for exercise of warrants and options. Each bond carries a warrant to purchase 16 shares of common at $10 through 1937, $11 through 1938, and $12 through 1939. Proceeds are to be used to repay notes and for working capital.

Two Chicago firms have prospective offerings. Air Devices corporation will qualify on Friday to issue 800,000 shares of $1 par common stock, of which 300,000 shares will be offered presently at $3.75 a share by J. A. Sisto & Co. Proceeds will be used for working capital and expansion.

Schutter Candy to Issue Stock.

Schutter Candy company seeks to issue Wednesday or thereafter 65,000 shares of $3 par class B stock. Offering is to be made by A. H. Harrison & Co., underwriters, at $7 a share. Proceeds will be used for working capital and to retire debt.

Stockholders of the United Electric coal companies of Chicago have been notified that at the annual meeting here on March 25 they will be asked to approve an increase in authorized common stock from 535,000 to 750,000 shares and change it from no par to $5 par value. The company proposes to raise $1,000,000 additional working capital through the sale of 204,000 shares of the stock to stockholders at $5.50 a share on the basis of two-thirds of a share for each share held.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Textiles—2.

The public buying wave which has lifted the textile industry out of the doldrums after many lean years has extended to knit goods, hosiery, and upholstery. It has not been limited to restocking of standard home needs after curtailed purchases during depression years.

Although rayon production reached an all-time high of 275 million pounds in 1936, manufacturers began 1937 with the smallest stocks in the history. Orders have been running at a rate sufficient to keep plants of this younger brother of the textile family busy three months in advance.

Underwear production was up to 45 million dozens in 1936, compared with an average of 40 million in the preceding ten years, and mills have continued operations at the same or slightly accelerated pace so far this year. The backlog of orders is of record proportions.

Shipments of hosiery continued at a record level in January after setting a mark of 122 million dozen pairs in 1936. This was 5 million dozen more than in 1929, equal to nearly a dozen pairs for every person in the United States, and compared with a low of 23 million dozen pairs in 1930.

With textile mills booked ahead from three to six months at the start of this year, manufacturers have found it necessary to protect themselves against increased costs of production and other contingencies by special contract clauses providing for price adjustments.

Price advances were rapid during the latter part of 1936, and further revisions upward have been made this year. Rising costs of raw materials, higher wages, and larger taxes continue to present a problem, but the textile makers so far have been able to cover these and materially improve profit margins by price advances. Both wage levels and employment are above 1929 levels.

The statistical position of the industry has been strengthened not only by the flood of orders, but by removal of part of the oversupply of textile production facilities through obsolescence of machinery and bankruptcy of some companies during the last several years.

An investor contemplating the purchase of textile shares should choose carefully, however. Some companies have not shared fully in the general improvement, and stocks of others are selling at prices which anticipate profits well into the future.

BUTTER, EGGS, POTATOES

Operations in butter, egg and potatoe futures on the Mercantile exchange were relatively light yesterday. Butter closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher with March at 32¾ cents a pound, the highest level since early in January. Sales were 51 cars. Receipts of butter at principal markets so far this year have been about 12 per cent less than during the corresponding period in 1935.

Egg futures were ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher with October at 25¼ cents a dozen. Sales, 45 cars. Potatoes closed 2 cents higher to 2 cents lower with April at $3.60 per 100 pounds. Sales, 22 cars.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 6.—Speculative bonds moved sharply higher today and high grade issues held firm in the busiest short Saturday session on the New York Stock exchange since last fall.

United States government obligations, along with foreign loans, received but scant attention as traders centered their interest on domestic corporate liens.

What little trading occurred in United States obligations resulted in lower prices. Losses ranged to 6/32ds at the close.

Medium priced rails and bonds of roads undergoing reorganization established sharp gains in many instances.

In the foreign division the trend was also downward. French unstamped 7s slumped 4½ points to 119¾.

CHICAGO BANK STOCKS QUIET. PRICES LOWER

Demand for Chicago stocks diminished last week and prices moved lower. Continental Illinois dipped $4 a share to $173.50 bid and $175.50 asked.

First National was one of the few strong exceptions, gaining $4 to close at $384 bid, $388 asked. Harris Trust was $10 lower at $525 to $535. Northern Trust was unchanged at $875 bid, $885 asked.

Merchandise Bank and Trust gained $3 to $333 bid, $340 asked. Lake Shore Trust and Savings closed at $100 bid, $110 asked, off $10, after a sharp rise in recent weeks to a high of $115 to $123.

Chicago Title and Trust lost $6 a share at $241 bid, $245 asked. Terminal National held at $43 bid, $[illegible] asked.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, March 6.—(AP)—After hesitating at the outset coffee futures eased under liquidation for over the week-end adjournment today. Selling by trade interests was promoted by the disappointing demand in the spot market.

Santos opened 1 point lower to 1 point higher and closed 4 to 7 points lower. Sales, 3,750 bags. New No. 7 opened 1 to 6 points lower and closed 6 to 10 points lower. Sales, 6,000 bags. Spot coffee quiet: No. 7 Rio, 9¼c per lb; No. 4 Santos, 11¼c. Cost and freight offers included Santos Bourbon 3s and 5s at 10.60 to 10.90c

WHEAT RUNUP IS OFFSET BY PROFIT TAKING

Corn and Oats Close at Slight Gains.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Yesterday's closing prices on grain for delivery in May, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Wk. ago.	Mo. ago.
Wheat	$1.35⅝	$1.35⅝	$1.31⅝	$1.34½
Corn	1.08⅜	1.08	1.07⅛	1.07⅞
Oats	.46¾	.46½	.46⅝	.50⅞
Rye	1.06	1.06⅝	1.05¼	1.12
Soy beans	1.52⅝	1.53½	1.53¼	1.57⅞

Bullish enthusiasm ran high in the grain markets early yesterday and wheat advanced a cent or more a bushel as the result of general buying induced by higher prices for that grain in Liverpool and reports that Germany may be forced to buy many millions of bushels of wheat and corn this season. May wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade sold up to $1.36¾, or within 1¾ cents of the top figure of the season.

Heavy profit taking came into the market toward the close and the early upturn was wiped out, final trades showing practically no change compared with Friday. Winnipeg also lost an early upturn and closed ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent higher. Buenos Aires futures advanced 1½ to 1¾ cents to a new high for the season. Liverpool was ⅞ to 1 cent higher, with July at a new seasonal peak.

Corn Futures Higher.

Corn futures closed about ½ cent higher, while oats gained a small fraction. Rye was as much as 1⅛ cent lower. The decline in rye was due more to lack of support than to heavy selling.

Inflation and war talk and a belief that there is a close adjustment of supplies of wheat to world demand dominates the trend of prices of that commodity, according to leading members of the Board of Trade. The sensational advance which has occurred in cotton, rubber, copper, and hides, all of which have been purchased heavily for armaments and other purposes by European countries, is said to be having some effect on the grain markets.

Factors in Corn Advance.

Prospects that Germany may be a keen competitor of the United States for Argentine corn, and an advance of ¼ to ½ cent a bushel in corn futures in Buenos Aires were factors in strengthening prices in the domestic markets. Shipping sales aggregated 50,000 bushels, and 5,000 bushels were bought for deferred shipment from the country.

With generally fair and rather mild weather forecast for this week farmers are expected to be able to work in the fields in the southern sections of the corn belt, and the movement of grain from that area is expected to be curtailed in consequence.

CASH GRAIN

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Saturday: Wheat, 11 cars; corn, 28 cars; oats, 2 cars; rye, 10 cars; barley, 36 cars; soy beans, 9 cars. Range of cash grain prices per bu in leading markets:

Photos Recall Early Days of Elmhurst Life

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

"I fear that generally too large a proportion of our contemporaries has neglected the opportunity to become historical minded, or perhaps they have lacked the opportunity to take that pride in local history and local force which determines every man's share in his home community."

So wrote Dr. J. Christian Bay in the opening article appearing in "100 Years of Elmhurst News," published by the Elmhurst Centennial Historical committee. Memories of the program held in connection with the suburb's anniversary celebration last summer may be dimmed, but the data, carefully gathered by the committee, is due to become more valuable with the passing of time.

Basis for Society.

As a result of the efforts of the committee at the recent centennial, Elmhurst's story to date needs only the embellishment in the recording of events as they transpire to fit into the epic of Du Page county, correlating the material similarly gathered during the centennials of neighboring suburbs. The fund of data provides an excellent beginning for a country-wide historical society.

Dr. Bay was mindful of the spirit of Du Page county pioneers and the effect of their influence when he commented that this continued movement of the frontier in early days, the pushing out into the west of our fundamental forms of life, has been a saving grace of our American civilization.

"It has," said Dr. Bay, "protected us from internal unrest and anarchy, and it has furnished many of us with new and surprising views of life and with the principles of action which we are still elaborating. Illinois is an incident in this development; so is Chicago, and even in a larger measure, so are Elmhurst and Du Page county.

Footnote In History.

"From a wider point of view, our state history is but a footnote in the general history of the world, but the world's history would not be complete without this footnote, and the mentality of the present generation would be primitive indeed if its efforts were not directed toward the best possible elucidation of local events, their causes and consequences.

"After all, the local struggles for progress and development, general and individual, are just as important as our national and original struggles; in fact, our local history is but a reflection of our national history, and our achievements accumulate even locally to the advantage of the nation in general."

Dr. Bay said the centennial committee issued the centennial book in the sincere hope that many more citizens would become historical minded and devote more constructive thought to the solving of the community's problems.

Photos Tell Stories.

From attics and trunks old photographs were resurrected, and these provide a most interesting feature of the volume. They include:

Hill Cottage tavern built by J. L. Hovey, who came to York township in 1843 to claim the land purchased the year before by his brother-in-law, Gerry Bates. Until the coming of the railroad, the tavern was a popular over-night stopping place for travelers on horseback, migrants and early settlers driving wagon loads of farm produce to the Chicago market. The house, first erected on St. Charles road at Cottage Hill avenue, has since been moved to South York street.

The first home of Dr. George F. Heidemann, first resident physician in the village of Cottage Grove. Dr. Frederick H. Bates is shown making his rounds with horse and buggy.

The country seat of Lucian Hagans, internationally known diplomat and the friend of presidents and kings. The house stood on the north side of St. Charles road west of Prospect avenue and was surrounded by a large, well tended estate which included a race track among other features.

G. O. P. Marching Club.

The Republican Marching club of 1888, the members wearing tall white hats.

The Charles Wade residence, built in 1863 and razed in 1923 to make way for the Immaculate Conception social center. The Wade house stood on the foundation of the old Bonney place said to have been the hiding place of the "bandit of the prairies," hero of an early penny novel. G. P. A. Healy, celebrated portrait painter of the 1850's, is also said to have resided in the home.

Thomas B. Bryan's Byrd's Nest chapel as it looked when early Elmhurst residents gathered for prayer meetings on Sunday afternoons. The building stood until about 20 years ago.

The old water tank, whose farewell to Elmhurst provided inspiration for a poem from the pen of L. A. Denig.

The old curfew tower and fire station.

Civil War Home.

The home built in civil war days in the center of what later became the Frank Sturges estate. The house was built by a Mr. Schuman, then editor of the Chicago Evening Journal, and has since been owned by Robert Rand, George F. Rumsey, Samuel Taylor, Frank Sturges, and Alben F. Emery. Mr. Emery moved it across York street to its present site in 1894. His daughter, Mrs. A. C. Warren, her husband and family now occupy the old house, charming in its antiquity.

Spring Styles Defy Last Threats of Mr. Winter

Shades of Spring! An eyeful of around-the-clock attire for milady will be shown Tuesday evening during the fashion show of the Oak Park and River Forest Juniors and Junior Auxiliary of the Infant Welfare. The style preview will be held in Wieboldt's Oak Park store. Left to right, wearing two of the show's fashions, are Madeleine Shannon, in blue sheer, with a slick-as-a-whistle straw sailor trimmed in Carnelian grosgrain, and Marjorie Clark, in chartreuse chiffon, slim as a stiletto, with much shirred detail. Other models will be Mrs. Harry Norman King, Mrs. Henry Pace, Mrs. William Goelitz, Mrs. Irving Clendennan, Mrs. E. J. McInerny, and Mrs. Raymond George. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

RELIGIOUS POMP TO BE RESTORED AT ST. AGATHA'S

St. Patrick Novena to Revive Grandeur.

In the historic church of St. Agatha, founded about 40 years ago at Douglas boulevard and Kedzie avenue in the Lawndale district, there have worshiped many of Chicago's most socially prominent citizens of Irish descent.

Over a generation ago, under the leadership of the Rev. Michael Bonfield, the church was the center of Irish culture in Chicago. When the edifice was erected it stood out as one of Chicago's most perfect ecclesiastical structures.

Old Pomp Recalled.

During the lifetime of Father Bonfield, the feast of St. Patrick was celebrated at St. Agatha's with great pomp and ceremony. With the death of the pastor, many families moved to other sections of Chicago. Devotion to St. Patrick continued, but, because of decreased attendance it was done in a manner more subdued.

It is the wish of the present pastor of St. Agatha's, the Rev. John B. Sprengel, to restore the devotion to Ireland's patron saint to its former grandeur. With this thought in mind he announces a solemn novena to honor the great apostle of the Emerald Isle.

Novena Begins Tomorrow.

The Rev. Harry C. Graham, O. P. of Fenwick High school, will conduct the novena which begins tomorrow and will continue until St. Patrick's eve. Father Graham is a student of Irish history and literature. The services will consist of prayers, sermon and benediction. Of special interest will be the veneration each evening of the relic of St. Patrick.

The Rev. S. Daniel B. O'Rourke and the Rev. Walter E. Croakin are assistant pastors at St. Agatha.

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB TO HEAR JEWISH CHOIR AND DR. R. C. RAINES

Dr. Richard C. Raines, pastor of Hennepin Avenue Methodist Episcopal church of Minneapolis, Minn., and the choir of Anshe Emet synagogue, Chicago, will both make their first appearances tonight before the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall. Dr. Raines is a graduate of Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Ia., and attended Boston university. His church is among the largest in the northwest and two identical services are necessary every Sunday morning to accommodate the congregation.

Dr. Richard C. Raines.

Appearing at the early service under the direction of Harry Coopersmith, Anshe Emet choir will sing examples of Hebrew liturgical music and modern Jewish and Yiddish folksongs with Carl Urstein as cantor. Newton C. Farr will preside and Philip P. Sachs will take part in the service.

Kampus Koquettes to Play for Community Dance

The Kampus Koquettes, an all-girl orchestra of Austin, will play for a community dance at 8 o'clock this evening in the Temple hall, 2300 South Millard avenue.

VILLA PARK CLUB, CHILD OF STORM, IS 15 YEARS OLD

Founders Program to Be Held Tuesday.

Because of the vision of one woman, Mrs. A. C. Mabee, the Villa Park Woman's club has become an important factor in the civic life of the town.

In spite of the drenching rainstorm of March 10, 1922, twenty-eight women accepted the invitation to meet in the home of Mrs. Mabee, and formed what is now known as the Villa Park Woman's club.

To commemorate the 15th anniversary of the organization, the Founders' club will present a program Tuesday, March 16, in the village hall, Ardmore avenue and St. Charles road.

Working toward the accomplishment of intellectual advancement and the promotion of higher social, educational, and moral conditions in the community, the club women have many achievements to their credit.

The Founders' club is unique, inasmuch as its membership is limited to the remainder of the twenty-eight original members of the club who remained loyal to the cause they espoused 15 years ago. The members are Mrs. Mabee, who was the first president of the woman's club; Mrs. David Vander Wolif, the first vice president; Mrs. William Lueck, secretary; Mrs. Louis F. Meehan, treasurer; Mrs. James Burns, first civic chairman; Mrs. Roscoe E. Little, social chairman; Mrs. G. A. Vangsness, auditor; Mrs. Leroy Hurd, membership and program chairman, and Mrs. Harry Baker, its original chairman of bylaws.

More than a year ago the nine women met and formed the Founders' club, that a closer tie of friendship and a renewal of fond memories of the earlier days might be enjoyed by them.

REV. SPENCE BURTON, EPISCOPAL CLERIC, TO SPEAK IN LOOP

The Rev. Spence Burton, superior of the Episcopal order of St. John the Evangelist, generally known as the Cowley fathers of Cambridge, Mass., will be the speaker this week at the noonday services conducted by the Episcopal Church club of Chicago. Father Burton, who for two years was chaplain of San Quentin federal penitentiary, is noted for his work with young offenders and in prison reform generally.

The Rev. Spence Burton.

Born in Cincinnati, O., Father Burton was graduated from Harvard university, studied at the General Theological seminary, New York City, and was ordained in 1908. He spent four years with the Cowley fathers at Oxford, England, returning to America as pastor of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Boston, Mass., and from 1916 to 1922 was master of the novices. That year he was appointed head of the branch house of the Cowley fathers in San Francisco.

Austin B'nai B'rith Women to Hear Current Events Talk

Mrs. Alfred Hamburger will discuss "Current Events" tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock during the meeting of the Austin auxiliary No. 90, B'nai Brith, in the Columbus Park refectory. Mrs. Harry L. Zimmerman will preside.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

MISS LILLIAN NATHAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Nathan, 1509 South Karlov avenue, will give a piano recital at 3:30 o'clock next Sunday afternoon in Zeisler hall of the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. Miss Nathan, a pupil of Isaac Levine, was graduated from Manley High school, and has appeared in a number of other recitals in the city. Her program will include Beethoven's Sonata in D major, "Troika," by Tschaikowsky, four Chopin pieces and selections from Lachner, Jensen-Niemann, Debussy, and Mendelssohn.

Miss Lillian Nathan.

Mr. and Mrs. David Makler, 918 Winona avenue, celebrated their golden wedding last week with a second ceremony performed by Rabbi Abraham Elman in the presence of several hundred relatives and friends. Four daughters and two sons attended, and among the letters of congratulation was one from President Roosevelt. A reception followed the ceremony.

MRS. SELINA MALCOLM, an Our Town resident for sixty years, celebrated her 80th birthday last week with a tea and open house at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles P. Avery, 704 North Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park.

Miss Margaret Freer, 717 North Harlem avenue, Oak Park, has been made a stewardess on the American Airlines Chicago-Newark run. Miss Freer was graduated from the Mercy Hospital Nursing school in 1934, and had been stationed at the Woodlawn hospital.

THE Wilbur scholarship, given the highest ranking junior in Purdue university's engineering schools, has been awarded to William C. Musham, 208 South Humphrey avenue, Oak Park. Mr. Musham is a member of Pi Tau Sigma, honorary mechanical engineering society, and of Tau Beta Pi, another engineering fraternity.

Officers recently installed by the For-Oak club of St. Bernardine's parish, Forest Park, are Charles Hussey Jr., president; Miss Henrietta Lambke, first vice president; Miss Corinne Audy, second vice president; Miss Mary Crotty, third vice president; Miss Adelia Bertacchi, recording secretary; Aldo Bertacchi, financial secretary; Edmund Hafner, treasurer; and Robert Hartigan, sergeant-at-arms. Directors are John Schmitz, Miss Lillian Gemkow, Miss Elizabeth Toth, and Edward Battaglino.

GATHER around, all ye auction pinochle players and consider the hand reported by Mrs. Theodore Angelacos, 6407 West 23d street, Berwyn. To quote Mrs. Angelacos: "My husband and I were playing with Mr. and Mrs. Elzear Dufault. Mrs. Dufault was the dealer. I passed, and Mr. Dufault said: 'Well, folks, this is the straw that broke the camel's back—eleven hundred. We looked at him in surprise as we couldn't believe our ears, but we did believe our eyes when he laid down 1000 aces and almost but not quite a run in spades. O, yes, by the way, we play spades double over 300."

DEFINITE plans have been made for Commodore Barry council to take part in the Knights of Columbus National Bowling tourney Saturday and Sunday, March 20 and 21, at Toledo, O. According to William Radke and John Tamburrino, who are managing the trip, six teams already have signed for the tournament.

More than 800 students of high schools in the Aurora territory are scheduled to attend a vocational guidance conference at the East High school April 29. The conference, a new step in the high school program of assisting graduates in choosing their vocations, is to be conducted by Dr. Frank Slutz of Dayton, O.

BECAUSE he praised the way a Chinese laundryman in Denver ironed his shirts, Merrill Christopherson was given a copy of Keats by the Oriental. An Indian in Oklahoma presented him a copy of William Morris' works which its owner was unable to read. At a cabin on a side road in Arkansas Mr. Christopherson came across a first printing of Landor's early "Imaginary Conversations," and traded 16 volumes of Dickens for the find. It was as the result of such experiences that Mr. Christopherson, a member of the English department of Proviso High school, made his collection of rare books now on display in the school library. Among them is a volume of Plutarch's "Moralia" printed in Greek in 1542. The seal of George IV. of England on the inside cover lends to the belief that the volume was at one time a part of the king's library.

Parish Choir Party.

The choir of Our Lady of Sorrows church will give a St. Patrick's eve party at 8:15 o'clock, Tuesday evening, March 16, in the church auditorium, 330 South Albany avenue.

WORLD FAMOUS FIGURES TO TALK AT SIX SESSIONS

'Changing World' Is General Topic.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Influential women of Chicago and its environs will join this week with representative women of this nation and Canada in the sessions of the fourth annual Woman Congress, a non-partisan forum for the discussion of current affairs under the sponsorship of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The congress will convene at noon next Wednesday in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer house to continue with six sessions through Thursday evening.

During the last ten days the congress headquarters in Tribune Tower have been flooded with requests for tickets for the six sessions and the closing dinner. These requests total more than 18,000.

Must Have Tickets.

In the headquarters it is pointed out that only ticket holders will be admitted to the sessions. Individual tickets have been issued for each session and vari-colored tickets will denote different locations on the fourth floor of the Palmer house. Guests who do not have chairs in the main ballroom will hear the program by amplification and will meet each speaker personally following his address.

A special appeal is made for the return of any tickets that will not be used in order that others seeking tickets may have the opportunity to attend. A large part of the program will go to the outside world over the Mutual, National and Columbia radio networks.

During the two days the congress audience will hear world figures in unbiased discussions of the major problems facing American citizens today.

Months of Work.

The program represents the culmination of nine months' sincere effort to bring to Chicago the men and women who are the most brilliantly qualified to consider the general forum theme, "America in a Changing World." Correspondents of THE TRIBUNE in far parts of the world have coöperated with the staf in Chicago to build the various sessions.

Announcements of this program have been made during the last week in the news columns of THE TRIBUNE. Another program story appears today in the main news section and next Wednesday morning one full page will be devoted to a complete outline of the six sessions.

Some of the names that distinguish the program are those of Sir Josiah Stamp, director of the Bank of England and director of the British Scottish railway; Miss Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald; Sen. Guglielmo Marconi, one of the greatest scientists of all time, inventor of the wireless telegraph; Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war of the United States; Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, and Norman Thomas, leader of the Socialist party in the United States.

Floods, Labor and Court.

One of the most vital of the six sessions will come Wednesday evening when the three national problems that have been making headlines the last two months are considered—floods and their control, labor, and the Supreme court. Mayor Neville Miller of Louisville is coming to discuss the recent flood situation and what can be done to remedy such a problem.

Labor will be handled in a nonpartisan manner by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, who will speak for the committee on Industrial Organization. The third speaker will be Walter J. Kohler, former governor of Wisconsin and president of the Kohler company.

James M. Landis, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission in Washington and recently appointed the new dean of Harvard Law school, will defend President Roosevelt's proposal to revamp the Supreme court while Senator Burton K. Wheeler will take the conservative point of view in defense of the Supreme court's present status.

Keynote Session at Noon.

At the opening session of the congress at noon on Wednesday the keynote address will be given by Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, former president of the General Federation of Women's clubs and dean of Stoneleigh college in Rye, N. H. This session will last one hour.

At the afternoon session convening at 2:30 o'clock, science and its rôle in modern living will be discussed by an array of leaders. Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize winner of the University of Chicago, will introduce the session with an address entitled, "Can Science Point the Way?"

Other speakers to be heard on this session will include Mrs. Stephen S. Wise of New York City whose opinions are respected not only in this country but abroad; Hugh H. Clegg of Washington, D. C., assistant director of the federal bureau of investigation; Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington lines; Richard "Dick" Merrill, ace pilot of the Eastern Air

Recall Cottage Hill.

The L. H. Heinemann meat market. still standing on South York street, although in recent years it has acquired a modern brick front. Carcasses hanging in the window tell the story of the days when beef was bought on the hoof from nearby farmers, and Mr. Heinemann did his own butchering.

In gathering and compiling the stories and pictures, it was the hope of the centennial committee that it might reconstruct the little community that centered upon Cottage Hill, wih its 49 houses, including the post office and St. Mary's church.

"But I think," wrote Dr. Bay, "we might be perfectly content if the spirit and practices of some of these pioneers may remain with us as an example of patience, high endeavor and contentment, and become exemplified in the younger generation now called upon to share with us the memories of the last 100 years."

LA GRANGE DRAMA GROUP HAS BEST YEAR IN HISTORY

Players to Present Final Production in May.

Within two weeks, the La Grange Players will start rehersal of their final play of the season which will climax its fifth year of theatrical activity. Miriam Lewis, director of the group said the play will be presented on May 6 and 7.

Miriam Lewis.

"Mr. Pim Passes By" was offered by the group in La Grange last night. An increase in the number of patrons and players this season and enforcement of stricter qualifications for those joining the group have resulted in the most successful year for the La Grange Players since their organization.

Has Master's Degree from Yale.

Miss Lewis, who has directed the group for the last five years, took speech training at Northwestern university, and is a graduate of the University of Chicago. She holds a master's degree from the University Theater at Yale. Her work as director in the east has included activities at Lake Placid, N. Y., and Connecticut college.

Those selected for parts in the La Grange plays are chosen because of their suitability, regardless of whether or not they have previously been members of the group. Frequently, talent has been recruited from neighboring suburbs of Berwyn, Hinsdale, and Congress Park.

The membership has grown until it now includes Miss Pauline Boisot, Mrs. Emily Bearse, Mrs. J. C. Clarke, George Daugherty Sr., Byron C. Dudley, Mrs. Marguerite Dudley, Mrs. Rebecca Ditto, Mrs. J. W. Brotherhood to Celebrate Old Timers' Night Tuesday

The Brotherhood of the Mission Covenant church of Austin, Mayfield avenue, and Iowa street, will have an old timers' night at 8 o'clock Tuesday. A former member of the brotherhood, George Rhenberg of La-Grange, will speak and show pictures taken on his recent trip to South America.

FRACTURED ARM NO DETERRENT TO GOLDEN WEDDING

A celebration which has been a half century in arriving is not to be deferred by a broken arm, so when Mr. and Mrs. Paul Woodusky of Brookfield observed their golden wedding anniversary recently, Mr. Woodusky was carrying his arm in a sling, the result of having been hit by an automobile. Fifty relatives attended the celebration at the Woodusky residence, 3124 Madison avenue in the suburb.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Woodusky were born 74 years ago in Warsaw, Poland. Following their marriage, they moved to London, England, where they resided for 18 years and Mr. Woodusky worked at his trade as a cabinet maker.

The couple came to Chicago 32 years ago and shortly afterward moved to Brookfield. A daughter, Mrs. S. A. Skidmore, resides at 3124 Madison avenue, Brookfield. There are four grandchildren.

Mr. Woodusky said he and his wife planned on coming to America when they left Poland, and that the stay in England had lengthened beyond their original intentions. He said oth weddings had been equally happy events, but at the first one, in far off Poland, there had been more music.

Landscape Lecture.

William E. Shatwell of the Chicago Park district landscape planning staff, will talk at the Norwood Park fieldhouse on Tuesday evening, March 16, on "How to Lay Out the Home Grounds."

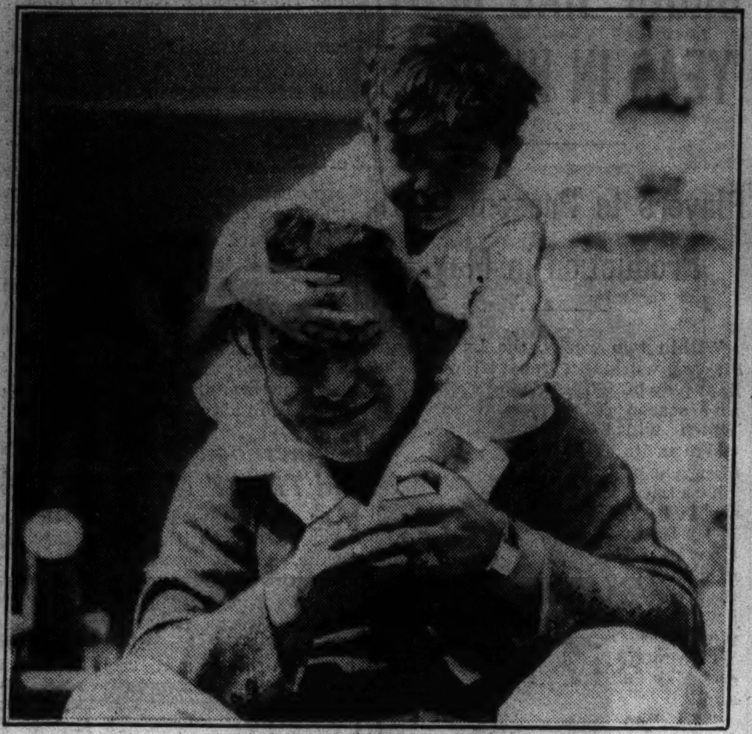
Lone Military Figure Is Power Behind the Scenes in Cuba—Land of 10 Presidents in the Last Four Years

[Acme Photo.]

NO. 1. STERN—Col. Fulgencio Baista as the head of the Cuban army when he took control in 1933.

[Acme Photo.]

NO. 2. STRONG MAN—Cuba's strong man, virtual dictator of the island, flashes a smile for the 1937 camera man.

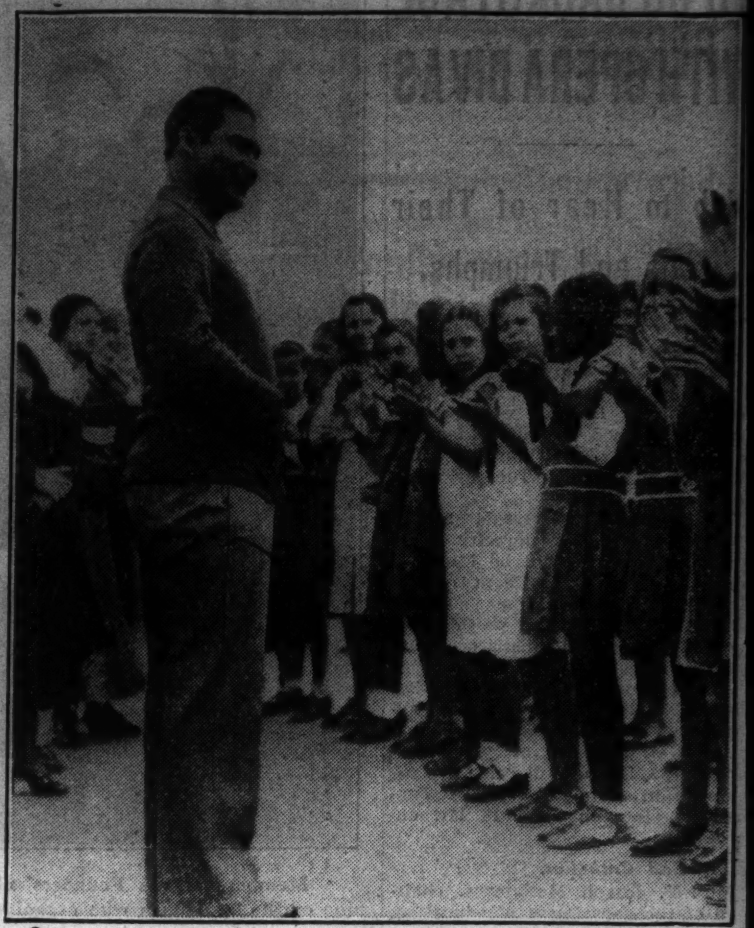


[Acme Photo.]

NO. 3. THE FATHER—While his countrymen know him as a relentless driver, Col. Batista has another side. Here he plays with his son Papo at Camp Columbia, an army base he caused to be built strategically close to Havana.

[Acme Photo.]

NO. 4. HIS CHILDREN—Mirta (left) and Papo, whose father has risen from the rank of sergeant in the pre-insurrection army to become the strongest single figure in Cuba. With their parents they live in the army camp.



[Acme Photo.]

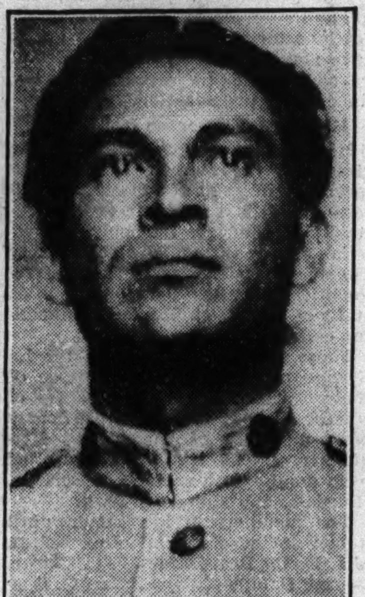
NO. 5. THE LEADER—Col. Batista looks to Cuba's present day school children and lays his plans accordingly while they applaud. He emerged victorious in the recent crisis occasioned by his plan to put education under army control.

[Acme Photo.]

NO. 6. HOME—Doorway of Batista home in army camp, with lifesize statue of Batista on the porch.

[Acme Photo.]

NO. 7. WITH HIS WIFE—Col. Batista's wife lives close to the army in the Havana barracks.



NO. 8. SERGEANT—Batista's eyes were the eyes of a dreamer before the 1933 revolt of the army.

NO. 9. THE COMMANDER IN THE FIELD—Spurning high sounding titles, Batista (indicated by arrow) remains a colonel, yet he is ready to give battle on a moment's notice. When President Gomez opposed a sugar tax to provide army controlled schools, Batista gave the word, and Gomez was impeached and ousted.

NO. 10. SUCCESSOR—Federico Bru, vice president, succeeded Gomez and still holds office.

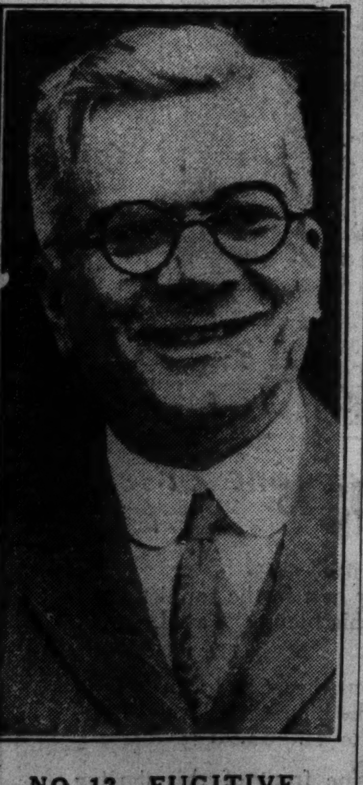
[Acme Photo.]

NO. 11. LOSER—Miguel Mariana Gomez, who made the mistake of opposing a former army sergeant, now a colonel.



NO. 12. FUGITIVE—Gerardo Machado, who fled Cuba in the 1933 revolt led by the new ruler of Cuba.

ONE MINUTE... SKIN'S Flaky

NEXT MINUTE... SKIN'S SMOOTH FOR POWDER

A SPECIAL CREAM Melts SKIN SMOOTH

HATEFUL—to find your skin just won't take powder!

It's full of little flakinesses that show up even worse when you put powder on. "Powder catchers!"

You can melt them off! Yes—with a keratolytic cream (Vanishing Cream).

A distinguished dermatologist says: "Exposure hastens the drying out of surface skin cells. They shrink, scuff loose. The skin feels harsh. These particles can be melted away instantly with a keratolytic cream (Vanishing Cream). Then the smooth, underlying cells appear, moist and young. The skin immediately takes on a fresh, softened appearance."

Never be without Pond's Vanishing Cream. More and more girls are finding every day that this keratolytic cream is marvelous for:

Powder Base: A film of Pond's Vanishing Cream smooths flakiness away. Make-up goes on perfectly. Stays.

Overnight—Apply after cleansing. Not greasy. It won't smear. In the morning your skin is soft, fresh.

Lady Mary Pakenham

"The Pond's method keeps one's skin in marvelous condition. Pond's Vanishing Cream is the best powder base I know."

Vitamin Shortage Can Keep You Below Par

You Seldom Realize Whether You Are Getting the Vitamins Your Body Needs—Until Injured Health Shows It. But, by Adding One Food to Your Ordinary Diet, You Can Assure Yourself an Extra Daily Supply of These Four Vitamins

D Not Enough Vitamin D

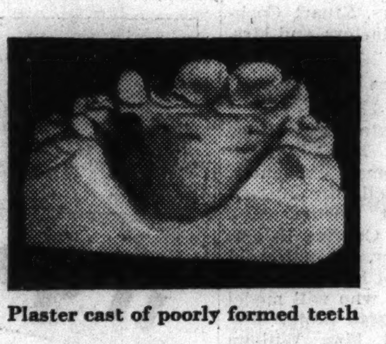
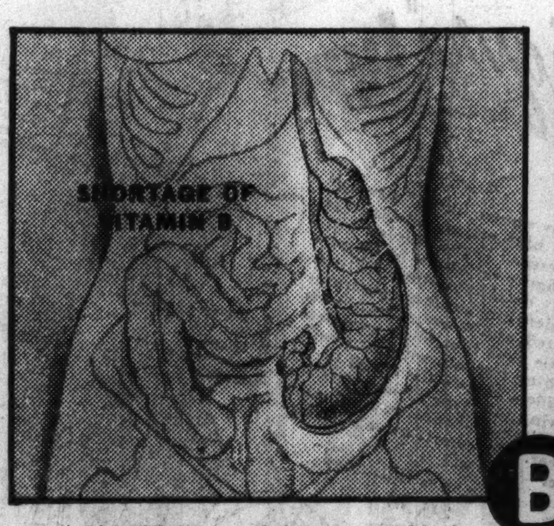
SOFT, POORLY FORMED TEETH may result from a shortage of Vitamin D—the important BONE VITAMIN. Growing children, especially, need plenty of Vitamin D to help in the formation of strong, attractive teeth. Fleischmann's fresh Yeast provides a rich supply of this BONE VITAMIN. Children from 5 to 12 years can be given 1 to 2 cakes daily.

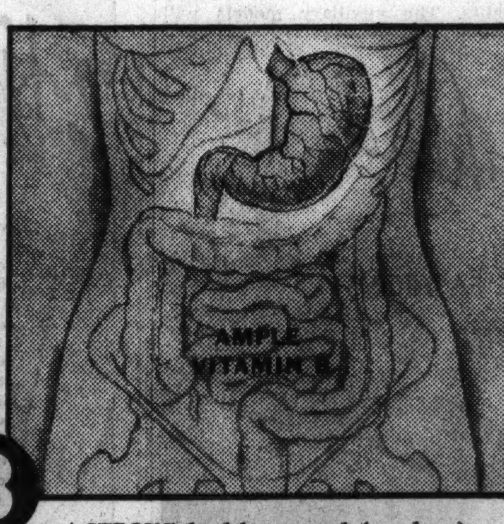


Plaster cast of poorly formed teeth



B

A SAGGING stomach (see picture above), weakened intestines and bowels can all come from an undersupply of Vitamin B—the NERVE VITAMIN.



A STRONG, healthy stomach (see above), active bowels and intestinal tract, and the normal functioning of nerves, need a rich supply of this NERVE VITAMIN. By eating Fleischmann's Yeast daily, you can increase your supply of Vitamin B. It is one of the richest known natural food sources of Vitamin B.

G Too Little Vitamin G means poor growth

WEAK, undernourished children are often inadequately supplied with Vitamin G—the GROWTH VITAMIN. A generous supply of this vitamin is needed to aid in the proper development of body tissues. Fleischmann's Yeast is rich in Vitamin G. Children from 5 to 12 years can be given 1 to 2 cakes daily.

GEORGIA COLEMAN'S glowing vitality, strength and perfect nerve control show this famous diving champion gets an ample supply of these 4 necessary vitamins—A, B, D and G.

Copyright, 1937, Standard Brands Inc.

VITAL PARTS of your body can be partly starved unless you get enough of these 4 important vitamins, A, B, D and G, each day.

Yet—our ordinary meals may be deficient in one or more of these necessary food elements.

By adding one food to your daily diet, you can be sure of a regular EXTRA supply of each of these 4 health-building vitamins.

That one food is FLEISCHMANN'S fresh YEAST. No other one natural food gives you such a rich supply of these 4 vitamins combined.

Just eat 3 cakes every day—a cake about ½ hour before each meal. Eat it plain, or dissolved in a little water. Order two or three days' supply at a time from your grocer. Fleischmann's Yeast keeps perfectly in the icebox. Start eating it today. Let this famous tonic food help to increase your vitamin supply!

A Diet Short in Vitamin A

INCREASED SUSCEPTIBILITY to colds and a lowered resistance to infections can occur if your diet does not provide enough Vitamin A. Fleischmann's Yeast eaten daily will help to increase your supply of Vitamin A.

GORMAN TO TALK AT BANQUET OF PERSHING P.-T. A.

Berwyn Unit's Dinner to Be Held Tomorrow.

Judge Gibson Gorman of the Municipal court will be the guest speaker at a banquet to be held by the Gen. Pershing P.-T. A., at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Congregational church, Gunderson avenue and 34th street, Berwyn. Judge Gorman will discuss, "Our Part in Helping for More Safety." The committee in charge of the banquet consists of Mrs. James Murphy, Mrs. Harold Wilson, Miss Marian Waiss, and Mrs. Frank Veverka. Mrs. Max Hahn Jr., is president of the P.-T. A.

The regular meeting of the Delano P.-T. A. will take place tomorrow afternoon at 1:15 o'clock. Mrs. M. M. Strassmann will present the slate of officers selected by the nominating committee comprised of Mrs. Strassmann, Mrs. David Samuels, Mrs. M. R. Zuccaro, Mrs. Joseph Rosenberg, and Mrs. A. S. Ginsburg.

After the presentation an election will be held and the P.-T. A.'s by-laws, as revised by Mrs. Aaron Marcus, Mrs. Strassmann, Mrs. Norbert Pauker, Mrs. Simon Bernstein, and Mrs. Harry L. Snyder, will be read to the assembly for approval and acceptance.

A grand reunion of the Bryant alumni will be held during the third annual dance sponsored by the Bryant P.-T. A. Friday evening in the Franklin park gymnasium, 14th street and Kolin avenue.

The regular monthly meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The nominating committee will present the names of nominees for the coming election.

Fathers' night will be celebrated by the John Hay P.-T. A. Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the school assembly hall, Laramie avenue and Augusta boulevard, over which Mrs. E. P. Bestler will preside.

Sam Campbell will lecture and show films of the northern Wisconsin woods. Mrs. W. W. White announced that arrangements and rehersals are under way for a music play which will be given April 23. Rehersals and final casting of parts will be held Friday afternoon.

At the meeting of the Ella Flagg Young P.-T. A. on Thursday the annual election of officers for the coming year will be held.

Mrs. J. M. Edwards, parent educational chairman, will lead in a panel discussion on "Problems of Parent Education." She will be assisted by Mrs. D. M. Cropp, Mrs. G. H. Welk, Mrs. William Riley, and Mrs. A. T. Borge.

Special music will be furnished by the children's orchestra under the direction of Harris Berg, and the Mother Singers chorus, directed by Mrs. J. A. Balderson.

Mrs. Amelia O. Humphries of the Chicago Association of Child Study will address the members of the Gregory P.-T. A. at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon on "Obligations of Parents to Children." Mrs. George Cohen, chairman, will preside.

Mrs. Davis Skurrie, chairman, will preside over the Dramatic Art club and public speaking class meeting at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. The class is directed by Miss Lillian Smith.

On Friday a tour through the Bridewell will be sponsored by the P.-T. A. at 10 o'clock in the morning. Those interested in making the tour may do so by telephoning Mrs. Charles Davis, Kedzie 3255.

Child dentistry will be discussed by Dr. Lon Morey at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon before the members of the Herbert Spencer P.-T. A.

Officers will also be elected for the coming year. The nominations are as follows: Mrs. C. Z. Nelson, president; Mrs. F. L. Jenkins, first vice president; Mrs. A. G. Ehrardt, second vice president; Mrs. W. A. Dombrou, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Borrowman, recording secretary, and Mrs. P. J. Boucher, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Martin Renk is chairman in charge of arrangements for a luncheon for the teachers on March 17. Mrs. Herbert Kennedy will direct a play which will be given by the P.-T. A. at the April meeting.

Mrs. Milton Wetterquist will wield the gavel at the regular board meeting of the Sumner P.-T. A. at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY REVUE ARRANGED AT ST. MALACHY'S

An all-professional revue will be presented in the St. Malachy auditorium, Washington and Oakley boulevards, on St. Patrick's night, Wednesday, March 17. Talent will be drawn from theaters and radio stations.

The Rev. E. N. Tyrrell and the Rev. J. B. Davidson, assistants of the parish, have charge of the publicity and ticket committees. They are being assisted by the parish societies.

Members of the committees include J. R. Dalton, John Riley, Mrs. Theresa Graff, Mrs. Ben La Riviere, Mrs. F. W. Vader, Mrs. John Morrissey, Miss Sylvia Swan, Miss Beatrice Abbinanti, and Miss Mary Morris.

West Side Y. W. C. A. Girls to Exhibit Own Dances

A studio dance program will be presented by girls of the dance groups at the West Side Y. W. C. A., 101 South Ashland boulevard, at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. The performers will be business and industrial girls of the west side who create their own dances. They also design their costumes and work out lighting and scenic effects. Miss Gladys Ryland, director of health education in the West Side Y. W. C. A., will be in charge of the program.

DIRECTS CHARITY CARD PARTY

Miss Ann Tilly, 823 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park, is in charge of the charity card party which will be given by the Sigma Tau Psi national sorority on Saturday in the Bismarck hotel. Miss Tilly, who is chairman of the Chicago chapters, will be assisted by Mrs. Wallace Wilson, 737 North Austin avenue, national president Miss Mary Randolph, 4703 Jackson boulevard, and Miss Rosalie Herman, 824 South 15th avenue, Maywood. [Maurice Seymour Photo.]

ST. COLUMBKILL OLD TIMERS PLAN GRAND REUNION

Hallowed memories of boyhood scenes and characters of the past in the old neighborhood of Paulina and Grand avenues will be revived tomorrow evening when the Old Timers meet in the Commodore Barry Knights of Columbus clubhouse, 2856 Washington boulevard.

The purpose of the gathering of former members of the St. Columbkill parish is to discuss plans for a grand reunion to be held after the Lenten season.

Headed by Charles Chambers, the preliminary committee consists of the Rev. Wesley Donohue, superior general of the Holy Cross priests of Notre Dame, Ind.; Joseph Higgins, assistant chief bailif of the Municipal court; the Rev. William Ward, Daniel Harkins, Joseph Farmer, the Rev. William Gorman, chaplain of the Chicago fire department; John J. Goggin, and John T. Conley. Phillip Cullen is secretary of the organization.

JEWISH PEOPLE'S GROUP TO TEACH DRAFTSMANSHIP

Institute Classes To Open Tomorrow Night.

Classes in mechanical drawing, shop mathematics, blue print reading, and other aspects of draftsmanship will begin at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening in the Jewish People's institute, 3500 Douglas boulevard, under the direction of Isaac Chaimovitsch.

The classes will meet twice weekly on Monday and Wednesday evenings. The size of the classes will be limited so that each student will receive a maximum of individual instruction. Work is primarily intended for young men who plan to become engineers, enter the construction field, or become draftsmen.

Organize Speed Classes.

For prospective applicants, the People's School of Comerce, conducted by the institute, is organizing speed classes. Mrs. Ethel G. Schwartz is in charge of the commercial department in which intensive work will be given in advanced shorthand clasess in order to prepare students for civil service examinations.

The curriculum of the commerce school will include shorthand, bookkeeping, typing, accounting, business English, and other subjects. Classes will be held on Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday evenings from 6:30 until 9:30 o'clock.

In a lecture at the Jewish People's institute on Wednesday evening, Dr. Meyer Solomon, psychiatrist and neurologist, will discuss combating feelings of inadequacy.

Dr. De Long to Speak.

Whether the state is worth keeping will be one of the issues of Dr. Earl De Long of Northwestern university when he speaks on "The Future of the American State," on Thursday evening in the institute.

In another part of the institute building on the same evening a quartet will illustrate modern Jewish music in a lecture recital. Dr. Jacob Singer will speak on "Jewish Music Today."

The quartet will consist of Miss Helen Curtis, Miss Marya Zorre, Maurice Solomon, and Ralph Ginsberg.

PROVISO PUPILS WILL BE GIVEN DRIVING TESTS

Driving ability tests of students in Proviso High school will be given during a five day period opening March 15, by the Chicago Motor club in coöperation with the high school auto mechanics department staf.

The tests will cover clearness of vision, field of vision, color perception, distance judgment, resistance to glare, speed estimation, rate of activity, reaction time, strength of grip, and hand and eye coördination. Inasmuch as the examinations can only be given to about twenty-five students an hour, it will not be possible to administer them to the whole student body.

In addition to the tests given in cooperation with the motor club, Proviso has recently instituted a six weeks' course in driver training.

ELMHURST CO-EDS TO SING AT YOUTH CONCLAVE TODAY

Elmhurst college woman's sextet will conclude a three day appearance at the conference of the St. Louis district Federation of Evangelical and Reformed Church Young People, in St. Louis, this afternoon. Members of the sextet are Miss Dorothy Kross, Elmhurst, pianist; Miss Clara Jameson, Lombard; Miss Vera Limper, Bensenville; Miss Jane Van Voorst, Elmhurst; Miss Dorothy Ann Graham, Wheaton; Miss Katherine Klick, Columbus, O., and Miss Ruth Davis, Baloda Bazar, India.

Miss Graham, soloist for both the sextet and glee clubs, is a niece of Garet Garrett, noted writer.

FORUM TO HEAR 3 LEADERS FROM EUROPE BY RADIO

Many Broadcasts Slated by Woman Congress.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

More than a score of national and world leaders are to be presented in a series of special broadcasts over W-G-N and the leading networks from the annual Woman Congress, the nonpartisan forum on current affairs sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE on next Wednesday and Thursday at the Palmer house. Approximately six hours of the two days' discussions on the central theme, "America in a Changing World" are to be aired from the scene of the congress to the listeners of the nation.

Guglielmo Marconi.

Women attending the congress are to hear three addresses brought to them from overseas by short wave radio and network facilities. Senator Guglielmo Marconi, the father of wireless, is to address the congress on "Modern Communications" from Rome over NBC; Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of former Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, and Sir Josiah Stamp, noted British economist, are to speak from London, their addresses originating through the facilities of the British broadcasting system, in exclusive W-G-N-Mutual presentations. John Steele, Mutual representative in London, will introduce them.

Broadcast from Congress.

Among the outstanding personalities to broadcast from the congress sessions will be Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Nobel prize winner and world renowned physicist of the University of Chicago; Newton D. Baker and Senator Gerald P. Nye, who are to appear on the international affairs portion of the congress; Homer Martin and William Green, rival labor union leaders; Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE; Betty Jaynes, Chicago opera starlet; Dr Glenn Frank, former president of the University of Wisconsin; May Robson, Hollywood actress; Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, president of the Federation of Woman's Clubs, and Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, noted educator and woman's leader.

The tentative schedule of programs to be broadcast follows:

WEDNESDAY.

12 to 12:30 p. m.—W-G-N-Mutual—Opening of the congress with Margot Rebeil singing "The Star Spangled Banner," invocation by Dr. John Evans, address of welcome by Col. McCormick, radio address by Miss MacDonald from London.

12:30 to 1—NBC—Address by Mrs. Lawson on "Education for Living," address by Mrs. Poole on "America in a Changing World."

2:30 to 3—W-G-N-Mutual—Dr. Compton to discuss question "Can Science Point the Way."

3:25 to 3:45—WAAF—Richard Merrill, ace pilot of Eastern airlines on "Aviation."

4:30 to 4:45—NBC—Mrs. Stephen S. Wise, president of the women's division of the American Jewish congress, is to speak on "Woman's Defense of Freedom and Democracy."

8:45—W-G-N-Mutual—Address by Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers; Walter J. Kohler, former governor of Wisconsin, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. Each will speak approximately 15 minutes on labor.

9:30 to 10—CBS [Tentative]—James M. Landis, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission, and Senator Burton K. Wheeler on the Supreme court issue.

THURSDAY.

11 to 11:30 a. m.—W-G-N-Mutual—Addresses by Sir Josiah Stamp, director of the Bank of England, speaking from London, and Dr. Glenn Frank.

3 to 3:15 p. m.—WENR-NBC—Senator Marconi from Rome.

4:15 to 4:45—W-G-N-Mutual—May Robson on "Hollywood Fast Asleep at 10 o'Clock."

4:45—WAAF—Ernest Westmore, director of makeup for 20th Century-Fox studios, Hollywood.

8:45 to 9:30—Betty Jaynes, youthful soprano, and Norman Thomas, socialist leader. [Outlet not yet determined.]

9:30 to 10:30—WENR-NBC—Newton D. Baker and Senator Gerald P. Nye, discussing aspects of international affairs.

'GLORIOUS LIFE ETERNAL' TO BE MIDDAY TOPIC

"The Glorious Life Eternal" is the subject for the guest speakers on the W-G-N and Mutual network religious program, the Midday Service, to be heard daily this week at 12:35 p. m. under the direction of Dr. John L. Dickson. The speakers: Monday, the Rev. Herbert Whiting Virgin, North Shore Baptist church; Tuesday, the Rev. Father William V. Cracknell, St. Viator college, Bourbonnais, Ill.; Wednesday, Spence Burton, Order of St. John the Evangelist, Boston, Mass.; Thursday, the Rev. John Gordon, Second Congregational church, Rockford, Ill.; Friday, Bishop W. J. Walls, African Methodist Episcopal Zion church; Saturday, the Rev. Charles H. Hightower, First Lutheran church, Mount Morris, Ill.

Ghost Walks in Grand Hotel Broadcast Today

"The Ghost Walks in Grand Hotel" is the title of the Grand Hotel drama to be heard at 2:30 p. m. today over WMAQ and NBC. Anne Seymour plays the part of Sylvia, a young architect's wife who is being drawn into the hypnotic power of a baron who is remodeling a supposedly haunted hotel.

RUSHING THE BEACH SEASON

Betty Winkler, headliner of NBC's Girl Alone and also featured in Grand Hotel, is all ready for summer. Radio stars who can't get away to Florida get a somewhat lesser kick by shopping for beach wear in March.

SABLON, FRENCH TROUBADOUR, ON MAGIC KEY HOUR

Night club and operatic music, with a dash of drama from a current Broadway hit, will compose the Magic Key program from 1 to 2 p. m. today over WENR. The visiting artists will be Jean Sablon, recently arrived French troubadour; Josephine Antoine, Metropolitan Opera soprano; Richard Himber and his variety orchestra, and Frank Albertson and Eddie Albert of the cast of "Brother Rat."

John B. Kennedy, commentator, and Dr. Frank Black, conducting the NBC Symphony orchestra, will complete the program.

Joseph Schmidt, sensational European tenor, will make his American concert debut in the program to be broadcast from Carnegie hall, over WMAQ at 9 tonight.

In his first group Schmidt will sing "E lucevan le stelle" from Puccini's "Tosca" and "La donna e mobile" from Verdi's "Rigoletto." In the second group he will sing "A Star Fell from Heaven," song hit of his most recent moving picture, "Wine and Waltz." He also will offer two other songs "Du Bist die Ruh" by Schubert, and "Mattinata" by Leoncavallo.

Compositions by Grieg, Chopin and Bach will be featured by the English pianist, Myra Hess, during her broadcast with the symphony orchestra and chorus conducted by Victor Kolar over WBBM-CBS from 8 to 9 tonight.

For her first selection Miss Hess will be heard with the orchestra in the first movement of Grieg's Concerto in A Minor. Later in the program she will present Chopin's Etudes in F major and A flat.

THREE GRACES

"The Three Graces," W-G-N's new singing trio. The girls are Kathleen Bretzloff, Annette Bretzloff, and Roberta Pearson. They came from Detroit and are nationally famous for their work with Rudy Vallee. The Three Graces replace the Doring Sisters on all of the shows with Harold Stokes and his orchestra on W-G-N and the Mutual network.

[Seymour Photo.]

NORTHERNERS TO PRESENT DETROIT SINGER TUESDAY

Nancy Baskerville Will Be Soloist.

For this week only the Northerners' regular Tuesday evening concert will be presented at 10 p. m. from W-G-N's main studio. Next week the concert will revert to the regular hour, 9:30 o'clock. Nancy Baskerville, coloratura soprano and staf artist at WWJ, Detroit, will be the guest soloist with the octet and string orchestra.

The Junior League Children's Theater group will present their abbreviated version of Mark Twain's immortal classic, "Tom Sawyer," on the W-G-N Fireside theater at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night. This will be the first appearance of the group on a commercially sponsored radio show. The script was written by Mrs. Stephen Harrington. The cast will be composed of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McLeod, Mrs. John O. Guthrie, Mrs. Robert Hoffman Jr., Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr., Mrs. Sidney Heap, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Shaw, Mrs. C. R. Smith, and Walter Frazier. The musical background will be provided by Adrian's orchestra.

Other programs to be heard from the main studio:

6:30 p. m. today—"Evensong," with Our Savior English Lutheran church choir.

9 tonight—"Melodies from the Sky," with Harold Stokes, the W-G-N Dance orchestra, Kadet Kozak, xylophonist; Bruce Holden, Edna O'Dell, "The Four Shades of Blue" and chorus.

9:45 p. m. Monday—The Pageant of Melody, with the W-G-N Concert orchestra, Edmund Kurtz, cellist; Janice Porter, soprano; Attilio Baggiore, tenor, and the mixed octet, directed by Henry Weber.

9:30 p. m. Thursday—The Musical Revue, with Maria Matyas, Kathryn Witwer, William Miller, the mixed octet, and concert orchestra, directed by Henry Weber.

9:30 Friday—Behind the Camera Lines, directed by Charles P. Hughes, presenting a romantic comedy by Lou Crandall and starring June Meredith and Bret Morrison.

7—WLS—Appointment at Westminster," dramatization.

IN AIR DEBUT

Cherry (top) and June Preisser, the most youthful pair of dancing and singing stars ever to appear in the "Ziegfeld Follies," will make their air debut over W-G-N-Mutual at 3:30 today, with Harold Stokes and dance orchestra. The Preissers will present three especially arranged numbers, "You Don't Love Right," "With Plenty of Money and You," and "This Year's Crop of Kisses."

11TH SYMPHONY BROADCAST DUE NEXT SATURDAY

Dr. Frederick Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will direct his musicians in the eleventh popular concert of the season next Saturday night. The concert, an exclusive W-G-N and Mutual network presentation, will be broadcast in its entirety between 8:15 and 10:15 o'clock. Henry Weber of W-G-N will act as commentator, and the program will be announced by James Fleming.

The program:

Overture to "The Secrets of Suzanne" .... Wolf-Ferrari
Symphony No. 10, C major.......... Schubert
Lyric Suite, opus 54.......... Grieg
"Voices of the Forest," from "Siegfried" .... Wagner

BOB ELSON OFF ON COAST TRIP NEXT WEDNESDAY

Bob Elson, W-G-N's sports commentator, will leave Chicago Wednesday on his annual jaunt to the Pacific coast to visit the training camps of the White Sox and the Cubs at Pasadena and Catalina Island. Elson will spend three weeks with the two Chicago clubs brushing up on his baseball in anticipation of another busy summer of baseball broadcasting and sports review work.

During his sojourn on the coast he will present two sports reviews from Pasadena and two from Catalina. The broadcasts from the coast will be heard from the Sox camp on Monday, March 15, and Monday, March 22, and from the stronghold of the Cubs on Wednesday, March 17, and Wednesday, March 24. The shows will be presented at 6:45 p. m.

The other sports review shows usually presented by Elson will be presided over by Jim Fleming.

Marion Talley's Program.

Two romantic numbers from Sigmund Romberg's "Desert Song" will be presented by Marion Talley during her program at 4 p. m. today over WMAQ.

QUIN RYAN BACK TOMORROW FROM FLORIDA JAUNT

Quin Ryan, W-G-N broadcast manager, veteran commentator and announcer, will return to W-G-N this week after a vacation at Sanibel Island, Fla. He will resume his broadcasts from the marriage license bureau at 1:45 p. m. tomorrow. He will also be heard reading THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE at 8:45 p. m. Monday through Friday and at 8 Saturday and Sunday nights. His Sports Shots program will be heard following the reading of THE TRIBUNE each night.

MODERN HEATER LESSENS BURDEN OF DIRT CHASING

Automatic Furnace Aids Home Economics.

How to stop heat waste in the house is the subject of the booklet, "Let's Keep Warm — For Less Money," by Louise Bargelt, Tribune home builders' editor. Get a copy of this booklet today. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price 3 cents. Postpaid, 5 cents.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The new way in heating equipment is the clean, automatic way, the way which takes work out of the hands of home dwellers and puts it on the tireless shoulders of machinery.

Much new building and modernization is being planned for the next six months, and late spring and summer are seasons when a large volume of work starts in the improvement and replacement of heating units.

In two recent cases basements were modernized and, in addition to the automatic stoker units, waste space was converted into game areas. In another instance, the house, a new one, had a basement layout with a separate room for the combination boiler and stoker unit.

The modern coal stoker in its present form has been manufactured so that it is suitable for all modern basements. New models are encased in bright colored metallic cabinets, streamlined and compact.

New Stoker Efficiency.

Another point of interest to any home dweller who is in the market for a new furnace or boiler is the fact that there are some new combination stoker and boiler units. These have been developed by skilled engineers to meet the particular demands of automatic coal firing and to work together scientifically.

Modern stokers are fed in two ways, a hopper filled by hand or bin fed. Where a stoker burns bituminous coal, a clinker ring is formed which can be removed in a solid piece. This eliminates the handling of dusty ashes. Another type of stoker has an ash feed pipe, and the ashes are automatically removed from the boiler. It is possible with this unit to have the pipe line for the ashes run into the alley instead of into hoppers in the basement.

Dustproof Coal Bin.

When plans for a stoker installation are made the location and construction of the coal bin must be taken into consideration. This bin either can be inside or outside the basement. If it is inside it should be dustproof, not partly dustproof but entirely dustproof, and should be on the proper side of the house so that coal can be delivered directly into it. A drain in the cellar will take care of any excess moisture, and a special "coal" window and built-in chute always are recommended, whether the coal is to be chuted into the bin or poured in from bags. This is good insurance against broken panes of glass in zero weather.

Joseph D. Biety, president of the Chicago Coal Merchants' association, is much pleased, he says, over the benefits to the home owner from recent stoker developments. He points out that stokers and coal, as well as stokers and heating units, are now working together, and that special types of clean, properly sized coal are now treated to eliminate dust and increase coal economy.

More Heat Per Pound.

It has been definitly proved that stokers are more economical to run than furnaces that are hand fired, since they use a cheaper coal, and, by burning gases produced by preheating and coking, they get more heat out of each pound of coal.

So, besides the work and steps saved by use of a stoker, and the inestimable health factor of constant temperatures and even heat, thermostatically controled, there is the fact that actual dollars and cents also are saved.

Basement rooms are no longer being overlooked in the making or remaking of houses, and when they once are transformed into healthy spots, with clean, automatic heat, rumpus and utility rooms and areas which provide space for cards, dancing, pool, and ping-pong can be installed there.

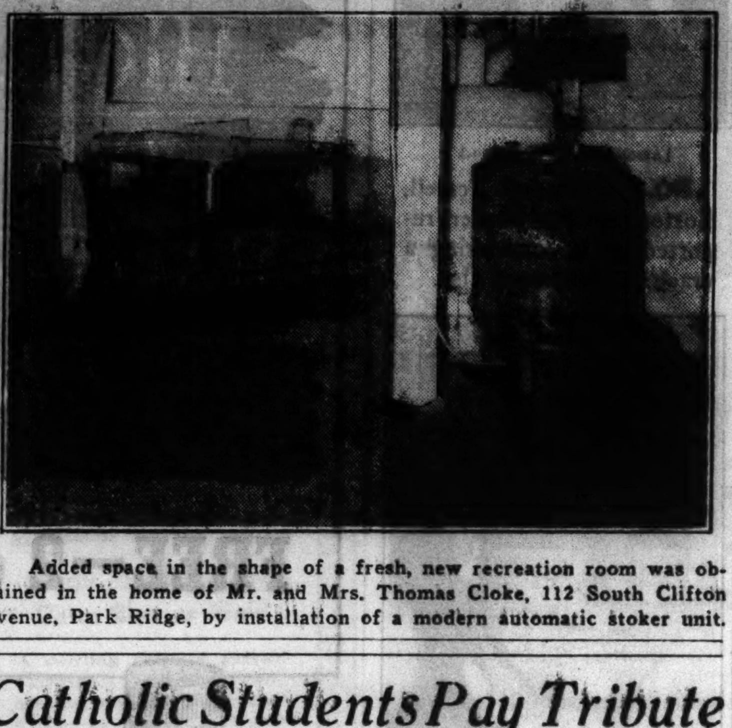
Since most of the heating units being manufactured today are quite as modern looking as any of the other features of new basement areas there is no imperative reason for separating them into rooms of their own unless one can easily afford to provide that extra space.

Then such a plan may be used, for it has its distinct advantages and is one of the new trends.

Mrs. Bargelt will speak over W-G-N next Monday at 2:15 p. m.

BASEMENTS FOR LIVING

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Tomlinson, 318 Elmore avenue, Park Ridge, decided on automatic heat, so they installed a bin feed type of modern stoker which removes ashes from the furnace. Now they have a new recreation room, with walls painted a soft silver gray, and a wine red floor.



Added space in the shape of a fresh, new recreation room was obtained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cloke, 112 South Clifton avenue, Park Ridge, by installation of a modern automatic stoker unit.

Catholic Students Pay Tribute to St. Thomas Aquinas Today

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Fully 200,000 university, college, high and elementary school students in Catholic institutions of the archdiocese of Chicago today join with millions of students of that faith throughout the world in commemorating the 712th birthday of the Catholic student's patron saint, St. Thomas Aquinas.

Special commemorative masses, lectures, and various assemblages will be held this week throughout Chicago, and philosophical, scientific and religious groups everywhere will pay tribute to the 13th century Dominican monk who drew the pattern for the western world's way of thinking. This, until today, has scarcely been challenged.

Dominican fathers at their house of studies, River Forest, were pointing last week to a paradox—the noble family which gave St. Thomas to the world to be acclaimed by his church, "the prince of doctors," or greatest teacher, also gave to the medieval world its first political dictator, Frederick II. Frederick was St. Thomas' cousin.

Two Widely Divergent.

After Frederick had failed to forge an empire by dictatorial force, his younger cousin laid down the constitutions of spiritual and intellectual empire grounded in faith and springing from the freedom that faith implants in the nature and rights of the individual.

The River Forest fathers pointed out that Thomas and Frederick are spiritually embattled in the world again today, with dictatorship and statism again arrayed against the natural and spiritual rights of man achieved under divine guidance through democratic processes.

Among outstanding points in the teachings of St. Thomas, the River Forest fathers cited the harmony he discerned between revelation and of the data of science. They pointed out that the 13th century doctor antedated by seven centuries the present movement toward rapprochement between science and religion, which, due mainly to changes in scientific philosophy during the past decade, has been recognized by Pope Pius XI. in the creation of the papal academy of science. This academy has welcomed into membership many scientists who are not members of the Catholic church.

Special School Services.

Parochial school children and students at Catholic colleges and universities have been asked to attend special services in commemoration of St. Thomas. The 9 o'clock mass at the Dominican House of Studies today will be devoted to "the scholars' saint," with procession and "complin" following in the afternoon.

The federal council of churches has announced that "after several years of study it has recorded its judgment that the status of the army and navy chaplains should be changed in such a way as to make clear that they [the chaplains] are a part of the regular ministry of the churches rather than of the armed services of the nation."

Opinions of DePauw university students as to the relative importance of the Ten Commandments greatly scramble the traditional order of the decalog's mandates. The First commandment, as Moses delivered the decalog, "Thou shalt have none other gods but me," goes to sixth place, according to student opinion, and No. 6, "Thou shalt no kill," becomes No. 1.

The mandate against stealing becomes commandment No. 2, with the students relegating the evil of idolatry, covered by Moses' second command, to the position of least importance at No. 10. Sex offenses as implied in the Seventh commandment are moved up to third place of importance by the students. Filial honor was moved up one notch to fourth place. Covetousness was moved up from last to seventh place, and observance of the Sabbath was dropped from third place to ninth.

Analysis of student opinion thus shows influence of sociological studies which tend to make religion man-centered instead of God-centered, with sins against man and society regarded as more offensive than sins against the Deity.

The Rev. Carl C. Seitter has been appointed to the staf of the Epworth league, with national offices at 740 Rush street, Chicago. He succeeds the Rev. Owen M. Geer.

CORNWALL POST TO HOLD PARTY IN NORTH RIVERSIDE

St. Patrick's Frolic for Saturday Planned.

A St. Patrick's frolic will be held Saturday night by Norman J. Cornwall post, No. 275, American Legion, at the club house, 28th street and Forbes road, North Riverside. Roy S. Seibel, junior vice commander of the post, is in charge of arrangements.

Van Buren post will be host to posts of the sixth district at a meeting to be held March 31 in the banquet hall of the Atlantic hotel.

Fred F. Emich, past commander of Chippily post and a recent delegate of the FIDAC association, will be guest speaker tomorrow night at a meeting of Theodore Roosevelt post, No. 627, at the Auditorium hotel. Commander Charles F. Kerbs has designated the occasion as "33d division night" and invites all former members of the division to attend.

National Commander Harry W. Colmery will be among the distinguished guests at a meeting of Commonwealth Edison post March 15 in customers' hall of the Edison building. Sons of Legionnaires are invited to attend.

A copy of the constitution of the United States, provided through funds raised by collecting pennies on the part of the Cook county council juniors, recently was presented to the Adler planetarium. Mrs. John E. Huguelet, junior activities chairman, and Mrs. Ralph Webber, president of the council, participated in the presentation.

An oratorical contest will be held in conjunction with the Americanism and national defense program sponsored by the sixth district council of the American Legion auxiliary at 8 o'clock Saturday night in the ballroom of the 122d Field Artillery armory, 234 East Chicago avenue.

Mrs. Hazel Woolman, district director, will preside and the program will be in charge of Mrs. Gladys C. Calderwood, district Americanism chairman, assisted by Mrs. Helen Stolz, district national defense chairman.

Commander William J. Collins will extend welcome and speakers will include Mrs. Ida Cassidy, department Americanism chairman, and Sidney T. Holzman, D. S. C., past Cook county council commander. Youthful patriotic groups will present a pageant.

Six students from Lane, Lake View, and Immaculata High schools will compete in the oratorical contest on the theme, "America, an Example to the World." The successful contestant will receive a cash prize and represent the district in the county contest. Judges will be Grover Sexton, Cook county Americanism chairman; Frank P. Prete, district vice commander, and F. W. Sedlmayr, district Americanism chairman.

VALPARAISO U. CHOIR TO SING AT CONCORDIA

The Valparaiso University choir of Valparaiso, Ind., an a cappella organization of seventy mixed voices, will appear in a sacred concert at the Concordia Teachers' college, William and Augusta streets, River Forest, at 8 o'clock this evening.

Compositions by Mendelssohn, Mozart, Palestrina, Grieg, Bach, and other composers will be sung by the group. Prof. Richard Schoenbohm is the choir director.

The choir is making its appearance under the auspices of the Women's auxiliary of the Lutheran University association. Mrs. Arthur Taube, 1018 North Grove avenue, Oak Park, president of the ladies' organization, is in charge of the concert arrangements.

LEAD AUSTIN R. O. T. C.

—St. Mel—

Members of the Fathers' and Friends' club of St. Mel High school are sponsoring a minstrel show which will be given soon after Easter in the St. Mel auditorium for the benefit of the school's college scholarship fund.

Leo Terry, who recently composed a march for the St. Mel cadets, is rehersing the chorus and working on the show's script, which calls for a cast of 150 entertainers drawn from the club and student body.

Newly promoted members of the St. Mel R. O. T. C. are Cadet Captain James Prasch; Cadet First Lieutenant James A. Murphy; Cadet Second Lieutenant William Tynan; Cadet First Sergeant Joseph Kohutik; Cadet Sergeants Robert Brizzolaro, and Daniel Feeney, and Cadet Corporal George Gronewold.

Cadets named to receive personal appearance and good conduct bars are Cadet Master Sergeant Robert McCarthy; Cadet First Sergeant Eugene Yocherer; Cadet Sargeants Leo McCann and James Vasta; Cadet Corporals Joseph Maun and Robert Miller, and Cadets Eugene Klosinski, Edmund Quigley, Thomas Waldron, Joseph Cresham, Dennis Shanahan, Robert O'Callahan, Joseph Martin, and John Woefel. Cadet William Stocker has been awarded a special service bar.

Avondale Park to Offer Weekly Amateur Contests

Avondale park will conduct weekly amateur contests starting at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. There is no entry fee and no age limit, but registration must be made at the park fieldhouse by Monday of the week in which the contest is to be held.

Crane

Cadet Sergeant Clarence Galetti has been elected president of the Crane High school noncommissioned officers' club. Other officers are Cadet Sergeant Leo Scalabroni, secretary; Cadet First Sergeant Henry Schusteff, sergeant at arms, and Cadet Sergeant Bernard Auerback, publicity officer. Cadet Corporal Joseph Lovi is club guild delegate.

Reorganized this semester under the leadership of Cadet Sergeants Bernard Auerback and Henry Gumz, Crane's chapter of the National Rifle association now numbers fifty-five cadets.

—Marshall—

Three staf assignments and 27 promotions in the Marshall High school R. O. T. C. have been announced by Sergt. Eugene N. Axtell, military instructor. Further promotions will be withheld until after the city squad drill contest on March 27.

Newly promoted cadet officers attached to headquarters are Cadet First Lieut. Harvey Powers, adjutant; Cadet Second Lieut. Marvin Fisher, supply officer, and Cadet Second Lieut. Robert Pope, publicity officer. Also promoted were Cadet Capts. James Williams and Samuel Hyman, Cadet First Lieut. Jerome Czypinski, and Cadet Second Lieuts. Wallace Langley, Thomas Goff, and Edward Willecke.

Noncommissioned promotions are as follows: Cadet Staf Sergt. Joseph Davoren, Cadet First Sergt. Carl Meister, Cadet Sergt. Bert Endelman, and Cadet Corporals Robert Turner, Irving Edelstein, Ciro Quartana, Donold Fuller, Meyer Cohen, and Marvin Cohen. Cadets Dennis Weathers, Samuel Dalinas, Nicholas Ricci, Charles Crabtree, Kenneth Boersmak, Albert Juhl, David Springwater, Albert Pringle, and George Reed were given first class rating.

Hazards Club Dance.

The Hazards S. A. C. will hold its second annual dance Saturday evening in the main ballroom of the Northwest Lions club, 4300 West North avenue. Dance committee members are John Dyra, Russ Nelson, Ray Bösenbecker, and Sam McCormack.

GRAND OPENING—3 NEW STORES

—AUTHORIZED AGENCIES—

Hollywood Goes Hunting for Box Office Attractions—Gets an Aviator and Two Major League Baseball Stars

NO. 1.—La Verne Brown, a T. W. A. transport pilot, once was content to sail his big plane cross-country. But on one of these routine trips he had among his passengers the wife of a Hollywood film executive who took one look and wired her husband. [Acme Photo.]

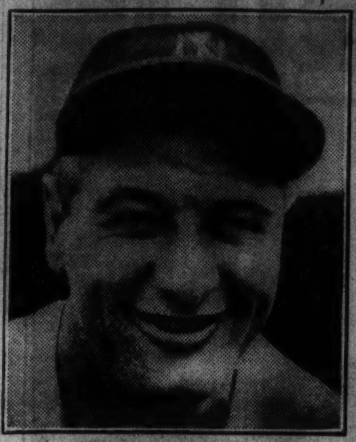
[Acme Photo.]

NO. 2—Brown on occasion turned over the controls of the big plane to a co-pilot. He was a favorite with feminine passengers and (says his now active press agent) often pointed out the sights from his plane high in the air.

NO. 3—Pilot Brown was called to Hollywood where Browns are a dime a dozen. So he forthwith became John Trent.

[Acme Photo.]

NO. 4—Now La Verne Brown, alias John Trent (which is Hollywood for box office), has a big auto and a chauffeur to pilot a former pilot. He has been acclaimed as a "natural" actor because it is said he can adapt himself to any role. He credits his training as an aviator, where emergencies and their treatment are taken in stride.



NO. 1—Lou Gehrig is a first baseman for the champion New York Yankees, a post that has paid him thousands.

NO. 2—Last year (all in fun) Gehrig posed as he might appear made up for Tarzan of the movies. [Acme Photo.]

NO. 3—Last week Gehrig, Columbia U. alumnus, signed a film contract; stipulated no Tarzan roles. [Associated Press Photo.]

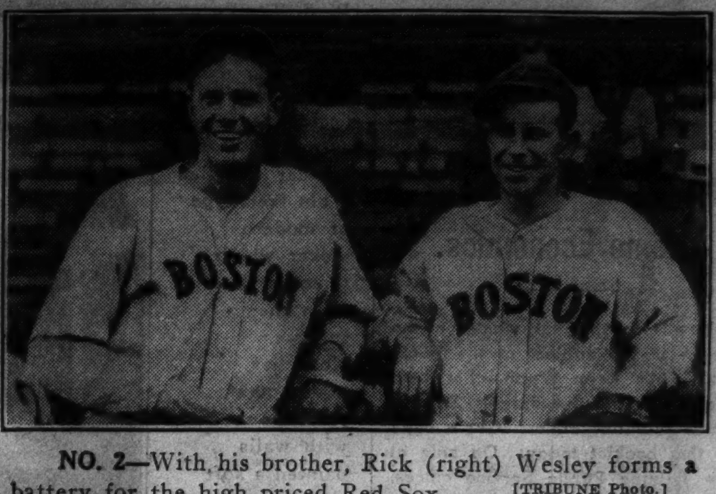
NO. 1—Wesley Ferrell, Boston Red Sox pitcher, reported he is considering a crack at Hollywood also.



NO. 2—With his brother, Rick (right) Wesley forms a battery for the high priced Red Sox. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

HIGHLAND 100% PURE MAPLE Sap SYRUP from Old Vermont

FREE—2 ounce Jug

BELIEVE it or not, you've probably never tasted the glorious flavor of real maple syrup. Most "maple syrups" are blends containing 75% or more of cane sugar—as a careful look at their labels will show you. That is why we want to make you a gift of a 2 ounce jug of Highland straight unblended 100% Pure Vermont Maple Sap Syrup and a 24-page book of famous old Vermont maple syrup recipes that will make your mouth water. All we ask is that you pay the postage and packing.

Just enclose 9c in stamps with your letter. Please be sure to address Dept. 74, Cary Maple Sugar Co., Inc., St. Johnsbury, Vermont.

When your UNDER SKIN is healthily Active

ARE you bothered with little blemishes? Hold your mirror closely . . . Do you find blackheads? Are the pores getting coarser?

All three faults generally come together. They have the same beginning—a faulty underskin.

When tiny oil glands underneath function poorly, they fill your pores with thick, clogging oils. Soon there's a horrid blackhead. Then the blemish. And these just make the pores grow coarser.

But—invigorate that underskin! Get those faulty oil glands functioning healthily again. And see how your skin clears, looks fine.

Begin the famous Pond's treatment that rouses your underskin, as well as cleanses:

Every night, cleanse with Pond's Cold Cream. As the dirt, stale make-up and skin secretions come out—wipe them all off. Now pat in more cream—briskly. Rouse that faulty underskin! Set it to work again—for that clear, smooth, unblemished skin you want.

Every morning, and during the day, repeat this treatment with Pond's Cold Cream. Your skin comes softer every time. And your powder goes on beautifully.

The coupon will bring you enough for 9 treatments.

Tune in on "Husbands and Wives," the Pond's Program, Tuesdays, 9:30 p.m. E.S.T., N.B.C. Blue Network

SPECIAL 9-TREATMENT TUBE and 3 other Pond's Beauty Aids

POND'S, Dept. CH-158, Clinton, Conn. Rush special tube of Pond's Cold Cream, enough for 9 treatments, with generous samples of 2 other Pond's Creams and 5 different shades of Pond's Face Powder. I enclose 10c to cover postage and packing.

SCIENCE ADDS THRILLING NEW INGREDIENT TO TOOTH POWDER!

PEPSODENT POWDER alone contains IRIUM—new scientific ingredient that banishes dull film and gives amazing luster to teeth.

Pepsodent alone among Tooth Powders contains IRIUM

BECAUSE OF IRIUM . . . Pepsodent requires NO SOAP. Contains NO GRIT . . . NO PUMICE. —Safe!

BECAUSE OF IRIUM . . . Pepsodent gently floats film away—instead of scraping it off. —Thorough!

BECAUSE OF IRIUM . . . Pepsodent Powder leaves your mouth feeling clean and wholesome. —Refreshing!

Science turns thumbs-down on old-fashioned methods of cleaning teeth!

It demands a smoother, more thorough action in tooth powders—and finds it!

Now IRIUM—the amazing new dental discovery—brings the modern way to remove dull, dingy film, make teeth sparkle, keep mouth clean and fresh.

Pepsodent alone of tooth powders contains this totally new kind of foaming ingredient that softens glue-like film and floats it away like magic!

So effective is IRIUM that a good brushing with Pepsodent Powder leaves enamel cleaner and more radiant than you have ever before experienced. Unlike soap in many dentifrices, IRIUM does not combine with saliva in your mouth to form new deposits of film and tartar.

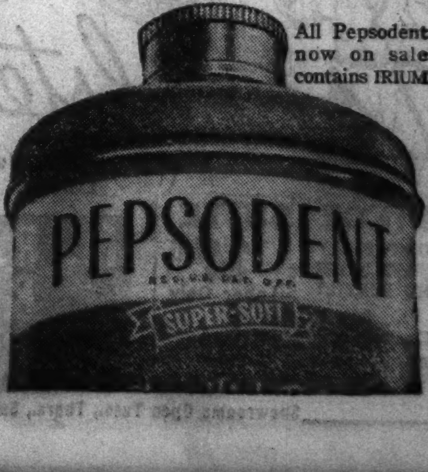
That's why teeth look brighter, feel clean so much longer after using Pepsodent Powder containing IRIUM.

Yet Pepsodent Powder is SAFE, because it contains NO GRIT, NO PUMICE. So refreshing is Pepsodent containing IRIUM that a wholesome tingle rejuvenates your mouth, your sense of taste, with every brushing.

Try Pepsodent Powder containing IRIUM. See how it shows up any other tooth powder you ever used—BAR NONE!

Proof is that people have already bought nearly 10,000,000 cans! So try it!

All Pepsodent now on sale contains IRIUM



USE PEPSODENT POWDER! . . . it alone contains IRIUM—for thrilling luster on teeth!

GEE WILLIKENS, MOM, I CAN'T GARGLE THAT AWFUL SLUNK!! IT'S PHOOEY!! I CAN'T EAT NO MORE GRUB, NOHOW!!
GOOD HEAVENS! DID YOU EVER HEAR SUCH LANGUAGE — AND SUCH SLANG!!
PERRY, I'VE DECIDED TO PUT A STOP TO THE AWFUL SLANGUAGE YOU USE — I'VE SENT FOR A TUTOR OF ENGLISH, AND HE'LL BE HERE SOON!!
AW, GOSH, WINNIE, YOU DON'T WANT ME TO TALK HIGH-HAT, LIKE A STUFFED SHIRT??
MY SYSTEM OF TEACHING ENGLISH TO A CHILD IS TO TAKE HIM FOR A LONG WALK AND ENCOURAGE CONVERSATION!
THAT SOUNDS WONDERFUL, PROFESSOR!! JUST A MOMENT AND I'LL GET PERRY!
HELLO, PERRY! YOU AND I ARE GOING TO BE GOOD FRIENDS, AREN'T WE? LET US GO FOR A WALK?
YES, WOULDN'T YOU LIKE TO TAKE A WALK WITH PROFESSOR ADVERB?
OKEY DOKE! SWELL!! LET'S GO!!
GOSH, PROF, YOU AIN'T SUCH A HARD-BOILED EGG AS I THOUGHT! WHEN YOU SAID WE'D SCRAM ON THIS HIKE, YOU SURE SAID A MOUTHFUL!!
WHY-UH-PERRY!! SUCH LANGUAGE!!
I DON'T SAVVY WHERE YOU'RE STEERIN' FOR, PROF, BUT IF YOU'RE GONNA HOOF IT WITH ME, YOU'LL HAFT'A SHAKE A LEG!!
MY GOODNESS GRACIOUS!! YOUR SLANG EXPRESSIONS ARE FRIGHTFUL, PERRY!!
PERRY, I BEG YOU, AS A FRIEND, PLEASE TALK TO ME IN SIMPLE, PLAIN LANGUAGE, LIKE A GOOD BOY!
OKEY DOKE, PROF, ONLY WISE ME UP HOW FAR WE'RE GONNA HOT-FOOT IT, 'CAUSE MY DOGS ARE STARTIN' TO BARK!
PERRY—NEVER SAY "GOIN'" AND "DOIN'"!! IT'S "GOING" AND "DOING"!! YOU'RE LEAVING OFF THE "G"!!
GEE, WHERE ARE WE GOIN'? GEE, HOW'M I DOIN'? HOW'S 'AT, PROF? YOU BAT 'EM OUT AN' I'LL FIELD 'EM!!
REALLY, PERRY, I'M IN A QUANDARY! YOU'RE A VERY DIFFICULT PUPIL!! LET US RETURN HOME!
OKAY, PROF, LET'S ANKLE HOME, BUT SNAP OUT OF IT, KID-I AIN'T HALF BAD!!
HERE COME PERRY AND PROFESSOR ADVERB BACK!! I WONDER HOW THEY MADE OUT?
WE HAD TO SCRAM BACK, 'CAUSE THIS LIL' MUG'S DOGS WAS BARKIN', BUT ON TH' LEVEL, THIS KID'LL BE TOSSIN' TH' KING'S ENGLISH FOR A LOSS BEFORE Y'CAN SAY—"OKEY DOKE"!

LOOIE
OH, LOOIE, I'M SO LOST SINCE MY HUSBAND DIED! I NEED YOUR ADVICE!!
MRS. DILLBY, YOU ARE INCLINED TO GET MORBID! MY ADVICE TO YOU IS TO LOOK AROUND AND GET MARRIED AGAIN!
OH, LOOIE—ARE YOU PROPOSING TO ME, DEAR?
AHEM-ER-ALLOW ME TO REMIND YOU, MADAM—
—A LAWYER GIVES ADVICE—HE DOESN'T FOLLOW IT!!

[ADVERTISEMENT]
BACHELOR DAYS
LET'S TAKE HIM ON A PARTY TONIGHT, PERCY. THAT'LL PUT HIM IN A GOOD MOOD!
—WISH MR CASHMAN WOULD SIGN THAT CONTRACT—I NEED THE COMMISSION, TOM!
—SWELL PARTY, PERCY—AND A MOST CONVINCING SALES TALK!
THEN YOU'LL COME TO MY HOUSE TOMORROW MORNING TO SIGN THE CONTRACT, MR. CASHMAN?
NEXT MORNING
MORNING, SIR! READY TO CLOSE THAT DEAL WITH PERCY CUSTARD?
OH-ALL RIGHT! BUT FOR 2 CENTS I'D CALL IT OFF—I'M A WRECK FROM THAT PARTY LAST NIGHT!
PERCY'S IN TROUBLE, TOO—GOT HOME AT 3RD A.M. AND IS HIS WIFE MAD!!
AT PERCY'S HOUSE
SO THESE ARE THE RUFFIANS WHO KEPT YOU OUT ALL NIGHT! TAKE THEM AWAY BEFORE YOU SPILL INK ALL OVER MY COUCH!
HEH! HEH! MY WIFE'S A BIT CROTCHETY! JUST SIT HERE AND SIGN!
PERCY!! GET THAT GREAT BIG OX OFF MY ANTIQUE CHAIR!
—DEAL'S OFF, CUSTARD! I'VE GOT A MORNING-AFTER HEAD—AND BESIDES—I'M NO OX!!
OH! IS HE A CUSTOMER? I'LL HAVE TO DO SOMETHING QUICK!
OOO—THERE YOU ARE AGAIN! OUT OF MY WAY!!
NOT AN INCH DO I MOVE UNTIL YOU'VE TAKEN THIS BROMO-SELTZER!
—AGAIN BROMO-SELTZER SAVES THE DAY! STOPS MR. CASHMAN'S HEADACHE QUICKLY—SETTLES HIS STOMACH—SOOTHES HIS NERVES—SOON HE FEELS FINE AND—SIT DOWN HERE AND SIGN THE CONTRACT, MR. CASHMAN!
I'D DO ANYTHING FOR THE LADY WHO GAVE ME BROMO-SELTZER!
PROVED FASTER BY DOCTORS, GIVES MORE ALL-ROUND RELIEF
Great little peacemaker, Bromo-Seltzer! Its gentle help even made Mr. Cashman and Mrs. Custard bosom friends.
1. DOCTORS' TESTS recently proved it stops next-morning headaches Faster than any other remedy they tested.
2. SETTLES STOMACH—relieves upset stomach, nausea and that "dark brown taste."
3. SOOTHES NERVES—calms your overtaxed nervous system. Relieves your sense of strain and fatigue.
4. REDUCES EXCESS LACTIC ACID in the blood caused by overindulgence. Helps restore your normal alkaline reserve.
Get Bromo-Seltzer at drugstores, soda fountains. Keep it handy at home, too.

DANCE YOUR WAY TO GOOD TIMES—

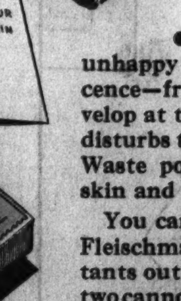
ask your grocer for this FREE FLEISCHMANN DANCE CARD

Step lively everybody! Take advantage of this very special chance to make yourself a popular, sought-after dancer!

ARTHUR MURRAY shows you how in his marvelous new DANCE BOOK. Tells you how to do the latest, smartest steps. How to lead. How to follow. How to dance smoothly and gracefully. Exciting action photos . . . simple diagrams make every step clear!

YOU CAN'T BUY this Arthur Murray Dance Book. The ONLY WAY to secure a copy is by saving Fleischmann Yeast Labels each day. Then—paste these on the Fleischmann Dance Card your grocer will give you. Send it in. The book will be mailed you promptly.

If your grocer has no dance cards, you can still get the book by saving your 81 yeast cake labels. Put them in an envelope, or paste them on a piece of paper and mail with your name and address to Fleischmann's Yeast, 701 Washington Street, New York, N. Y. (This offer holds good until August 31st, 1937.)



"STICK TO IT—and FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST will help to rid your skin of ADOLESCENT PIMPLES," says Dr. R. E. Lee, well-known physician

● A great many girls and boys are made unhappy by a pimply skin after the start of adolescence—from about 13 to 25. Important glands develop at this time and final growth takes place. This disturbs the whole body. The skin gets oversensitive. Waste poisons in the blood irritate this sensitive skin and pimples break out.

You can help correct unsightly pimples by eating Fleischmann's fresh Yeast. It clears these skin irritants out of the blood. Eat 3 cakes every day—one or two cannot do the work. Eat it plain, or in a little water, a cake about ½ hour before each meal. Start now!

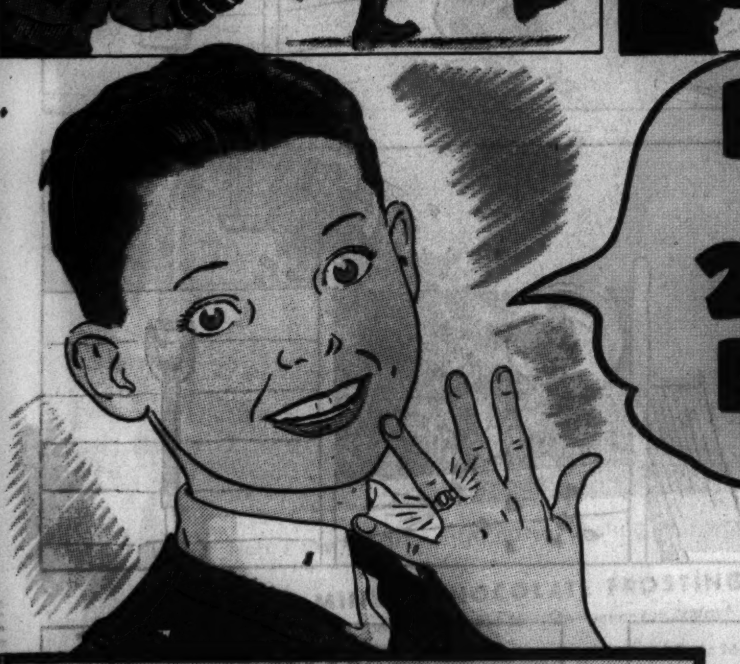
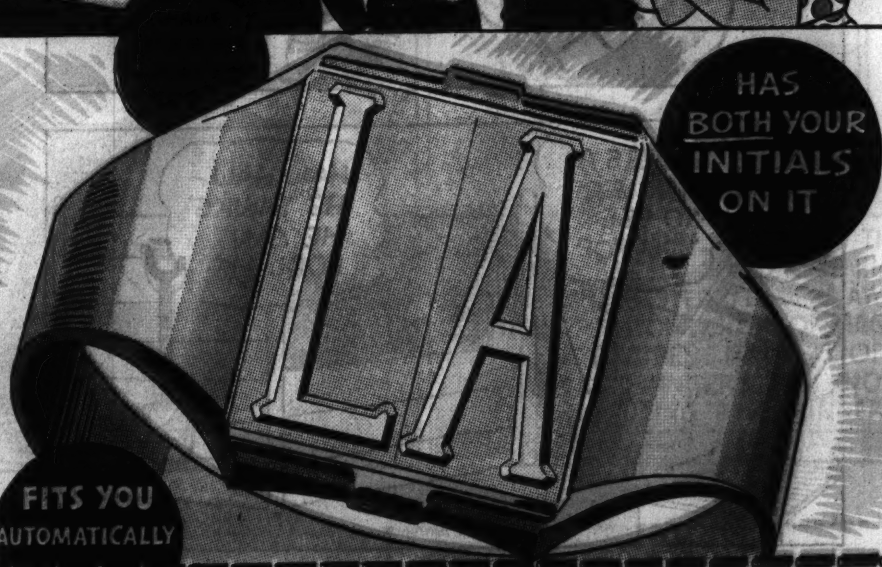
LUCKY LARRY AND HIS NEW TWO-INITIAL SIGNET RING

READ HOW YOU CAN GET ONE, TOO!



BOYS AND GIRLS! GET A WONDERFUL 2-INITIAL SIGNET RING LIKE THIS...

FOR ONLY 10¢ AND SEAL FROM CAN OF OVALTINE



HAS BOTH YOUR INITIALS ON IT

FITS YOU AUTOMATICALLY

Finished in 24-Karat Gold Plate—With Contrasting Silver Toned Initials

HERE'S a chance to get a wonderful new kind of signet ring different from any you've seen before. A beautiful 24-karat, gold-plated, TWO-INITIAL ring with both of your very own initials on it —MADE TO ORDER expressly for you! . . . This beautiful two-initialed ring fits any finger automatically. Initials are raised up and finished in contrasting silver tone, giving the stylish new duo-tone effect. Just the thing for stamping your seal in sealing wax on the backs of letters. You'll be proud to wear it wherever you go.

TO GET YOUR RING: Just print your name and address and your two initials plainly in the coupon at right. Then send it in, together with a thin aluminum seal from under the lid of a can of Ovaltine and 10 cents (to cover cost of handling and mailing). This special offer expires at midnight, April 14. So act at once. Clip the coupon now. Mail it today.

MOTHERS! Ovaltine is a delicious pure food beverage first created in Switzerland (now made in the U.S.A.) It contains more than 15 food elements essential to the diet of the growing child—and is particularly valued because of the noticeable increases in appetite and weight which so frequently occur when Ovaltine is added to a child's regular daily diet.

Ovaltine is also highly recommended as a strengthening food-drink for convalescents, and the aged—and for sleeplessness, when taken as a hot drink at bedtime.

Ovaltine is very inexpensive to serve—and can be obtained at all drug and grocery stores. You simply give it mixed with milk —either hot or cold—and children love its delicious taste.

HOW IS SHE, DOC? — HOW IS MOM ??
WELL, JUST SO. I'VE SENT FOR DR. BENN. I WANT HIM TO SEE HER TOO—
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.; Copyright, 1937, by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.
GOSH, JEANIE, MOM MUST BE AWFULLY SICK
EASY NOW— MAYBE IT ISN'T SO BAD
LATER
WELL, DOCTOR ??
ER, IT'S HER HEART. DR. BENN AGREES WITH ME ON THAT. YOUR MOTHER MUST BE KEPT VERY QUIET
NO MORE WORK OF ANY KIND—
IS THAT ALL— JUST QUIET?
NO, SON— SHE NEEDS A SPECIALIST
WOULD THAT COST VERY MUCH— A SPECIALIST?
I'M AFRAID IT WOULD—A GREAT DEAL—
BUT... BUT..
I'LL BE BACK TOMORROW —MEANWHILE, KEEP THE PATIENT AS QUIET AS POSSIBLE
ISN'T THERE ANYTHING— DOCTOR?
SHE'S A VERY SICK WOMAN. ONLY A HEART SPECIALIST CAN SAVE HER
THERE, THERE, BRACE UP. THE DOCTOR SAYS SHE HAS A GOOD CHANCE— AND I'LL STAND BY A SPECIALIST— MOM MUST HAVE THE BEST— SHE'S GOT TO
SWEENEY & SON by POSEN
LET'S PLAY HIDE AND SEEK
O.K.
NOW I'M "IT" AND YOU HIDE
JIMMIE LEE IS HERE TO SEE YOU, SON—
O.K., POP, I'LL BE RIGHT DOWN
HAW HAW—I FOOLED YOU! THERE'S NO ONE HERE—
AW, GEE— THAT'S A MEAN TRICK TO PLAY ON ME
ALL'S FAIR IN LOVE AND GAMES, SON— HEH HEH— NOW YOU'RE "IT"
THIS IS A SWELL PLACE TO HIDE—
THERE'S A MAN HERE TO SEE YOU, POP
HAW HAW— HE THINKS HE CAN FOOL ME
NO FOOLING, POP— THERE'S SOMEBODY HERE—
HEE HEE

Beauty Culture as taught by
BURNHAM'S
(for 66 years the world's largest beauty school.)
Can Give You
CONSTANT INCOME

You may want a shop of your own, you may want to work in a shop as an expert operator, you may want to work in Chicago or you may want to work anywhere else throughout America—but most of all you want the opportunity to have a constant income. Burnham beauty culture tarining [with it's 66 year record of turning out the most sought-after operators] offers these opportunities.

Positions Waiting

Take advantage of the shortage of capable beauty operators. We have more positions open than we can fill. In good times or bad, there is an income waiting for you in beauty culture if you are properly trained. Make sure of getting the best training by coming to the school whose exclusive training methods will enable you to be a Class A operator. Your time and ability are worth money to you. Don't jeopardize your future security through inferior training. Come in now and see for yourself why more girls enroll in Burnham's than in any other school.

Easy Terms

It is to your advantage to act now. Free tools, free employment service, the chance to pay most of your tuition after you graduate, await those who come in to see us this week. Open every day and Mon., Wed., Fri. evenings until 9 P. M. Call, phone or write for Free Beauty Culture Book.

Salesmen.

A BIG MAN
FOR A BIG JOB.

Progressive, forward-looking salesmen are achieving now as always. Chicago men are making good. Mr. W., former $30 week, Chicago executive, made over $1,000 last week in Texas. Mr. L., a Chicago advertising man, formerly interviewed 50 people weekly to make $75. Now like Mr. W., he sells for us and works 4 days a week—interviews 10 qualified prospects for average commissions of $300 weekly. Mr. G., new salesman, made $350 his first week in the toughest city in U. S. All three are Chicago men who had vision and energy.

These men travel and live in the best hotels and finance themselves.

We have openings in the East for three more live-wire go-getters, with something on the ball who think in terms of similar big commission checks. We want men of stamina to interview leads on a business opportunity and establish qualified prospects with cash paying merchandising equipment. To right salesmen we offer opportunity. Has-beens, well wishers, and curiosity seekers save your stamps. Sincere, honest, hard hitting salesmen will receive an interview. For consideration, give details.
ADDRESS M L 236, TRIBUNE.

MEN WITH OR WITHOUT EXPERIENCE can sell improved real estate today provided their references are satisfactory and assuming that the organization you join can offer the following:
1. Adequate instruction.
2. Offer deliverable property.
3. Assist in signing contracts.
4. Close deals with legal aid.
5. Enjoy a good reputation.

In the last real estate boom inexperienced men developed and pushed their earnings past $1,000 a month. Commission basis. Phone Miss Connolly for appointment.

B-U-S-I-N-E-S-S

Would you be interested in starting a business for yourself without one cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men are previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shopworkers, mechanics, etc., and are now earning and receiving in percentage as much as $50 a single day.

We are an old line, nationally known manufacturer of electrical units that defy competition, and for which there is a constant increasing demand.

Now here are our arrangements. You must be between 24 and 54, preferably married, honest, reliable, possess a neat appearance, and possess at least a grammar school education.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side and Southern Cook County.

Every man answering this advertisement will be given a confidential interview, and if selected will be trained at our expense in our methods, which are successful.

There are no strings attached to this offer, as we can even pay rent, light, heat, telephone, girl hire, consign your merchandise, and finance your accounts.

Apply Monday, 2 to 3 p. m. or 7 to 8 p. m. only.

Suite 400 Maryland Bldg., 841 East 63d-street [1 block east of Cottage Grove].

THE FINEST OPPORTUNITY IN THE UNITED STATES AWAITS YOU IF YOU CAN SUCCESSFULLY MEET THE REQUIREMENTS OF THIS AD. FIRST OF ALL YOU MUST BE WILLING TO LEARN THIS BUSINESS THOROUGHLY FROM THE GROUND UP SO THAT WE CAN PLACE YOU IN ONE OF SEVERAL POSITIONS OF RESPONSIBILITY NOW OPEN. WE HAVE SO ARRANGED OUR COURSE OF TRAINING THAT YOU CAN EARN $45 PER WEEK COMM. WHILE LEARNING. DO NOT ANSWER THIS AD UNLESS YOU ARE SINCERE AND WILLING TO WORK HARD TO SUCCEED.

General List.

NEAR NORTH SIDE

It's very nice when you close your desk at the end of the day to know that after a short, brisk walk just 5 blocks north of the river you will come to a quaint little lamp lighted court that makes you feel far away from Chicago, where up a winding stairway you come to a studio so charming and homelike that—well, you're glad you live there, that's all; large living rooms, fireplaces and everything that makes life comfortable; one seems almost like in a palace, with its beautiful fixtures, walnut wainscoting, high curved studio window, a real kitchen and dining rm., 3 chambers and 2 baths; also a marvelous furnished apt. and other most interesting places in which to live.

PERSONAL

The decorators are putting the finishing touches to that new Rix home in N. Newcastle. A few of the things Mabel liked were the "STEP SAVER" kitchen with breakfast nook, de luxe vanity bath, basement "RUMPUS" room, extra lavatory, etc. Of course it's air conditioned and insulated, too. You'd surely be proud to own a home like this one. Remember the address is 1847 N. Newcastle-av. See it today. BILL.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Fragrant Smoke

March 6, 1937.

FRAGRANT smoke rising from a smoldering hickory log in a small smokehouse on the Wheaton farm means that it won't be long now until the farm families will be enjoying a new supply of ham and bacon. When we were on the farm the other day we looked in to see the meat hanging from the rafters of the smokehouse.

A pit has been dug in the center of the clay floor, and a hickory log, about 10 inches long and eight or nine inches in diameter, is furnishing the smoke. A log of this size, burning very slowly, lasts about 24 hours. After each log is burned the ashes are left in the pit and a new piece of wood started burning.

New Lambs Arrive on Farm by Dozens.

The boys are having a hard time keeping track of all the arrivals of lambs. The other day we asked about the number of lambs on the Wheaton farm. Rawlings, who was eating lunch at the time, told us there were 91 so far. After lunch we went to the sheep barn and Rawlings told us to change our figures to show 92 lambs—one had been born during the lunch hour! A ewe had one lamb when he went to lunch, but when he returned the ewe had two youngsters frisking around.

There are plenty of ewes with twins, but so far there are no triplets. Last year one ewe had a set of quadruplet lambs. Maybe it's just as well that no triplets do arrive, however. Rawlings was telling us the other day that the farm has something of a "housing' problem to take care of all the new sheep families.

More than 50 ewes and 70 lambs have been taken to a barn near Lon's house to make room for the lambs which are due to arrive at the sheep barn. In other years the men have put up a tent to shelter the lambs. That may be necessary again this season.

Ducks' Breastbones Forecast Weather.

Rawlings was commenting the other day on the way the ducks' breastbones had forecast the weather during the last winter. In the fall he looked at several breastbones, noticed that they were gray, streaked with white, and announced that we would have only a few scattered snows. In the fall of 1935 the breastbones were almost all white, forecasting a lot of snow during the winter.

In both cases the forecasts were correct. Rawlings says that the Chippewa Indians use this system of forecasting winter weather.

Muddy March Lives Up to Its Name.

"Muddy March" is living up to its name in northern Illinois so far this month. We noticed when we were on the farms the other day that the country roads, feed lots, driveways and fields all have their share of mud. The frost is coming out of the ground now, and, with the occasional rains doing their share, rubber boots come in handy.

The men on both farms have been looking skyward for signs of ducks and geese going north, but so far their neck craning has done no good. Clarence was telling us that the boys on the Yorkville farm usually see the waterfowl going up the Fox river about this time each season.

Big Pat Has a Poultice on His Leg.

Pat, the big gray Percheron horse on the Yorkville farm, is in one of the barns with a poultice on one leg. He duplicated the trick pulled by Bill, a draft horse on the Wheaton farm—stepping on a rock in the frozen ground and bruising the frog of his foot.

HOW YOU CAN BORROW.

1. If you can make monthly payments you can qualify for a loan.
2. You do not need co-makers or endorsers.
3. No inquiries made of employer or friends.

HOW YOU CAN REPAY.

1. Payments on all loans are small. For example, payments on a $200 loan are $10 per month plus interest charges on a 20 month schedule.
2. Monthly rate is 2% on the balance above $100, 3% on $100 or less. This is substantially less than the lawful maximum—on loans over $100.

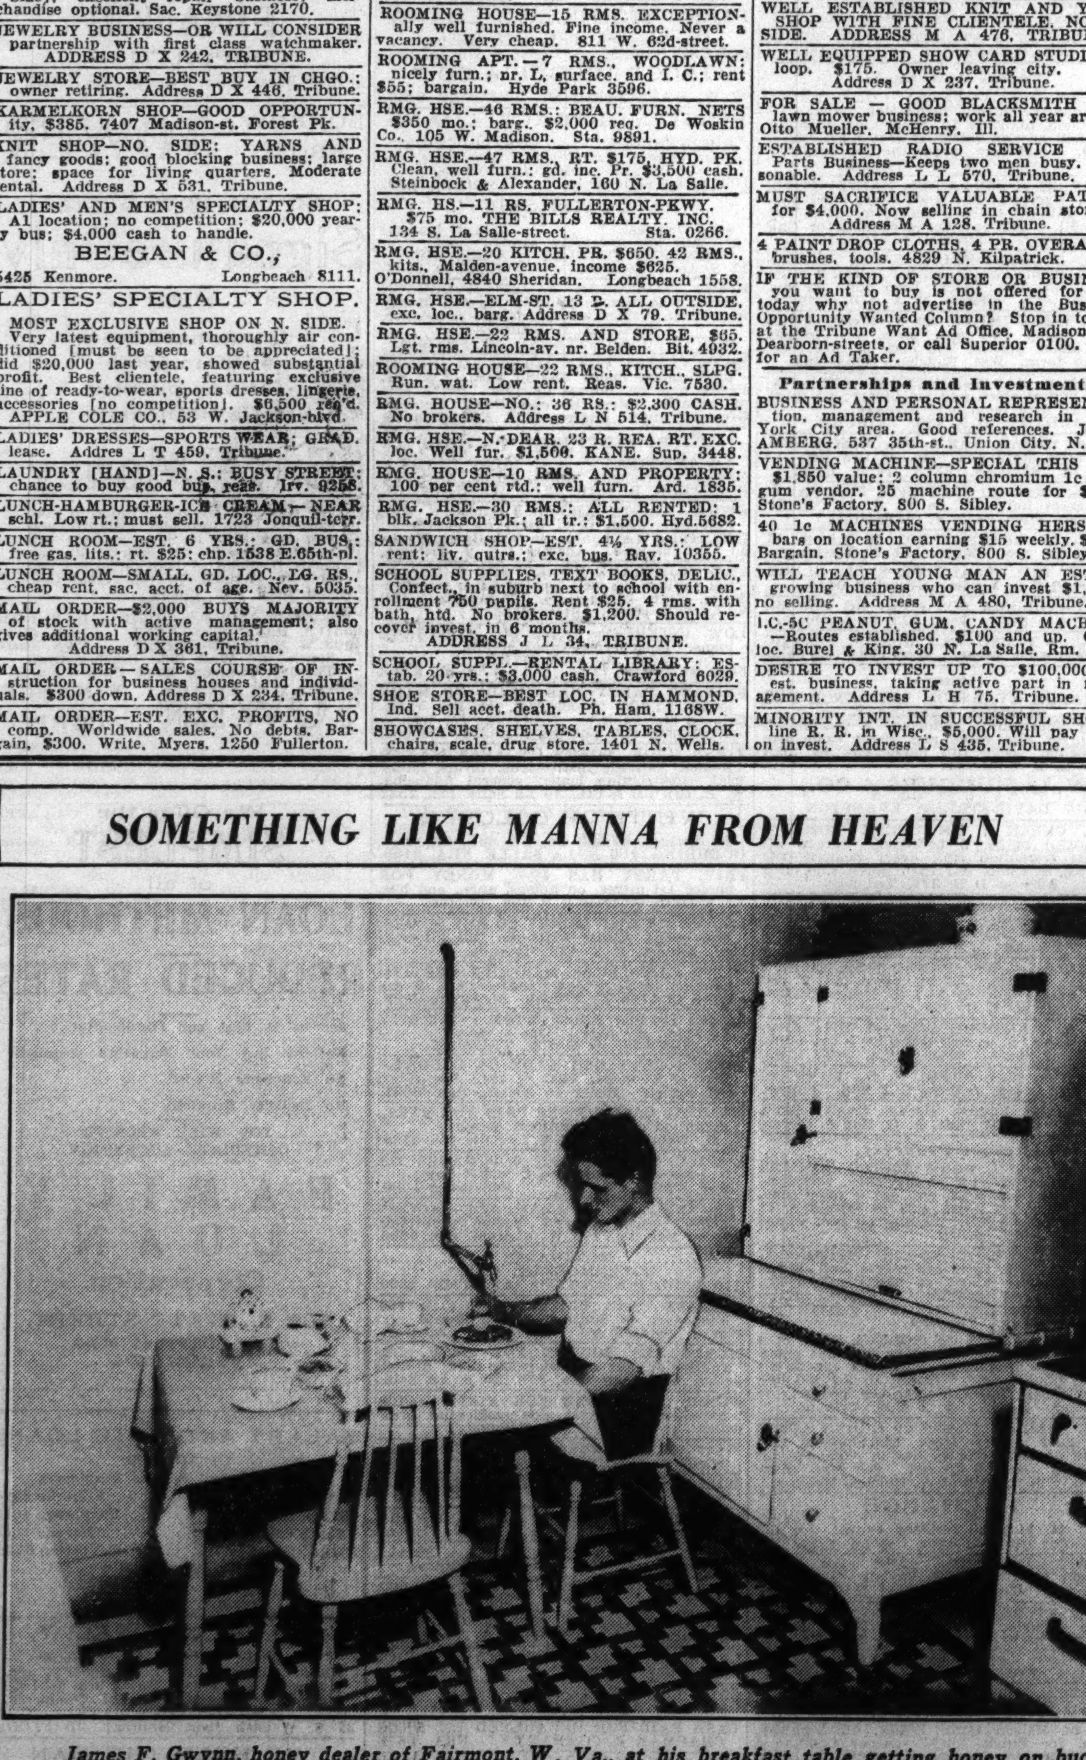
SOMETHING LIKE MANNA FROM HEAVEN



James F. Gwynn, honey dealer of Fairmont, W. Va., at his breakfast table getting honey on buckwheat cakes from a spigot. A swarm of bees hived up somewhere in the wall of the Gwynn kitchen. Later, Gwynn found honey dripping from the wall, inside and out. Investigating, he found a great reservoir of honey. So he ran a pipe from the wall to the kitchen table. All he has to do is to turn on the spigot whenever he wants honey.

SALES OPPORTUNITY.

A Midwestern Concern, manufacturing a high quality line of Industrial Floorings and Waterproofings, will award a valuable and exclusive franchise to a live wire organization looking for an opportunity to grow rapidly.

Floors now in service are standing up under terrific punishment for abrasive actions, extremely heavy trucking, acids, bloods, fats, oils, brines, greases, etc., developing tensile and compressive strengths far in excess of ordinary concrete; more strength in one day than ordinary concrete attains in a full month. Other items include competitive floor treatments of various types such as hardeners, admixes, waterproofings, etc.

Because of the exclusive features of this line, a golden opportunity will be presented to the man or group of men selected for representation and devoting their ENTIRE time to these lines.

All replies concerning past experience and financial responsibilities treated in strictest confidence. Address J M 4, Tribune.

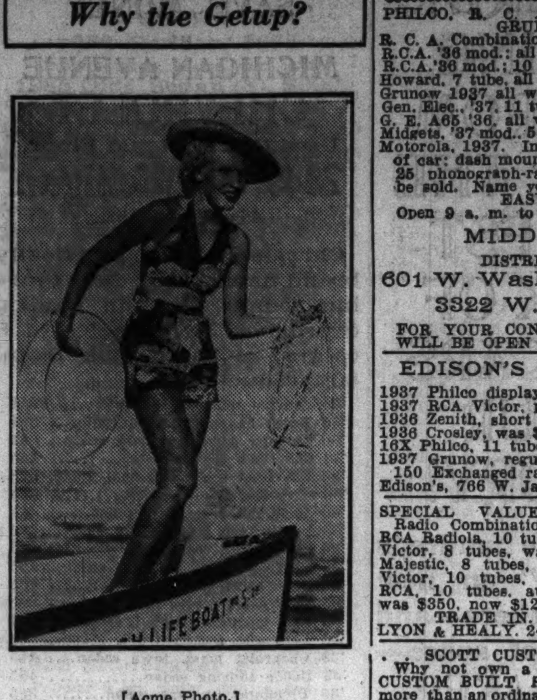
Why the Getup?



[Acme Photo.]

The photographer's sole reason for posing Isabel Ostrow with the lariat and ten gallon bonnet was the fact that she was once in Texas—for the recent centennial. The picture was snapped at Miami Beach, Fla., where Isabel, who holds the title of Miss Newark, was vacationing.

PLYMOUTHS.
It may be that you know where they have more Plymouths than this automobile finance corporation, but I'm not talking of Plymouths in quantity, but of Plymouths in quality. '36s, '35s, '34s, 2 and 4 door de luxe models, those finished in iridescent, or in polychromatic or those jet black, newish appearing Plymouths; some with built-in trunks, heaters, radios, etc. Do right by yourself this very Sunday afternoon—gather the family and a friend or two—come out—see and compare these repossessions—drive them—know the prices—and our unusual terms—then you'll know why all Chicago says it's NO WONDER WE DO BUSINESS.

"we started out to rent an apartment AND ENDED BY BUYING A HOME OF OUR OWN"

Mrs. William J. La Velle, 4745 N. Sacramento Ave., who tells, at the right, how Tribune want ads helped to find a suitable house.

"We were married only a few months ago and this is our first home. We had intended to set up housekeeping in a small apartment, and a few weeks before we were married we started out to look for one.

"Mr. La Velle is an attorney and had been closing a number of real estate deals for clients. He had come to the realization that now is the time to buy a home while prices are still low.

"I didn't think so much of the idea and said so. One day while we were out looking at apartments, Mr. La Velle took a newspaper clipping from his pocket and said: 'Here's a house that was advertised in the Tribune today. Let's look at it, just for fun.'

"We drove over to the address. It was a nice looking bungalow at 4745 N. Sacramento Ave. The people weren't home, so we couldn't see the inside. My husband called up the real estate firm which ran the ad, Burke & Lynn, 4747 N. Kedzie Ave. Their salesman, Mr. Eggert, took us through the house the next evening.

"It was a lovely little house, and very homelike. After I saw it I forgot about the apartment. My husband was able to get it for $8,100, which was about half of what it first sold for in 1928. We are very happy about it."

ARE YOU, too, looking for a comfortable little house? Large or small, the home of your desire can be found at a price which will suit your pocketbook. Follow the real estate offers in the Chicago Tribune want ad section. Today, as during each of the past twenty years, the Tribune prints more real estate want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

● A: Wool flowers in vivid shades are embroidered "hit or miss" fashion over this dress of thin wool with its almost circular cut skirt, simple, surplice style bodice top, and elbow length, slit sleeves.

● B: This stunning print, expertly designed with brief sleeves and a simple silhouette, is accompanied by a coat of soft wool.

● C: Funny little Dutch boys and girls and bits of landscape brighten this print which comes on a rich ground and features crisp, fluted frills of waffle pique for cuffs and collar.

● D: Short sleeves, a V neckline, and a well cut, flared skirt are spring fashion details of this effective, soft, printed silk with its realistic flower and leaf motif . . . just the frock to brighten the last days of one's winter coat which now seems unbearably somber.

Daytime Outfits in Sheer Wools and Printed Silks Are of First Importance on Spring Fashion Scene

By RHEA SEEGER.

DAYTIME dresses, ensembles, costumes, and other clever get-togethers called outfits are the most important clothes in any wardrobe Thin wool dresses are particularly good for cool spring weather, being so knowingly designed that they may be worn with fur pieces or fur capes, or slipped under warm swagger coats or gay, short "jigger" jackets that come in effective bolero styles.

Two piece thin wools are even more practical. The newest models are so cleverly made in one piece, with smart little peplums, that they fool experts. Others, frankly a skirt and a button-down-the-front blouse or jacket combine, can be converted, with a little ingenuity, into several costumes

Short sleeves are tremendously important There is hardly a showing of new spring clothes with more than a few dresses that boast long sleeves. Daytime dresses of the variety to wear now with coats and furs, or later as crisp street ensemble with bright or contrasting accessories, feature elbow length sleeves, swathed bodice tops, wrap around tie-sashes of the same material, and simple, slightly flared skirts They are young looking without being kittenish, and they come in thin wools of the very newest textures.

Printed silks, embroidered wools seem to be leading the fashion parade. Gray background silks are subtle new arrivals, refreshingly different from the usual navy, black, or brown. Next come the red tones, flecked with patterns of contrasting color. These silk dresses are fashioned in the same new and youthful lines as are the wools. They, too, can be worn now and then later in the season as street outfits.

Another combine taking the spotlight is the printed silk dress that is sold with a contrasting wool jacket. Among these outfits are stunning navies with rust colored coats, and gray wool jackets with black or green printed dresses. Some of the most original two-somes in dresses and jackets are available now.

Most of the attractive prints have giddy and amusing designs, with colors and color contrasts that are exceptional Vegetables, Mexican hats, Dutch figures, flocks of golfers teeing off, tennis rackets, sailing sloops, and other equally unusual motifs manage to tease a smile from even the most serious of shoppers. Field flowers embroidered in gay colored wool decorate new wool dresses and label them as being truly among the fashions of the hour. Silk embroidery is used on thinner fabrics, and high colored linen is another new idea when combined with wool.

Four brand new daytime models have been sketched. They are from one collection of early spring arrivals, showing new colors, new lines, and new contrasts.

A. Wool flowers in vivid shades of red and blue are embroidered "hit or miss" fashion over a blue dress of thin wool. A skirt, almost circular in cut, is combined with a simple surplice style bodice top; elbow length, slit sleeves and a V neckline are other important details. The sash tie-belt can be fastened front or back. One of the most colorful and smartest dresses to be found in the shops.

B. The expertly designed dress of this smart two-piece ensemble features a black and white print on the lower half of the skirt and also at the waistline, where it ties in a sash effect. The dress itself has brief sleeves and a simple silhouette. The outside coat is of a soft wool in old gold tones and has long sleeves. An outstanding find and a practical duet for any wardrobe.

C A good red print usually is difficult to locate, so we enthusiastically recommend this third model . . . first, because of the funny little Dutch girls and boys and bits of landscape in oyster white printed all over the rich red background, and next, because of the crisp fluted frills of white waffle pique that trim the cuffs and collar. Again the sleeves are shorter than ever before. A dress to wear now under a navy wool coat and later with white accessories for summer weather.

D. An effective printed silk comes in a soft, flattering gray splashed with yellow flowers and much foliage. Short sleeves, a V neckline and a well cut, flared skirt are spring fashion details. A grand buy for a dark gray unfurred reefer coat, or for wear under a navy, brown, or black winter coat, trimmed with a fur collar.

All dresses sketched are to be found in a Chicago store.

Gay Simplicity to the Fore in Fashion Favor

By Bettina Bedwell.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

PARIS.—[Special.]—Baroness Eugene de Rothschild, who a short time ago made the front page as hostess to the duke of Windsor, ex-Edward Rex, recently returned to Paris to select her spring wardrobe chez Molyneux. The baroness is considered the best dressed woman in the world by Paris authorities, ahead of all other contestants, and Capt. Molyneux, who is both her friend and her dressmaker, considers her the absolute ideal of modern chic. Folks here agree that Mrs. Simpson is a furlong behind her when it comes to knowing what to wear and to wearing it superbly, though she is no mean dresser.

Capt. Molyneux says that Baroness Eugene de Rothschild, more than any other woman he has ever seen, knows how to dress so that a man is pleased to be with her, and inclined to swagger with pride for the little woman beside him. She is of medium height, blonde rather than dark, and not very young. But Molyneux, like the rest of the Paris dressmakers, is firm in the conviction that no young girl, not ever an actress or a movie star or a royal personage, has enough poise or experience to get on the list of the best dressed.

IT is Molyneux's opinion that it takes years and years to learn how to enter a room, how to walk, and how to seat oneself as gracefully as the Baroness de Rothschild does. And it takes years to be able to make the proper choice from among all the clothes that Paris dishes up, of just the right dress for a dinner of twelve or of the perfect gown for a cozy dinner at a table for two. Baroness de Rothschild has all the science and subtlety of clothes at her fingertips. She is exquisitely neat, but never prim, and she is modern without ever being comic, a fine distinction with monkey styles teeming all over the place.

This spring Baroness de Rothschild has chosen cinnamon brown with camelia red as her color scheme for restaurant dining. She always wears unusual colors, but she never has worn anything in the line of poster shades. Her sports and country clothes are going to be of green, in shades varying from a soft Persian green to a vivid emerald. She has town clothes in a rich brown and in black. She is wearing black for the intimate home dinner, and always has one formal black evening gown.

She has splendid jewels and uses them to set off her gowns and establish their formality. Pearls with black keep the scheme simple, and when its a grand party the black is dramatized by diamonds, rubies, or emeralds. She never wears a lot of jewels at one time, believing that the jewelry shops should have a corner on the big displays of sparklers.

Molyneux makes Baroness de Rothschild's clothes in a slender, streamline silhouette, with simplicity their keynote. She is wearing evening skirts with floating panels that make her every movement a poem.

HER Molyneux gown designed for restaurant dinners, is made of crimped, cinnamon brown silk crêpe and built on slender lines, with a full length panel hanging from the right side front of a coppery lether belt. The standing band that girdles the neck and bosom meets this panel at the waistline and does wonders in creating a long, fluid line. With this frock she wears a tiny toque, shaped a little like a cornet and made of red camelias. A lace veil of cinnamon brown is tied over the toque into a big knot at the back.

A gown that Baroness de Rothschild wears for strictly private, small home affairs, as when she dines en famille, is a black satin sheath, without sleeves, and with a deep V shaped neckline, filled in with folds of delicate black lace. A cape of the black lace hangs over the shoulders and down the full length of the back to the floor.

For sports and country wear she has a Molyneux suit of light green, piece dyed English tweed. The hip-length jacket is fitted by a panel down the back and buttons on six green buttons in the front, below snappy revers. It has no collar. The skirt is straight and comfortable, and the blouse is made of a darker green wool jersey in shirt maker fashion. The collar buttons onto the blouse at the front. A green felt hat with a swagger brim goes with this suit.

In Paris the Baroness de Rothschild is wearing a dress made of dark, rich brown, hand woven sheer wool under a brown sable coat. The brown lether belt is studded with silver nail heads, and brown tassels made of the wool of the material are hung from the simple, turnover collar. The plain sleeves button snugly at the wrists.

Campus Modes by a Co-ed

ONE of my weaknesses is window shopping. Recently, while on one of my sprees, I saw some lovely black taffeta, just like that grandmother used to wear. I couldn't resist it, so I bought several yards of the crisp, delightful fabric. Although it is a beautifully old fashioned material, it's as new as spring when it is styled correctly, and as youthful as tomorrow. And it is grand for those innumerable informal occasions which every college girl and young business girl must attend. The dress I made with my taffeta, one inspired evening in the sewing room of the dormitory, is the one you see in the illustration. To be exact my frock is the one shown at the right. The other sketches show two versions for which the pattern allows, and which I believe equally pretty. The choice you make depends entirely upon your type.

Peasant lines predominate, and they give that delightful combination of sleekness and demure flowing grace which are so utterly suitable to young figures. The skirt is beautifully full and swings outward almost in umbrella fashion, by virtue of the stiffness of the fabric. The material also aids immeasurably in achieving puffing of the sleeves. The bodice fits smoothly and the belt is soft and crushed, which your spirit won't be when you wear this model, take it from me! The dainty white touches on the sleeves and neckline of my frock are plaited organdy, edged in net.

As you see in the other sketches the frock may have a plaited frill around the hemline, too. Or the neckline may be a high V instead of squared and low, and may dispense with trimming. If you want a gay print, by all means have it, because the styling of this dress lends itself well to patterned fabrics.

THE daily mail bag frequently offers tragedy, sometimes humor, but always variety. The requests selected for publication today differ widely, but all are sincere and we hope they can be filled.

Herbert G. writes: "I am first mate on a sea scout ship, and we're much in need of an American flag 3 by 5 feet or larger. Since we haven't any sponsor, our ship is 'on it own.' There are 10 boys, and we meet on the northwest side. We'd be grateful if one of your readers has a flag which could be given to us, and we'll gladly call for it."

The next request comes from an individual living in a small town in Illinois. Some years ago she was given a small radio which has helped her to while away many tedious hours. Now, however, the instrument needs tubes, but because of the outmoded style, they are difficult and expensive to obtain. If any reader has extra tubes which will fit a Majestic International, the five tube electric style, Miss M. will appreciate receiving them. The radio is a small portable one, about a foot long and eight inches high.

From a caseworker in a near north side district:

"Would it be possible for you to assist us in obtaining furniture for one of our families? A mother, left with five children, is in great need of household furnishings such as chairs, a table, cabinet for clothing, linoleum for the floor, and other available items. The family now has only beds, stoves, and a table and is using boxes for chairs. The children have been ill and are receiving treatment at a hospital. Since there is no wage earner in the family, the mother is unable to replenish the needed articles, and she is most anxious to make a more comfortable home for the children.—Miss Z."

We recently printed a call for magazines which brought a more than adequate response. All requests have been filled and we have surplus offers of good reading matter. Interested readers may send requests to this department. We have a number of large bundles of assorted magazines which must be called for.

We have one recent request for reading matter which cannot be supplied through this source, since the applicant is many miles away and we hope that readers who are willing to mail publications will be interested in filling it.

An elderly couple, living on a tiny ranch up in the mountains of Colorado, would appreciate reading matter of any kind. They are unable to buy it and are hungry for news of the outside world. During the heavier winter snows they are more or less isolated in their little cabin, and magazines or books would help them pass the long winter days. The address will be supplied to any one interested.

Time Budget Is Great Aid in Wedding Plans

Which fork should you use when? If more than one fork beside your plate bewilders you, look for tips on which one to use in the booklet, "Table Manners," by Helen Bartlett, Tribune etiquet editor. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price 3 cents. Postpaid, 5 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

THIRD in the wedding etiquet series!

The budget system has many virtues which the bride would do well to recognize. The financial budget, of course, is common and may be used to advantage, particularly when there is a limited amount of money that must be made to stretch in order to cover all the expenses of the wedding and all the items of the trousseau. But a budget of the bride's time is important, too, and will do much to help her to arrange her duties and responsibilities in such a manner that all the details may be given the time and thought necessary to complete them; that nothing will have to be ignored because something more important requires the attention, and that nothing, however minor, will be forgotten in the rush of the last few exciting days. Organization and system will prevent any such unfortunate circumstances resulting from lack of time or lapse of memory.

IF things are to be accomplished in a leisurely manner and with ease, about ten weeks' time should be allowed. At least ten weeks before the wedding the details as to the exact date, time, whether it is to take place at church or home, and whether it is to be a large or small affair should be decided. Until these matters are arranged nothing else can be accomplished. And when they are settled such duties as arranging for the church, engaging the clergyman, and completing the plans for the reception may be performed. Then may begin the fun of selecting the trousseau, including the bride's own personal wardrobe, the household linens, furnishings for the new home, and the wedding dress.

Next there is the matter of choosing and inviting the bridal attendants and other members of the wedding party. Style and color of frocks must be agreed upon, as well as flowers for the attendants. The bridegroom should be consulted about flowers, too, since he is responsible for the bride's bouquet and the flowers for her mother and his own mother.

Eight weeks before the wedding is a good time to begin looking for an apartment or a home and to formulate plans for furnishing it. The problem of decorating and furnishing the new home is a big one, and it should not be done too hastily. Neither should time be wasted and allowed to slip by without something definite being accomplished.

THE various lists for invitations to the ceremony and the reception, and the announcements, lists of both the bride and the bridegroom, should have been completed by this time [four or five weeks before the wedding]. And the order for the engraving should be placed with the stationer as soon as the quantity needed has been determined. It does take quite a long time for hand engraving to be done and the order to be delivered. The "at home" cards [if any] should be ordered at the same time, the visiting cards with the new name, and monogrammed stationery for the "thank you" notes. If any alterations on the bride's mother's house, cleaning or decorating, are to be done, they should be completed two or three weeks in advance of the date of the occasion.

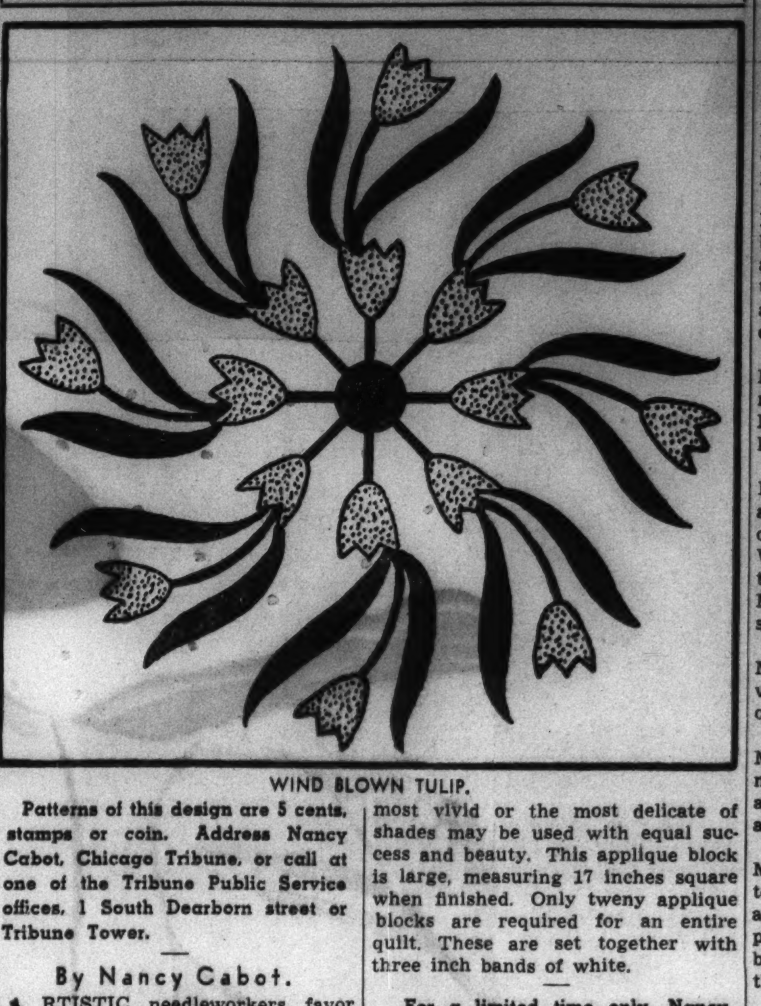
Begin addressing the invitations and announcements as soon as they are delivered by the stationer.

Fifteen days before the ceremony, at least, the wedding invitations should be mailed. Soon after they are received wedding presents will begin to arrive. They should be recorded as they arrive, and should be acknowledged as soon as possible.

Before the time grows too short it is well to complete the plans for the decorations for the church, house, and reception. Get the gifts for the bridal attendants and the present for the bridegroom. Consult the caterer and make the final plans for the menu for the reception collation. Engage any extra servants needed.

The final duty will be to mail the wedding announcements. That should not be done until after the ceremony has been performed. The best man might be deputized to perform this duty.

Tulips Dancing in the Wind Form Design of Quilt Block



WIND BLOWN TULIP.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

By Nancy Cabot.

ARTISTIC needleworkers favor the old and popular "Wind Blown Tulip" design for their "best" coverlets. The title for this graceful block was inspired by the swaying, nodding, and dancing of wind blown tulips. There is much grace and beauty in this clever arrangement of the flowers and the most vivid or the most delicate of shades may be used with equal success and beauty. This applique block is large, measuring 17 inches square when finished. Only tweny applique blocks are required for an entire quilt. These are set together with three inch bands of white.

For a limited time only, Nancy Cabot offers ten quilt patterns of her own selection for 10 cents, 12 cents in stamps by mail. They may be purchased at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby, or by writing to Miss Cabot in care of the Chicago Tribune.

Do as your dentist does-

100% Cleansing Properties
Twice that of tooth paste

No Acid, Grit or Pumice
Cannot possibly injure or scratch the softest enamel

Outlasts Tooth Paste 2 to 1

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER—just naturally cleans best. Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dentists everywhere recommend Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder, because—teeth simply cannot remain dull and film coated when it is used. Dr. Lyon's cleans off all stains and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is a special dental powder developed for HOME USE by a distinguished practicing dentist. Free from all acids, grit or pumice, it cannot possibly injure or scratch the softest enamel. Even as a neutralizer in acid mouth conditions, Dr. Lyon's is just as effective as Milk of Magnesia.

Dr. Lyon's keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean—firm, healthy gums and the least possible tooth decay. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Brush your teeth with Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder regularly—consult your dentist periodically—and you will be doing ALL that you can possibly do to protect your teeth.

Once you use powder you will never go back to tooth paste. Thousands are switching to Dr. Lyon's daily.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

The latest in beauty preparations are the all-liquid products. Four that are excellent for the dry skin are a liquid cleanser, a toning lotion, a balm and a light foundation.

THERE are fashions in beauty aids just as there are in everything else that catches the eye of women, from automobiles to handkerchiefs. Right now liquid preparations are increasingly popular. The best answer we can get from women we've quizzed about them is that they just like the feel of them.

Right now there are four "facial emulsions" on the market about which women are tremendously enthusiastic. After trying them out rather thoroughly we can understand why. The "facial bath" is a love, and dry skinned women should go mad over it. It's a perfectly beautiful cleanser and really a joy to use. Just a few drops in the palm of your hand, massaged lightly into the skin, cleanse thoroughly and quickly. The grime just pours out, and the skin looks and feels elegant afterward. This is an exceptionally good cleanser to use at any time, but it's particularly handy for the busy woman who likes to freshen up speedily once or twice during her business day.

If the skin is just about normal, not too dry, this emulsion may be used as both cleanser and nourisher, we should think. It seems positively drippy with rich oils that help keep the skin smooth.

To be used with this there's a toning lotion unlike any skin freshener you ever have used before. It's a milky, opaque lotion used as any skin tonic would be after cleansing. It's fresh in fragrance and really mild, but it does do a good job of toning after the skin is relaxed by cleansing.

For the skin that's unusually dry and that needs rather extra special nourishment, there is a grand balm designed for just one purpose. It's to be used at night and left on. Its effect is simply magical, with the most parched, completely oil-sapped skin responding after just a few nights of treatment with it. We tried it out on a former flu sufferer whose skin was showing the effects of fever.

The last item in this quartet of liquid beauty aids is a foundation, applied sparingly. It leaves an invisible, pliant film as an adherent for makeup.

None of these preparations is in the high priced class. All are of the highest quality.

Extroverts and Introverts Are Discussed by Writing Expert

By Muriel Stafford.

[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

ARE you inclined to be an extrovert or an introvert? Your friends can't always tell from the way you act, but a graphologist can tell from the way you write.

An extrovert is completely spontaneous and natural. He acts just as he feels and is greatly interested in other people so that he feels no self-consciousness. He is always a good mixer and is generous.

An introvert is extremely self-conscious. His emotions are self centered and he examines every idea and thought analytically and carefully. Caution is innate with him, though that is never considered by a true extrovert.

Most actors and actresses have a tendency to be extroverts, but this is certainly not true in all cases, as I discovered in Hollywood. As a matter of fact, few persons in any vocation can be completely natural nor is any one able to be completely artificial.

A person who has a tendency to be an extrovert, or in other words to say what he thinks and to act as he feels without any self-consciousness, will show the following indications, or most of them, in his handwriting: First of all the writing will be large. Second, the slant will be forward. Third, the letters will be wide, especially the m's and n's. Fourth, most letters will be open at the top whenever possible, especially a's and o's. Generosity and kindliness will almost pour forth from such a handwriting.

Maureen O'Sullivan is an extrovert, but she has checked this to a great extent. The writing is large and the slant somewhat to the right, but the a's and o's are locked carefully and the letters are not extremely wide. This is a clever writing, incidentally, with many original letter formations, as you can see.

Ginger Rogers is an introvert by nature. Her letters are small and narrow and the a's and o's neatly closed. Her forward slant is the balance here.

The extrovert thinks of you and the introvert of himself. You can notice how this is illustrated in the wording of the handwriting they both gave to me.

The nearest to a complete extrovert handwriting that I have ever seen is Bing Crosby and the nearest to a complete introvert, according to handwriting, is Jean Muir.

Your Handwriting Analyzed

Any Tribune reader can obtain a personal graphology chart showing his or her assets, handicaps, talents, and emotions by following these rules:

1. Send sample of handwriting to Muriel Stafford, Chicago Tribune, post-office box 1720.

2. Inclose 10 cents (carefully wrapped) for each sample of handwriting you wish analyzed.

3. Inclose a self-addressed, STAMPED envelope, folded once.

DENYSE AND HER SEA HORSE

"Giddap, sea horse" Denyse was saying to her mother, Mrs. Dennis L. Harmon, when this picture was taken at the Seaspray Beach club in Palm Beach, where they were visiting Denyse's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stillson Hart, who are occupying their new house in Seabreeze avenue. The Harmons call Ardmore, Pa., home now, although Denyse was born about four years ago in Zurich, Switzerland.

EVERYWHERE WOMEN THRILLED BY THE STARTLING CHANGE

This Amazing Beauty Treatment Makes on Skin

Combats Chief Cause of Ugly, Dry, Rough Skin

ON ALL sides you now hear words of praise for an amazing skin beautifier. Women who have used it rave about the new softness, new smoothness of their complexion.

For it not only cleanses the skin to the most thrilling degree of beauty the world has ever witnessed; not only removes every trace of dirt and make-up—but does it without the drying effect which dermatologists know so often follows the use of ordinary soaps and cold creams.*

So gentle and soothing is its cleansing action that leading skin specialists recognize its benefits for dry, rough, scaly skin—and for its detergent value in cases of eczema, pimples and acne.

A single week's trial will prove a revelation to you. Will make you glory in the new radiance and beauty of your complexion, no matter how dry it may be today.

What It Is

This wonderful beauty treatment is called—Lavena. It contains no soap; no cold cream. It is ABSOLUTELY NEUTRAL in action. Cannot cause a reaction which dries the skin.

You put a small quantity of Lavena in the palm of your hand, and moisten with warm water to creamy smoothness. Rub gently on your face. Then wipe off immediately with a wash cloth.

The change you both SEE and FEEL is nearly unbelievable. Dirt and make-up disappear almost like magic. More amazing, instead of your skin feeling dry, and tight, and drawn, it is marvelously soft, smooth and clear. Not unlike a baby's skin.

Equally miraculous is the fact that as Lavena gently cleanses your skin it also protects it for hours against the drying effect of sun, wind and heat. No other single skin cleanser in the world offers all of the benefits of this remarkable beauty treatment.

Make This One-Week Test

Get Lavena from your drug, department or 10c store at once. Follow the simple directions, printed in box at left, for only one week. Then note how much softer, smoother and clearer your complexion is. Note how that dry, tight, drawn feeling is entirely gone. See with your own eyes how much more radiant and beautiful your skin is. Over four million packages of Lavena have already produced amazing results. Start using Lavena immediately for the beauty thrill of your life.

By drying is meant removal of normal lipoid material from the skin.*

Lacy Crocheted Blouses Are "Tops" for Chic Suits

By Ellen Bruce.

SEMI-DRESSY crocheted blouses, cool, chic, and feminine, with brief sleeves and simple lines, have no equal among their kind. They do for a two-piece suit, in modified lines, what a smart coiffure does for a hat. And the beauty of this ensemble accessory is that its sole adornment usually is only the lovely and fragile pattern in which it is worked, the one exception being a smart contrasting belt to accent the trim, fitted waistlines, or a bit of added detail about the throat.

The blouse illustrated is done in a modified shell stitch, of simple pattern, and it may be worked in either mercerised crochet cotton, imported Irish linen, or string. The round, high neck is soft and youthful and the buttons that decorate the back are decidedly chic. Short, slightly puffed sleeves carry out the debutante mood.

As for the belt, it may be crocheted of contrasting material. Suede and patent are other possibilities. As suggested in the drawing, an accessory theme may be effected by having the belt of the blouse and the band of the hat of the same shade, or even, if practical, of the same material.

If you wish instructions for crocheting the blouse done in modified shell style, illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

Decoration of Victorian Era Blooms Anew

Are you planning to make over your living room? If you want help with the color scheme, get a copy of the booklet, "Color Schemes for the Living Room," by Claire Winslow, Tribune stylist in interior decoration. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower. Price, 2 cents. Postpaid, 3 cents.

By Claire Winslow.

THE Victorian period of decoration burgeoned in this country in the 19th century, starting about 1837 and continuing until 1901. Most of us who are not youngsters can remember it exceedingly well, because it did not die out in 1901. No type of furniture ever ends definitly at a certain time.

To many of us who do remember Victorian rooms the whole period is obnoxious. We recall the voluminous, stuffy, fussy draperies at the windows, the vivid colors of the cabbage roses and foliage that went rioting over the carpeted and rug covered floors, the restless patterns that filled every inch of the wall papers, the jig-saw work on corner whatnots, the cold slabs of morguelike marble that served as table and bureau tops, the enormous black walnut wardrobes that were never deep enough to hold dresses on hangers, and the uncomfortable, spindling little settees and chairs with their gingerbread carving and scroll work.

Thinking of all these items we are prone to condemn the entire Victorian era. It is surprising, therefore, to be present at its resuscitation. Apparently there is an increasing demand for its furniture, its wall papers, its draperies, and its accessories. And this demand is coming not from the carriage trade but from thousands of modest households.

For a number of years Bruce Buttfield, New York designer, has been doing ultrasophisticated Victorian interiors for his Park avenue clients. But these rooms have been just caviar, as it were. They have represented the fanciful taste of a luxurious few.

AT the recent markets held in Chicago and Grand Rapids, manufacturers who cater to department and furniture stores all over the country, and therefore to thousands of average home owners and apartment dwellers, now feel so certain that the swing is back to Victorian that they have brought out accurate copies as well as simplified adaptations of this furniture. Soon you are going to see it at your dealers whether you live in Chicago or Joplin, Boston or Fort Worth.

Marble topped tables? Corner what-nots? Ornate, tufted, and fringed sofas? Yes, they are all here again. And you will be able to get 1937 versions of decorative wall papers to go with them, as well as copies of the French porcelain vases and glass globe lamps, and the rich damask fabrics for draperies, too.

The return to the conventions of the 19th century does not end with home furnishings. The theater is going in for Victorian plays. "Jane Eyre," Katharine Hepburn's successful stage venture, is a case in point. It is pure Victorian. And, of course, Helen Hayes' record run in the story of Queen Vic, herself, "Victoria Regina," is another. Women's fashtions have shown a 19th century influence for some time. Puffed sleeves, full skirts, absurdly small hats, and narrow waistlines are all characteristics of the "Hearts and Flowers" era.

The photographs today show a real Victorian drawing room with the authentic furniture as exhibited at the Chicago Historical society museum, and the copies made by a southern manufacturer of pieces of furniture of that period. The latter picture was taken at the Merchandise Mart, where the groupings made their debut at the winter market. They will be sold by stores throughout the country.

FURNITURE REVIVAL

This spacious room is done in the elegant spirit of the heyday of the Victorian era, the furniture being by Belter, the most famous designer of that period in this country. It is on exhibition at the Chicago Historical museum in Lincoln park.

These pieces, completely Victorian in feeling, are being made by a southern furniture manufacturer and were first shown at the winter market at the Merchandise Mart. They are part of a new line of living room items influenced by the 19th century.

THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen

"The Parcel Post and Postage Due Stamps of the United States" is the title of a new stamp booklet by Mr. Cabeen. It tells the story of the parcel post stamps with detailed descriptions of the various designs, dates of first day sales, etc. There is a complete list of plate numbers for each value and figures which show the quantities issued during the period when parcel post stamps were required upon fourth class matter, and also the quantities issued after the law was repealed. This booklet, No. 17 in the series, is priced at 3c at Public Service Offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower, or 5c by mail. When asking questions, please enclose a stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

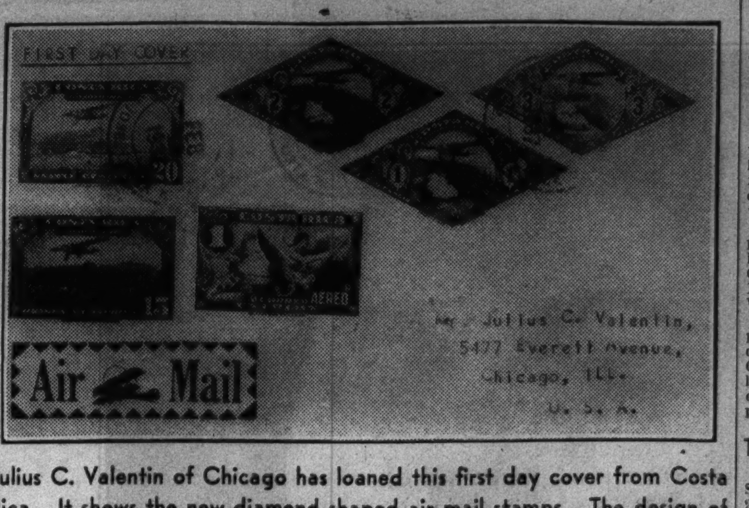
AT VARIOUS times imperforate stamps have been privately perforated or rouletted in order to more easily separate them for postal use. When the private perforation is applied without official sanction the variety has no standing in the opinion of those who publish catalogs, for the recognition of one variety would open the gates for a flood of special perforations, the majority of which would be made by dealers and collectors.

Specialists, however, always are interested in such things, especially if it can be proven that they occurred in the regular course of business and not at the instigation of a collector or dealer. The variety known as the Kansas City roulette comes just a little nearer being a recognized variety than do any of the others as the rouletting was done in a postoffice, and the stamps were sold in the regular course of business. No official permission for this work was obtained from the postoffice department in Washington, but the latter condoned it, and ordered the remainders held for collectors, and at the same time cautioned the postmaster against a repetition of the performance.

The stamps which were rouletted in Kansas City were the 1 cent and 2 cent values of the issue of 1912, with denomination in numerals. These were in sheets of 400 on paper watermarked with the single line U.S.P.S. The stamps had been ordered by the National Bank of Commerce, but had not been taken up entirely when a change in mailing machinery rendered them useless.

A considerable number of each value was rouletted in the Kansas City postoffice, early in December, 1914, by means of an ordinary tracing wheel such as is used by dressmakers in transferring patterns. Upon being advised of this irregular procedure the department asked for particulars and on Dec. 28 the postmaster at Kansas City replied that since his stock of imperforates seemed too small to return to Washington for redemption he had ordered the rouletting. This work was done from time to time and the stamps were sold in the ordinary manner through the retail stamp window.

Altogether 234 sheets or 93,600 1 cent stamps, and 173 sheets or 69,200 2 cent stamps, had been rouletted. Of these all but 7,900 ones had been sold. On Jan. 5, 1915, the postmaster was advised by the department that there, no doubt, would be a demand for stamps from collectors, and he was instructed to reserve the remaining stock for such orders and at the same time to limit sales to 100 stamps and to sell only to local customers, i. e., to refuse mail orders. This letter also warned him against any future special perforation without the express permission of the department.



Julius C. Valentin of Chicago has loaned this first day cover from Costa Rica. It shows the new diamond shaped air mail stamps. The design of the stamp includes a view of an airplane above the volcano Poas. The stamps bear the inscription "Primera Feria Anual de Costa Rica, 1936-1937."

In response to the questionnaires of the National Federation of Stamp clubs, the member clubs almost without exception voted against new stamp issues. They are satiated with new commemorative stamps and vote against any and all without any consideration for the historical importance of the event which has been suggested for commemoration.

Most of the members voting are collectors of United States stamps only and could well afford to buy 100 or more commemorative stamps every year if they would content themselves with collecting stamps and not margins and spaces between stamps. One hundred commemorative or pictoral stamps in set from 1 cent to 5 cent values would cost three dollars each year. As it is, many times this amount is used in buying plate number blocks, and every sort of variant that a microscope can discover.

There is little need for a regular series of stamps in low values since the meter is handling the bulk of mail from large concerns and it will arouse a million more new and old collectors if every low value stamp on sale is a commemorative, with new issues at least monthly, and with plate numbers located so far out on the margin that they always are trimmed off.

Recognizing that collectors of stamps and coins include a considerable proportion of the public, the Chicago Charter Jubilee committee has appointed a subcommittee to advise with them in numismatic and philatelic matters.

Although the committee did not have much time before the opening date of the celebration it succeeded in arranging for a pictorial cover to be mailed on March 4 to all who cared to send the necessary postage. Plans were developed at the same time for a slogan cancelation, and a suggested design incorporating old Fort Dearborn was sent to the postoffice department. Bills were drafted and forwarded to Senator James Hamilton Lewis providing for a commemorative stamp and half dollar.

The 4 cent values of the Army-Navy series will be printed in gray and will be placed on sale in Washington on March 23. Collectors who desire first day covers may send not to exceed ten self-addressed covers each for the Army and for the Navy stamp together with a postal money order to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to "Postmaster, Washington, D. C." No other government agency will handle first day covers on this occasion, but unused stamps may be ordered from the Philatelic agency, Postoffice department, Washington, D. C.

Stamp Notes.

The illustrated official list of United States stamps has not yet gone to press, says James Waldo Fawcett, in the Washington Sunday Star. That it will soon be published however is evidenced by the fact that the postoffice department has ordered 5,000 copies and the Superintendent of documents 25,000. It is expected that the price will not exceed 15 cents.

Auction Sales.

March 18—C. P. S. auction in the club rooms, La Salle hotel, at 8 p. m.

Cachets and Covers.

The Delta High School Stamp club, Delta, Pa., will sponsor a cachet to commemorate the completion of the Mason-Dixon line in 1767. Send stamped and addressed envelopes by March 15, with 1 cent additional for each cachet desired.

The Parker Cachet System, 401 S. Michigan street, South Bend, Ind., will have a hand painted cachet for Easter. Send only 6¾ size covers, stamped and addressed but unsealed and unstuffed and include 1 cent for each cover for forwarding. They will hold up to five covers for handpainted cachets in connection with last day concelations at discontinued postoffices. Commemoratives on wrappers appreciated.

Col. Michael B. Gilligan, 1418 St. Anthony place, Louisville, Ky., promises two interesting cachets. No. 1 will be for the Military Order of the Cooties, and No. 2 for the State Encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Edward F. Mezwin, 57-25 69th place, Naspeth, N. Y., has cachets on March 16, birth of James Madison; March 18, birth of Grover Cleveland; March 21, great fire at New Orleans; March 28, Easter, and March 29, birth of John Tyler. Send covers ready to go, plus 1 cent apiece for forwarding.

Mercolized Wax Gives You a NEW Complexion

THOUSANDS of women all over the world who were looking old because of the dull, faded appearance of their complexions have recaptured youth by making their skin smooth, soft and beautiful with Mercolized Wax.

Mercolized Wax acts on an entirely different beautifying principle. Mercolized Wax doesn't attempt to cajole a wornout complexion back to youth. Instead, Mercolized Wax gives you a NEW complexion. It sheds the dried-out cells of surface skin that conceal your true loveliness. The dead cells melt away so gently and in such fine particles that the process itself is invisible. Then the beautiful young underskin is revealed velvety-soft, smooth, clear and lovely.

Start using Mercolized Wax tonight. Just pat it on like cold cream. It will be the beginning of new youth and greater loveliness for your complexion. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin.

USE SAXOLITE ASTRINGENT DAILY

THIS refreshing, stimulating skin tonic smooths out wrinkles and age lines. Refines coarse pores. Eliminates oiliness. Dissolve one ounce Saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel.

St. Patrick's Parties, Too, Dress in Green

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.

ANYBODY here seen Kelly — Kelly of the Emerald Isle?

Kelly will have his day [and so will his sisters and his cousins and his aunts have their day!] on the seventeenth of March, which is only ten days off. And if he's as Irish as his name, Kelly will appear wearing a green tie—a Kelly green tie—and wearing a shamrock in his lapel in honor of Ireland's patron saint.

St. Patrick's day is one of the most popular holidays of the year for party giving. This probably is because shamrock parties are so gayly informal and so much fun to plan.

GREEN luncheon cloth and napkins, a predominance of green food and a dark green shamrock centerpiece won't be too verdant a scheme for a St. Patrick's party if there are other color accents, too. White dishes, or blue pottery dishes would be lovely with such a layout. It isn't necessary to invest a great deal of money in green table linen if one is planning a party and hasn't a tablecloth of that color on hand. Table runners or place mats may be made by fringing pieces of green Indianhead or crash linen, or may be cut in a scalloped pattern from green oilcloth. White dishes on green oilcloth make a lovely setting for an informal party.

The menu for such a party is easily planned because of the abundance of green foods available. Green beans, peas, broccoli, green peppers, lettuce, and watercress may find a place in such a party menu. Green food coloring may be used in cake frosting or in coloring a dessert. However, green should not be overemphasized in the matter of food, or there is apt to be a sacrifice of appetite appeal to color scheme. A sprinkling of red here and there, even if lent only by the pieces of pimento in chicken ring or salad, is attractive and complements the green.

This menu for a St. Patrick's luncheon comes from our booklet, "Holidays and Holiday Meals," [available for 23 cents in stamps] and contains enough green food to satisfy the Irish in any of us.

SAINT PATRICK'S LUNCHEON.

Split Pea Soup
Chicken and Rice Ring with Mushroom Sauce
Buttered Broccoli. Stuffed Olives
Stuffed Dill Pickles
Cloverleaf Rolls Shamrock Salad
Paddy Cakes
Coffee Green and White Mints

• • •

ALL the important recipes in this menue are given in the booklet, but there is space for only a few here.

SPLIT PLEA SOUP

1 cup dried split peas
2½ quarts cold water
½ medium onion
2 cups milk
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Small piece of salt pork

Soak the peas for several hours, drain and add cold water, salt pork and onion. Simmer for three or four hours, until soft. Rub through a sieve. Add butter and flour cooked together, salt and peper. Add milk, bring to boiling point, and serve.

SHAMROCK SALAD.

Cut the tops from green peppers, remove the seeds and stuff with cream or cottage cheese to which a few chopped nuts have been added. Chill. Slice the peppers crosswise very thin, and make each individual shamrock salad by arranging three slices of cheese-stuffed pepper in clover pattern on a bed of watercress or lettuce, and make the shamrock stem by placing a narrow strip of green pepper next to the clover leaves. Brightly colored French dressing may accompany this salad.

PADDY CAKES.

Scoop out the top of any kind of cup cake and place a spoonful of lime sherbet or mint ice cream in the cavity. Serve individually on green lace paper doilies on dessert plates.

Deviled Salmon in Sea Shells Is Tasty Lunch

DEVILED salmon in sea shells makes a nice luncheon dish. Although salmon isn't a shellfish, it looks and tastes as well when served in shells as does any shellfish. To fill six shells, a pound of salmon, 2 cups of heavy cream sauce, 2 teaspoons of prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce, a sprinkling of red pepper and 2-3 cup of buttered crums are needed. All the ingredients except the crums are combined and filled into the shells which are topped with the crums and baked in a moderate oven for 20 minutes.

George Rector's Savory Dishes

By George Rector.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WHEN Hendrik Hudson landed near Chesapeake bay he and his crew made a meal from dry currants, whortleberries, and green tobacco. The history books don't say whether Hendrik ate or smoked the tobacco, and we can only guess what his feelings, inside and out, were like when he had finished such a meal. My own idea is that he wished he were back on the stormy Atlantic with nothing but a pound of black biscuit for keeping off the scurvy. Certaintly that meal doesn't give you the vaguest hint of how exceedingly well inhabitants of that region have lived down the years. Could Hendrik have foreseen Maryland crabs and Philadelphia pepper pot and Virginia baked ham? I doubt it, because I imagine the whortleberries and green tobacco canceled whatever talents for prophecy the good Dutchman might have had.

These states that border our southland came to develop some extra fine specialties in the food line. If, for example, you've ever eaten Philadelphia scrapple and fried apples for breakfast you'll be prone to agree with me. If you've come up squarely against a well cooked Virginia ham, poured over with cider sauce, you won't argue at all.

Baked Virginia Ham.

Baked Virginia ham, by the way, is all the more appropriate to mention because it's the mainstay dish of Easter Sunday in this part of the world. Here's the way to do it:

Pick out a ham weighing at the most twelve pounds. Scrub it all over well with a small brush and put it in a good sized kettle, cold water to cover. Into the kettle put on small bayleaf, one sliced onion. two or three branches of celery, two sprigs of parsley and two sliced carrots. Bring your water to the boiling point and simmer the ham slowly for four full hours. When time's up, lift out the ham from the broth, put it down on a firm surface and peel off the top skin, leaving a little around the shank end. Then put the ham in a baking pan, fat side up, together with one cup of hot water and one cup of cider. Put it in a moderate oven for one hour, and baste every ten minutes or so. When it is finished, score the fat surface evenly and spread it with brown sugar and bread crums. Dot it with cloves and put it back in the oven for browning. Do not baste during the time it is browning.

No Virginian will forgive you if you forget the cider sauce—which is as follows:

Put one cup of the ham liquid into the pan in which the ham was baked. Cream butter and flour for thickening purposes and bring the sauce to a boil. Then add one-third of a cup of cider. Season the sauce with just a few grains of paprika and be sure to strain it before you serve.

The citizens of Philadelphia and round about have a pleasant custom of drinking eggnog on Easter Sunday. It's just like having New Year's day twice over and this is the prescription:

Separate six eggs and beat the yolks with one-half the portion of your sugar—which should be three-fourths of a cupful. Keep on with the beating until the yolks are lemon-colored. Then with the balance of your sugar beat the whites until they're nice and foamy. Then combine the yolks and whites and gradually mix in one pint of cream and one pint of milk. Next pour in one pint of brandy, or one pint of rye, as you like, and two ounces of Jamaica rum. Serve the eggnog as cold as you can get it in six ounce glasses with nutmeg floating on top.

If you want to be really fancy, here's southern eggnog (the genuine article) and Here's How:

This time use thirty-six eggs, which is a lot but the result justifies the outlay, and beat the yolks as before, using one-half the portion of your sugar, in this case one pound. To the beaten yolks add one pint of rye whisky, one-half pint of Jamaica rum and four ounces of cognac brandy. Stir in the cream until all is nicely mixed. Then pour the mixture into the biggest punch bowl you can find. Repeat the beating and sugar operation with the egg whites, then float spoonfuls on top of your mixture in the punch bowl. Cover the surface with grated nutmeg, and if you can manage it, put the bowl inside an even larger bowl full of cracked ice.

Refreshment and gossip in the nineteenth century.

I'm going to include one more egg dish, because there's nothing like Easter to remind you of eggs, and especially so if you've ever been near Washington, D. C., on Easter. Eggs from poultry yards the world over must be rushed to Washington for the kids to play with on the White House lawn on Easter Monday.

Using Hollandaise Sauce.

This fine sight may or may not remind you of Eggs Benedict, but I've a hunch eggs benedict will stay in your memory if you try them once.

Split English muffins in half and toast them brown. Butter them and cover them with thin pieces of broiled ham, cut to their size. Put a poached egg on top, and cover all with Hollandaise sauce.

You can use Hollandaise splendidly, too, with asparagus, broccoli, or cauliflower:

Beat four egg yolks up well, add to them one-half cup of melted butter, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, and a little cayenne. Pour this into the top of a double boiler and cook it over hot water until the sauce thickens, while stirring gently. While you're stirring drop in one tablespoon of strained lemon juice and continue cooking for about two minutes. If the sauce begins to separate, take it off the heat quick and add to it a few drops of hot water.

And if that isn't enough recipes for one day, maybe you would like to try dessert waffles:

Sift together two cups flour, three teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, a few gratings of nutmeg and three tablespoons of sugar. Add one and one-half cups of milk gradually with three beaten egg yokes. Then add four tablespoons of melted butter and fold in three stiffly beaten egg whites. Have the waffle iron hot. (If the iron is electric, no greasing is necessary, otherwise grease lightly with melted butter.) Drop one tablespoon of batter in each section, brown nicely on both sides and remove to hot plates and serve immediately. The following is a very delicious maple sugar sauce: Break one-half pound of soft maple sugar into small pieces and put it in a saucepan with three-quarters of a cup of heavy cream. Stir slowly until maple sugar is dissolved and boil gently for five or six minutes. Remove from fire and beat briskly for several minutes. Pour into warm pitcher and serve with the waffles. No butter is necessary with this sauce.

Knowing Cause of Nervousness Suggests Cure

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"MY child is so nervous. Have you any suggestions?" A few of the actions of children that are labeled "nervous may be that. For instance, there's the child who is easily startled, who jumps at sudden noises, and who is afraid of the dark. Now a child may be nervous who does all these things, but he's not necessarily so because he does them. Young children are sensitive to loud sudden noises. They are easily startled, and it is quite as normal as not, that a child should be afraid of the dark. These things do not indicate that he is in a nervous state.

Also the overly active, talkative child may be nervous, but too, she merely may be the extremely energetic type who is not provided with good outlets for her energy.

But nervousness is definitly indicated in the other instances described. So let us see what some of the causes and cures may be.

[1] Nervousness may result from suppressed energy. Haven't you experienced that yourself when you have done a sitting down job of some sort for hours at a time? And doesn't a good long walk or a housework bout relieve the nervous tension? There must be some discharge for all energy, and children can be made nervous by being kept quiet too much, or at sedentary occupations instead of being allowed to run and romp and indulge in active and noisy play.

[2] Nervousness is a common result of fatigue, especially chronic fatigue. The habitually over-tired child is almost sure to be nervous, and the nervousness may take one of a number of forms.

[3] Fear is another thing that creates nervousness. And here again it may show itself in various ways, some of them exceedingly odd. While mere excitement at the thrilling thought of school may make a young child lose his breakfast, it has been noticed that fear of failure, fear of the whole new unknown world of grownups and children and school experiences may create a nervousness which simply throws the digestive processes all out of gear and the first indication of this is the stomach's refusal to retain food.

[4] The child who is jumpy and jittery, who talks too much and can never sit still may, instead of merely having a lot of physical energy, be nervous because she is overexcited, overstimulated by the life her parents allow her to live. She may be taken everywhere they go—to grown-up parties, to movies, on prolonged automobile trips. She may tap dance and sing and recite in public. As a result she does not have the long periods of sleep and rest, proper meals eaten in quiet and, in general, those childish experiences for which she is geared.

There are many other causes for nervousness in children. Unhappiness due to lack of understanding on the part of elders or to the shock of losing some loved one, or to some other circumstance may so affect a child [consciously or otherwise] that he gives evidence of nervous instability. Happiness and contentment are wonderful for the nerves.

Of course physical origins of nervousness, which we haven't yet mentioned, are among the first things for which we must look. Every nervous child should have a thorough examination by a doctor to see if there are eye or ear defects, or other difficulties to be remedied.

By Clotilde.

A DRESS of this type is a mainstay in the wardrobe of every woman whose figure has matronly proportions. It is the kind of model you may wear now, under your winter coat, and it will do admirable duty later in the spring. The one pattern creates two distinctive frocks as you may observe in the illustration.

The dress at the left is perfect for the present season and for the first balmy days. It is an excellent design for slenderizing, although it is exceedingly chic, too. You will especially appreciate the slim lines of the straight skirt, the front panel of which ends in two plaits near the hemline. The deep vestee effect of the bodice minimizes breadth through the bustline, and it is a beautifully tailored detail, making the frock suitable for all types of daytime activity, especially informal afternoon parties. The revers which grace the vestee ripple gracefully and flatteringly. They give the effect of a collar, without being broad or high at the back of the neck, a feature which invariably makes a full neckline appear even larger. The sleeves are slightly puffed at the shoulderline, in the youthful manner. Every one knows that tight sleeves make a heavy arm appear even thicker than it is, so the designer of this frock wisely created wide sleeves, which are gathered into tight and modish bands at the wrist. Subdued prints and plain colors are perfect for this model.

The other version of this pattern incorporates a caped shoulder and dispenses with sleeves. Otherwise the styling is identical. This model will be lovely for late spring and for summer, because it is cool and its flowing lines take well to sheer and lightweight fabrics.

Both models are exceedingly easy to make. A detailed sewing guide is included with the pattern, so you should have no difficulty in making these frocks, which are inexpensive, too.

Style No. 2622 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 18 inch contrasting.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, March 8.

It is the early lawn maker who enjoys the best grass and has the least amount of work to get it. It is almost time to prepare ground for sowing grass seed. Delay means hot days, necessity of hand watering, and possibly an avalanche of weeds. Buy the best seed mixture. Continue to prune fruit trees, small fruits, grapes, and ornamentals, although the latter may be tended later. Prune the hydrangea paniculata grandiora and hibiscus syriacus shrubs now as the flowers appear on wood of the current year.

Tuesday, March 9.

Cuttings of many plants may be made now. Among these are the coleus, heliotrope, geranium, fuchsia, chrysanthemum, hydrangea, and others. Start in sand or sandy soil caladiums and tuberous begonias for pot culture or outdoor use. For Easter pot a few pips of lily-of-the-valley. Buy a good sized bulb of the amaryllis, for the flowers appear soon at this season. It is about time to sow a few vegetable seeds for early maturity. These include pepper, egg plant, early cabbage, and tomato. A new hotbed of even a sash or two is an ideal place in which to start plants and the cost is not excessive.

Wednesday, March 10.

As soon as the grass shows some activity give the whole lawn an application of a complete commercial plant food. It will start vigorous growth and work wonders in producing the deep roots later essential for drouth resistance. Do not neglect the fruit trees, for they require food as well as the other plants. Buy sweet pea seed and sow it early.

Thursday, March 11.

Cut out all useless wood in rambler roses. The rugosa roses also may be pruned by cutting out the old wood and shortening the younger growth. Wait until after the last frosts before pruning the hybrid perpetuals and tea roses. Cut out old wood from currants and shorten the wood of last year. Cut back raspberries and blackberries. Examine the mulching material on the strawberry patch and perennials to see that it is not smothering plants.

Friday, March 12.

Order fruit trees and get ready to plant them. If the ground is not ready be sure to heel in the plants when received, so the roots will not dry out. When pruning young fruit trees see that the head is kept low with strong scaffolding branches. As soon as house plants show activity transplant them into new, rich soil. Soil usually can be obtained from the local florist or from a grower of plants. Never overpot house plants. If a larger pot is needed, use no more than one size larger than that which the plant formerly occupied.

Saturday, March 13.

Cacti and other succulants may be repotted. Keep these plants in compartively small pots. Place broken pot pieces over the drainage holes, and add smaller pieces to insure perfect drainage. Use a soil mixed with half sand and a little peat. Leave room for water at the surface. Tie up slender stemmed kinds.

Desert Events Assume True Western Air

PHOENIX, ARIZ.

Things were very western at Camelback inn during the week, with desert rides, mountain picnics, and a hard time dance to top it all off. And tonight there's to be a moonlight ride through the desert.

There's something free and informal about life in Arizona. Many Chicagoans have found this out. Perhaps that's why they return to the desert for a vacation every winter. Perhaps the charm of such a place is the fact that one can do so precisely what he wants to do, whether it's to climb one of the nearby mountains, to ride horseback, or to play one or another of the games available, or whether it's just to lie around in the sun. The desert is becoming green now and is about to burst into bloom. As we understand it, spring—tra-la—is the time to be in the desert!

GUESTS at Camelback inn had an opportunity to show their ability as entertainers on Thursday night, when amateur night was held. Skits and acts were presented by occupants of the several cottages, and ranged from music to monolog, from tap dancing to drama.

Yesterday afternoon young society women of Phœnix gave their fashion show of desert resort fashions on the broad western patio at Camelback inn.

Many Chicagoans from other resorts, as well as nearly all of those stopping at the inn, attended the Friday afternoon resorters' tea dance, which was held out of doors in the warm Arizona sunshine.

John J. Louis, Evanston, has rejoined his family in Ocatilla cottage for another desert vacation, having had one earlier in the season. Mr. and Mrs. George Packard, 436 Barry avenue, also are recent arrivals.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Evers of the Edgewater Beach apartments have come to the inn for another winter vacation, and have met many old friends of previous vacations. Mr. Evers is one of the most enthusiastic of sportsmen, devoting much of his time to golf and riding.

PARKER DAVIS Jr., Evanston, is another enthusiastic rider, and also is devoting much time to his hobby of photography, finding many unusual shots in the exotic desert flora.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr. of 1349 Astor street, has departed from the inn, but her grandmother, Mrs. William Owen Goodman of 1355 Astor street, still is vacationing there with her companion, Miss Cecelia Billerback.

David W. Shand Jr. of Evanston has joined his mother, who has been at the inn for several weeks. Mrs. Frank A. Steuert of 5510 Sheridan road has returned home, but her son, Eugene Allen Steuert, is remaining.

New ODORLESS way to fry fish
crisper, digestible, doubly delicious

ATTENTION, all you ladies who just hate to fry fish! There's no unpleasant odor when you use purer ALL-vegetable Spry. No smoke in the kitchen or in your eyes. And oh, such good fish—crispy-brown outside, tender and meaty inside, delicate in flavor, as digestible as if baked.

Use Spry for all your baking, too. Cakes are dreams of lightness. Pastry just melts in your mouth. And so easy to make. Triple-creamed Spry blends like magic with your other ingredients, cuts mixing time in half. Get Spry today!

THE NEW PURER ALL-vegetable shortening —TRIPLE-CREAMED! In 1-lb. and 3-lb. cans

LENTEN FISH SAUTÉ
Crisp, tender, tasty—fried in Spry

2 pounds fresh fish (halibut, haddock, cod, mackerel, etc.)
⅓ cup corn meal
1⅓ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 egg, slightly beaten with 1 tablespoon water
¼ cup Spry

Remove skin and bone from fish (if desired) and cut into pieces for serving. Mix corn meal and seasonings thoroughly.

Dip pieces of fish in beaten egg, then in seasoned corn meal, and sauté in hot Spry in frying pan until golden brown on one side. (Remember, no smoky, smelly kitchen when you fry with Spry. And fried foods are so digestible, even a child can eat them!) Turn carefully and brown on other side. Serve hot with wedges of lemon. Serves 6.

Sifted bread crumbs may be substituted for the seasoned corn meal, or fish may be dipped in milk and then in seasoned flour.

Junior Group of Hadassah to Have Drive

TODAY the young women of Chicago Junior Hadassah are gathering to launch their annual campaign in behalf of refugee children in Palestine. Rabbi Charles E. Shulman of Glencoe will address the meeting at 2:30 o'clock at the Hotel Sherman and there will be a program featuring Joe Whitehead of the revue, "O, Say, Can You Sing?" and other entertainers.

A goal of $10,000 has been set for the drive this year in order to make it possible to care for a greater number of dependent children in Palestine. Since 1925 Junior Hadassah has maintained a village at Meier Shfeyah, where 115 children, most of them orphans, are given a public school education and training in scientific farming or a trade. Those children who are not old enough to make their own living when they graduate at the farm are sent to the nurses' training school connected with the Rothschild hospital in Jerusalem, or to an orange grove owned by Junior Hadassah at Pardess Anna, where further training is offered.

Since 1928 Junior Hadassah has maintained the nurses' training school which is a vital link in the system of public health established in Palestine by the Senior Hadassah organization. One thousand of the junior organization's 11,000 members live in the Chicago area, and their activities in the campaign will be directed by Miss Beverly Tatkin and Miss Zelda Goldman, vice presidents in charge of the drive. Miss Julia Lewis heads the eleven Chicago units.

Another drive to be launched this week concerns the summer camp maintained by the National Council of Jewish Women, Chicago section, at Wauconda, Ill. In order to continue the program of two week vacations that are afforded 900 underprivileged mothers and children at the camp each year, the council will initiate a drive for funds at a meeting tomorrow.

Leo W. Schwarz will address the council on "Proposed Roads for American Jewry" at 1:45 o'clock in the organization's headquarters, 185 North Wabash avenue. A breakfast for new members and their sponsors will be held at 11 o'clock, culminating a recent membership drive. Rabbi Charles E. Shulman will conduct a session of the religious study class preceding Mr. Schwarz's talk, and afterward tea will be served.

The underprivileged and needy, the blind and those suffering from heart diseases will share in the proceeds of a buffet supper, dance, and card party to be given by Lincoln lodge, No. 22, United Order of True Sisters, at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Free Sons' hall, 316 North Michigan avenue.

Mrs. Morris Helperin and Mrs. Bertram Lazarus are co-chairmen of the party, with Mrs. Carl Cohen, ways and means chairman, assisting. The benefit marks the close of the lodge's earning fund drive, through which its philanthropies are financed. Mrs. Harry Grossberg is president.

For the seventh consecutive year the Medinah Ladies' Choral club will give a concert today at the Medinah club. The Protestant Child haven will benefit from the program, for which soloists will be Robert Long, tenor; Mrs. Burton F. Secord, lyric soprano, and Harry H. Brooks, cornetist and director of the brass band of the Medinah mosque of Chicago. Miss Helen Leefelt directs the group, and Mrs. Walter Mills heads the club committee arranging the concert.

The National Home for Jewish Children at Denver, Colo., the only home of its kind for children of tubercular parents, will receive the proceeds of a dance to be held this evening at the Midwestern Athletic club.

The Chicago league of the home is giving the party, its third annual dance, with Mrs. Sol Hoit in charge. Mrs. Albert Lewis, Mrs. Harry Temkin, Mrs. Herman Kaplan, and Mrs. Albert Leavitt are assisting with arrangements. Mrs. Fannie E. Lorber is national president of the home.

Has Distinction of Being Only Woman in Her Profession

"WHY, no man would tolerate me for a wife!" exclaimed Helen Stansbury, slim and vital blonde who, though still a youngster, finds herself the only woman airline official traveling from coast to coast.

Miss Stansbury, who is director of the women's trafic division of the United Air lines, has been known to fly as far as 2,100 miles to make a single talk. "Which is why I'm single and live in a hotel," she laughed.

It is hard to believe that this spirited brown eyed girl, in her blue sweater and coral tweeds, first put her foot in a transport plane seven weeks ago when her present job began.

Her aim is to make a place for women in the business end of aviation. "If I succeed, there will be many more jobs for women," she said. Now, however, she is the whole works as far as the women's trafic division goes—office boy, secretary, lecturer.

A Baltimore girl by birth, Miss Stansbury was educated in Vienna and Berlin, where her surgeon father lived.

Her hardest job so far was to address 350 members of the American Women's Banking club of San Francisco the day after the Martin Johnson disaster. However, she faced the facts frankly and was kept an hour by eager women who asked her questions on every conceivable phase of the industry.

She intends to fly herself, certainly. "But first I want to concentrate on this job of getting more women to travel by plane." Now 35 per cent of all airline passengers are women, but Miss Stansbury won't be happy until this number is increased to 50 per cent, at least.

Sophie Tucker Gives Advice on Streamlines

How your health affects the beauty of your hair is one of the subjects treated in the booklet, "Bring Out the Beauty in Your Hair," by Antoinette Donnelly. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. By postpaid mail, 7 cents.

THEY'VE appointed Sophie Tucker "America's Streamlined Stylish Stout" because she took off thirty good plump pounds to register properly and becomingly on the screen for her appearance in the "Broadway Melody of 1937."

"What's this streamlined diet of yours?" we asked Miss Tucker. And this is what we learned.

"A year ago I definitly made up my mind that I wanted to go into pictures, but I knew that I'd have to do something about my weight. I weighed 170. I was all right for night clubs and vaudeville [what was left of it]. My weight was my stock in trade, part of my personality, and had been for years. Without a little fat here and there, mostly in the right places, I just wasn't Sophie Tucker! I ask you, can you picture a skinny red hot mamma on a night club floor?

"But pictures are an entirely different story. I knew, from a picture I made a few years ago, one of the first talking pictures, that the screen photographs are twice your width, and that I'd have to cut down.

"WHEN I was abroad on my tour last year I talked with a famous English physician, a man who has prescribed for some of the most distinguished professional people in Europe, and he gave me a diet which worked marvels for me. I call it my 'streamlined diet' because 'streamlining' is exactly what it did to my figure. But I warn you, before you go on this diet let your doctor give you a careful physical examination and, if it is all right with him, then it is all right for you to go ahead with it.

"I eat as much as I like, but only one thing at a time, of anything I like. For instance, I love steak. I love potatoes, I love a good beef stew, I love marcaroni, spaghetti, all, as you will note, fat producing edibles. If I want steak for my dinner, I can have all the steak I want, but nothing else. No potatoes, no other vegetables, no salad, no appetizer, no dessert. Steak, and a cup of tea. For lunch, a plain salad.

"The next day, if I crave vegetables, I can eat all the potatoes I like, but nothing at that meal except potatoes, a slice of toast and tea or coffee, without cream.

"Now it stands to reason that if you eat a regular dinner of steak and vegetables you will continue to eat and eat because the vegetables create a desire for more meat, and the meat whets the appetite for more vegetables. But one cannot go on indefinitly eating steak, with nothing to garnish it in the way of vegetables, salad or sauces. You see, the fact that you eat only one thing at a time kills the appetite for too much of that one food.

"The third day, for instance, I wanted green vegetables, so I had a lunch of greer peas and string beans, with toast and tea. One must be careful, however, to vary this diet, so that one gets in one day a sufficient amount of proteins and starches and carbohydrates.

"I LOST thirty pounds in one year with this diet, and I feel marvelous. This diet is right for me, and has helped hundreds of others, but it may not be the diet for you. Do not, under any circumstances, start any sort of diet without your doctor's knowledge.

"Other things, too, must be taken into consideration if one wants to keep one's weight down. You must have a reserve of strength before you start to diet. Eight hours of sleep a night are an absolute necessity. Also, at least two hours a day in the fresh air, preferably walking. And drink eight glasses of water a day. Water is a great cleanser, both for the inside as well as the outside of the body. It keeps the elimination open, the complexion fresh, and the skin free of blemishes."

Miss Donnelly's authoritative articles, counseling women in matters of beauty and charm, appear every day in the feature page of The Chicago Tribune.

WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

Who Controls the Oceans?

IN PEACE times the vast waters that cover more than 70 per cent of the world's surface are open to everyone—there is complete freedom of the seas.

In times of war, theoretically, no nation has the right to claim appropriation of the seas as a whole, although circumstances frequently make it necessary for a nation or nations to exercise control over considerable portions of the oceans.

When armed conflict is raging, the nation which possesses a fleet sufficiently strong is in position to utilize this fleet in five practical ways:

1. To bar from waters that are vital to its welfare the fighting craft of the enemy.

2. To safeguard its own and friendly merchant shipping from attack on the sea lanes.

3. To deny the use of certain waters to the enemy for the transport of armed forces and supplies that would enable him to invade friendly territory or carry on a campaign overseas.

4. To deny the use of certain waters to shipping which would directly or indirectly assist the enemy by conveying to him essential commodities for his people's existence as well as warlike materials in raw or manufactured form for his fighting forces.

5. To enable it to exercise complete control of restricted waters for the purpose of effecting a landing in enemy territory or to secure the approaches to friendly harbors or fleet bases.

In addition the nation with a navy sufficiently powerful is frequently in position to carry warfare by means of raiding vessels—cruisers and submarines—into distant sea zones that are not permanently under its control.

The stronger its navy the greater the stretches of the oceans that a nation can control. Which brings us to an explanation of the accompanying map. As can be seen, the oceans and seas are divided into variously colored areas—each color representing the nation which in a time of war could control that portion or portions of the oceans. The extent of these various areas is based upon the known strength of the different navies, distances as measured in cruising abilities of fleets, and positions and defenses of fleet bases.

The United States, it can be noted, is allotted more than a half of the North Pacific and a part of the South Pacific. Its control extends westward until it meets that of Japan. Because of the great naval base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian Islands, and the possibility of establishing bases in Alaska, the United States is in stronger position to control that part of the Pacific portioned off to it than any other power. The United States' main fleet is stationed in the Pacific. The North Atlantic is divided between the United States and Great Britain.

Great Britain's areas of control extend down across the Atlantic, across the Indian ocean, and for a considerable distance into the South Pacific. At frequent intervals in this expanse are British bases from which fleets could operate successfully. The modern base at Singapore and the commonwealth of Australia and dominion of New Zealand help make Great Britain strong in the southern half of the eastern hemisphere.

Japan's area of control is limited to the western Pacific, because its bases all are in Japan proper or close by. The Philippine Islands and Guam are within the area controled by Japan. In the event of war both would be fairly easy prey to the Japanese navy.

Although Britain controls the Suez canal and has strong defenses at Gibraltar and Malta, Italy, because of its numerous naval and air bases within easy striking distance of every point in the Mediterranean, is seen in strongest position to control that sea.

Germany is deemed strongest of all nations in the Baltic, because of its domination of the independent Baltic states.

Russia, of course, is undisputed in the frozen seas that lie to its north. Its zone of naval control also extends into the western part of the North Pacific by virtue of the natural harbors in eastern Siberia which could be utilized as bases. Russia controls the Black sea.

That portion of the eastern Atlantic lying off Spain, Portugal, and North Africa could be controled by Great Britain or by other powers able to acquire bases along the coast. Among these other powers France must be taken into consideration, both because of distances and its naval strength.

The shipping lanes of that part of the South Atlantic lying off the coast of South America could be guarded most readily by the United States.

The vast expanses of ocean that are not definitly allotted to the various sea powers would be open to raids by cruisers and submarines, just as they were during the World war.

'Follies,' D'Oyly Cartes Begin Last Week on Chicago Stage

Comic Operas, Popular Revue Ready to Move

Tallulah Bankhead in 'Reflected Glory' Gets Debut Here March 15.

By Charles Collins.

THE annals of success in the theater can be dull reading, except for the small group of people who are personally interested in the box office reports. For example, the Chicago stage in its Lenten phase is like the happy nation that has no history, well satisfied with itself but offering no stimulus to the pursuers of novelty.

Here is Charlotte Greenwood, rounding into her sixteenth week in "Leaning On Letty," the town's oldest theatrical inhabitant. There is nothing new to be said about her and the odd play, half mystery and half farce, which she adorns except to announce that she has just broken the record for runs at the Selwyn since 1929. Here is the "Ziegfeld Follies," entering its tenth week at the Grand Opera house, so familiar that Gypsy Rose Lee has become a houseword word [or warning]. It requires only a footnote to the effect that next Saturday night's performance will be its last in Chicago, and then it will proceed on its tour.

Here, too, is the D'Oyly Carte Opera company of London, now beginning the last week of its Gilbert and Sullivan festival at the Erlanger theater. The prowess of these singing actors has been extolled in seven reviews—one for each of their bills—and four Sunday articles, and this subject may be considered as done to a turn. After remarking that their visit has been a blessing to followers of the much-neglected art of comic opera, and that the American stage knows nothing like them, one need only say, hail and farewell.

Coronation Takes D'Oyly Cartes Back Home.

The D'Oyly Cartes' final performance next Saturday night, when "The Mikado" will be the bill, will probably be marked by a stirring demonstration of leave-taking on the part of the audience, for two years may pass before they come here again. Their tour will carry them eastward toward Boston, where they will sail within a few weeks to reach their home theater in London, bearing the historic name of Savoy, in time for the coronation festivities.

Last of all, because the youngest, here is "You Can't Take It With You," a comedy of gently lunatic variations on a standard theme, now beginning its fifth week at the Harris theater with every prospect of remaining through the summer. This well-acted and highly diverting play illustrates a new trend in theatricals which seems to be characteristic of the improvement in the nation's economic life. Its humor is blended with the milk of human kindness.

For a number of years American playwrights, as manifested by their Broadway successes, have seemed like a species of snarleyows, teeth-gnashers, spite-spitters and tearer-downers. Their spiritual life, as expressed in their works, has resembled that of the wry-necked mongoose. [The mongoose is an extremely ill-tempered animal; the wry-necked variety has been known to bite off its own tail.] They have broken many people of the habit of play-going.

Drama Begins Era of Good Feeling.

"You Can't Take It With You," written by a pair of leading satirists, suggests that a certain balminess has come into the play-writing soul. This is a welcome change. It has already been recognized as a trend of theatrical affairs on Broadway. Thus Brooks Atkinson, drama critic of the New York Times, wrote recently:

"After several years in which very comedy had to be compounded of wry jests and caustic jibes the theater seems to have glided into a world of forbearing humors and pleasant characters. Three months ago the celebrated authors of 'Once in a Lifetime,' who perfected the vitriolic style, left 'the fancy way' and accepted the universe with 'You Can't Take It With You,' a merry prank that openly endorses tolerance. The Broadway theater had hardly adjusted its neckwear before 'Brother Rat' turned up with a friendly endorsement of youthful mischief in a military academy. Within the past few weeks the era of good feeling has extended to 'Yes, My Darling Daughter,' 'Having Wonderful Time,' and George N. Cohan's 'Fulton of Oak Falls'—although Mr. Cohan has never absented himself long from the good feeling that prevailed in the theater when he dominated Broadway."

Miss Bankhead's First Chicago Visit.

The next new play in sight is "Reflected Glory," a comedy by George Kelly, with Tallulah Bankhead as its star. It will begin an engagement of two or three weeks' duration in the Grand Opera house on Monday, March 15. This will be Miss Bankhead's first appearance on the Chicago stage.

This actress, daughter of the present speaker of the house of representatives, has confined her activities to New York, London and the films. She made her debut in 1918 and soon won attention as a leading woman. She went to London in 1923 and remained there for eight years, appearing in fifteen plays. Among her rôles was that of Iris March, heroine of "The Green Hat," acted in the United States by Katharine Cornell.

Her English career ended in 1930; then came a period in films. She returned to the New York stage in 1933 to act in the following plays: "Let Us Be Gay," "Forsaking All Others," "The Snob," "Dark Victory," "Rain," [a revival], and "Something Gay." She has been seen in the following film productions: "Tarnished Lady," "The Cheat," "My Sin," "Thunder Below," "Devil and the Deep," and "Faithless."

"Old Maid" in Vienna.

Zoe Akins' play, "The Old Maid," was given for the first time in German at the Burg theater, Vienna, recently, under the title, "The Two Mothers." The rôles of Delia and Charlotte Lovell were played by Nora Gregor and Alma Seidler.

Kaufman and Hart to Write Musical Show

GEORGE KAUFMAN and Moss Hart, co-authors of "You Can't Take It With You" at the Harris theater, are clearing the decks for work on a new show. It will be a musical comedy, with book by Kaufman and Hart, music by George Gershwin, and lyrics by Ira Gershwin. Clifton Webb will be leading man and there is strong probability that Ina Claire will be the leading actress. If so, this will be her first appearance in a musical show since the "Ziegfeld Follies" of 1915.

Present plans are for Kaufman to join Hart in Hollywood about April 1, just as he did last spring when they concocted "You Can't Take It With You." They aim to turn over their text early to the Gershwins so that the latter will be able to work out score and lyrics through the summer, and rehersals can start in the early fall. Already a theater has been booked in Philadelphia for two weeks beginning Nov. 8, with a New York première to follow. Sam H. Harris will be the producer.

Mr. Harris has produced three musical successes, "Face the Music," "As Thousands Cheer," and "Jubilee," for which Moss Hart supplied the books, and "Of Thee I Sing" for which George Kaufman and Morris Ryskind supplied the book.

Empire Room Offers Spring Floor Show

Anson Weeks' Orchestra Comes to 'Beach' Hotel Next Friday Night.

THE "Melody Revue" enters its second week in the Empire room at the Palmer House with Tito Coral, singing star, and Bartell and Hurst, adagio dancers, heading the billing. Tito Coral won his reputation on the legitimate stage in "A Night In Spain" and other productions, and in the motion picture "Going To Town" [with Mae West], before entering the café field.

Others in the Palmer House Revue are: the Four Vespers, an acrobatic act; Carl Simpson and his Marionettes, which appear in the 10 o'clock show only; June and Adele Parrish, sisters who play violins and accordions as they dance, and the Abbott Dancers who give a difficult tap number to the "Poet and Peasant" overture. George Hamilton and his orchestra continue. The Four Aristocrats are auxiliary musicians.

● George Olsen's orchestra will end its stay at the Edgewater Beach hotel next Thursday. Anson Weeks and his orchestra will follow. New performers in the floor show include Charles and Helen Stone, musical comedy dancers; the Three Jackson Boys, acrobats; Ben Beri, comedy juggler, and Jue Fong, Chinese tenor.

● The third of the Sunday cocktail dansants at the Drake hotel will be held today in the Gold Coast room. In addition to the music of Clyde Lucas' California Dons, a floor show headed by Donald Novis, lyric tenor; the Karre Le Baron adagio trio, and the Oehman Twins, dancers, will be presented.

● Emil Boreo, master of ceremonies in Clifford C. Fischer's revue, "Paris-Monparnasse," now at the Casino Parisien, recently acted a leading part in a film production for British-Gaumont entitled "Interlude Romance." He has a contract to return to London to star in another next June. This is Boreo's first visit to Chicago in three years.

● College Inn's "Crazy Show" continues under the direction of Roger Pryor. Featured stars in the show are the collegians known as the California Varsity Eight. Others on the bill are Lois Still, singer; Garcia and Perrot, dance team; the Lindy Hoppers; Sonny and Son, tap stars; the Gertrude Hoffman ballet girls; Jess Willard and Bill Hurley, badminton champions, and Ed Rickard.

● At Harry's New York cabaret Marion Morgan, exotic dancer, continues. Supporting her are Buddy Walker, master of ceremonies; Bernice Hart, tap dancer; Dorothy Blaine, blues singer; Paddy and Peggy Palmer, dancers, and the Eight Texas Debutantes. Others who entertain are Arthur Buckley, Dorothy Johnson, Diane Roberts, and Red Hoffman. Austin Mack's orchestra plays.

● Marion Wilkins and Jack Walters, appearing at the Congress Casino, have over fifteen numbers. Tannhäuser's "Evening Star," Berlin's "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and Lincke's "Glow Worm" are among their musical accompaniments. They have been dancing together for four years.

● Frank Frankini, a new magician, and Frankie Masters' orchestra continue in the Continental room in the Stevens hotel. Donna Dae, young tap dancer, and the Stevens Sextet, vocalists, are other entertainers.

● Emil Di Salvi's orchestra, offering classical selections and dance rhythms, continues at L'Aiglon resturant. The featured singer in the band is Dolores Marcelli, a contralto.

● Dudley Crafts Watson returns to the Old Heidelberg Inn next Wednesday afternoon, March 10, to begin his third series of travel talks with the subject, "New Impressions of Mexico." He recently made a tour of Mexico.

● The floor show in the Blue Fountain room of the La Salle hotel is headed by the King's Jesters and Majorie Whitney. Charles Hoffman, magician, and The MacArthurs; Donna and Darrell, dancers, are also on the program.

● Dolly Kay, blues singer, now in her twenty-third week at the Royale Frolics, continues as star of the revue, with Phil Philips at the piano. Others are Claude and Clarence Stroud, identical twins, who are comedians and masters of ceremonies; Adair and Richards, adagio and ballroom dancers; Frances Wills, control and acrobatic dancer; Edwards and Fahrney, tap dancers; Peggy Moore, dancing soubrette, and Jack Hilliard, tenor, in numbers with the ballet. Two bands, Henry Lishon's and Charles Engles'.

● At the Trianon ballroom Kay Kyser and his orchestra are featured. There is an added attraction for today's festivities—Barney Rapp and his New Englanders orchestra, with Ruby Wright, soloist. . . . At the Aragon, Freddy Martin and his music continues a gala feature bill. Dancing starts at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and will be continuous until 12:30 a. m.

● Colosimo's have several new acts in the show starring Faith Bacon, fan dancer. They are Beck, Melton and Beck, comedians; Arno and Arnette, and Elrira Tanzi. Holdovers are Melba, dancer; Francis and Carroll, Don Enrico, and Florence Barlow, specialty dancer with the ballet. Bob Tinsley's band, intermission entertainers.

● Lillian Bernard and Flo Henrie, singers of their own specialty songs, remain as stars of the Club Alabam show. Several new acts are listed, including Buddy and Betty, a dance team; Miss Cecelia, a character dancer, and Dorothy Mae, toe-tap dancer. Art Williams remains as master of ceremonies. Continuous dancing to four dance bands.

● Frances Faye, singer from New York's night clubs, will open at the Yacht Club next Wednesday night. Grace and Charlie Herbert, Jonny Wells, Anthony Marks, the Phelps Twins, and Bob and Fleurette and Bob Gilbert are the current bill. Two bands, Nino Rinaldo and Roland Hanell.

● The Six-O-Six Club show has Dick Hughes, Nora Ford, Dorothy Wahl, and eight other "girl acts."

● The entertainers at Parody Club are Molly Manors, Phil Kaye, Freddie Janis' band, and Henry Simons.

"LOVE IS NEWS"

Loretta Young's many admirers will be delighted to see her picture this morning and be reminded of the fact that she's back on the screen again in the Chicago's current movie, "Love Is News." Miss Young has entirely recovered from her recent illness. Featured with her in the film are Tyrone Power and Don Ameche.

Descriptive Powers of Music Decidedly Weak

'Story Telling' Is Impossible with This Art

Real 'Meaning' of a Piece Usually Is Mystery to All but Composer.

By Edward Barry.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago a lurid piece of music called "The Burning of Rome" lay on the racks of thousands of upright pianos throughout the land. Its luridness, when carefully analyzed, was found to be mostly in the resounding title and on the flamboyant cover, where, in a glory of scarlet, the Eternal City fried to a crisp. Without this mental suggestion—or rather compulsion—it is certain that no one could have heard in the music of the piece any crash of falling temples.

This example, extreme though it may be, illustrates the great weakness of "descriptive" or "program" music. The truth is that music cannot usurp the functions of language nor of the graphic and plastic arts. It cannot describe anything nor tell a story. At best, it can only imitate, and the limitations are usually extremely poor.

Time has long since quenched the flames of the opus named above, but the belief underlying it [the belief that music is a great medium of description and narration] is still very much alive. If its demise can be hastened by a few more examples and arguments, then space was never used more wisely.

World's Worst Painter Has Descriptive Powers.

Ask the world's worst painter to do the scene that lies before your window. Give the same assignment to the world's greatest composer—have him describe the view in music. Take the resulting products to a stranger and, without a word of explanation, see whether the work of the bungling dauber or that of the gifted composer gives him the clearer idea of the actual scene.

Have a stupid six year old child tell you of the walk he just took. From his pitiful stammering you will actually learn something. The same cannot be said of the playing of the brilliant pianist who went on exactly the same excursion and undertook to narrate his experiences in ten eloquent minutes at the keyboard.

Absurd examples? Yes, but the whole idea of "program" music is absurd. It forces the art into hopeless competition with more direct and natural mediums of description and narration.

A moment's thought will discover the secret of all "program" music. The idea must be implanted in the hearer's mind by some other means—by a picture, or by the spoken or written word. Then, unless the music actually contradicts the idea, imagination can connect the two.

Listener Must Be Told What Piece Means, to Know.

A piece called "Summer Evening," if it is quiet in character, means "summer evening" to a listener who knows what the title is. It means nothing at all to a second person who does not. Perhaps a third has been told that the name of the composition is "Winter Hush." He, like No. 1, is satisfied with the congruence of music and title and dutifully imagines the winter hush. But a fourth listener is under the impression that the piece is entitled "Charge of the Infantry," and he knows that there is something radically wrong.

If you have to be told in advance what music means, it is fairly obvious that it does not mean anything. Or if two persons [Nos. 1 and 3 above] find in the identical work radically different meanings, the truth must be that neither meaning is valid. Let painters and story tellers keep description and narration for themselves. The poorest among them can do far better at such tasks than the best of musicians.

As far as imitation is concerned, music has some poor power with bird calls, running water, etc. But even here, the intention has to be announced in advance. The imitations themselves are not accurate and these successions of notes would be meaningless without an extra-musical guide.

Program Music Survives Because of Its Merit.

Did not many great composers write "program" music? Yes, but no music ever survived because of the patness of its description or narration. If it is good music, entirely aside from such patness, then it can carry the additional load without harm.

The "Symphonie Fantastique," stripped of its "story," would still be a fine work of art because its themes are musically beautiful and its form is satisfying enough. The greatness of the Beethoven Sixth is entirely independent of its "program," although the bird calls of the slow movement might have to be expunged if the work were played as absolutely "pure" music.

Even the "Ride of the Valkyries" has a good, rousing melody. That, and not its descriptive power, is responsible for the many performances which the excerpt receives. Any elocutionist could give a more satisfactory account of how the charging steeds push clouds out of their way.

ROSA RAISA

The full voiced dramatic soprano of the City Opera is to sing in recital with her baritone husband, Giacomo Rimini, at the Auditorium theater today.

Symphony by Franck Now in New Pressing

THE glowing César Franck symphony is available now in a new recording by the Philadelphia orchestra under Leopold Stokowski. It is one of Victor's notable new releases—notable because of the excellence of the music and the vital, freshening sweep of this interpretation of it. Notable, too, because of the quality of the recording which exploits the brilliance of the Philadelphia orchestra's tonal palette. The symphony's beauty of line is evident, and its colorings have been enchantingly reburnished.

The "vital, freshening sweep" noted above is not achieved at the expense of the work's mysticism, nor of the magic of its more reposeful pages. Canny Mr. Stokowski understands the value of contrast too perfectly for that.

Another immensely popular symphony—Tschaikowski's Fourth—is obtainable in a Victor pressing by Serge Koussevitzky and the Boston Symphony orchestra. Like the good musician he is, Mr. Koussevitzky sees to it that the music's tremendous emotional content does not overflow its form. This applies, of course, to the more tempestuous sequences. He and his superlative orchestra make much of the symphony's calmer moments, with the opportunities they offer for eloquent poetry.

Other important orchestral pressings are those by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra [Eugene Ormandy, conducting] of Zador's effective "Hungarian Caprice," and by the Boston orchestra of several excerpts from Berlioz' "Damnation of Faust." The latter set includes the "Rakozy" March.

There have been a considerable number and variety of vocal recordings during the last month. Among them are two excerpts from Richard Hageman's "Caponsacchi" [which had its American première at the Metropolitan opera, New York, this very season]. The singer is Helen Jepson. The bewitching "Mondnacht" of Schumann is smoothly and understandingly sung by Elisabeth Schumann. The same singer fills the reverse side of this record with two Strauss lieder, "Traum durch die Daemmerung" and "Ich Schwebe." A double faced disc by Marian Anderson offers the great colored contralto's singing of "My Soul's Been Anchored to the Lord" and "Go Down Moses."

International Operetta.

The American production of "White Horse Inn" at the Center theater, New York, marks the twelfth century in which the play has been presented since its original launching at the Grosse Schauspielhaus, Berlin, in November, 1930.

All Beethoven Program Last in Piano Series

Artur Schnabel to Be Artist at Recital in Orchestra Hall Today.

By Cecil M. Smith.

AN all-Beethoven program will absorb the attention of Artur Schnabel, eminent German pianist, in Orchestra hall this afternoon. This important event is the last of a notable series of piano recitals presented at low prices by the Adult Education council.

When Mr. Schnabel came to the United States for the first time a few seasons ago, he found that his reputation had preceded him. A year earlier the makers of Victor records had begun to release, one by one, Mr. Schnabel's recordings of the five Beethoven concertos. These discs leaped quickly into the best-seller class. The reproduction of piano tone, always a stumbling block to the record industry, was more successful than usual and permitted Mr. Schnabel to display effectively his qualifications as a Beethoven interpreter.

Plays Beethoven's Music with Subtle Assurance.

Chief among these qualifications, as we have seen them more fully in his recitals, is a confident air of saying the last word. Mr. Schnabel plays undemonstratively, as one who has known Beethoven's music all his life. He disarms those who might criticize him by the subtle assurance with which he makes his tempo or manner of phrasing seem to be the only possible choice.

His playing of Beethoven gains further force from his complete belief that Beethoven's music is as great as everybody says it is—and perhaps even greater. He plays Beethoven by preference and not as a professional duty. Probably the modern concert stage has not yet revealed a more profound specialist in the works of a single composer, in spite of the fact that Mr. Schnabel often extends his enthusiasm to the works of other romantic composers.

This enthusiasm, however, has little in common with the dynamic electricity of a Horowitz. It is more the zeal of a university professor who combines extensive learning with an eager desire to pass on his learning to his students. Orchestra hall becomes a large classroom, with the audience a group of students listening attentively to the exposition of a master pedagog.

Today's program includes four sonatas [opus 110; opus 31, No. 2; opus 78; opus 27, No. 2, the famous "Moonlight" sonata]; the Fantasie, opus 77; the seldom played Bagatelles, opus 126; and the Rondo a Capriccio, opus 129.

Three Top Notch Pianists Included in Council Series.

The Adult Education council has brought great joy to many persons this season by offering five concerts of great merit at breathtakingly low prices. Guiomar Novaes, Josef Lhevinne, and Mr. Schnabel are all top notch pianists, and the less stellar virtues of Ignaz Friedman and Albert Hirsh certainly cannot be ignored. Next season's series, which promises to be of equal merit, will be announced this afternoon.

New Works by American Composers on Program.

Two American composers have provided new works which will be heard on the same program. Arne Oldberg, professor of piano at Northwestern university, offers a symphonic poem, "The Sea." Two colleagues of Mr. Oldberg, Albert Noelte, and Felix Borowski, have also contributed to the orchestra's répertoire within the past month. Otto Luening of Bennington college, Vt., is to be represented on Thursday and Friday by "Two Symphonic Preludes."

Mischa Mischakoff, the orchestra's gifted concertmaster, will appear on Tuesday afternoon as soloist in the first Bruch concerto. With Jane Anderson at the piano, the orchestra is to play two movements from the Tschaikowsky Trio in A minor, which Dr. Stock transcribed for orchestra as a memorial to the late Ossip Gabrilowitsch. The Saturday evening popular concert, Dr. Stock conducting, will bring forward Schubert's C major symphony and works of Wolf-Ferrari, Grieg, Wagner, and Tschaikowsky.

Ted Shawn and Dancers to Give Program Today.

Ted Shawn and his eight men dancers, appearing at the Studebaker theater today, are to give the Chicago première of "O Libertad," an "American saga" in three acts. Looking back over the history of the American continent, Mr. Shawn has chosen a number of periods which he felt he could translate into dance movement. The first and second acts are entitled "The Past" and "The Present." The third act, "The Future," bears the subtitle "Kinetic Molpai," which means just as much to me as it does to you. In this portion of his saga, Mr. Shawn propagandizes in favor of the dance as an essential activity of the American Man of the Future.

Future attractions in the dance field include a week-end of Martha Graham, with a demonstration in Thorne hall Saturday evening and a concert in the Auditorium theater next Sunday afternoon. The appearances of Miss Graham and her group will bring to a close the series of modern dance events presented by University college of Northwestern university.

The dance calendar later on includes recitals by Fay Friedman and her dance trio on March 21, Carola Goya in Spanish dances with the Woman's Symphony orchestra on March 27, Miriam Winslow and her group on March 28, and four days of the Ballet Russe in a return enegagement, beginning March 29.

Travel Lecture.

Mrs. Martin Johnson, widow of the explorer, will lecture and present films on the subject, "Jungle Depths of Borneo," in the Civic Opera House this afternoon, March 7. This will be the first Chicago showing of the film which was completed before Johnson's death in an airplane accident.

Notes of Music and Musicians

Marcia Davenport, well known radio commentator on music and author of a widely read biography of Mozart, will be a principal speaker at the fourth annual Woman Congress sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE at the Palmer house Thursday at 2:30. Mrs. John Alexander Jardine of Fargo, N. D., president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, will speak on the same program. Other musical events in the two day conference include the Varsity Eight, vocal octet, Wednesday at 2:30; duets by Henry Weber and Edmund Kurtz Wednesday at 8:30; John Burdette, Negro baritone, Thursday morning at 10; Jane Pickens of the "Ziegfeld Follies" and the radio Thursday at 2:30; and Betty Jaynes, 16 year old lyric soprano of the Chicago City Opera company, at the dinner session Thursday at 7.

Rosa Raisa, whose characterization of dramatic soprano rôles has made her name a household word in Chicago, will appear in recital at the Auditorium theater this afternoon. Her husband, Giacomo Rimini, baritone of the Chicago opera, is to sing two duets with Mme. Raisa, as well as several solos. In recent seasons Mme. Raisa has sung in many operas such as "Turandot" and "La Fiamma," which have hidden from view her expertness in bel canto and even coloratura music. Today's program is especially interesting because of the Donizetti and Verdi excerpts included in it. These will give her a much needed opportunity to demonstrate once more the vocal fluency which made her performances in "Il Trovatore" memorable a few years ago.

Albert Hirsch, the young pianist who appeared at Orchestra hall a few weeks ago, is to play at Temple Emanuel on Wednesday evening. This is a change in date, since the original schedule called for his appearance tonight.

Margherita Salvi, a coloratura soprano who sang well and frequently with the Civic opera in pre-depression days, is to return to the stage of the Civic Opera house Saturday evening. She will be the Violetta in "La Traviata," supported by Lawrence Power as Germont fils and Angelo Pilotto as Germont père.

Music associated with the plays of Shakespeare will constitute the entire program of the Illinois Symphony orchestra at the Great Northern theater today. Albert Goldberg continues as guest conductor and Frederick Schweppe, baritone, will sing the "Credo" from Verdi's "Otello." The conductor of next Sunday's concert will be Henry Weber, musical director of station W-G-N and one of the conductors of the Chicago City Opera company.

A trio for oboe, viola, and piano by the late Charles Martin Loeffler, will be heard for the first time in Chicago at the winter concert of the University of Chicago symphony orchestra in Mandel hall on Friday evening. The executants of this chamber work will be Alfred Barthel, Robert Dolejsi, and Jean Williams. Under Carl Bricken's direction the orchestra is to play Sibelius' fourth symphony and several shorter works, including a transcription of Debussy's "Des Pas Sur la Neige," by Clarke Kessler, a member of the bassoon section of Dr. Stock's orchestra.

Beg Your Pardon

The story of Sono Osato in the Graphic Section of last Sunday's Tribune erroneously credited a Miss Harris with the instruction of the Japanese-American dancer. Miss Osato's teacher was Berenice Holmes.

VICTOR HIGHER FIDELITY RECORDING OF

THE CÉSAR FRANCK D MINOR SYMPHONY

Played by Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra

The only symphony by the man who wrote but one of each of the great musical forms—and made that one a shining pinnacle of beauty!

Perhaps no work of art has more poignantly expressed the questions and doubts that batter at the souls of men than this Symphony in D Minor by César Franck...and only genius as benign as his could have resolved its profound unrest into the triumphant emergence of truth in the radiant third movement.

Dr. Stokowski has given this work one of his deeply understanding interpretations...and Victor higher fidelity recording has encompassed its exquisiteness with complete reality.

GOOD Morning! Our morning for a final sendoff to February's "bests" and near-bests! May March winds blow us in a flock of other worthwhile movies!

"CHAMPAGNE WALTZ" made a hit in these parts. ". . . a champagne of a picture. Sparkling, exhilarating, and beautiful to behold. Musical comedy that is smart, tender, imaginative. Gladys Swarthout sings a number of songs charmingly and all in English . . . has a definitly pleasing personality and affects a distinctive and becoming style of dress. Fred MacMurray will slay the ladies. Jack Oakie funny. Veloz and Yolanda generous with their glamorous dancing. . . ."

"BLACK LEGION," featuring Humphrey Bogart, "has the ring of honest metal. Dwells on the activities of a hooded organization. The picture is an intensely interesting one, full of believable events, detailed in terse, dramatic fashion. Swell direction. . . ."

"MORE THAN A SECRETARY," with Jean Arthur and George Brent in the leads, was voted—"good fun. . . ."

"YOU ONLY LIVE ONCE"—The same sort of terrific suspense that characterized "Fury" dominates "You Only Live Once." "A bitter, probing study of criminology and law prosecution, powerfully directed and realistically acted. . . ." Sylvia Sidney and Henry Fonda are the featured players.

"STOLEN HOLIDAY"—"Kay Francis fans, particularly women, will enjoy this picture. Story is an interesting one, ably acted, and the production is starred with episodes showing gorgeous women in some of the most breath taking clothes. Miss Francis remains one of the most fascinating women on the screen. Ian Hunter is completely pleasing. A woman's picture that undoubtedly will set pretty well with the men."

"The Final Chord" German Musical Drama.

"SCHLUSSAKKORD." [The Final Chord.]—A German drama with music. Was awarded a prize as the world's best musical picture at the biennial exposition of motion picture films in Venice, 1936. "So well acted and directed that most folks could readily understand the story without the English titles. As for the music—beautiful!"

"BELOVED ENEMY"—"An ardent fictional version of the manner in which peace was restored between the Irish and the English in the days of 1921 . . . right good entertainment. . . . Merle Oberon and Brian Aherne a grand team. . . . The piece is effectively staged and photographed. . . ."

"On the Avenue" Is Snappy Musical Romance.

"ON THE AVENUE"—"Familiar as the morning milk bottles. Seems the mamma of most of your favorite ditties. [Irving Berlin, composer.] A musical romance . . . for the most part snappy. . . ." Features Madeleine Carroll, Alice Faye, Dick Powell, and Cora Witherspoon. "Spiffy staging and costumes."

"MICHAEL STROGOFF"—"Jules Verne's dramatic story localed in Russia of 1870 makes engrossing and tremendously exciting screen fare. It is superbly staged and directed. Good cast throughout. While this is primarily a man's picture, there are plenty of women who will go for it in a big way. I did."

"THE GOOD EARTH." Too long and I didn't care for Muni, BUT—"'The Good Earth' has sweep of scenery, conscientious attention to detail. It is vividly enlightening as to the ways and problems of the Chinese peasantry. Has moments of powerful drama, scenes that are deeply moving, and episodes that are thunderously exciting. Film triumph for Luise Rainer . . . magnificently photographed. . . ."

And a right bright Sunday to yez!
And hopin' the movies you sez
Will in some manner manage to plez.
[Aye, all of the "e's" are long ez]

See you soon.

"Follies" Record

THE "Ziegfeld Follies" ends its Chicago engagement on March 13. Its run [ten weeks] is the longest of a musical revue in seven years. It has stayed a week longer than the "Follies" of 1934.

The cities in which the "Ziegfeld Follies" will play after Chicago are Milwaukee [March 14 to 17], Indianapolis, Des Moines, Kansas City, St. Louis, and Detroit.

FEATURED IN "BREEZING HOME"

Wendy Barrie has an "air." Well, there's something about an ermine wrap that affects almost any woman that way. Miss Barrie is featured in "Breezing Home." (State-Lake.)

Guild Play

AS the fifth production of its nineteenth season, the Theater Guild has staged in New York "Storm Over Patsy," a comedy. The play was written by Bruno Frank and adapted from the German by James Bridie. It had a year's run in London.

Three of the leading players of the Guild's production appeared in the London version; they are Sara Allgood, Roger Livesey, and Ian McLean. Sara Allgood is a distinguished veteran of the Abbey theater of Dublin. Ian McLean is well known on the English stage; Roger Livesey is a popular English player who made his American debut as Mr. Horner in "The Country Wife."

The title, "Storm Over Patsy," is derived from the fact that a situation of major proportions arises as a result of a quarrel over a dog license. Patsy is a dog and one of the leading players in the comedy. Others in the cast are Leo G. Carroll, Brenda Forbes, Louis Hector, John Hoysradt, Clement O'Loghlen, Valerie Cossart, J. W. Austin, and A. J. Herbert.

Theater Owners

BROOK PEMBERTON and Antoinette Perry, the director of his productions, are now part owners of the Avon theater, New York. At the Avon, Pemberton presented the successful "Strictly Dishonorable" in September, 1929. Miss Perry had a financial interest.

Heiresses and Debs Find Crashing Films a Problem

Need for Hard Work Lessens Their Fervor

High Bids in 'Cinderella Town' Go for Talent Instead of 'Names.'

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.] Can a debutante or a girl with just money become a movie star? A great many have dropped plenty of dollars in the attractive slot machine of Hollywood fortune, but few have hit the jackpot.

Our earliest memories of society girls in films go back about thirteen years to the halcyon days when film society was encompassed by the four walls of the Montmartre café.

In that simple, but happy era, Thelma Morgan Converse, now Lady Furness, was making a bid for film work. The lady, who has since held top spot in the international circle so excoriated by the archbishop of Canterbury, made little dent on the film industry beyond forming a few close friendships which she renews whenever she revisits the film colony.

Through the years, social butterflies or heiresses have come to Hollywood lured by the flicker of film fame. Every year brings its crop. While film producers frequently are anxious to secure society girls for film work, professing to value their better cultivated voices and their obvious ability to act ladies since they are ladies, few indeed have displayed sufficient dramatic ability or the willingness to submit to the stringent working demands of studio life.

Merry Fahrney's Try at Films Was Failure.

A couple of years ago the tempestuous Merry Fahrney, granddaughter of Peter Fahrney, patent medicine millionaire, stormed the film capital. She played a small rôle for De Mille, but the skyrocket ended in a dull thud when Merry's publicity agent, hired to put her over, filed suit for the collection of her press agent fee. Merry found that film life wasn't her métier, and the producers never have missed her.

Virginia Pine [Peine] of Chicago has been in Hollywood for several years and, after a start playing a telephone girl, a very minor part in some Paramount production, she started to wait for George Raft's wife to divorce him so she could marry into the films if she couldn't get in any other way. However, the Raft romance seems to have capsized lately.

Hazel Forbes, glamorous tooth paste heiress by marriage, who was a beauty from the New York stage, landed an RKO-Radio contract a couple of years ago. She played several parts, but never got into the featured class.

Gloria Baker, half sister to Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, was on the verge of a contract at Columbia six months ago, but it did not materialize. She is still in Hollywood and she and her brother are popular socially there.

Lynne Gilbert of the Chicago Keeblers has made some headway in the films. At the moment she is the leading lady for Johnny Mack Brown in a serial at Universal.

Airplane Hijinks Do Marjorie Gage No Good.

Marjorie Gage, niece of Paul Block, publisher, has used her ability as a flier to aid her in crashing the film citadels. So far Marjorie has registered one "crash," but the film citadels, in spite of much publicity and numerous parties to the "right people," are still impregnable.

Jules Chaqueneau, New Yorker, has been much fêted by the film society coterie led by Constance Bennett. Chaqueneau took a film test for Universal in New York, but although it was successful and augured well for a contract, he has not, as yet, gotten one.

Jane Wyatt is one girl who has taken her film work seriously enough to arrive in Hollywood. Three years ago she left the New York stage to make "Great Expectations" and since then has forged ahead steadily. Her last leading rôle was with Ronald Colman in the recently released "Lost Horizon." Her marriage to Edgar Ward, author, also in New York society, resulted in her being reinstated in the social register. Miss Wyatt's family dates back to Jane's great-grandfather, who, according to a story which Miss Wyatt relishes, gave Albany, N. Y., to the Indians and then helped the colonial troops take it back again. That is the tale her mother, Euphemia Van Rensselaer Waddington Wyatt, tells.

Two years ago Rosemary Ames of Chicago was doing promisingly in films, and it looked as though another debutante would have the situation well in hand. However, she is out of the movies at present.

More than a Clever Press Agent Needed.

Two years ago a vivacious young lady, Kitty O'Dare, came to town with millions of turpentine and copper dollars. Born Flynn, she took the more romantic O'Dare for her name. She hired herself a circus press agent and a staf of Chinese house servants, originated the "Shim Sham" dance which she executed with great enthusiasm in a local movie house prolog, and gave parties at which many notables were present. With all of this, exactly nothing happened as far as getting into films was concerned. The young lady married Franklin Stevens, a big ice cream man, and left other ladies to be film stars.

Rosamond Pinchot of the celebrated Pinchot family worked in a couple of film rôles and got a contract at MGM, but became inactive in films and went back east.

Madeleine Short, Junior leaguer from Philadelphia and daughter of Harold V. Short, curling iron millionaire, came into films last year as a showgirl in "Anything Goes" at Paramount.

Patricia Havens-Monteagle, daughter of Mrs. Estelle Havens-Monteagle of Burlingame, a member of the San Francisco Junior league and "The Spinsters," signed a film contract to work at MGM during the making of "The Great Ziegfeld" as one of twenty-five selected beauties. She is now married to Roger Smart, also of social standing. The pair live in Hollywood and entertain at gay parties.

Not only the girls but also the men come to films from society. John Davis Lodge of the famous Cabot-Lodge family left law to get into the movies and for a couple of years did exceedingly well.

Fadeouts Seem Fate of Majority of Them.

Peter Hamilton, grandson of J. P. Morgan, came to Hollywood, but took a job in the financial offices of Paramount. Marion Wolfe, nephew of Barney Baruch, financier, worked as an extra in Carole Lombard's film "Love Before Breakfast."

A couple of years ago, Margot Sage, grand niece of Russell Sage, descendant of Eli Yale who founded Yale university, and daughter of the Ira Yale Sages II. of Atlanta, Ga., tried to crash films. She got a rôle in "Babes in Toyland," but seems to have faded out.

The famous Mrs. Clendenin-Ryan, heroine of court tilts with her husband of the well known New York Ryan family, tried to crash films, but with no success. Before her marriage to Ryan she was the countess Marie-Anne Wurmbrand Stuppach.

Another of the Baruch clan, Amalie Baruch, niece of Barney, essayed a film career in 1934, but was unsuccessful. Interestingly enough, her father, H. N. Baruch, oldest of the Baruch brothers, left a career as an actor to go into Wall street.

John Bryan, grandson of William J. Bryan a[illegible]son of Ruth Bryan Owens, who bore the name Bryan by wish of his maternal grandfather, recently has had several parts in movies.

Mary Beich, known in films as Mary Bovard, is the daughter of the candy millionaire. She is making a try at it now.

Ann Kresge of the 5 and 10 cent Kresges, is another ambitious one with millions to help her toward a possible career.

Pin-on Watches Having Revival on Summer Suits.

Pin-on watches to be worn on the lapels of your summer suit are the new vogue, reminiscent of the Gibson girl period when watches were attached to blouses by fleur de lis pins. They are being featured with costumes designed by Royer at Twentieth Century Fox for coming films.

Erik Rhodes, whom you will remember as the funny Italian who played with Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers in "The Gay Divorcée" has had such a run of French and Italian gesticulating parts that he has had to prove to outsiders who meet him that he is not really Italian. He was born Ernest Sharpe in Oklahoma City, Okla. Now playing the rôle of a Frenchman in "The Woman's Touch," with Miriam Hopkins, he sincerely hopes that it won't take three years to convince films fans he isn't French.

"LAST OF MRS. CHEYNEY"

Yes, sir, it's the glamorous Joan Crawford who's smiling at you from our movie page this morning. She plays the title role in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" at the Roosevelt theater. Supporting Miss Crawford in this opus are Robert Montgomery and William Powell.

"WE'RE ON THE JURY"

This pretty girl with the soft glints in her hair looks a bit like Gertrude Michaels, doesn't she? The name, however, is Louise Latimer—and she's seen as a member of the jury in "We're on the Jury." (Palace.)

Home for Arts to Be Built at Iowa College

Armstrong Hall, Cornell; Will Be Named for an Evanston Woman.

PROVISION for the three fine arts—music, drama, and the arts of form—will be made in the $160,000 building, unique of its kind, construction of which will begin on the Cornell college campus, Mount Vernon, Ia., this spring, according to H. J. Burgstahler, president of the college.

The building will be named the Armstrong Hall of Fine Arts in honor of the late Mrs. Blanche Swingley Armstrong of Evanston, Ill. W. J. Brown of Cedar Rapids, Ia., is the architect.

Armstrong hall will be built of brick and stone in colonial architecture, three stories high on the west and four stories high on the east. It will contain an art exhibition hall, library, and theater equipped for sound films—all air conditioned and sound proofed.

The theater on the ground floor, seating 420 persons, will have a stage 30 feet deep and 72 feet wide. Grouped around the theater will be scene painting, dressing, and makeup rooms, a theater lounge, a music classroom, the director's office, and studios for music and costume design.

The art exhibition room will dominate the first floor. Artificially lighted, two stories high, it will occupy the center of the building. Near it will be the fine arts library with space for approximately 10,000 volumes. With the library will be a separate picture room, a study, and two music audition rooms for the playing of a library of phonograph records.

The building will also contain art and music classrooms, two teaching studios, nine sound proofed music studios, and a clay modeling and kiln room.

CONFIRMING observations made by W. Buengler, bits of tumor tissue, liver, abdominal muscle, and lymph nodes taken from mice of the cancer or tumor strain by J. E. Davis of the University of Chicago consumed less oxygen than similar tissue taken from mice of a noncancer strain. Along with the lower oxygen consumption of the tissues of their bodies, the cancer strain mice had larger livers, few red blood cells, less hemoglobin, and lower red cell volume. These mice also had more calcium in their soft tissue.

Mr. Davis expresses the opinion that these differences are not the result of cancer but predispose to it. These, and possibly other factors, make up the tumor disposition. He concludes that in the cancer strain mice the presence of calcium in the tissues suffering from oxygen deficiency may have been the deciding factor as to whether a tumor would or would not result.

W. CARSON RYAN, member of the staf of Carnegie Foundation, has been elected president of the Progressive Education association. Named as executive vice president was Carleton Washburn, a superintendent of schools at Winnetka. Mr. Ryan, in explanation of the changes taking place in educational methods, pointed out that assigning the best teachers to the best pupils produced the best results.

"The best teachers in school systems are assigned to the 'difficult' students," said Mr. Ryan. "They work with their pupils in an ideal atmosphere and they bring out the best. If such tactics bring the best out of the 'worst' why should not similar tactics bring more out of 'nondifficult' students? The answer is, they do; hence the change occurring in methods."

LATIN, as at present integrated in formal curriculum, is doomed to the same fate as Greek, according to Orville C. Pratt, president of the National Education association.

"Latin as taught today," said Mr. Pratt to school superintendents last week in session at New Orleans, "can be justified only as mental discipline, and is on a par with the memorizations of nonsense syllables. Unless the chief purpose of teaching Latin is speedily shifted from mental discipline which it cannot give to culture which it might give if properly taught, Latin is doomed to disappear, as did Greek, from the field."

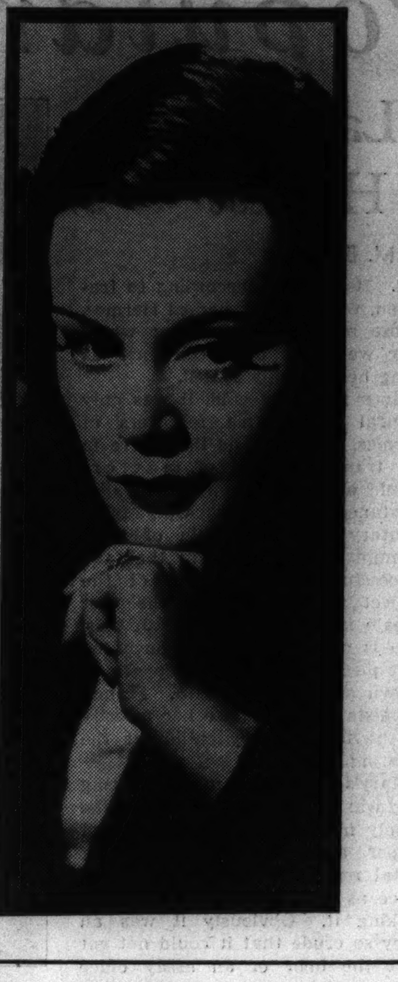
A MEMORIAL to Myrtie Stevens Bennett, late president of the Wilson and Bennett Manufacturing company, 6532 South Menard avenue, will be erected at Frances Shimer Junior college, Mount Carroll, according to Raymond B. Culver, president of the college. The memorial, "The Myrtie Stevens Bennett Hall," will be completed by commencement with funds provided by Mrs. Bennett's children.

Japan Broadcasting corporation has allocated $1,500,000 for television research during 1937. A laboratory, to house the experiments of Takayanagi, reported to be 90 per cent successful in experiments to use a daylight television receiver instead of the present fluorescent light, will be completed this month.

The quadrennial Old English May Day, produced by the faculty and students of Earlham college, Richmond, Ind., will be held Friday, May 7. Under the title "Revels on the Village Green," there will be presented for the first time by any college in the United States an authentic reproduction of a typical festival of the Elizabethan era. The program, which occupies four hours and calls for a cast of 500, will be directed by Clara Comstock, dean of women, and Edwin P. Trueblood will serve as general chairman.

North Central Music Educators' sixth biennial conference will meet in Minneapolis April 4 to 9, for concerts, a choral festival, and musical clinics, and to participate in forum discussions on the latest developments of music education technique. More than 1,500 teachers and executives from the middle and northwest states are expected to attend. Presiding at the general sessions will be Mrs. Carol M. Pitts, director of music in the Omaha, Neb., Central High school.



"I PROMISE TO PAY"

This pensive looking brunette is Helen Mack, who plays the feminine lead in "I Promise to Pay" (Oriental). Chester Morris and Leo Carrillo are also featured in the film.

Comic Opera Singer Served in Great War

DARRELL FANCOURT, bass-baritone of the D'Oyly Carte Opera company, was destined for Cambridge university and the British army, but music was in his blood, because of influences in his home life. Therefore he studied under Lilli Lehman and other European vocal teachers instead of under Cambridge "dons." In 1914 he was established as a concert singer in Germany, and returned to England shortly before the outbreak of the world war.

The war nearly ruined Fancourt's career. He served with the Artists Rifles, a territorial regiment composed of actors, singers, writers, artists, and public school men, whose officers were always promoted from the ranks. Later he was transferred to the 6th London regiment, and then to the Intelligence corps, where as a staf lieutenant he was German document officer, because of his proficiency in foreign languages.

He had little time for singing, except at regimental concerts. Invalided home with rheumatic fever, he was unable to return to concert work for over a year. In 1920, however, he sang at concerts under Sir Henry Wood; and in the Enoch Ballad concerts, Sunday symphonies at Queen's hall, and in recitals in Manchester and Liverpool.

He was engaged by Sir Thomas Beecham for the 1920 season at the Covent Garden Opera house, London, to sing Chaliapin's rôle in "Prince Igor." Then Rupert D'Oyly Carte, looking for some one to replace Frederick Hobbs [who was leaving the D'Oyly Carte company to play in Australia], sent his representative to negotiate with Fancourt's agent. At a private audition D'Oyly Carte heard Fancourt sing "Les Couplets de Vulcan" from "Philemon et Baucisse" and "The Yeomen of England." [Frederick Hobbs, who formerly sang the rôles of "Sergeant Meryll," "The Pirate King," "The Mikado," "Giuseppe," etc., is now the company manager.]

Fancourt regards Sergeant Meryll in "The Yeomen of the Guard" as the most difficult part in the Gilbert and Sullivan répertoire because the character is almost continuously on the stage. He characterizes Sergeant Meryll as the "Chinese property man of Gilbert and Sullivan," who takes money off the stage, fetches a certificate, carries off Shabolt's keys, brings the keys back again, brings on a halberd, gives the halberd to "Fairfax"; takes it away again, etc., ad infin-

Alchemy, Now Laughed At, Once Was Honest

By DR. THOMAS M. BECK

ABOUT ten years ago Erich von Ludendorff, the most brilliant of Germany's World war generals, was approached by one Franz Tausend, a man with an interesting proposition. Backed by sufficient financing, Tausend believed that he could convert certain cheap chemicals into gold. Ludendorff turned over to him a large part of his savings. When the anticipated profits of the scheme failed to materialize Ludendorff and the other investors had Tausend arrested.

From his cell Tausend indignantly demanded an opportunity to prove his innocence of any attempt to deceive. For the sake of justice he was allowed to demonstrate his process in the laboratories of the German mint. He was supplied with chemicals of tested purity, which he handled only in the presence of a jury of chemists. He ignited a mixture of lime, mercury, sodium, and potassium and cooked this with lead chloride. When he got through the chemists analyzed his product and found it contained a few grains of gold, which apparently had been produced at a cost of only $2 a pound.

The chemists were astounded, since this was quite the reverse of what existing chemical theory would predict. Scarcely less surprising was the fact that Herr Tausend had never studied chemistry, but was a plumber by trade, and a none too competent one.

Fortunately for the gold standard, however, it was found that Tausend had previously inserted a wad of gold leaf into one of his cigarets and had flicked the ash into the crucible. As a result of this finding the rascal was sent to prison.

This is not an isolated case. In 1898 a certain English Jack-of-all-trades by the name of Stephen Emmens announced the discovery of a method of converting silver into an alloy of silver and gold. To prove it he sent a brick of the alloy, which he claimed to have made, to the American assay office, which verified its gold content. Backed by this success, he sold stock in his project and paid dividends on the stock by selling more stock. He got into trouble when the authorities found that he was really unable to make gold.

In 1867 the Emperor Franz Josef of Austria-Hungary conferred with three suave persons, the Conde de Fresno y Landres, Col. Jiminez de la Rosa, and Father Roccatani. These three pointed out that there was lots of gold in California, and also a large amount of silver, mercury, and California sunshine. Obviously the gold must have been formed by the action of sunshine on the other two metals, and the three men had found a way in which Austrian sunshine could be used to bring this change about.

The emperor gave them a grant of money and told them to demonstrate their process under close supervision. They set the chemists to heating certain chemicals for a prolonged period. After four months the material was analyzed and no gold was found, but the three men had disappeared and were never heard from again. Subsequent investigation revealed that the names they gave were not their real ones.

Yet the chemists who exposed these swindlers hardly could show any great indignation at them. In fact, they should have been more than a little reverent, since they were seeing their science as it once was. The science of chemistry is a direct descendant of the medieval science of alchemy, the principal activity of which was the attempt to transmute base metals into gold.

The science, if we may call it that, had its origin about 2,000 years ago in the cosmopolitan city of Alexandria at the mouth of the Nile, where Greek philosophy first came into contact with Egyptian technology. Its founder, according to tradition, was a Greek named Hermes, whose name we still honor whenever we speak of a container as being hermetically sealed.

Since men love gold, it was only natural that the followers of Hermes, interested as they were in the transformations of matter, should attempt to convert cheaper substances into gold. Only fragmentary records remain of their attempts, but it appears that the successful accomplishment of the project was claimed by the first female scientist, Mary the Jewess, who is also said to have invented that piece of laboratory apparatus known as the water bath. French chemists still recognize her priority in the invention by calling it the bain marie.

Mary's method of manufacturing gold was not very complicated. She simply melted up equal weights of copper and gold. The resulting metal resembled gold and weighed twice as much as the gold used in making it. Obviously it was an alloy so crude that it could not get past the door of an assay office today, and even at that time probably did not fool any of the experts at the imperial mint. Still we can hardly believe that Mary and her colleagues were guilty of intentional deception. The very fact that she published her method is proof of her sincerity.

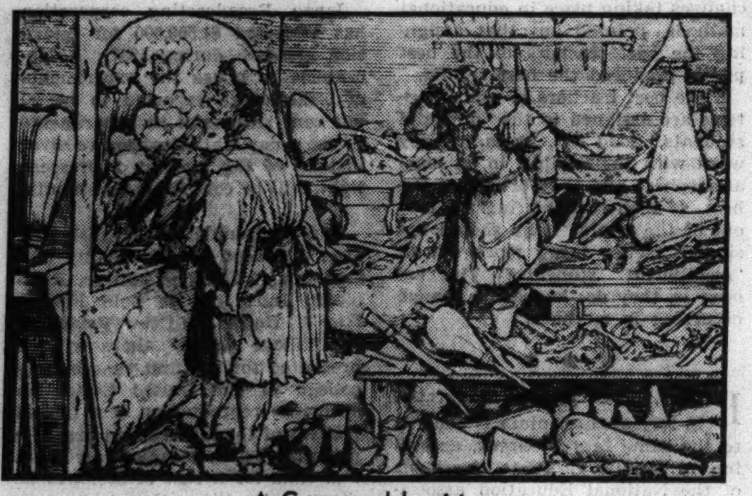
Shipment of gold bullion valued at $45,000,000. It was the search for synthetic gold that led to the foundation of chemistry.

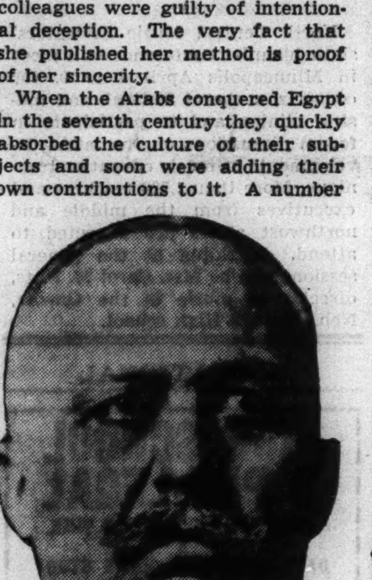


A German alchemist.

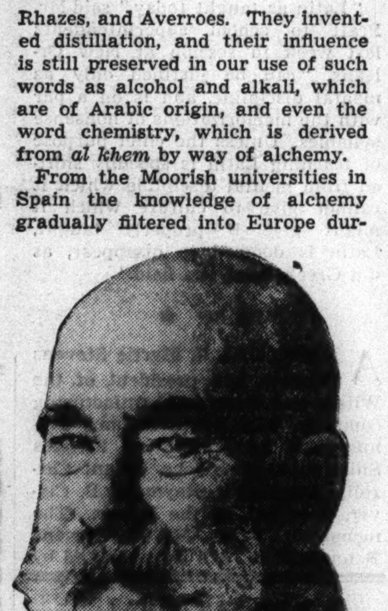
When the Arabs conquered Egypt in the seventh century they quickly absorbed the culture of their subjects and soon were adding their own contributions to it. A number of Arab scholars became interested in this science of transforming matter and gave it the name of al khem, which has been variously translated as "the black art" or "the Egyptian art."

By the tenth century the Arabs and Moors had cornered most of the world's culture and numbered among their scholars such great alchemists as Geber, Avicenna, Rhazes, and Averroes. They invented distillation, and their influence is still preserved in our use of such words as alcohol and alkali, which are of Arabic origin, and even the word chemistry, which is derived from al khem by way of alchemy.

From the Moorish universities in Spain the knowledge of alchemy gradually filtered into Europe during the early middle ages. Inasmuch as the knowlege of reading and writing was limited almost exclusively to the clergy, the church at first supplied almost all of the alchemists. Among the greatest of the early European alchemists, Roger Bacon was a Franciscan monk, Albertus Magnus and Thomas Aquinas were Dominican friars, and Arnoldus Villanovanus was a professor at the University of Barcelona.



Gen. Erich von Ludendorff, who financed a proposition for turning cheap chemicals into gold. It didn't work.



The old Emperor Franz Josef of Austria-Hungary, who was swindled by a scheme for making gold through the use of sunshine.

During its centuries of travel from Egypt to Europe alchemy underwent certain modifications. It was no longer primarily a study of the nature of matter, but had become a search for two hypothetical substances, the elixir of life and the philosopher's stone. The former was an essence supposedly capable of giving its user eternal youth. The latter, the object of far greater interest, was a material that could change base metals into gold.

It is not correct to assume that the medieval alchemists were fakers like the man who swindled General von Ludendorff. For the most part they were honest and intelligent scientists who were simply following a mistaken idea. Their beliefs were quite reasonable in view of the knowledge available at the time.

They argued somewhat in this manner: Is the change of lead into gold any more remarkable than the change of a seed into a tree? It is known that the properties of gold can be changed by alloying it with baser metals; is it not possible that the baser metals are gold contaminated with impurities? The Creator does not produce an adult man all at once, but allows him to develop from infancy; is it not likely that he would similarly allow gold, the noblest of metals, to evolve to its present state by way of the less noble metals?

During the nineteenth century it was more fashionable to smile at the futile efforts of the alchemists, because it was then believed that the various elements, including lead and gold, were incapable of being converted into each other. Now we know that under certain conditions the atoms of one element can change into those of another, although such conversions probably never will be industrially practical. Ironically enough, the product of such changes is frequently lead, but never gold.

The medieval alchemists did not enjoy a very high social standing. It was popularly believed that they consorted with demons in their efforts to learn the secrets of nature. Moreover, as time went on the profession was afflicted with an increasing number of charlatans, more adept at extracting gold from the pockets of gullible patrons than from lead. Consequently alchemy was officially frowned upon by both church and state.

Men of keen scientific abilities, like Bacon and Aquinas and Raymond Lully, were compelled to keep their scientific interest as secret as possible. Bacon, one of the greatest scientists of all time, was threatened with imprisonment by Oxford university unless he ceased experimenting. The Dominican order prohibited the study of alchemy among its members. In 1404 all alchemists were ordered to leave England, although this edict never was thoroughly enforced. On another occasion a certain duke of Württemberg, who probably had been fleeced, erected a special gallows for the exclusive use of alchemists. Appropriately, the frame was gilded.

Because of the need of secrecy, and because they believed that the common knowledge of how to make gold would do away with the divinely ordained poverty of the masses, the alchemists either kept notes in code or described their experiments in a fantastic jargon that both amuses and exasperates translators.

For instance, they called gold the red lion, silver the lily bride, sulphur the yellow scorpion, mercury the dragon, and lead the black crow. Some of their terms exist at the present time—aqua regia (royal water), sal ammoniac (salt of Ammon), oleum (oil of vitriol), sugar of lead, butter of antimony, and cream of tartar. A typical alchemist, in describing the dissolving of gold by a mixture of nitric and hydrochloric acids, might say, "The raging lion devoureth the sun," the meaning of which is as obscure as that of certain present-day patents.

And yet we owe a great debt to the alchemists. Short of money and harassed by authority, they pursued a goal that always seemed just a little ahead of them; a quest all the more pathetic because it was hopeless.

Living on crusts in order to buy charcoal for their furnaces, and clay crucibles and stills that were always breaking, they distilled and calcined everything on which they could lay their hands, even such odd materials as snakes, dog milk, and human brains. They discovered sulphuric acid by distilling copperas, alcohol by distilling wine, alum by calcining a mixture of clay, sulphuric acid, and salt, phosphorus by distilling dried urine and sand, and formic acid by distilling ants. From their failures has grown the modern science of chemistry.

Since we like happy endings, it is appropriate to mention that the last great alchemist found gold, but not in the way he expected. Around 1700 Johann Friedrich Böttger persuaded Augustus, the elector of Saxony, to finance his alchemical researches in return for a share of the gold produced. Results were not forthcoming as quickly as the elector desired, so Böttger was locked in his laboratory with orders to make gold within a certain time or else suffer an unpleasant fate.

Böttger's ingenuity was greatly stimulated. As the deadline approached he gave up gold making, invented hard fired porcelain, and persuaded the elector to accept this discovery instead. As a result Böttger became one of the richest men in Saxony and Dresden china established a reputation for excellence which it has held to this day.

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

Rat Killing a Real Job for Terrier

FOR many decades terriers of various breeds have been used as vermin destroyers. Pick up any history of dogs or the work of an old dog authority and you find much space given to the terriers and how valuable they were to kill rats and other vermin. Even today the English use terriers in ways that would surprise the average American terrier owner, because down through the years has come this custom of working terrier breeds in the field against small animal pests.

For years we have held the idea that it would be much better for our American terriers if they had more work to do. It has seemed a pity to us that dogs which like to do something useful are given no chance to exercise their talents. Actual work in the field means that terrier qualities of keenness, pluck, ability, and courage would be sharpened instead of dulled. And there is plenty of work to be done by our terriers if they are used in just one big field of activity in this country—rat extermination around the home, farm, and estate.

Common rats are considered the most destructive small animals in the world. They carry on unceasingly their work of destruction and transmitting diseases. The damage that rats do to property in the United States alone amounts to anywhere from $200,000,000 to $500,000,000 a year. It is reported that every farm in the United States suffers an average loss of from $35 to $80 a year due to rats. Wholesale and retail markets and warehouses suffer great losses. Repulsive, dirty, a contaminator as well as a destroyer of food and a carrier of many virulent diseases, the rat deserves no mercy. The health problem caused by rats is a story in itself. Terriers that are real ratters could earn their board and keep many times over if they were put to work exterminating rats in every possible place. As the United States department of agriculture has pointed out:

"A good rat dog is almost indispensable on farms, where buildings offer ideal quarters for rats. Small terrier dogs, particularly when taught to hunt by themselves, will often keep a farm free from rats."

The Irish terrier is one of the many breeds of terriers that like the job of exterminating vermin. Most of the terrier breeds have been used for that purpose for many decades. Here are four Irish terriers that look ready for anything from a rat to a woodchuck. (Tribune photo.)

Such work is fun for a dog, because terrier breeds have been bred for vermin extermination for many decades. They like to do it. When we turned to "The Dog," by William Youatt, a delightful and complete treatise on dogs that first was brought out in 1846, we found this reference to the early work of the terriers as ratters:

"The terrier is, however, a valuable dog in the house and on the farm. The stoat, the polecat, and the weasel commit many depredations in the fields, barn, and granary; and to a certain extent the terrier is employed to chase them or destroy them; but it is not often that he has a fair chance to attack them. He is more frequently used in combating the rat.

"The mischief effected by rats is almost incredible. It has been said that in some cases, in the article of corn, these animals consume a quantity of food equal to the rent of the farm. Here the dog is usefully employed."

Youatt mentions Billy, one terrier that killed 100 large rats in eight and one-half minutes.

There are many breeds that make good ratters. Years ago the little English black-and-tan terriers won great fame as rat killers. Wire and smooth fox terriers also make good ratters. We know of a little toy smooth fox terrier on a farm that spends hours hunting woodchucks, rats, moles, and other vermin. It does pretty well until it mixes with a skunk! Schnauzers, Kerry Blues, Scotties, Irish and Welsh terriers, Sealyham terriers, and others also have the zest and the courage for vermin extermination. Today you can read about many of these breeds still being used on vermin hunts in the old country.

One of the most interesting accounts of how terriers like to kill rats and can be used to exterminate these destroyers of farm produce is found in a recent issue of the English magazine Our Dogs. This particular report concerns a pack of small Sealyhams owned by Mrs. M. M. Phillips. She tells how she heard that some wheat stacks were being threshed close to her home. So she took six of her small Sealies over there. They killed 100 rats that were eating the grain in one of the stacks. A few days later she received another call to bring her dogs. This time she took nine. The keepers on the place added two more terriers to the pack. Out of one wheat stack the terriers killed 647 rats, about half of them full grown!

"All of the dogs were scarred and bitten," Mrs. Phillips reports.

What wouldn't we have given to have been close to this wheat stack so we could have watched the terriers at work, because we have wanted for a long time to see a smart, fast ratting terrier at work.

Hundreds of thousands of dog fanciers know the terriers as amusing, faithful companions. But this report of the English terrier pack shows how terriers also may be more than companion dogs on farms, estates, or around the average home. They may be useful, working members of the family, doing their share to solve the rat problem.

We have become so interested in this angle of terrier activity that we recently queried a number of breeders about using terriers in ratting and other vermin extermination. All of them without exception stated that they felt it would be for the good of the breeds to have more terriers at work.

We are hoping that some way will be found whereby ratters of various breeds may demonstrate their ability on farms.

An old type of Scottish terrier that was a ratter. This quaint old picture was taken from "The Dog," by William Youatt, originally published in 1846.

The Sealyham terrier is another good ratting terrier. It also has been used extensively in badger hunting in England. The dog is Champion Redlands Defiance, owned by Bob Becker.

What's New in World of Airplanes and Air Transportation

Chicago Man Designs New Amphibian

By WAYNE THOMIS

THE drawings reproduced on this page are those of an amphibian airplane designed by a Chicago man for long-range ocean transport operations. While no one can be certain of the performance of any airplane until the machine has been built and flown, all wind tunnel tests and engineering calculations indicate that this plane should have an outstanding performance, with the most economical cruising speed well above 200 miles an hour and an extraordinary load-carrying capacity.

Names of the designer and the men who are backing him in negotiations which may lead to the construction of the ship are not available to this writer for publication. They have, however, turned over a full report on the wind tunnel tests of their plane—tests made in one of the tunnels of a middle-western university engineering school of recognized authority.

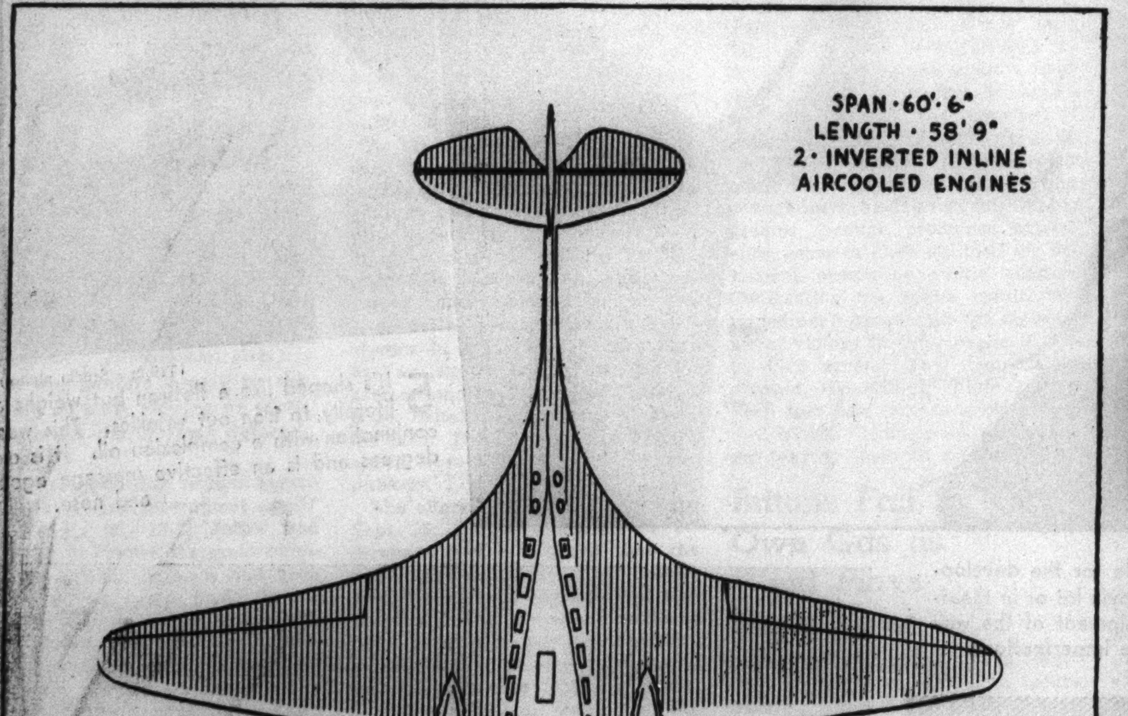
This report—intentionally conservative, as the testing engineers acknowledge—is so extraordinary as to merit attention. It reveals the possible performance of an airplane in which all the knowledge of aerodynamics now available to engineers is utilized. Considered only in the light of what may soon be accomplished in building commercial and military flying boats of perfectly streamlined form, the report is newsworthy.

A direct quotation from the report follows:

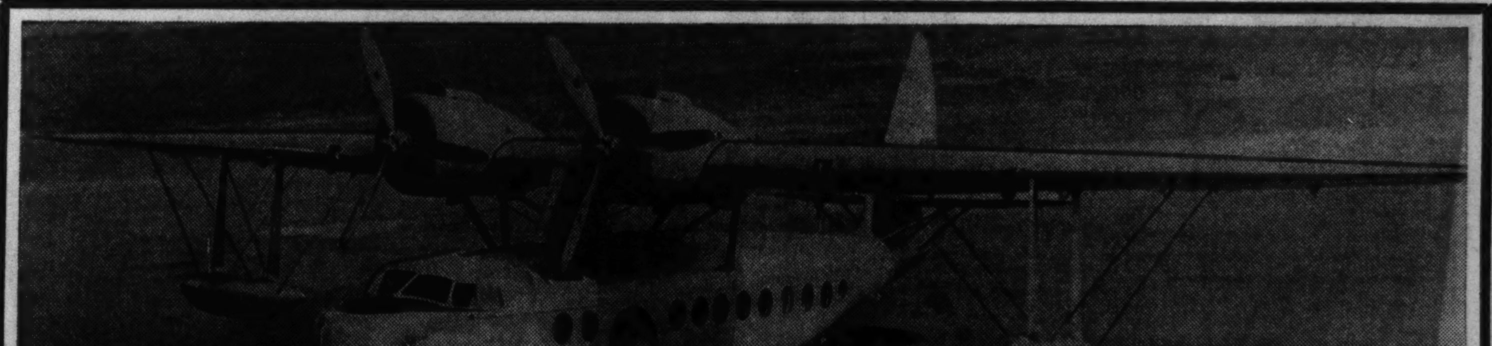
"This model [the model of the machine shown in the drawings] is a revised design of previous models tested in the wind tunnel whose characteristics are described in reports submitted to the designers and dated Aug. 7, 1935, and Oct. 23, 1935. On the basis of earlier tests and to incorporate new design features, certain modifications in the design had been made, and the purpose of the present tests was to determine the effect of these changes on the speed and stability characteristics of the airplane."

After determining certain lift, drag, stalling, and stability coefficients the engineers utilized their results to calculate the performance of the full-scale airplane, represented by the model, made to a scale of three-quarters of an inch to a foot. They found that a full-scale machine of 10,920 pounds gross weight, 610 square feet of wing area, 60.5 feet in wing span, and with two in-line V type inverted air cooled motors (maximum brake horsepower 1,900 at 10,000 feet), mounted in the leading edge of the wings, would perform as follows:

At sea level, with a maximum horsepower of 1,900, it would have a maximum speed of 258 miles an hour, and with a cruising horsepower of 1,500 a cruising speed of 238 miles an hour; at 5,000 feet, with 1,900 horsepower it would have a maximum speed of 271 miles an hour and with 1,500 horsepower a cruising speed of 250 miles an hour; at 10,000 feet, with 1,900 horsepower it would have a maximum speed of 285 miles an hour and with 1,500 horsepower a cruising speed of 262 miles an hour. Its landing speed at sea level, with flaps, would be 60 miles an hour, and without flaps 70 miles an hour. Its service ceiling would be 32,000 feet, its absolute ceiling 34,000 feet, and its initial rate of climb 3,000 feet a minute at sea level.



Two-view drawing of the W-14, an amphibian of radical design, for which high speeds are anticipated. It was designed by a Chicagoan and represents the last word in streamlining.



The proved Sikorsky S-43 amphibion, which, with power slightly less than that planned for the W-14, carries a 6,430-pound useful load at 200 miles an hour. (Acme photo.)

Examination of the drawings shows that the model, which is designated W-14, is a flying boat type of midwing monoplane. The wings are braced entirely from within and rise at a considerable dihedral angle from their roots, which are located just above the water line on the hull. These wings taper in both thickness and width from wide roots to an extremely thin and narrow tip.

Lateral stability has been gained by changing the wing section from the roots to the tip so that a stall occurs at the roots first. This, along with the dihedral, makes the airplane extremely stable at all speeds up to and beyond the stall.

Of longitudinal stability the report says:

"Tests on previous models disclosed the desirable effects of a relatively high location of the horizontal tail surfaces on longitudinal stability. On the model W-14 the tail was set comparatively high above the wing chord and hence was out of the wing wake.

"The criterion for satisfactory longitudinal stability is that the slope of the moment curve must be equal to or negatively greater than —0.15. For a location of the center of gravity at the 28 per cent point on the mean aerodynamic chord the value of this slope was —0.17 for the case of flaps off and —0.185 for flaps down, indicating satisfactory longitudinal stability in both cases."

The W-14 is designed for all-metal construction, with stressed skin on both hull and wings. Its empty weight is calculated to be 5,400 pounds and its useful load to be 5,520 pounds, or better than 100 per cent of the empty weight. Only one other flying boat ever built—the Glenn L. Martin ocean clipper used by Pan American Airways—ever achieved this efficiency ratio.

The wing loading of the W-14 is only 17.3 pounds a square foot, which is unusually light for any modern boat, and this light wing loading accounts for the relatively low landing speeds both with and without flaps. The Martin clipper has a wing loading of 22 pounds, the Sikorsky S-42 clipper has a wing loading of 29.9 pounds, while many late land planes have wing loadings of 24 pounds or more.

While a high wing loading produces speed and comfort in the air, it also produces high landing speeds, which for the Martin with full gross load are between 75 and 80 miles an hour. The Martin clipper was qualified for the air commerce bureau's commercial license through the use of dump valves so that a great weight of gasoline could be dropped should a forced landing be necessary when the ship is fully loaded.

One of the most radical elements of the W-14 is the fact that no wing tip floats or "water wings" are provided by the designers to balance the ship when it is at rest or taxiing on water at speeds below those at which ailerons would be effective.

The designer instead has made his wings water-tight in themselves and has set them at such a dihedral angle that as the boat heels over on either side the roots of the wing dip and counterbalance any rolling. At the roots the wings are extremely wide and should provide unusual buoyancy. This system has worked well in certain water tank tests.

Below the wing roots the W-14 is similar to any other large flying boat, with a two-step bottom much like those of the Martin and Sikorsky clippers. The landing wheels will be tucked out of the way for water alighting and while the ship is in the air. They will fold into the lower surface of the wing.

The fastest twin-engined amphibian flying today is the Sikorsky S-43, powered with two 800-horsepower Wright Cyclones or Pratt & Whitney Hornets. This boat weighs 19,000 pounds, as against the calculated weight of 10,000 pounds odd for the W-14, but carries only 6,430 pounds of useful load, as against a calculated 5,520 for the W-14.

Top speed for the S-43 is just under 200 miles an hour. It cruises at 169 miles an hour on about 80 per cent full throttle. These speeds can be compared with the 285 top speed and 262 cruising speed of the W-14, which has 200 more horsepower in its twin engines.

The W-14's designer proposes to use a Menasco engine which has been built for the navy. This is a six-cylinder in-line air cooled motor which produces 150 horsepower per cylinder at maximum revolutions. This engine is not on the commercial market at this time but may be released later.

Italy Declares War on Her Ancient Foe, Austria

● This, the sixth instalment of Liddell Hart's thrilling history of the World war, which has just appeared in book form under the title "The War in Outline 1914-1918," brings events down to the beginning of 1916. Previous instalments carried the account of the conflict through Britain's ill-fated Gallipoli campaign and the 1915 defeats of the Russians on the eastern front.

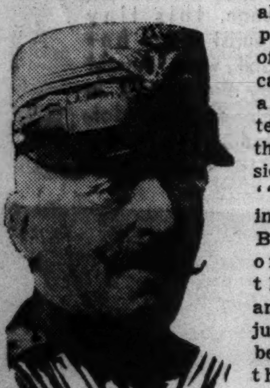
AUSTRIA'S attempted invasion of Serbia in August and September and again in November, 1914, had been brusquely repulsed by Serbian counterstrokes. The Serbian infantry were born fighters, but the lack of modern equipment hampered them in following up their successes. Throughout the first nine months of 1915 they stood idle.

One of the most astonishing "blind spots" in French and British strategy was its failure to see the importance of Serbia as an irritation and consequent distraction to the Austro-German alliance in a most sensitive region. The injury which the "Spanish ulcer" inflicted on the Napoleonic forces might now have been repeated by the "Serbian ulcer" in sapping the Teutonic strength. To maintain the irritation, quality rather than quantity of aid was needed from Serbia's allies—the provision of technical troops and material. But the obsession with "mass" interfered. Because of this theory and, more justifiably, because of the difficulty of communications unless the Danube route was opened, the military leaders in the west were unwilling to send large forces; they could see no means between this and sending practically nothing. By their neglect they allowed the enemy to operate on the Serbian ulcer, with results that would cause cumulative trouble to themselves.



Gen. Luigi Cadorna had mountains as well as machine guns to bar his path.

On Aug. 6, 1915, the Austro-German striking force under Gen. August von Mackensen crossed the Danube. A week later the Bulgarian armies struck westward into southern Serbia across the defenders' rear. Sturdy resistance and the natural difficulty of the mountainous country delayed the invaders, thwarting their efforts to cut off the Serbians. But the Bulgarian advance had cut the line of retreat to or help from Salonika. Isolated and hard pressed, the Serbians were driven to retreat west through Albania. Those who survived the hardships of this midwinter retreat over the mountains were conveyed to the Island of Corfu. In the spring of 1916, after being reorganized and reëquipped, they joined the forces of the entente at Salonika.

The conquest of Serbia relieved Austria of danger on her southern frontier, opened communication with Turkey, and gave Germany control over a huge central belt from the North sea and the Baltic to the Tigris.

Moreover, by digging themselves in at Salonika the Allies had dug a strategic sump pit for themselves; for three years it would be a drain on their military resources, although in the end it would overflow and wash away one of the props of the central powers. In late September the imminence of a combined Austro-German attack on Serbia with Bulgaria's assistance had become clear to the British and French governments. Sir Edward Grey (head of the British foreign office) declared in the house of commons: "We are prepared to give our friends in the Balkans all the support in our power . . . without reserve and without qualification." But Joffre and Sir John French would still impose fresh qualifications before parting with any of their reserves. Although Joffre had previously promised to spare some for the Mediterranean after his September offensive, if it failed, now that it had failed he tried to wriggle out of his promise. Meantime one British and one French division were taken from Gallipoli and sent to Salonika, arriving on Oct. 5. Even then they were slow to advance. Difficulties had arisen with Greece, which was now thoroughly suspicious of the entente policy and impressed by the German successes. The British government thereupon took the attitude that they had only sent troops to enable Greece to fulfill her obligations to Serbia, and at first refused to let their troops advance. Joffre now turned a somersault, much to the astonishment of the British command, and urged the necessity of sending more troops to Salonika.

At the end of October the French relief force under Gen. Maurice Sarrail, now reinforced by two more divisions, pressed up the Vardar across the Serbian frontier—only to find that the Bulgarian wedge had separated it from the Serbians. Too late to be of service, it was itself endangered when the Bulgarians turned upon it, and early in December fell back on Salonika. The British, now raised to five divisions, helped in covering the retreat.

On military grounds the evacuation of Salonika was vigorously urged by Gen. William Robertson, the new head of the British general staf, but the French were now no less strongly in favor of staying; their influence, backed by political reasons, settled the issue. The forces were swollen by the arrival of Italian and Russian contingents as well as by the rebuilt Serbian army. But Robertson, foiled of his desire to withdraw, thereafter steadily withheld the means necessary to enable the British contingent to play its part adequately in an offensive there. Apart from the capture of Monastir in November, 1916, and an abortive attack in April, 1917, the ill-mixed army in Macedonia, which rose to half a million men, made no serious offensive until the autumn of 1918. On their side the Germans were content to leave it in peace under guard of the Bulgarians. With pointed sarcasm they termed Salonika their "largest internment camp."

The history of the first two years of the war centers largely on the whims of General Joffre. Always predicting an early victory, he sacrificed thousands of men in a vain effort to break the German defense.

On Sept. 25, 1915, Joffre had launched in France the great offensive for which so much had been sacrificed. This, too, made its not inconsiderable addition to the bill. Joffre's plan was to strike a two-handed blow against the sides of the huge salient formed by the German lines in northern France. Gen. Edouard Castelnau's army was to strike in Champagne; Foch was to strike near Arras, with the British coöperating on his left, toward Loos. A break-through in these two sectors was to be followed by a general advance which "would compel the Germans to retreat beyond the Meuse and possibly end the war." The original idea was that Foch's should be the principal blow.

Airplanes were used to drop food to the British garrison in Kut-el-Amara, where a Turkish siege finally forced a surrender on April 29, 1916.

When Joffre sent his draft plan to the British in June, Sir Douglas Haig, whose army would have to carry it out, objected that their supply of heavy guns and shells was still inadequate to justify such an ambitious offensive. He also declared that the proposed sector was not a favorable one for attack. But Joffre, from his remote headquarters, brushed these objections aside, declaring that it was "particularly favorable ground." Sir John French then thought to evade the difficulty by coöperating with artillery fire alone. Gen. Henry Wilson, discovering his chief's intention, betrayed it to the French headquarters, who thereupon appealed to Kitchener, throwing out alarming hints that unless the British gave full help Joffre would be displaced and the French politicians would make peace. Kitchener thereupon insisted that French must do his utmost.

As he had so often expressed his view that the western front was impregnable, Kitchener's reversal of attitude was curious. One factor was apparently his thought—if hardly a reasoned thought—that it might aid the Russians, then staggering under repeated blows. Another factor is suggested by the disclosure in the official history that he "anticipated a call" to take supreme command of the Allied forces when Britain's full strength was in the field. If he opposed the French appeal now that call would become unlikely.

The offensive was finally fixed for Sept. 25, and at a conference beforehand Joffre declared that the simultaneous attacks in two sectors were "a certain guarantee of success" and that he was "confident of a great and possibly complete victory." The cavalry were moved up, with orders to "make a relentless pursuit without waiting for the infantry, and with the frontier as their objective." Joffre's plan definitly sacrificed surprise to the destruction of the enemy's defenses, the assault being preceded by a bombardment lasting four days. Its chances were improved by Falkenhayn, who disbelieved the abundant warnings he had received and refused to reinforce the threatened sectors. Only two hours before the attack opened he told the kaiser that the French were not in a condition to attack. If he thus helped the French to an opening success, this had a delusive effect, because the local German commanders drew back their main strength to their second position, a method which foreshadowed the "elastic" defense of 1918.

As a result the French, in Champagne, after overrunning the first position, failed to make any real impression on the second. Yet for three days they vainly hurled themselves against it, until the loss was at last curtailed by Gen. Henri Pétain suspending his attack in disregard of higher orders. Joffre pushed the harder here because in the final plan he had made it his main stroke, allotting it thirty-four divisions. This gave the troops here a superiority of five to one over the enemy, compared with three to one in the attack near Arras. The reduction of Foch's effort reacted unfavorably on the British attack. Foch's troops made little progress; the fighting commanders, having lost faith in his dreams through prolonged experience, seem to have nullified his vehement orders by gentle evasion. Contrasting the feeble results obtained near Arras with the delusive air of victory in Champagne, Joffre in the second day temporarily stopped the attack, while telling Foch to "take care to avoid giving the British the impression that we are leaving them to attack alone."

Britons Fall by Own Gas as Wind Plays Them False

The British offensive was delivered at 6:30 a. m., six hours before Foch's. Counting on Sir John French's reserve of three divisions to back him up, Haig launched all his six divisions in the first assault—against four German regiments. This gave him a superiority of seven to one in troops, although he had less than half as many heavy guns to the mile as the French. Despite his earlier doubts, his optimism had grown as the time drew nearer, and so great became his expectations from the coming blow that he privately conveyed a warning against the tendency in England to count on the campaign lasting through the winter. The newspapers, he considered, were underrating the Germans' rate of exhaustion.

Haig's hopes for his own success had been raised by the possibility of using cloud gas. But the wind played him false, and the effect was worsened because one of the divisional commanders had overruled his gas expert's objection by the order that "the program must be carried out whatever the conditions"—with the result that he gassed his own men. Nevertheless, it was partially effective on the right, and here the 15th division almost broke through—causing a panic in the German command. Whatever chance there was of exploiting this narrow penetration vanished because Sir John French, disregarding Haig's remonstrances, had kept the only reserves sixteen miles in the rear. Also he was late in handing them over to Haig, and their arrival was further delayed by muddled trafic arrangements. As the official history remarks: "It was like trying to push the lord mayor's procession through the streets of London without clearing the route and holding up the trafic." The ordeal was all the worse since they were raw divisions, and it was accentuated by Haig's eagerness to retrieve the lost time. They pushed on across country in the dark and rain; next morning, tired, hungry, and confused, they were launched without effective artillery support against defenses which had now been cemented and strengthened. The attack broke down and the survivors broke back.

Sir Edward Grey promised help to "Balkan Friends." Field Marshal Mackensen led the conquest of Serbia.

German counterattacks and bad weather imposed a long delay. Yet Joffre, French, and Haig were united now in a determination to continue the offensive. It was eventually renewed on all three sectors on different dates, the British last, on Oct. 13. The official history comments on its result that it "had not improved the general situation in any way and had brought nothing but useless slaughter of infantry." The British loss had amounted to 50,000 men, while their opponents had lost 20,000. The French lost 190,000, against a German loss of 120,000—which was largely caused in ineffective counterattacks. Both the French and British had gained in experience, but they had afforded the enemy still better experience in the way to frustrate such attacks.

The British failure had an important sequel. Even before Loos, Haig's distrust of French had revived and grown, and he had communicated to the highest quarters his opinion of his superior's defects. After Loos he ascribed the failure "solely" to French's "initial mistake in refusing to move up the reserves." In his disgust he wrote privately to Kitchener condemning the commander-in-chief, and pulled other strong levers. French's removal followed, and Haig was appointed to succeed him. In thus violating the canons of military propriety Haig seems to have been moved by a sense of duty combined with a sense of destiny. He felt that he was specially called by God to lead the British armies to victory. He was as certain of divine help as Hindenburg on the other side, prayed as constantly for it. Their minds worked simply, if their natures were not devoid of complexity.

Italy Enters in the Hope to Regain Old Territory

As some compensation for their vain losses the Allied ranks had been swelled by the addition of Italy's forces. In May she had definitly thrown off the artificial ties of the old triple alliance and declared war on Austria, her hereditary foe. If her main object was to seize the chance of redeeming Trieste and the Trentino from Austria's rule, there was also a desire to reassert her historic traditions. Militarily, however, her aid could not greatly affect the situation, for her army was unready and the Austrian frontier was a mountainous obstacle of great natural strength. Indeed, on her entry the Austrians were able to hold her forces without withdrawing more than a few divisions from their offensive front against Russia. Although the Italian commander, Gen. Luigi Cadorna, had a great numerical superiority, he had mountains as well as machine guns to bar the path of his troops, and all he did was to repeat Joffre's battering-ram tactics with fewer munitions. By December he had lost over a quarter of a million men.

General Haig, writes Hart, seems to have felt that he was specially called by God to lead the British armies to victory.

And while their men fought the women of France worked, in the fields, in munition factories, and at other menial tasks where there was a labor shortage.

The Italians continued their efforts in 1916, although interrupted in the early summer by a dangerous Austrian stroke in the Asiago region, at the west end of their backbent line along the Alps; this threatened to burst through into the Venetian plains, but the danger was stalled off. Cadorna then switched his reserves back to the Isonzo, and in August a fresh Italian offensive pushed across the river and captured Gorizia, but attempt to exploit the success eastward broke down. Three more efforts were made in the autumn; if they imposed a wearing strain on the defenders, they caused greater loss to the attackers. During the year the Italians suffered half a million casualties to their opponents' quarter of a million. Still the effort was continued, without adequate munitions or compensating originality of method. By August, 1917, they had fought eleven "battles of the Isonzo"—and were still on the Isonzo.

British Forced to Surrender Kut in Mesopotamia Campaign

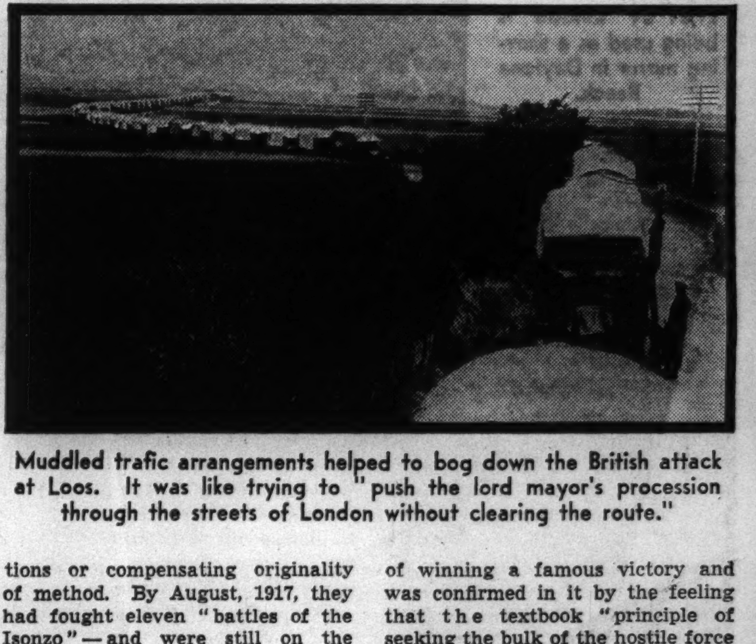
Another campaign which developed in 1915 and opened a fresh drain on the British resources was in Mesopotamia. A diversion of force that had no promise of distraction from the enemy's main concentration, it could only be justified on other than military grounds to maintain British influence in that part of the world and her oil supply from the fields near the Persian gulf. Although its origin was sound, its development was another example of "drift," due to the inherent faultiness of Britain's machinery for the conduct of war.

When war with Turkey was imminent a small Indian force was dispatched to safeguard the oil fields. To fulfill this mission effectively it was necessary to occupy the Basra vilayet, at the head of the Persian gulf, in order to command the possible lines of approach.

But the British commander, General Nixon, judged it wise to expand his footing, for greater security. Gen. Charles Townshend's division was pushed up the Tigris to Amara, gaining a brilliant little victory, and the other division up the Euphrates to Nasiriya. Southern Mesopotamia was a vast alluvial plain, roadless and railless, in which these two great rivers formed the only channels of communication. Thus a hold on Amara and Nasiriya covered the oil fields, but Nixon and the Indian government, inspirited by these successes, decided to push forward to Kut-el-Amara, a move which was 180 miles farther into the interior but had a partial military justification in the fact that at Kut the Shatt-el-Hai, issuing from the Tigris, formed a link with the Euphrates by which Turkish reserves could be transferred from one river line to the other.

Townshend was sent forward in August, defeated the Turks near Kut, and his cavalry carried the pursuit to Aziziya, half way to Bagdad. Enthusiasm spread to the home government, anxious for a moral counterpoise to their other failures, and Nixon thus gained permission for Townshend to press on to Bagdad.

The Turks, now nearly double his strength but shaken in morale, lay in a position near the historic arch of Ctesiphon. Townshend's first idea was to maneuver them out of it, but he was enticed by the idea of winning a famous victory and was confirmed in it by the feeling that the textbook "principle of seeking the bulk of the hostile force in the field" should not be departed from. His attack proved indecisive, but two days later a rumor that the British were moving wide around the flank threw the Turkish commander into a panic and he issued orders for a hasty retreat, which was made that night in a state of confusion. Townshend, however, had been depressed by his own severe losses in the attack and also decided to retreat. The Turks, recovering confidence, turned around and followed him—and he continued his retreat back to Kut. Here he remained after a too optimistic assurance of early relief—several fresh divisions were being sent to Mesopotamia.



Muddled trafic arrangements helped to bog down the British attack at Loos. It was like trying to "push the lord mayor's procession through the streets of London without clearing the route."

Kut was invested by the Turks on Dec. 8, 1915, and the relieving forces battered in vain against the Turkish lines covering the approach. The conditions were bad, the communications worse, the generalship bungled, and at last on April 29, 1916, Kut was forced to surrender—after the British government, on Townshend's inspiration, had made a vain and ill-judged effort to bribe the Turks by an offer of a million pounds, then raised to two, to let the garrison go free. Although censorship kept it from the British public, the Turks took care to broadcast to other peoples the news of this bargaining. The loss in the vain military effort, including Townshend's own, had totaled nearly 40,000 men—a loss nearly double the actual strength of the Turkish force opposing it.

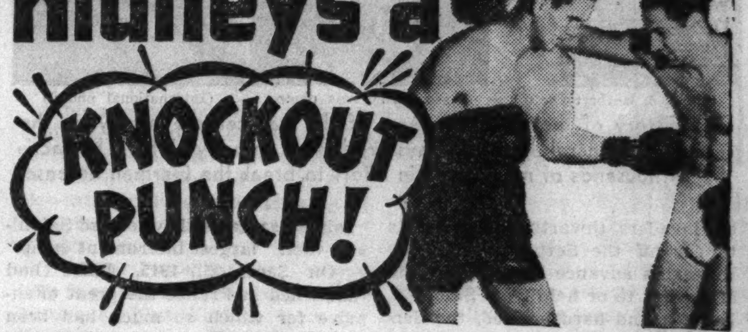
Acids Hit Your Kidneys a



Irritating Acids Often Cause Getting Up Nights, Nervousness, Leg Pains, Circles Under Eyes, and Run-Down Condition

Whether you are awake or asleep, there is a constant battle going on in your body between Acids and Alkalies. The normal condition of the blood is alkaline, but modern foods and ways of living, worry, overwork, and fear frequently create an excess of acids, which must be removed promptly, or you may suffer from one or many devitalizing and painful symptoms.

Common Symptoms

The chief way provided by Nature to remove Acids and acid-forming substances from the system, also waste material created by metabolism, is through the function of the Kidneys. Your blood circulates through the Kidneys 200 times an hour, and although each of these organs is only the size of your clinched fist, each of them contains 4½ million tiny, delicate tubes or filters—a total of 9 million filtering tubes created for the protection of your health and vitality.

If the kidneys slow down and do not function properly, then there is a gradual accumulation of acid-forming materials and metabolic wastes, and this may be the cause of one or more painful and devitalizing symptoms, such as Getting Up Nights, Leg Pains, Nervousness, Rheumatic Pains, Swollen Ankles, Circles Under Eyes, Backaches, Loss of Appetite and Vitality, Burning, Itching, and Smarting Acidity.

Help Kidneys Doctors' Way

Druggists and doctors have found from experience that the easy way and the quick way to help the Kidneys function more normally is with the doctor's prescription Cystex which is scientifically prepared in accordance with the requirements of the United States and British Pharmacopoeia to act directly on the Kidneys as a diuretic. More than 5000 doctors have received test supplies of Cystex, and the results have been so exceptionally successful that over 500 of these physicians have taken the time and the trouble to report their experiences. For instance, Dr. C. Van Straubenzee, noted European physician, stated: "I consider Cystex one of the most meritorious formulas I have ever examined, and recommend it most highly." And Dr. C. J. Roberts, formerly of the Philadelphia General Hospital, states: "In my years of practice, I have employed many medicines and prescriptions to improve the functional action of the kidneys; but in my opinion there is no preparation that excels the prescription known as Cystex." Cystex has achieved outstanding and exceptional success, not only in the United States and Canada, but in 51 other countries throughout the world. Furthermore, each package contains a complete list of ingredients, so that you can know what you are taking and be told by your doctor or druggist that Cystex is a medicine in which you can place the utmost confidence.

48-Hour Results

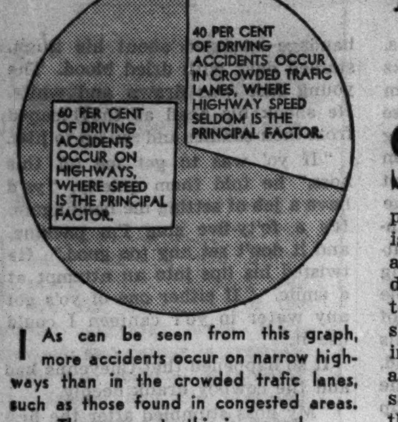
With Cystex there is no long waiting for results, because it is scientifically prepared to act directly on the kidneys as a diuretic. For that reason most people report a remarkable improvement within the first 48 hours and complete satisfaction within 8 days. In testing Cystex you are the sole judge of your satisfaction. You must feel younger, stronger, and better than you have in a long time—you must feel that Cystex has done the work thoroughly and completely, or you merely return the empty package and your money is refunded in full. Because the money-back guarantee on Cystex protects you completely, you can not afford to take chances with cheap, inferior, or irritating drugs which might endanger delicate kidneys, or for that matter with any medicine that is not good enough to be guaranteed. Telephone your druggist for guaranteed Cystex [pronounced Siss-tex] today.

$10,000 Guarantee

If you feel and look older than you are or suffer from any of the symptoms mentioned, due to poorly functioning Kidneys, you should not take chances with cheap or irritating drugs or delay. Get the doctor's guaranteed prescription Cystex. Put it to the test under the written money-back guarantee that it must make you feel and look years younger and stronger and do the work to your complete satisfaction in 8 days, or you merely return the empty package and your money is refunded immediately. Your word is final. This guarantee is backed by a fund of $10,000.00 deposited with the leading banks of the world, such as Westminster Bank Ltd., London, Eng., and Bank of America, Los Angeles. You can't afford to take chances with delay or irritating drugs which might injure your delicate Kidneys or with any medicine that is not good enough to be guaranteed. Telephone your druggist today to deliver you a package of the doctor's guaranteed prescription Cystex [pronounced Siss-tex] and in 8 days it must make you feel and look like new or cost nothing under the $10,000.00 guarantee.

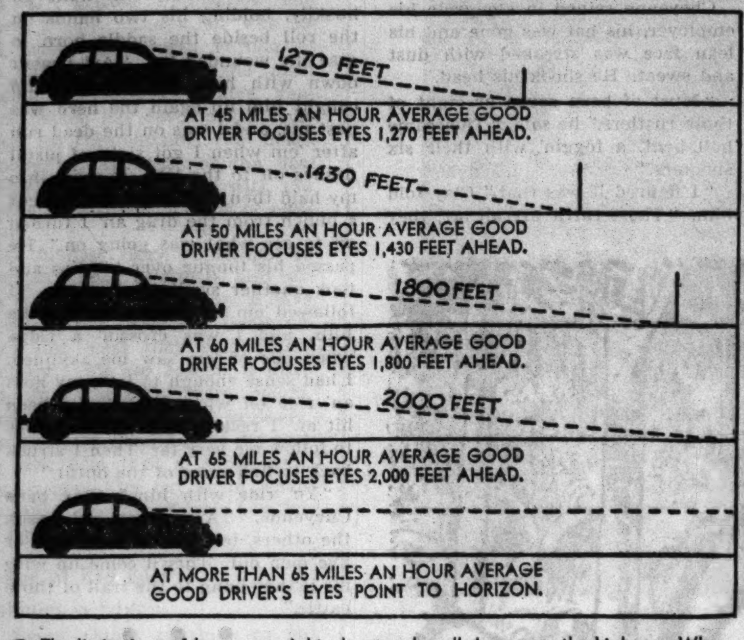
Human Element in Driving

Limitations of Senses and Poor Roads Spell Peril



1 As can be seen from this graph, more accidents occur on narrow highways than in the crowded trafic lanes, such as those found in congested areas. The answer to this is—speed.

SAFETY in the driving of an automobile depends to a large extent upon human limitations, as described in a book by J. R. Hamilton and Dr. Louis L. Thurstone, a professor of psychology of the University of Chicago. The book, which will be released this month by the publishers, Doubleday, Doran & Co., Inc., is entitled "Safe Driving" and is based upon a number of experiments and observations made by the authors and others. It is from the text of the book that the accompanying drawings were adapted. The photographs reproduced herewith also are taken from the book, the entire text of which is devoted to the business of showing how human reactions and senses, such as those of sight and hearing, may be responsible for automobile accidents. These accidents, which also are attributable to our narrow and inadequate highways, cause thousands of deaths annually in the United States (38,500 in 1936) and still more thousands of injuries, not to mention millions of dollars in property damage.



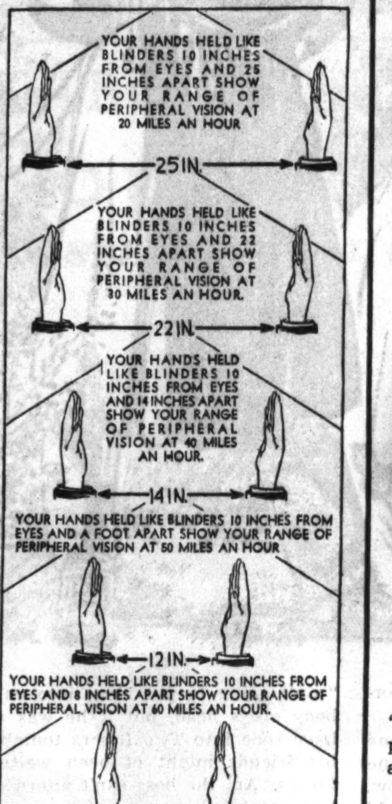
2 The limitations of human eyesight plus speed spell danger on the highway. Where one's eyes are focusing when he keeps stepping upon the accelerator to cover more feet and yards in fewer seconds is graphically revealed here.

3 At right: How big an automobile actually looks to you when it is 1,000 feet away is shown here in a drawing of a simple experiment. Appearing no bigger than a pinhole, the automobile 1,000 feet away may be traveling toward you at 75 miles an hour.

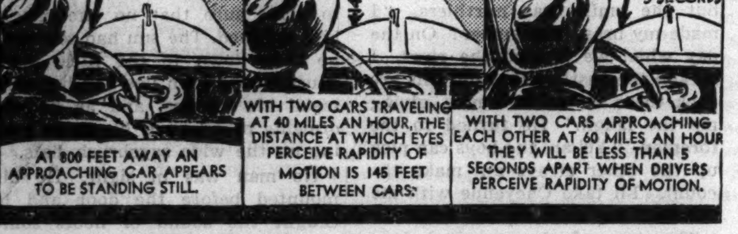
4 A hair held at arm's length is an object difficult for the eye to discern. Yet it is as easily seen as a 20-foot break in the pavement at a distance of 2,000 feet—a break in the pavement toward which one may be traveling at high speed.

5 Maybe you have never realized it, but it is a fact that when you are driving your car at 40 to 45 miles an hour the only point in the foreground of which you get a clear picture is just 80 feet ahead of the car. At 45 miles an hour you cover that 80 feet in little more than a second. When your speed exceeds 50 miles an hour the entire foreground becomes blurred to your eyes. In such a situation a properly constructed highway, with opposite direction lanes separated by a parkway or otherwise divided, removes much of the danger.

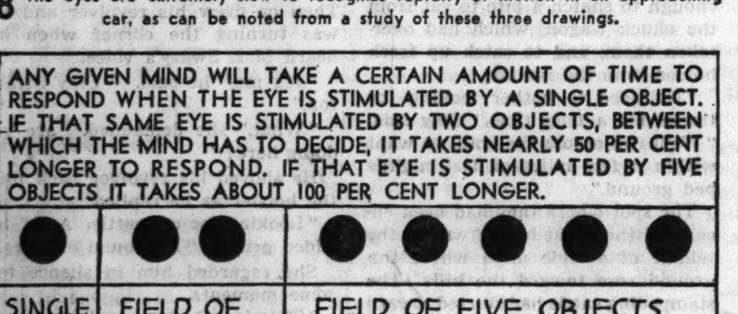
6 A driver's eyes. Picture No. 1 shows how they look when the car is standing still. Picture No. 2 reveals the appearance of the eyes when the car is traveling 55 miles an hour. Picture No. 3 is that of the eyes when the car hits 65 miles an hour. Note how the shape of the eyes changes as the car increases its speed. When a motorist is driving in a highway at a high rate of speed his life, the lives of his passengers, and the lives of everyone else in the road in his vicinity are dependent upon his sight.



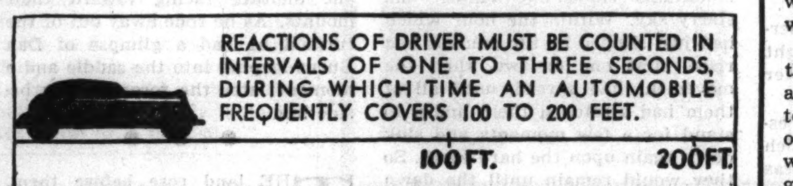
7 Just how restricted the driver's vision actually is when an automobile is bowling along a highway is graphically shown in this series of experiments. The faster the car goes the less the driver sees on either side of the point of focus of his eyes.



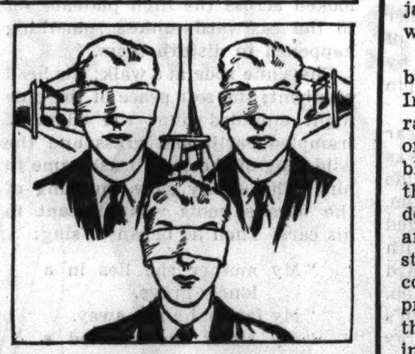
8 The eyes are extremely slow to recognize rapidity of motion in an approaching car, as can be noted from a study of these three drawings.



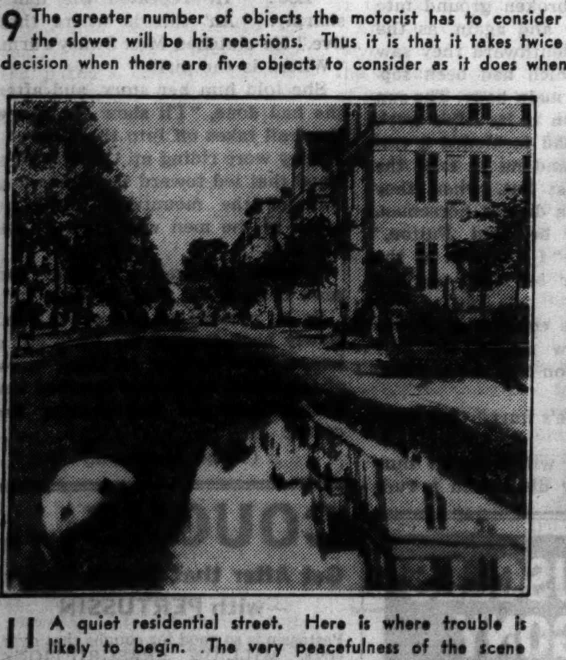
9 The greater number of objects the motorist has to consider in guiding his car the slower will be his reactions. Thus it is that it takes twice as long to make a decision when there are five objects to consider as it does when there is only one.



10 A speeding car frequently covers 100 to 200 feet in the time required for the completion of a human reaction. The more that a driver has to accomplish to get his speeding car under control the longer the time required. Movements of hands and feet to manipulate steering wheel, horn, accelerator, and brakes naturally eat up precious moments when a driver is facing a grave emergency.



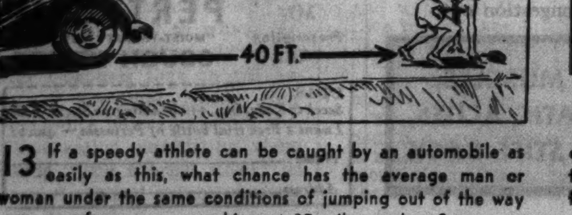
15 If the auto horn sounds louder in your left ear than in your right the danger lies to the left; if it sounds louder in the right ear the danger lies to the right. But a noise directly ahead, directly behind, above, or below gives a person no knowledge as to the direction of danger.



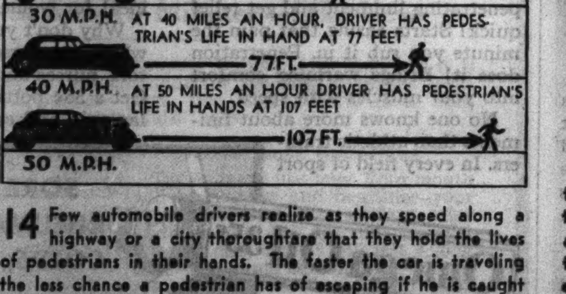
11 A quiet residential street. Here is where trouble is likely to begin. The very peacefulness of the scene invites speed. With the thoroughfare virtually deserted and no pedestrians in sight in the act of crossing the street, the driver is tempted to step on the gas, especially if he is late for an appointment or otherwise in a hurry to reach his destination.

12 Just a few blocks from the peaceful scene is this trafic congestion. The driver is apt to arrive here before he is aware.

16 In night driving the motorist's eyes constantly must adapt themselves to brightness or darkness. A driver sees the glare of an approaching car's lights and his eyes quickly adapt themselves to the brightness. When the car passes the eyes are much slower to adapt themselves to darkness. Therein is a great danger in night driving.



13 If a speedy athlete can be caught by an automobile as easily as this, what chance has the average man or woman under the same conditions of jumping out of the way of a car approaching at 35 miles an hour?



14 Few automobile drivers realize as they speed along a highway or a city thoroughfare that they hold the lives of pedestrians in their hands. The faster the car is traveling the less chance a pedestrian has of escaping if he is caught flat-footed in the middle of the road. The drawings here show the responsibilities of the driver.

Mexican Vacation by Motor

PART TWO

By GUY MURCHIE JR.

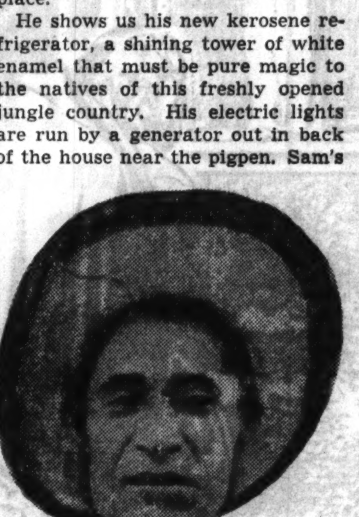
BY THE morning of our fourth day of leisurely progress through Mexico we have arrived at the foot of the great mountain range over which we must pass to reach the high interior valley. But the weather is inauspiciously foggy, and it is Friday, the 13th, so, after some oratorical pressure from my helpmate, who is for lingering longer in this world, we decide to wait a while.

We pull up to a roadside emporium where a large sign says: "SAM BROWN—GAS—HIELO (ice)—Cerveza helada (cold beer)—bien fria—ROOMS." This is obviously the center of the tiny village surrounding it, and we go in.

"Hello there," says Sam Brown, who is at the moment hammering in place some boards that are to form a partition for some "tourist quarters" he is installing. "Sit down. Would you like somethin' t'eat?"

He looks about forty-five, with blue eyes and a wild mop of blond hair, and talks in a soft Texas twang. A squat Mexican woman smiles shyly and talks with him in Mexican, telling him to say she is his wife. Other dusky black-eyed persons of varied shapes and sizes look on as Sam tells us his story. "I was born in Silver City, New Mexico, in '88. . . . I came down here twenty-three years ago. I was a coffee trader. I got coffee here from the Indians an' sold it down ter Tampico. I made lots of money. There was no roads around here then—just a few trails. . . . Now that this new road has come through, I'm buildin' a nice stoppin' place."

He shows us his new kerosene refrigerator, a shining tower of white enamel that must be pure magic to the natives of this freshly opened jungle country. His electric lights are run by a generator out in back of the house near the pigpen. Sam's



Jose Maria, the guide, said to be a pure Aztec Indian.

"wife" regards the refrigerator approvingly and smiles at her lord and master.

"She's half Indian, half Spanish," confides Sam. "That's why she's laughin'. It's the Spanish in her. These Indians, they never laugh."

I ask Sam to tell me how to get to the nearest Indian settlement, which I would like to look over, but get the discouraging response: "'Tain't no use goin' to see any Indian towns today. It's rainin', an' when it's rainin'—well, Indians jes' won't do nothin' nor go nowhere."

It is only after great difficulty that I can break through Sam's apprehensive reserve and get him to introduce me to an Indian friend of his who happened to turn up and who, for a peso, will act as my guide and sponsor during a little jaunt through the back country where the Indians live.

José Maria is his Mexican name, but he is said to be a pure Aztec Indian, an authentic remnant of the race that Cortez found in possession of central Mexico. His eyes are jet black, with almost no white around the edges. His face is thin and deeply wrinkled, his hair straight and black, his skin very dark. A straw sombrero with brown rubber cover adorns his head—the rubber probably a home-made product from the rubber plant which grows wild in these parts. His age might be anywhere between forty and one hundred.

Off we start down the road to the south, poking along through the mist at a good two miles an hour. José Maria seems unable to go any faster. Over his shoulder is slung an old rifle ("in case we meet some deer"), and he slinks over the ground like an otter on the trail of a dead eel. Our conversation is in Spanish, a language of which I know about a hundred words and he apparently two or three hundred. Whenever a sound comes out of the surrounding jungle José Maria begins to stalk toward it, slowing down to an easy ¼ m.p.h., till I begin to wonder if we'll ever get out of sight of Sam Brown's place, where my wife is awaiting my return. This is considered too risky an adventure for women to be along.

Sometimes José Maria disappears into the brush at a gait which might be described as a slow sneak. A moment later he reappears to motion me to absolute silence. Now, gripping his gun for instant action, he stalks out of sight again like frozen molasses, and I can do nothing but await the dénouement, fearing the worst—for I never know whether José Maria thinks he is going to shoot a deer or an Indian, and probably neither does he.

Once he takes me on a long detour off the road to view a river which he says is full of alligators. When we get back to the road we see two peons coming along with a burro and a small herd of swine consisting of a fat sow and fifteen little pigs. The method employed by the peons to keep the pigs waddling is to drop kernels of corn in front of the sow. As the sow pursues the corn, naturally the pig family follows mamma, and so all is well. Asking the peons where they are bound, they reply, "Tampico"—which is a port on the Gulf of Mexico nearly a hundred miles away. After this I am more tolerant of José Maria's extraordinary pace.

Some two hours later we have left the road to climb a slippery little trail up a mountainside. Now and then we come to a little clearing where there is a wattle-and-thatch hut and usually a cornfield near by, often tilted at an angle of forty-five degrees or steeper, perhaps a papaya grove, and a generous growth of coffee bushes. We approach the hut, and José Maria peers in, making suitable introductions in my behalf to the squatting family at the fireside. Then we both enter and sit down for a cup of coffee or so while my sponsor chatters languidly with the host, and the female members of the household, young and old, continue their appointed tasks of weaving or corn grinding, with an occasional shy glance in my direction.

A new day has come, and the Murchie family is on the highroad once more, having survived a night chez Sam Brown, during which not the least of our problems were the eluding of malarial mosquitoes and the digestion of Sam's evening meal. Despite a continuing low ceiling of fog, we are going over the top today. We gas up at a town called Tamazunchale (pronounced "Thomas and Charlie"), having with difficulty just negotiated a short stretch of slimy one-lane road, the last bit of the Laredo-Mexico City highway to remain ungraveled. But there are also some sixty miles of road over the worst of the mountain steeps which are not yet finally paved with asphalt, and where the guard rail has yet to be installed. This stretch lies just ahead of us as we leave Tamazunchale and begin the long climb from 400 feet above sea level to 8,400 feet, which is the highest altitude reached by the road this side of Mexico City.

Hastily we overtake a trailer and pass it so as not to be held back by it later. Up, up goes the road in a long, easy slant cut into the mountainsides. The paving here is of fairly well packed gravel, but the recent rains make it slippery and uncertain in spots, which, combined with the lack of a guard rail, does not add to our sense of personal well being—especially as we gaze at the deepening void below us and wonder how many times the car would roll over before it splashed into that stream so far away at the pit of the valley.

And then—the fog. Like a train entering a tunnel, we suddenly plunge upward into a low-lying cloud of dense mist. Now we must slow down to ten or fifteen miles an hour, for it is impossible to see an approaching car until it is within forty feet, even with its lights on (which is by no means always the case).

Mile after mile, most of the time steadily upward. The curves are becoming more frequent as we get higher among the peaks, and we can't see the curves coming in this fog till they are right under our noses. It is like a bad dream. Everything has a quality of unreality about it, like when you're at the movies seeing a picture taken through the windshield of a car speeding through city streets. At one side of the road the mountain wall rises into foggy nothingness, while at the other edge the descending slope fades out as quickly below. All our world is just the car and the short strip of visible ledge along which we are advancing in faith that it will take us where we want to go. The road is beautifully engineered, I must admit, and amply wide—being from twenty to thirty feet broad except in the occasional spots where a small landslide has partially blocked it for a time or where the crews of road workers have it temporarily fenced off—but this is no time to drink in the beauties of engineering. It is enough to do to dodge the occasional passing cars and the laborers' wheelbarrows that swoop out of the fog at us and to keep from going over the edge.

At last, after some four hours of it, we have conquered the worst of the heights. Suddenly through the fog comes a light. It grows brighter, clearer—then I can see a patch of blue. The sky! The sun! El Sol, whom we haven't seen since Monterrey. What a thrilling surprise! There before us lies as if by magic the valley of Mexico.

After several more adventures, including a camping escapade in a cactus-covered prairie at the 8,400-foot level, we enter the city of Mexico—large and modern, with street cars, buses, chain drug stores, and airport, just as in any up-to-date city in the United States. Mexico City is as different from the rest of Mexico as New York is from the Mississippi valley. It is to Mexico as Paris is to France, only more so.

We see the sights, visit a glass factory where graceful bubbly blue vases are made for a peso (28 cents U. S.) apiece, take in the National palace, the National museum, and the other most important show places. For lodging we go to a sort of de luxe auto camp called Shirley Courts, where a room for two, with private bath, kitchenette, garage, and service, can be had for 10 pesos ($2.77) a day, and a handy cafeteria and supply store thrown into the bargain.

As we heard that the warmest and most beautiful part of Mexico lay south of Mexico City, we naturally could not forego an excursion down to Taxco, the dainty mountain town 100 miles southward, and to Acapulco, the tropical Pacific port of rumbling surf and hot sand 200 miles beyond that.

Taxco is your dreams come true. You suddenly find yourself living in the middle ages. Founded as a silver mining settlement in the sixteenth century, Taxco chanced to be sprawled against a mountainside like a handful of chips tossed at a sand pile. Its narrow cobblestone streets are so steep in some places you can touch the paving in front of you without leaning over. They are little more than precipitous mountain trails connecting the many tiers of precariously perched houses, and up and down them move women in shawls, men in sombreros and serapes, and every manner of animal known to Mexico.

At night the passing people with their burro trains and their baskets can be seen under the dim street lamps and a few twinkling lanterns. At sunrise the magic of long shadows against the bright pink mountainside brings a still more entrancing world, and beyond it all the ever-changing blues and blends of the distant meeting place of earth and sky.

But this is Sunday morning, which is market day in Taxco. Every town or village in Mexico has its market day unless it is so big that every day is market day. It is the same all over the land. From miles around on the chosen day the roads and trails are trodden with intermittent groups of natives, all attired in their brightest clothes and head-

WHEN KIDNEY TROUBLE CAUSES YOU TO GET UP NIGHTS

When Bladder Is Irritated
When Passage Is Difficult
When Backache Bothers

Flush Poisonous Waste and Acid from Kidneys

GAIN IN HEALTH

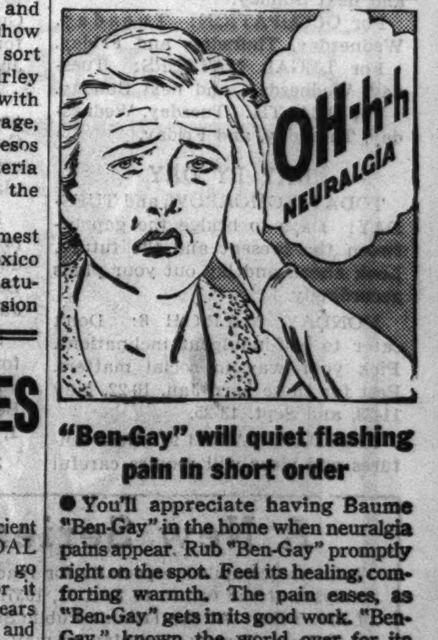
If you aren't feeling just right—are nervous—have dizzy spells and occasional backache—study your kidneys and learn more about yourself.

Through the delicate filters of the kidneys, acid and poisonous waste are drawn from the blood and discharged from the body thru the bladder—sometimes these filters become clogged with poisonous waste and kidneys do not function properly—they need a good cleansing.

One reliable medicine, highly efficient and inexpensive, is GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—you can't go wrong on this grand medicine, for it has been helping people for 50 years—to correct their aches and pains and banish uric acid conditions, the aggravation of sciatica, neuritis, neuralgia, lumbago and rheumatism.

So if you have such symptoms of kidney trouble as backache, nervousness, getting up two or three times during the night—scanty, burning or smarting passage—leg cramps—moist palms or puffy eyes, get a 35 cent package of this grand and harmless diuretic at any modern drugstore—it starts the first day on its errand of helpfulness.

But be sure it's GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original—the genuine right from Haarlem in Holland.



"Ben-Gay" will quiet flashing pain in short order

● You'll appreciate having Baume "Ben-Gay" in the home when neuralgia pains appear. Rub "Ben-Gay" promptly right on the spot. Feel its healing, comforting warmth. The pain eases, as "Ben-Gay" gets in its good work. "Ben-Gay," known the world over for its effectiveness against pain, is the famous formula of Dr. Jules Bengué, of Paris. It has triumphed over human pain and suffering for 40 years. For the sake of you and yours always keep "Ben-Gay" in the home.

The Tree of Death

Mrs. Swazy Makes a Discovery Which Frightens Her and She Rides Hard Across the New Mexico Hills

THE STORY TO DATE

● Traveling by buckboard to a ranch in Two Rivers, N. M., John Lee and his daughter Eileen are rescued by Clay Stratton at Horsehead Crossing from his stampeding cattle. At Two Rivers John Lee buys cattle from Sam Brink to stock his new ranch. That night, under the Tree of Death, Brink orders Sundance, a cattle rustler, to steal Lee's cattle back while he detains Lee in town. After the raid Sundance rides off with the longhorns, leaving Eileen alone with one of their cowboys dead and another wounded. Eileen manages to get the wounded man into the buckboard to drive him to town. In spite of Ma Swazy's warning, John Lee goes at night to the express office to collect money waiting there for him to pay for the cattle, not knowing Bitter Creek, an outlaw, is planning to waylay him. Huge Ma Swazy, crude but warm-hearted, owns the town hotel. Birdlegs, her henpecked husband, represents justice in the town, appointed by Sam Brink. Clay meets Eileen on her way and drives to town with her. He leaves her and the wounded man in Ma Swazy's care and rescues John Lee from death at the hands of Bitter Creek. Clay kills the outlaw. Sam Brink orders Birdlegs to arrest Clay. Clay defies his would-be captors and escapes. Eileen and her father drive to Brink's ranch. Attracted by Eileen, Brink promises her father a new herd of cattle and has his Mexican wife invite Eileen to stay with them a while. Brink orders Sundance to steal cattle from Clay and sell them to Lee—then murders him, leaving Clay open to blame. Jealous of Eileen, Brink's wife agrees to let a Mexican outlaw, Juan Lopez, kidnap the girl. She repents too late—the outlaw carries off Eileen.

INSTALMENT VI.

(Copyright: 1937: By Frederick R. Bechdolt.)

It was as much wonder as it was the quest of new hired help which was bringing Ma Swazy forth on the day's expedition. She had been restless ever since the departure of Eileen and Lee, and for the life of her she could not find the cause of her disturbance. But there was something wrong; she was as sure of this as if she had definite evidence. Something was about to happen as a result of the visit which these two had made to Brink's home ranch. The premonition had begun to grow stronger this same morning when the blacksmith's Mexican helper had returned from down the valley and let fall the information that Lee was back at home alone.

She had left the valley flats, and the buckskin was making the winding grades into the tangle of low summits below the main range at a steady running walk that was good for five miles an hour. The figure of a horseman came into sight around an abrupt turn of the road ahead of her. She reined up.

"Howdy, Pedro." She lifted her right hand in a gesture of greeting. Vasquez, the grizzled foreman, drew his horse to a halt and responded in his tongue; and from then on their conversation was in the mongrel Spanish of the territory. Finally Vasquez mentioned the sheep which Brink was running in the hills. This, in its turn, brought up the subject of Juan Lopez and his band of line jumpers.

"So," Mrs. Swazy said, "they're back again?"

"This summer," the foreman told her, "they do not stay so long as they have in other years. They will buy the contraband from the Santa Fe traders who have come down to meet them, and they will go back to Chihuahua. Tonight they will start."

At the time this made no impression on Mrs. Swazy, although she was to remember his words later. Now she brought up the matter of Eileen, which was clinging to the back of her mind.

"This girl," he replied, "she is riding home today, and the señora is riding with her."

"They're riding to Lee's place together?" Mrs. Swazy asked, and he nodded.

"They go by the old trail which the Apaches used when I was a little boy. It takes the gap between the Pinon and the Peak of the Gray Bear."

Mrs. Swazy uncrooked the knee which she had hung across her saddle horn and thrust her booted foot into the ox bow stirrup.

"I reckon I better be shovin' on," she said. "I aim to see Antonio Ramirez an' hire his oldest girl for the hotel."

The fat wife of Antonio Ramirez was pounding out corn meal in a stone metate after the fashion which the Mexicans inherited from the more primitive races of the southwest.

"My man," Mrs. Ramirez explained, "is at the blacksmith shop, where the vaqueros are shoeing a bad horse." She called one of the brood to her side. "See now. You run and find your father and you bring him here."

It was not long before the portly Mrs. Ramirez was telling of things in the ranchhouse, things which Brink and his wife never dreamed had been observed by the indolently moving servants who attended to the work about the place.

"And ever since this girl has come," she was saying, "Brink, he is staying here at the house all the time. From sunrise to dark he stays; and where the girl goes he goes. He is after her always.

"It is yesterday the thing happens that makes me tell myself that if this was me that man was married to I would say some things to him. I would say some things and I would do some things, too." She breathed heavily. "I saw it myself when Pedro Vasquez came from the corrals. It is the polemeno horse that Brink gave the señora. You remember that horse? Yesterday Brink sends Pedro Vasquez to the corral to catch up that horse and to put the señora's saddle on him; and he gives that horse to this girl. Right before his wife's eyes he does it. This I saw myself while I was sweeping the big room."

SHE drew in her breath and would have gone on further if Antonio Ramirez had not come in. Now it became necessary for Mrs. Swazy to talk of the errand which was the ostensible reason for her visit here. Afterward there was another interval while the oldest girl was sought, and then more talk; and at last the matter of Maria's hiring was settled. Mrs. Swazy was standing on the threshold.

"I hear," she remarked, "that Juan Lopez and his line jumpers are going back across the border."

"And Anastasia Garcia, he is going with them," Mrs. Ramirez said. Her husband shook his head.

"You talk too much," he told her.

"What's got into Anastasia Garcia?" his guest insisted. Ramirez shrugged his shoulders to the question, but his wife replied swiftly.

"It was yesterday. In the morning." She went on to tell of the flogging in the courtyard. "So now," she concluded, "Anastasia rides away tonight with Juan Lopez, to steal cattle and to cut throats."

"I tell you you talk too much," her husband growled. Mrs. Swazy took her departure soon afterward.

When she had been riding for a little more than an hour she reined up at the summit of the pass. She saw the shrine among the big trees, with the image of the Virgin, crudely made from unpainted wood. She remembered the story of the priest who had spent a summer in the valley and had labored with the dark skinned vaqueros. But she was not regarding the shrine now; her eyes were on the figures of a horse and rider which had appeared for a moment in the clear space less than half a mile away. Mrs. Swazy leaped from the saddle and she caught the buckskin's nose as he flung it up to whinny; her fingers clamped down just in time.

"Mebbe," she reflected, "it's all right and mebbe I'm a fool. But this whole business don't look good to me."

It looked still worse a few minutes later when Mrs. Brink rode into sight among the scattered pines about the little shrine. She dismounted and she dropped on her knees before the image of the Virgin; and the murmur of her voice came to the thicket where the watcher was standing.

Then Mrs. Swazy stepped from behind the clump of quaking aspens and the señora looked up at the sound of cracking brush to see her coming down the hill, leading the buckskin by the bridle reins. So the two women confronted each other, the one upon her knees, her dark face all wet with tears, her eyes wide with sudden fear; the other looking down upon her in grim silence. A few seconds passed, and Mrs. Swazy spoke between clenched teeth:

"Where's that girl?"

The luckless creature before the shrine called upon her God in Spanish and buried her face in her hands. Mrs. Swazy took a step nearer and her big hands were clenched.

"Quick!" she demanded. "What did you do with her?"

The señora flung her arms out and her voice was shaking with sorrow as she cried:

"It is Juan Lopez and his Line Jumpers. Down at the cabin by the big spring. They have her now. They took her from me. What could I do? I go for help."

"You're wasting a good time here," the other told her coldly. "Get up."

Mrs. Swazy was swinging the buckskin around to get the advantage of the hill for mounting. A moment later she was on her way and thinking of Anastasia Garcia.

"That's the hookup," she told herself. "And she was in it, too—right from the start." She swore under her breath.

She had almost forgotten one essential item of information which the señora had given her and it was the smell of wood smoke, brought to her by the breeze, that saved her from riding right into the camp of Juan Lopez and his line jumpers by the big spring under the four pin oak trees.

She saw their horses standing near the cabin of split logs while she was making a wide detour along the side of the mountain high above them, and she had a glimpse of a ragged figure near the little building with a rifle in his hand, peering upward through the trees in her direction. But if the man heard the buckskin's hoofs, he set it down to some stray stock wandering by, for he turned away presently and disappeared.

Now all of this halting and taking bytracks had consumed considerable time; it was dusk when Mrs. Swazy rode down out of the foothills to John Lee's ranch and drew rein at the corral in the rear of the little rock house. No light shone from the windows. The harsh whispering of the poplars by the irrigating ditch was the only sound about the place. There was something to this silence which brought a clutch of fear to her heart. The buckskin snorted and shied abruptly; she reproved it in terms which would have awakened the admiration of the most casehardened mule driver, and she added a phrase or two for her own benefit.

Then she heard some one coming from the direction of the house. She snatched a long single action revolver from the holster beside her saddle horn and held it leveled, her forefinger crooked around the trigger. After what had come and gone this afternoon she was not taking any chances.

"Han's up!" she said.

IT WAS past the middle of the night, and Cheyenne was sleeping like a log when a light hand touched his shoulder. He came to full wakefulness at once and swore good naturedly at all things in his calling, including himself. A faint glow marked the dying coals of the fire by the chuck wagon; the big tarps which covered the sleepers about him glimmered vaguely in the darkness. He pulled on his boots, found his hat, and stumped off into the gloom after his horse. A few minutes later he was riding toward the sleeping herd beside Hud Fulton, who was sharing the third night guard with him.

"Ever since we left Ho'shead Crossin'," his companion growled, "I have been countin' on an evenin' in Two Rivers. And now——" he swore drearily.

"O, well, there's better towns than Two Rivers," Cheyenne consoled him.

"I reckon there be," Hud sighed. "But that cowthief that yo' roped done tol' me that it has a saloon. An' that set me to thinkin'."

"That cowthief," Cheyenne said, "ain't going to put ideas into anybody else's head, but if he was to have rode into Two Rivers tonight, his friends might of been waitin' for us. An' the boss can't afford to lose any hands now."

The herd showed before them on the bed ground, a huge black shadow, stirring faintly with the breathing of the sleeping cattle. The two cowboys separated and they started riding round it in opposite directions. The night was still and warm; off to the west the dark line of the mountains stood out against the starry sky. Within the hour which had just slipped by the animals had risen, first one or two, then the movement had spread, until all of them had stretched their limbs, to stand for a few moments and sink down again upon the hard earth. So they would remain until the dawn looked across the high plateaus off to the eastward—unless something happened to disturb them.

Cheyenne rode at a walk; his head was bent; the soft peace of the blue night enfolded him; the odors of trampled earth and grass and the wild tang of the sage brush came to him. The steady slow thudding of the horse's hoofs was pleasant to his ears. Then he began to sing:

"My mother she lies in a lonely grave.
"My father he ran away.
"My sister she married a gambling man,
"An' I've been led astray——"

He sang in a low voice, after the manner of the men on night guard, and the long quavering notes soothed the wakeful ones among the cattle with the knowledge of his presence; their heads sank and the vague alarms, which had come to them through keener senses than those of the man on watch, were allayed. Verse followed verse, with the refrain between:

"If I'd of listened to my mammy
"I wouldn't be here today.
"O, I quit my home an'
family
"An' I throwed myself away——"

A horse in the remuda whinnied. Cheyenne raised his head abruptly and his singing ceased. He hearkened for some time, but no other sound came out of the surrounding night. He had made his second round and his voice was drifting across the sleeping cattle:

"On the banks of a lonely river
"Ten thousan' miles away——"

The sound that reached him this time was not from the remuda; it was the swift thudding of hoofs and it was less than 200 yards off. The herd was already moving; it was like the undulation of waves on a dark lake as they rose to their feet. The thin flash of a .45 cut the night and the cattle were off on the dead run.

Now no sound was audible above the dull thunder of the stampede save the rattling of the long horns and split hoofs. Once, whipping a swift look back over his shoulder as he spurred his horse alongside the dark mass of tossing bodies, Cheyenne saw pistol flashes far behind him. He was thinking.

"Those fellows came from the east. The herd's headed straight for the hills—some of the boys will be along soon."

Until these others appeared there was nothing to do but keep his horse and himself in the clear; to crowd onward toward the head of the fleeing mass. He thrust his high bootheels down against the stirrups and he sat deep in the saddle, trusting to the luck that is a cowboy's main safeguard against disaster.

The others were already on their way, and Clay Stratton was among the first. He had been sound asleep when the herd broke, and he awakened to the sharp rattle of a half dozen six shooters. By the time he was on his feet the cattle were passing within a hundred yards of the chuck wagon and the thunder of their hoofs seemed to shake the earth. The night horses were snorting and pulling back on their picket ropes. The men were tumbling over one another racing toward their mounts. As he rode away out of the turmoil he had a glimpse of Dan Burns leaping into the saddle and a moment later the foreman was beside him.

THE land rose before them, slowly at first, then more steeply, toward the first foothills of the range; he remembered a number of gullies which broke the terrain a mile or so ahead and he settled himself deep into the saddle; he gave the horse its head. Half a dozen of the cowboys were clattering up behind him now. There was no chance to make a voice carry through the dull rumbling of the stampede. As Cheyenne had done before them, they crowded their horses to their utmost seeking to gain the leaders. A mesquite thicket seemed to leap upon them out of the darkness; the long, thorny branches tore the sleeve from Clay's shirt and he felt the warm blood running down his arm. His horse plunged into an arroyo and scrambled up the steep bank on the other side. And once, when some unseen obstacle turned them, the cattle swung toward him and the other riders so abruptly that they had to rein off in full flight.

They were racing along the base of the hills into the northward. They had reached the foremost animals and now they drew their six shooters and they spurred their horses, charging in together upon the flanks of the leaders, seeking to swing them from their course. But when these had given way before the flaming forty-fives, the ones behind them took their places and the herd swept straight on. Some time later the riders tried it again, and after another hour they made the third attempt. The dawn was seeping along the eastern sky now; they were able to see one another; and the speed of the herd began to diminish. This time they turned the leaders and, when the sun came up, they had the whole mass milling in a shallow cup at the base of the first hills.

Cheyenne reined in alongside his employer, his hat was gone and his lean face was streaked with dust and sweat. He shook his head.

"Must of been seven or eight of those rustlers," he said. "They came hell bent, a foggin' with their six shooters."

"I figured it was that," Clay told him. "These cattle are all fat; they never ran before, unless yo' count the time they broke for water at Hosshead."

"Where's that girl?"

Dan Burns found Clay some time afterward when he had brought in a bunch of fifty longhorns from an arroyo a few miles back.

"'Pears to me we haven't lost many," he said. "Not more'n three or four hundred head."

"And yo'll find those were cut off from the drag." Clay was smiling, but the smile was mirthless. "I made my brag. Remember? On the day when we crossed the river. I reckon the rustlers that did this are back there in the hills now, giving me the laugh." He turned to the foreman. "Yo' an' the boys can pick up the other strays an' make the count. I'll take Cheyenne with me an' we'll see what we can find."

The two of them waited long enough to snatch a bite to eat from the chuck wagon, which had overtaken them, and to catch up fresh horses from the remuda.

"No need to bother looking for tracks for a long time," Clay said. "We'll run across the trail we want within a few miles of last night's bed ground."

The spot where they had been encamped the night before was in the middle of a wide mesa where the ground rose toward the hills. The stampeding cattle had started toward the range and, as the slope had grown steeper they had turned, to race along the broken ground into the north. Now and again, as the pair rode back southward they saw a few strays which had been separated from the main body. The sun was getting down to its day's work and Cheyenne had fashioned a turban from his bandana to take the place of his lost hat, when they caught sight of a distant horseman.

"That would be Hud Fulton," Cheyenne said. "I lost him at the start and never set eyes on him since."

The rider was coming on slowly and, as he drew nearer, the pair held their eyes on him more attentively.

"'Pears like he's hurt," Clay muttered.

When he was within a few hundred yards they discovered a rude bandage wrapped about his thigh, stained dark with dried blood. The young face was drawn and white. He shook his head as they leaped from their saddles and ran up to him.

"If yo' was to get me off this hoss," he told them quietly, "yo'd have a job of setting me back again. It's a fo'ty-five slug I'm packing, and it don't set any too good." He twisted his lips into an attempt at a smile. "If either one of yo's got any water in yo'r canteen I could use it."

It so happened that Cheyenne had and the cowboy drank deeply.

"My hoss stumbled after the first two or three miles," he went on huskily, holding his two hands on the roll beside the saddle horn to ease the wounded leg. "An' I went down with him. By the time I'd caught him up again the herd was past me, and I was on the dead run after 'em when I got sight of pistol flashes off to the left. It came into my haid then that some one had cut a bunch from the drag an' I turned off to see what was going on." He passed his tongue over his lips and took another swallow of water. "I followed 'em for a ways, out into the hills, and I was crossin' a ridge when one of 'em saw me skylined. I had sense enough to turn my hoss an' ride off when I knew I'd been hit an' I reckon they didn't bother to follow me very far. Then I struck back to find some of the outfit."

"Yo' ride with him," Clay bade Cheyenne. "And when yo' reach the others, tell Dan to send four or five men out. They'll come up with me if they hang to the trail of those cattle."

THE afternoon was well begun before he reached the spot where the thieves had made their cut from the trail; there must have been about three hundred in the bunch, and the rustlers had driven them straight toward the hills. His horse was fairly fresh, for he had caught a new mount from the remuda before setting out with Cheyenne; but, after the first few miles he took it slowly. It is the man in haste who runs into ambush, and he had a pretty definite idea that those whom he was following were seasoned hands.

The trail led straight up a canyon into the range, and departed from the main ravine into a tributary; and after Clay had been riding for two hours this widened into a sort of amphitheater, whose open end was not more than fifty yards from bank to bank, a natural corral. Here the signs showed plainly that the thieves had held the cattle and worked over them, but there was no animal in sight. It was a half hour before Clay discovered where the bunch had been driven away, down the gulch for a short distance, then up another tributary, and when he had followed this for nearly a mile the tracks led back toward the valley.

Now he traveled more cautiously than before, taking a long time in the crossing of every rise in order to make sure that no one caught him skylined. The sun had set when he rode down to the little stone house where John Lee had hoped to make his fortune, and as he was drawing near he saw his cattle grazing on the wide sagebrush flats.

No man was in sight. He dismounted before the door and he caught the sound of hoofs somewhere in the rear of the building. Then he drew his revolver and he was turning the corner when he heard Mrs. Swazy's voice.

"It's me," he said. "Clay Stratton."

"What," she demanded, "are yo' doing here?"

He shoved his revolver back into the holster as he replied:

"Looking for my cattle. And," he added grimly, "I've found 'em here."

She regarded him in silence for some moments.

"This is a bad mixup," she muttered. "Now where would Lee be?"

"Lee?" He repeated the name sharply. "An' this is where they live." He clutched Mrs. Swazy's arm. "Where is the girl?"

She told him her story, and after she had done, "I'll show yo' where the trail takes off into the hills."

They were riding up the first easy slope that led toward the darkening wall of the mountains when he spoke of the men who were to follow him.

"Better yo' wait for them and send them after me," he bade her.

So he pressed on and she started slowly back toward the little stone house. And neither of them knew of the thing which had terrified her horse when she was passing the corral.

An Open Letter to Pat O'Brien

Dear Pat: A friend of mine once took a one-barrel shower in a mountain camp—the water ran out while he was covered with soap. Don't let that happen in your finances this year, for you are under vibrations that tempt you to feel overconfident in the money department, especially this coming summer. Don't be too sure and things will go better. With best wishes, WYNN.

WPA Offers Two New Plays on Broadway

One Is Biblically Inspired Piece with a Touch Unmistakably Modern.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—The federal theater had things pretty much its own way this last week. Two of the Broadway showings were WPA enterprises, and rather interesting, too. One was biblical, a retelling of the Joseph and his brethren story in a drama called "The Sun and I," written by Barrie and Leona Stavis. The other was social, being the fourth edition of the Living Newspaper, the most original of federal theater ventures, which has developed a technique for dramatizing the news. "Power" is the title of the new edition, and it has to do with the discovery and development of electricity.

The biblical story of Joseph, as retold in "The Sun and I," also carries its social implications, I have no doubt, but they are fairly obscure. At least they eluded this spectator. We see Joseph, a little smug in his coat of many colors, hated by his ten messy brothers. Playfully they strip him of his coat and cast him into a slimy well, only to haul him out again when a passing Egyptian offers to buy the boy for 20 pieces of silver.

His Run of Bad Luck Continues in Egypt.

In Egypt things continue to go badly for Joseph. He is much too outspoken among the other slaves, causing a lot of unrest, though never quite getting to the point of advocating a sitdown strike. They toss Joseph into a dungeon by way of breaking his spirit, and there Vashnee, the wife of Potiphar, finds him and, appreciating the alertness of his mind, rescues him. He becomes adviser to Potiphar and, by his shrewd bargaining and greater vision, is able to bring great prosperity to Egypt. Joseph would have done well in this job had not Vashnee decided on a closer friendship. Joseph, however, was all for business. To be avenged Vashnee tore open her tunic and yelled for help, giving Potiphar the idea that Joseph had violated the state's hospitality, to say nothing of his friend's wife.

The incident was no more than a good joke to Pharaoh when he had Joseph brought before him as a Jewish prophet. Ten minutes' conversation convinced him that the boy had something, and he straightway gave him the Potiphar job. After that Joseph became a good deal of an economic royalist, working the help to death and acting a lot like a modern dictator. It was when he wanted to dam the Nile and put through a few extensive flood control projects that his fortunes failed him. The priests turned against him for interfering with the regularly organized flood and famine customs of the gods, and Pharaoh reluctantly had to choose between Joseph and a religious war. Being a good politician he refused to mix in religion and let Joseph go.

A nice new Tom Cracraft production has been provided by the federals, and the cast is competently professional. David Eaton plays Joseph, Frederic Tozere is the Pharaoh, Suzanne Caubaye the enticing Vashnee.

History of Electricity Basis of Play, "Power."

Nothing is claimed in the name of "Power" as a brief-holder for the people in their case against the greedier industrialists, but this is what it amounts to, besides being an interesting and carefully documented exposure of what has happened to electricity since it first was discovered and harnessed for the use of man. In a sort of prolog the nation's complete dependence on electrical power is illustrated by a collection of lighted vignettes showing what recently happened in Newark when the power lines failed and virtually the entire city was plunged into darkness for hours.

The Senator Norris of the cast emerges as the star of the drama by repeating several of the senator's speeches against the power trusts. Decisions of the Supreme court are read by a Charles Evans Hughes of the stage. Much of "Power" is exciting, all of it is interesting. The technical form is still crude and cumbersome, though the boys improve with each production. A cast of eighty or so actors and technicians is employed, including a few old-timers like William Roselle, Wilfred Clark, Burton Mallory, Norman Lloyd, Viola Swayne, etc. Arthur Arent prepared the script and Howard Bay did the settings.

Germany Promises Rival Drama to "Eternal Road."

Max Reinhardt, writing from Hollywood, tells his friends that he had word from Germany confirming Propagandist Minister Joseph Goebbels' intention of producing a pageant entitled "The Eternal Jew" to match the Reinhardt production of "The Eternal Road" in New York. In reply to which Mr. Reinhardt is sending word to Minister Goebbels that on the authority of Cardinal Hayes New York Catholics have received a special dispensation permitting them to include "The Eternal Road" as a Lenten theatrical exhibit worthy of their support.

GILBERT AND SULLIVAN COMEDIAN

Old Mexican Towns Reveal Their Charm

ing for the appointed village square. As many as ten and fifteen miles away you see old men, boys, and women on burros bound for the same destination. They are bearing loads of oranges or pots or mats or whatever they have to trade. Many are driving goats or a cow or lugging a basket of hens.

At first I assumed the motive behind all this to be the need for earning a living, but soon discovered another and stronger motive, one which has nothing to do with profits in material goods.

"How much for your baskets?" I ask of a husky peon as he saunters into the bustling village square. He has six baskets on a string over his shoulder.

"Buenos dias, señor. One peso for one," he grunts.

"How much for all six?" I ask.

"No sell six."

"Not for ten pesos?"

"No, señor."

"Well, didn't you come here to sell your baskets?"

"Yes, señor, but it is too early. If I sell all now, what will I do the rest of the day?"

Thus the spirit of the market place in Mexico.

In all the traits of character and all the panoply of emotion which make the Mexican market what it is, no one personality stands out more than that of the burro. He takes up the brown man's burden and asks nothing in return, not even a day off on odd Thursdays. On his little shoulders rests all the weight of Mexico's plodding past and present, and who can say it will be any different in the future?

And yet the Mexican price for a burro ranges from nothing up to about ten pesos; in other words, it averages about a buck and a half in our money. That means that a herd of fifty burros could be bought for the price of one pedigreed poodle in the United States.

Another day on the road, and we have wound our way down through the cactus canyons and little valleys of corn and fruit trees to Acapulco on the Pacific. The last 200-mile stretch needs much improving before it can be called a finished highway, for it is surfaced only with loose gravel and is so narrow that your chance meeting on a sharp curve with a truck driven by a peon thinking of the girl he left behind might easily become the final obliterating smudge across your picture of perfect health.

Here in Acapulco is a good place to leave off the story, for it is tropical and hot and there is nothing further but the Pacific ocean anyway. The underbrush round about is arustle with the shy land iguana, and the white walls of your room echo the nightly chirp of the tiny chameleon. You live mostly on fish cooked in butter, and all you can remember of your days is one long bask under the torrid summer sun between brief wallowings in the sultry salt of the largest and most peaceful ocean on earth.

Clown's Tragedy

DURING the engagement of the D'Oyly Carte Opera company whenever "The Yeomen of the Guard" was staged, the question was often asked, "Does Jack Point die at the fall of the curtain?"

As all clowns have a secret desire to play "Hamlet," so W. S. Gilbert played with the idea of writing something tragic. But, being one of the foremost wits of his time, comedy was expected of him.

George Grossmith, who originated the part of Jack Point, knew this, and ended the play on a note of comedy. He fell on the stage with a quaint grimace and a squeak that was funny.

After the Savoy theater production, however, Henry Lytton was sent out on tour with the D'Oyly Carte Opera company as Jack Point. It occurred to him that the production would be enhanced if Jack Point were to clutch hopelessly at the skirts of his beloved, Elsie Maynard, and then die—not merely faint—at her feet.

So this tragic note was introduced for the first time at the Theatre Royal, Bath, Somerset, England. The company manager sent a wire to Richard D'Oyly Carte at the close of the performance informing him that "Lytton was simply impossible as Jack Point" and asking for instructions. Richard D'Oyly Carte went to Bath next day and watched the performance. He approved of the innovation that Lytton had made.

Sometime later Gilbert himself saw the performance and said that it was just what he wanted. He had intended from the beginning that the end should be tragedy.

Martyn Green of the present company carries out the author's stage directions, which simply state that "Jack Point falls insensible."

Bankhead Coming

TALLULAH BANKHEAD in "Reflected Glory," a comedy by George Kelly, will come to the Grand Opera house on March 15. The star will be supported by Clay Clement, Ann Andrews, Phillip Reed, Elizabeth Dunne, Alden Chase, Madeline Holmes, Edmund George, William H. Turner, Chester Miller, Robert Bordoni, and S. T. Bratton.

"Reflected Glory" marks Miss Bankhead's most successful performance since her return to the American stage after a career in London and in moving pictures. She is now on tour in her own country for the first time.

Three Plays, Same Author.

Maxwell Anderson, the dramatist, now has three plays running on Broadway. They are "High Tor" at the Martin Beck, "The Wingless Victory" at the Empire, and "The Masque of Kings" at the Shubert.

London Mothers Ask Girls to Subscribe to Four Ply Sanity Pledge

By JUDITH CASS.

THE two buds pictured on this page are among the crop that blossomed in Chicago during the 1936-'37 season. Instead of giving up the entire first half of the winter to debutante gayety they joined those who trekked collegeward in the autumn and enjoyed only the gay but hectic whirl that is every bud's life during the Christmas holidays.

Perhaps the Chicago mothers of next year's debutantes will join the London mothers who are forming a sort of trade union and are asking their daughters to subscribe to certain rules circumscribing their activities. It is said to have been started by Lady Zia Wernher, daughter of the Grand Duke Michael of Russia, whose daughter is one of the outstanding buds of the London season that will start in May.

English mothers have decided that girls who come straight from school where they are accustomed to early hours, outdoor sports, and plain food, suffer too many breakdowns and too many cases of anemia after they are plunged into five months of perpetual gayety. Hence the rules:

"I can stay up as late as I like as long as I stay in bed until midday to make up for it.

"I may drink moderately, but only at meal times and at parties where it would be unfair to the hostess to refuse.

"I will not compete with other debutantes who have larger dress allowances than I.

"I will not make myself 'cheap' by showing too great enthusiasm for any man who seems to like me."

Chicago mothers undoubtedly would agree that it would be wise if their debutante daughters would sign on the dotted line, too, and it might be that the Chicago mammas would add a few more pledges.

There is great agitation now among the mothers and the fathers of Chicago debutantes to try to keep their daughters from feeling that the final touch to a glorious first year "out" is to become engaged to be married. These parents feel it would be better if a debutante would wait until she has settled down to the normal life of a post-deb before choosing her husband.

Writer Reveals What Future Holds Socially

By Cousin Eve.

SEPTEMBER seems a far cry, but will be here before we know it. Coming to see us then, their royal highnesses, Prince and Princess Chichibu of Japan, brother and sister-in-law of the great man-god Hirohito, emperor of Nippon. The Chichibus are leaving Tokio for Yokohama in a few days and thence to Canada by battle cruiser en route to the coronation. The romance of this exalted young couple is one of the most charming and typically Japanese I know.

Prince Chichibu was heir to the imperial throne until the birth of sons to the emperor. Finally the prince wished to marry, and as there were no royal girls in the offing, it was difficult. He really fell in love with enchanting young Mlle. Matsudaira, daughter of Viscount Yoshitima Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to England. It was a great parti for a young commoner but could not be, according to protocol, very rigid in Japan.

Mlle. Matsudaira was lovely as a flower and exceedingly well educated, so an aunt of the emperor adopted her and she became royal. Thus was her rank so high that she might become by marriage sister-in-law to the emperor, and the path made clear for the wedding. The foster mother of the bride gave her a fortune in jewels for every occasion. The story is that little Princess Chichibu was so delighted with these glittering gifts from the western world that she put them all on at once and gloated over the effect. The Chichibus live in a huge, detached palace behind a high iron fence, outside of which imperial sentries in vivid uniform march. This royal visit will give our best social minds something to think about between now and September.

WRITING of magnificent jewels reminds one of Lenten dove dinner parties followed by bridge which one has frequented of late. Women dress elaborately for each other's edification, and the quantity of superb jewelry worn makes the head swim. As each woman sweeps in, her hands and wrists glittering like the southern sky, one wonders how dare they be so reckless, with unemployment on the increase since the big strikes and thugs on the rampage. The answer, however, is simple and very amusing. Czechoslovakia, it seems, specializes in the jewel industry. There are created the cleverest jewelry fakes in the world, taking as models the best designs of Paris and London and reproducing them accurately.

Even the feel of the rings and bracelets is smooth and good. Everything they turn out is absolutely ripping. The result is that women are wearing fifteen carat emerald cut diamonds now who never wore them before. There are star sapphires, baguette diamonds, and Peruvian emeralds that would almost fool M. Cartier. The bracelets are fascinating and of intricate design, so fine as not to be classed as "hardware." And, owing to beneficent exchange, many of these chef d'oeuvres can be had in State street for less than $1.

Col. W. Stewart Roddie of London held the center of the lecturing stage last week in Chicago. A descendant of the great Scottish family of Stuart, he is a man of fascination, dark, slim, and spare, with all the dash of a Londoner and all the hardihood of a Scot, even to a slight burr. His ancestral acres are in Rosshire, not far from Culloden field, and just above Inverness.

Both the Woman's Athletic and the Contemporary clubs had Col. Roddie's lecture "The Maelstrom of Europe." I listened to it twice and was much entertained by the distinguished visitor's Scottish irony on the subject of all dictators. Boiled down, this lecture is a dramatization of the European situation, so that the avid lecture goer can swallow it all at one gulp.

One learns how men and guns and warships and airplanes are piled into a gigantic "kitty" of rapidly mounting armament, while whole populations are gaunt with hunger. The speaker had come recently from the Balkans and had much to say of the Little Entente and the new Jugo-Slav army, much the best equipped and trained in Europe.

Unless a spiritual regeneration overtakes this world quite soon, Col. Roddie says that the new war which will certainly flare forth will destroy Europe. Certainly the British officer is no propagandist, for every country got a rap over the knuckles.

BUT one cannot say as much for the envoy of the Panchan Lama of Tibet, Gordon Enders, who made a Roman holiday for the Foreign Relations last Saturday. A large and highly fashionable audience heard the thrilling love episode that lies behind the Chinese kidnaping of Generalissimo Chiang-Kai-shek by young, dashing Gen. Chang.

The story, as we heard it, concerned T. V. Soong, multi-millionaire former secretary of the treasury. In early life a love affair for a young heiress was rudely quenched by her father, who married her instead to gay young Gen. Chang. T. V. Soong, who married and became a tremendous political gun in China, had three sisters, Mme. Sun Yat-sen, wife of the Socialist president; Mme. H. H. Kung, wife of the banker and statesman who is lineally descended from Confucius, and Mme. Chiang-Kai-shek. Mr. Soong never got over being in love with Mme. Chang, and this lady seems to have influenced her husband to take possession of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek when he journeyed up to Sian-fu to inspect flood damage. This she did ostensibly because T. V. Soong was angry at Chiang, his own brother-in-law, for removing him from his soft berth in the treasury.

In the end, as we all know, Gen. Chang was glad to return to Nanking with his distinguished captive—Generalissimo Chiang, safe and whole. It sounded like a bed-time story as unfolded by Mr. Gordon B. Enders. And especially soothing were the items: what good fellows Chinese communists really are. And what would be more natural than for a mildly communist China to hitch up with a reformed Russia in the face of belligerent Japan and Germany? I ask you. Evidently Mr. Enders, envoy of the Panchan Lama, is one of these chaps we read about in thrilling oriental fiction. Among familiar faces: the Graham Aldises, Mrs. E. F. Carry, Mrs. E. A. Russell, Mrs. Ralph James, Mrs. John Crerar, Mrs. Herbert Schwarz, Mrs. E. Warren Everett, Harry Wilmerding, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dempster, Russell Tyson, Dr. and Mrs. Hubert Barker, sailing soon for China.

MY morning mail was full of woe yesterday. A mourning card a foot long came out of Rome. Bordered in black and headed by a sable cross, it announced the recent death there of one of the noblest and highest born of Roman matrons, Principessa Elisabetta Lancellotti, née Aldobrandini. The princess was very old; in years she was nearly a 100, but in austere and venerable qualities, she held her family in check as if they had been nurslings. Enormously wealthy in Roman real estate and country properties, she was the head of the family. Often while driving round Rome with some of her descendants, they would point out palaces, villas, and gardens as being "mamma's." Once in order to show me some of the Lancellotti estates at Frascati, her youngest and favorite daughter was obliged to get "mamma's permesso," which was rather a chore. This woman, herself a duchess with a family of children and a Roman palace having a hundred staircases, referred to the noble old patrician in everything.

Princess Lancellotti came of a family allied with all the great houses of Rome. Hers was the famous Villa Palmieri at Frascati which the former kaiser bought by stealth through an agent—now confiscated by Italy and state property. I read with sadness the passing of this great princess of the celebrated house of Aldobrandini, a link with Italy's long and picturesque historical past. The pope had blessed her last breath, and a list, as long as my hand, of princes, and dukes, and duchesses mourned with "profound dolor" her loss.

MUCH coming and going in East Delaware place Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Lawrence Meeker and Princess Rostislav opened their new studio. First there was a style show, and for this event a mouse could not have got in. Mrs. Walter B. Wolf was hostess, and a continuous line of young and lovelies came out in many suave combinations, and also a few that were smartly crude and violent. One joined in applause for Mrs. Winfield Ellis, Mrs. Murray Washburn Jr., Mrs. Tommy Tyler, Mrs. Olmstead, who is a dashing model; Margaret Mitchell, a dear little debbit of this season, and also young Ellen Glore.

The joint hostesses, Kitty Meeker and Aleka, the lovable Russian princess who long ago won the heart of Chicago, are two of the prettiest women in town. The new studio is papered in white with splashing red flowers, and the furniture is black and white. Pots of white tulips and huge baskets of red and white flowers filled the windows, delicately curtained in stiff white lawn. Late that afternoon, the men came in, husbands, brothers, cousins, and there was, I heard at dinner, much drinking to the new enterprise in champagne. Among the men who ventured into these haunts of fashion were Joseph Bowen, Barret Wendell Jr., James B. Forgan Jr., Lawrence Meeker, Ambrose Cramer, Laurens Hastings, Winfield Ellis, Prince Rostislav.

Late that afternoon Miss Emily Larned arranged a large tea at the Ambassador East. Here a new small ballroom has bloomed where the Polo room used to be, and this was full of guests. Miss Larned gave a short and diverting globe trotting talk, apparently unrattled by the presence of Burton Holmes in her audience. Her intermissions were filled by illustrative sings by three men, among whom the Count Gai de Vermond, a handsome Frenchman, seems to be making an equal social hit with his predecessor of last year, Marquis de Veyrac. After this novel program there was one of the most conversational teas one has ever listened to. Much success, I should say.

IT seems to be the moment for Chicago people of the literary set to betake themselves to the cyclone cellar. For, Mrs. E. M. Delafield, the English lady authoress who writes as she runs, is here again under the Arthur Meeker roof tree. Having read with my own eyes her review of Chicago social experiences in an English magazine, I feel free to quote a few which seemed to have caused her the most pain. There were scathing lines for that queen of good hostesses, Kate Brewster, who had personally conducted the English guest to a suite in her Lake Forest house. Whatever Mrs. Brewster said when she left her in the charming guest rooms seemed to be all wrong, for an interpretation, purely provincial, was put upon it.

A man just home from Europe tells me that 1,000,000 people already have died in the Spanish civil war. There is savagery in the very lack of news. I have in my hand a letter from a Spanish royalty and will quote a phrase or two: "My Spanish nephews left France and both presented themselves to Gen. Mola at Burgos. But both were sent back by Mola, as he did not want Infantes of Spain among his people. Luis returned to us, while Pepe stayed with his wife and child in France [his wife is a great-granddaughter of de Lesseps]. The boys of my cousin Ali [grand children of Aunt Eulalia], not being Infantes anymore, are fighting with Franco. One of them, the second, Alonso, fell before Madrid. That is, he was burned in his airplane. A son of Carlos Bourbon and the Infanta Luisa [Louise de France] fell in August. Alfonso Bourbon, a cousin of another line, known as Marques de Squilache, was murdered in Madrid by the Reds the day Alfonso fell. Many of our best friends were murdered. Others fell in the battle there."

Paris Pattern Creates Your "First" Frock for Spring

able in sizes 14 and 16, and in 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS. — [Special.] — This Paris pattern, No. 5178, is designed in the same manner as dresses that women such as Mme. Jacques Balsan [Consuelo Vanderbilt] and the young Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt ordered to wear at Palm Beach. It comes to you for your first spring shirtmaker frock, that you'll be wanting in some of the enchanting new printed materials you find in the shops. Make it of printed challis, shantung, crepe, or cotton. All are smart. Blue and white prints will be especially good with black, brown, or dark blue coats. Prints on yellow grounds are chic and go marvelously well with black, navy, or brown coats. Red on dark or white ground is fresh and springlike, and good for this dress.

You will do well to choose a silk with a dark ground if you want to wear it to the office or in the street. The pattern may be gay, but should not be a big pattern for early spring.

Chicago Born Woman Heads Paris Papers

By May Birkhead.

PARIS

It is interesting that a Chicago born woman should have found fame as a newspaper owner and director in Paris. Yet that is, in a word, the career of Mme. Paul Dupuy, born Helen Brown, who recently visited her native city to inspect the publishing plant of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Mme. Dupuy owns two dailies in Paris. One of them, the Excelsior, she personally directs with success. The other, the Petit Parisien, she and her two sons inherited from the late Paul Dupuy, whom Helen married about thirty years ago. He then was a rising young publisher, and political place coincided with his newspaper success. For years he represented his district, the Pyrenees, in the French senate. The Petit Parisien brought him a fortune, and had for years the largest circulation not only in France but of any daily newspaper anywhere.

Mme. Dupuy took to conducting the journals like a duck to water. With her capacity for work, her tact, her mind scintillating with ideas, and her readiness to acquire more of them, she makes an impression on every one who meets her. She understands the French people thoroughly, a feat which requires a bit of doing. While not running counter to the wishes of the French, she has infused so many American ideas, so much "go" and snap into her newspapers that they have maintained their position in the forefront of Parisian journalism.

Mme. Paul Dupuy.
[Wide World Photo.]

Some years before her husband died he and she visited the leading newspaper plants of America, and it is no secret that they found THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE the most interesting and stimulating of them all. Since Senator Dupuy's death his widow continues her sole direction of the Excelsior, and also gives much time to running the Petit Parisien.

When in Paris Mme. Dupuy is at her desk from early morning until late at night. It goes without saying that she has a remarkable grasp of political and economic problems, but this does not mean that she neglects literature and the arts. On the contrary, she herself is indefatigable as a first nighter at interesting plays, and her special hobby is the best in music. With all her other activities she fills a leading place in Parisian society.

Mme. Dupuy's children, two sons and a daughter, have been trained to an appreciation of the practical as well as the artistic. The sons both are active in directing the Petit Parisien. The elder, Jean Dupuy, about three years ago married Dorothy Spreckels, daughter of the late A. B. Spreckels of San Francisco. Jean and his wife visit America every year.

Mme. Paul Dupuy recently stopped off at Chicago on her way to San Francisco. She expects to return to Paris in the early spring. Her daughter Gladys a few years ago became the wife of Prince Guy de Polignac of the well known family that owns a champagne company at Rheims.

When in Paris Mme. Paul Dupuy sailles, the Château de la Maye, a historic place flanking the Pond of resides in a handsome apartment overlooking the Bois de Boulogne, and she also has a home in Ver-

Clagny. There she lives amid her beautiful rose gardens and her superb antiques, which she has picked up all over France. In fact, her hobby, aside from music and flowers, is collecting antique furniture and porcelain. With her snow white hair, her bright brown eyes, her captivating smile, her chic in dress, she is everywhere an animated and gracious figure, esteemed for her talents and the use she makes of them.

Chicagoans in Phoenix Enjoy Outdoor Pool

PHOENIX, ARIZ.

Chicagoans at the Arizona Biltmore often lunch at the beautiful outdoor pool after a dip in the crystal water. Then they bask in the sunshine on their cabana patios. The Richard O'Haras and their son and daughter, Edward and Miss Lorraine, enjoyed luncheon with the M. J. Bernets Monday, while on the other side of the pool were the T. J. Petersons, Miss Helen Peterson, and Mrs. F. J. Alexander. There also were the Francis Neilsons with Miss Nora M. Carney of Lake Forest, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins and their guests.

Enjoying a quiet twosome were the Fred W. Woodruffs of Joliet. Mrs. William Wrigley Jr. entertained recently at dinner at her home on the Biltmore property, "La Colina Solana," Miss Mary Louise Anderson, George Wheeler and the junior Denis E. Sullivans [Mrs. Sullivan is the former Betty Offield]. Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan are spending several weeks with Mrs. Wrigley.

Mr. and Mrs. David B. Gann of Chicago recently were hosts at a luncheon in the beautiful breakfast room for many of the Biltmore guests.

A cocktail party of much interest was that given by the George Henneberrys, celebrating their wedding anniversary. Their guests were the junior Denis E. Sullivans, the T. J. Petersons and Miss Helen Peterson; the Nelson Bucks, the James G. McMillans, Judge and Mrs. George A. Carpenter, the T. Samuel Parsons, the Joseph O. Watkinses, the Benjamin Coopers, Miss Nora Carney, Mrs. F. J. Alexander, Mrs. L. B. Manning, Miss Helen Sturgis of New York, and the R. A. Stranahans of Toledo, O.

Girl Scouts of Four States to Meet Here

GIRL SCOUTS from four states, 350 strong, will gather next Friday and Saturday at the Harriet Hammond McCormick Memorial Y. W. C. A. to consider a new program for older Girl Scouts. Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, and Indiana will be represented at the conference, which is the first to be held for older girls under the auspices of the Timber Trail junior camp committee.

A dinner will open the meeting Friday evening, with Miss Alicia Haake, conference chairman, as toastmistress. Miss Esther Stamats, director of the Chicago Y. W. C. A.'s service department, will speak on "Wider Horizons in Vocations for Girls of Today."

"The Older Girl Program" will be the topic of the chief address Saturday morning. Miss Katherine Hammett of the national field division of Girl Scouts will be the speaker.

DISCUSSION groups on the mariner program, organization of older girls' troops, and other phases of Scout work will follow, with Miss Lois Durheim of Springfield, Ill.; Miss Carol Schuhman of Chicago; Miss Mollie Clasper of Chicago; Miss Margaret Sandoe of University City, Mo.; Miss Mary Hall of Wauwatosa, Wis.; and Miss Jane Bernstein of Chicago leading the groups.

Following luncheon there will be a symposium on "Our Social Selves," in which personality, appearance, manner, and friendships will be discussed by Miss Barbara Lewis, Miss Betty Chown and Miss Jeanne Turpin. Mrs. David McCarn, educational director of the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene, will speak on "Our Social Selves from 15 to 20."

An oratorical contest will be held in conjunction with the Americanism and national defense program to be sponsored by the Sixth district council of the American Legion auxiliary next Saturday evening in the ballroom of the 122d Field Artillery armory, 234 East Chicago avenue.

Six students, boys and girls from Lane, Lake View, and Immaculata High schools, will compete in the contest on the theme, "America, an Example to the World." To the winner will go a cash prize and the right to represent the district in the county contest.

Also on the program will be an address on Americanism by Mrs. Ida Cassidy, department Americanism chairman, and a talk on national defense by Sidney T. Holzman, junior past Cook county council Legion commander. Representatives of Sons of the American Legion and other junior patriotic groups will give a pageant, and there will be greetings from Commander William J. Collins of the Sixth district council, and from Mrs. Hazel Woolman, district director, who will preside.

THE Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, through its national defense committee, will join with Illinois Sons of the American Revolution in giving a dinner Thursday evening at the Hamilton club. Floyd E. Thompson, president of the Illinois Sons, will speak on "Americanism, an Antidote for Other Isms."

Chancellor L. Jenks, past president general of the Sons of the American Revolution; Wilbur Helm, past president, and Carroll H. Sudler are among those who will be present at the dinner. Mrs. James Henry Jackson, regent of the Chicago chapter, will present Mr. Thompson, and Mrs. J. De Forest Richards, chairman of the national defense committee, will preside.

Mrs. J. De Forest Richards.

Young musicians will compete in finals of state contests sponsored by the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs today and tomorrow at Lyon & Healy's concert hall. Only students adjudged ready for a concert career in preliminary tests are being admitted to the finals.

One winner will be selected for each classification—piano, violin, and voice—to compete in the district contest March 24, in which Iowa and Wisconsin winners also will compete. Mrs. Harrison H. Havner, Miss Helen Howe, and Miss Rose Lyon Du Moulin constitute the contest committee.

American born women composers are to be the recipients of four prizes which Sigma Alpha Iota, national music fraternity for women, is establishing.

FOUR classes of works will be considered for awards. Larger choral works, sacred or secular for mixed or women's voices with orchestral accompaniment, will be eligible for a $350 award; a cappella works of three or four parts for women's voices only, a $150 award; shorter works in two, three, or four parts for women's voices, a $100 award, and a Sigma Alpha Iota national song or hymn, a $100 award, to be made to Sigma Alpha Iota members only.

Mrs. John Charles Carroll, Gamma province patroness chairman for the project, reports several chapters already engaged in a drive for funds to finance the awards.

Gamma chapter, headed by Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, is the first chapter to exceed its quota, and Alpha Xi chapter, under Mrs. Louis Juhnke's leadership, also has topped its quota. The province includes five chapters in Chicago and Evanston, and others in Milwaukee, Appleton, and Madison, Wis., Galesburg and Carthage, Ill.

From 9:30 until 4:30 o'clock exhibits from both public and private schools of the Chicago area will be on view, and beginning at 10 o'clock there will be eight half hour talks, scheduled as follows: 10, "Leisure Time Activities," Miss Elizabeth Waterman, Winentka public schools; 10:30, "Science Hobbies," Miss Kathryn Steinmetz, principal, Pasteur school; 11, "Nature Hobbies," Dr. Hazel Schmoll, Field Museum of Natural History.

Other addresses scheduled are: 11:30, "Camera Fun," R. H. Fallert; 1, "Stamp Collecting," Ralph Kimble; 1:30, "Playground Hobbies," V. K. Brown, director of recreation, Chicago city parks; 2, "Play Clubs," Preston Zimmerman, director of Chicago play clubs; "Book Hobbies," Miss Elsie Wygant, Barrington County Day school.

The Central Council of Childhood Education, organized 14 years ago, has a membership of 300 educators in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

Simple Flower Vases Are Most Appropriate

KEEP on hand a good assortment of flower vases or containers. Choose simple forms, preferably undecorated. To the Japanese bronze is the most appropriate.

BRIDE OF LAST MONTH

Miss Betty Wahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David E. Wahl of River Forest, became the bride on Feb. 27 of Andrew G. Lyon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Lyon of Hackensack, N. J., in the River Forest Presbyterian church. The bride studied at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, and the bridegroom is a graduate of Princeton. They will be at home after March 14 at 320 Wisconsin avenue, Oak Park.

Major Events in Club Realm to Occur Here

TWO of the most important meetings of the week, each drawing a number of representative women from out of town, have been scheduled with an eye to the fourth annual Woman Congress, taking place Wednesday and Thursday at the Palmer House under the auspices of THE TRIBUNE.

The board of directors of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs is adjourning the final session of a two day conference in time to attend the opening session of the Woman Congress Wednesday noon.

The Catholic Daughters of America are holding their annual spring board meeting the day after the congress at the Palmer House.

Miss Mary C. Duffy, supreme regent of the Catholic Daughters, who will address the Woman Congress, is to preside at the board meeting Friday. The State court of Illinois, headed by Miss Elizabeth O'Brien, state regent, is planning a reception for the national officers as the principal social event of the day.

Miss Mary C. Duffy.

The Illinois federation's conference, its regular spring board meeting, will open Tuesday with three sessions, morning, afternoon, and evening. A morning session Wednesday will adjourn promptly at 11 o'clock. "We Have a Mind of Our Own" will be the theme of the reports to be submitted by state vice presidents and district presidents, and state department and committee heads will submit for approval outlines for the coming year.

EACH district president will present the name of the oldest living club member in her district, and the woman selected will be paid tribute as "Our Federation Mother" at the state convention, May 11 to 13, in Peoria. A dinner for the board will be held Tuesday evening at the Chicago Woman's club, with Mrs. Fred W. Waterman, state press and publicity chairman, and Mrs. Albert J. Pohlman, chairman of the program bureau, in charge.

A public welfare conference will be held at 10:30 o'clock Monday at the Hotel Sherman under the auspices of the Illinois federation. The control of cancer, treatment and cure of syphilis, and supervised recreation will be topics considered. Mrs. G. J. Rickard of Pekin, state public welfare chairman, will preside.

The board of directors of the Travelers' Aid society of Chicago is giving a dinner in connection with the 23d annual meeting of the organization Wednesday evening at the Union League club.

ANOTHER annual meeting of the week will be that of the Daughters of the British Empire Tuesday morning at the Republic building, 209 South State street. Mrs. Harry Hughes, state president, will conduct the session, at which regents of the 28 Illinois chapters will report on their work of the year.

A national organization, the Daughters of the British Empire have had an Illinois organization since 1920. Chief among their philanthropies are homes for aged men and women of British birth or ancestry in the east, west, south, and middle west, the last named in Hollywood, Ill.

A busy spring is in prospect for the Service club of the Little Company of Mary hospital. Mrs. James P. O'Keefe, ways and means chairman, is directing a campaign for funds to erect a convent building adjoining the hospital.

A series of post-Lenten bridge parties will be given by members of the club in their homes in order to augment the club, and additional sums will be obtained through the annual bake sale on April 13.

INDECISION

Jane swings on the door
And seems not to know
Exactly which way
She is anxious to go.

She comes in a minute
And then she slips out;
I do declare, Child,
What are you about?

You may go or may stay,
But I've told you before
You must make up your mind
And—don't swing on the door!

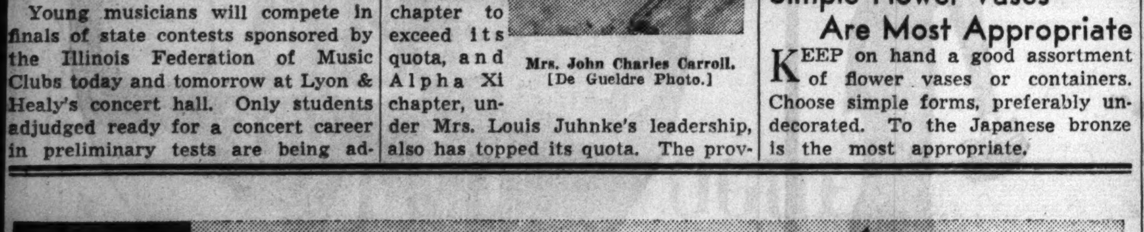
I might skate, says Jane;
I might walk, I might ride.
I'm just swinging your door,
To help me decide.

Princess' Studio a Rendezvous for Paris Music Set

PARIS Princesse Edmond de Polignac, the former Winnaretta Singer, has, in addition to her regular residence in Paris, a studio in the nearby Rue Cortambert, where she often acts as hostess at distinguished musical affairs.

One recent evening she arranged a program, in general charge of Mlle. Nadia Boulanger.

The composers played ranged from Bach and Monteverde to Charpentier and Poulenc, and among those who came in were Comtesse Pecci-Blunt, niece of the late Pope Leo XIII.; Mrs. John R. Drexel, an old time resident of Paris; a large contingent of the many Rothschilds, including Baron Maurice de Rothschild, the racing man; Baronne Edmond de Rothschild, and Comte and Comtesse Jean de Polignac.



March Finds Palm Beachers Still in Whirl

By Helen Van Hoy Smith.

PALM BEACH, FLA.

The march of time has reached the time of March and society in Palm Beach still is on a gayly painted merry-go-round. There have been, and we lower our voice discreetly so the chamber of commerce won't hear, a few rather cool days, but they have only added zest to golf and put a little more pep into shopping tours. The toy bull pups in the window of the flower and pet shop on Worth avenue were wearing cunning little coats.

Parties have a way of following the clock around. Long lines of sleek looking cars are parked under the palms as festivities are in progress in homes which almost compare in size and richness to the Field museum or the Merchandise mart; in hotels where the dream of dwelling in marble halls becomes a reality, and in private clubs where the outsider couldn't break in with a crowbar.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy had a luncheon on Tuesday at their home on Grace trail. Meanwhile the new home of the Cudahys on Middle road is taking shape rapidly, and promises to be one of the beauty spots of the resort.

MR. and Mrs. George Henry High entertained during the week at the Beach club. Mr. and Mrs. Wolcott Blair attended the large dinner at the Everglades club on Friday night given by Viscount Richard Adare, the earl of Sefton, the Right Honorable Charles Winn, and the Hon. Lionel Montagu.

Mr. and Mrs. George Albert Eddy entertained at the Everglades club. Others from Chicago present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herendeen and Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Tevander. Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock has as her guests at Casa Alejandro in Vita Serena Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kirk, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Caspar W. B. Townsend and Miss Maris Townsend, Philadelphia, and Robert Cutler and Chandler Diglow, Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Yager, Mrs. Frank O. Butler, and Franklin P. Smith were among the fifty-five attending a dinner at the Everglades club given by Elwood Rice of New York. Mrs. Butler attended the luncheon with which Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman entertained at the Everglades on Wednesday.

Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Paul Healy, Mrs. O. N. Tevander, and Miss Althea Tevander are among the Chicagoans in Palm Beach who plan to attend the coronation. Mrs. Healy will preface her trip to London with a fortnight in Washington, D. C., and a short stay in New York.

Mrs. George Hoyt Baxter of East Hampton and her daughter, Mrs. Volney Foster of Chicago, entertained with a luncheon on Wednesday.

• • •

SEVERAL of the Chicago colony attended a cocktail party on Wednesday given by Mrs. Hamlin-Hasler of old Westbury, L. I., and one today by Harry Skillman, at the Breakers, will be an event.

Palm Beach bought peanuts and popcorn Friday and attended the annual society baseball game between

Mrs. White and Constance.

Philadelphia and New York at Poinciana field. The game was for the benefit of the police pension fund in Palm Beach. These games have been annual affairs for almost thirty years, and the pension fund, safely invested, now amounts to $7,000. As yet it is intact, nobody having had to use any of it up to this time. On Monday there will be a gala ball at the Colony club for this fund.

Mrs. Marion McKay Leroy of Chicago, who is at the Breakers, entertained about thirty on Thursday with a luncheon at the Everglades club.

The fashion shows at the Everglades club attract hundreds of dwellers on this far and rock bound island every week. Among the society models were Mrs. Edward J. White of Chicago. Mrs. White received a prize, the winning costume being a daytime ensemble of black and white print, worn with a full length coat of black wool crêpe and a large black baku hat.

Another extremely effective gown modeled by Mrs. White was in hand painted jersey, a blend of high colors in modernistic design on a neutral background. Miss Constance White also was a prize winner, with a spectator sports frock of orange color, with a white zipper up the front, tricky white linen hat, and white shoes. Another unusual article modeled by this attractive brunette was a green, hand blocked linen evening frock.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Smith are spending a few days in Nassau, having cruised there aboard their palatial yacht Kenkora.

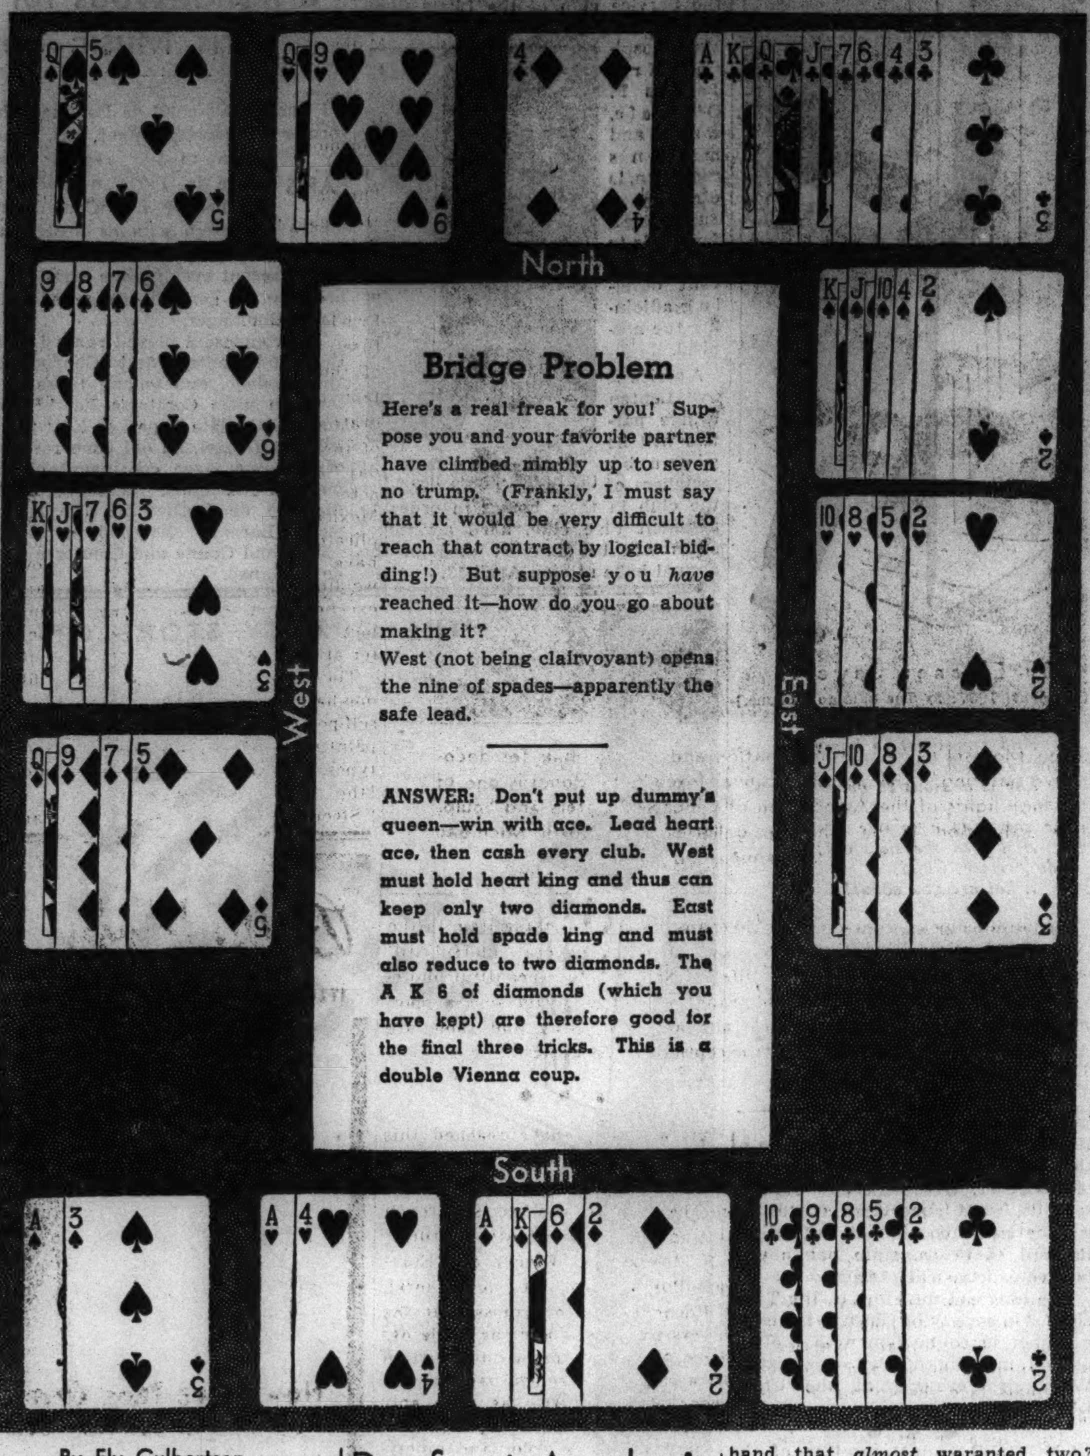
MR. and Mrs. Edward J. White entertained on Saturday with a merry cocktail party, having about fifty at their villa in Hammon avenue. Chicagoans present included Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stillson Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hecht, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Belden, Mrs. Frank O. Butler, Mrs. Earl P. Mallory, and Mrs. Paul Healy.

This resort was anticipating the visit of Lady Plunket, who was expected to visit her mother, Fanny Ward, the actress, and her husband, Jack Dean. This visit, however, will be deferred for some time, as Lady Plunket is in Nassau.

Contract According to Culbertson



Bridge Problem

Here's a real freak for you! Suppose you and your favorite partner have climbed nimbly up to seven no trump. (Frankly, I must say that it would be very difficult to reach that contract by logical bidding!) But suppose you have reached it—how do you go about making it?

West (not being clairvoyant) opens the nine of spades—apparently the safe lead.

ANSWER: Don't put up dummy's queen—win with ace. Lead heart ace, then cash every club. West must hold heart king and thus can keep only two diamonds. East must hold spade king and must also reduce to two diamonds. The A K 6 of diamonds (which you have kept) are therefore good for the final three tricks. This is a double Vienna coup.

By Ely Culbertson

(Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.)

IT IS the last rubber of the evening! You have already played three "last rubbers," but this is really the final. Two unexciting hands turn up, impartially giving one game to you and one to your opponents. Comes the next deal, and you pick up your cards with the prayer that they will produce a vulnerable grand slam to help wipe out the 4,000-point deficit you have piled up during the session. But only one glance is necessary to convince you that if a grand slam is in the offing it will probably be bid by the opponents! Your holding (if such débris can be called a holding) is:

♠ 8 5 ♥ 9 ♦ Q 9 8 5 4 ♣ 8 7 5 4 3

Your partner dealt (for which you could kick him heartily!) and, after puttering around with his cards, comes out with a bid of one spade. Well, you can breathe a little easier—you will probably get into a mess, but at least the opponents may not go game! Second hand passes, and you do likewise—your "tripe" does not even warant a measly no trump to hold the bidding open. You hope the one spade will be allowed to play but are not greatly surprised when fourth hand steps boldly into the breach with one no trump. But hear, hear—your partner now unlooses heavy artillery—he doubles, in no uncertain tone. Second hand pipes up, "Two hearts." Now you would like to hint that you have good distribution at least, but the lone queen that sums up your honor strength rightly deters you from such an ambiguous free bid. You pass, fourth hand passes, and your wonderful, delightful partner doubles again! Why, he must have a power house to be so insistent that you make a bid! After a pass you chirp, "Three diamonds," and over fourth hand's dolorous pass partner barks, "Five diamonds!" Well, well, this is splendid! You started out by visualizing a slam for the opponents, and here you are in a game contract of your own, which, in the light of your partner's terrific bidding, should have a splendid chance for success.

But hold on, let's think a moment! Why be so pleased about a game contract? Of course, it's nice to have had a premonition of disaster turned into a semi-assurance of victory, but why stop there? True, you don't want to be greedy, but perhaps there is more to this than meets the eye. Your partner insisted not only once but twice that you make a bid. He knew that you must have a very poor hand to have passed his opening one bid, and this impression must have been strengthened by your failure to take action after he had made his first takeout double. So far you have made no bid whatsoever—your three diamond call was a forced response which placed absolutely no responsibility on your shoulders. On top of that your partner jumped to five diamonds. Collate all your facts and you now have this composite picture: That partner, knowing that you have an almost worthless hand, feels there is a good play for five diamonds. He may be depending on you for nothing more than an honorless five-card suit. As it happens, you have the queen, and, what is even more important, you have a singleton heart about which he could know nothing. You are short in his suit, which under the circumstances is an asset rather than a liability. These three factors are enough to warant your contracting for a small slam! Granted, it takes nerve, but the decision will be sound—you should have an excellent play for it. You bid it and in fear and trembling you await the first sight of the dummy. The heart ace is opened, the dummy goes down, and to your delight your analysis has proved perfect:

Perfect Analysis of Partner's Hand

♠ A Q 9 6 ♥ 8 5 ♦ A K 10 7 ♣ A K Q

Your hand (to show the play more easily) is:

♠ 8 5 ♥ 9 ♦ Q 9 8 5 4 ♣ 8 7 5 4 3

All you need for your slam is the spade finesse, and the no trump bid on your left makes you feel that this has a good chance.

You ruff the second heart, draw trumps, and finesse the spade. When it succeeds your delight is not measured merely in the terms of an extra 750 points, but in the consciousness of having had the courage to back up your conviction. This was the entire hand:

WEST	NORTH	EAST
	♠ A Q 9 6
	♥ 8 5
	♦ A K 10 7
	♣ A K Q
♠ K J 10		♠ 7 4 3 2
♥ A Q 10 2		♥ K J 7 6 4 3
♦ J 3 2		♦ 6
♣ J 10 6		♣ 9 2
	SOUTH
	♥ 9
	♦ Q 9 8 5 4
	♣ 8 7 5 4 3

If one of the opponents or a loathsome kibitzer points out that you didn't do anything so wonderful—that, after all, your partner really should have opened with a forcing two bid—say to him with dignity, with even a touch of hauteur: "O, is that so! It would have been a rotten two bid, with poor distribution and no suit that could stand on its own feet. But, anyway, suppose he did bid one on a hand that almost warranted two? The point is that I did a darn good job of translating his bids!"

• • •

I take pleasure in reporting this bit of repartee from the Pacific coast bridge week championships. The committee required each team to announce at the beginning of each round the system it was using and any variations from the letter of that system.

One pair announced glibly as they arrived to play a pair of boards against Dr. Benjamin L. Straus and Dean Cook, members of the Pacific Bridge league all-western team of four runners-up:

"We play Culbertson. However, we use the weak no trump, the Turner two club bid, the artificial responses to four no trump, the next ranking suit as bust response to informatory doubles and opening two bids, and we do not use asking bids, the new two-way three bid, or the grand slam force."

"I see," said Ben. "You use Culbertson as the alibi."

Each Monday in The Daily Tribune Mr. Culbertson writes a bridge article especially for beginners. Articles for more advanced players on other days.

Today's Questions

Question: Toward the end of a hand we played the other night declarer had four cards left and each other player had three. We discovered, after some argument, that declarer had failed to play to one trick. What should we do—throw the hand out or throw the declarer out?

Answer: I don't know what you should do to the declarer, but at any rate you cannot throw the hand out. You should determine which trick contained only three cards and take a card from declarer's hand—preferably one which could have been played to that trick. Finish the play of that hand and at the end of the play take one trick from declarer and give it to the defenders. That trick should be counted just as though it had been won in play.

Question: What is the correct opening bid on the following:

♠ J 9 7 6 3 ♥ A Q J 5 4 ♦ A 9 ♣ 7

Answer: Open with one spade despite the stronger heart suit. You will have to show both suits anyway, so may as well start with the higher ranking.

Palm Springs to Have Gala Desert Circus

PALM SPRINGS, CAL.

Palm Springs at the beginning of March more and more resembles a town of the old west of long ago.

The reason for this is the fourth annual desert circus, which will occupy the stage of the popular desert winter resort on Thursday, March 11. But, while the major event falls on that date, villagers and visitors in Palm Springs began last Thursday to become properly "western minded." On that occasion many hundreds gathered for a novel all-western fashion show and luncheon on the green lawns in front of the Desert inn.

For the notable group of Chicago people in Palm Springs, many of whom will take prominent part in the desert circus parade and other features, these days are enthralling. Many of them were at the fashion show, garbed in true cowboy and cowgirl or California-Spanish regalia, and all are obeying the local mandate which makes it obligatory that western apparel of some type be worn during the week which culminates with the circus.

ENTERING much into the spirit of the occasion is the lovely Mrs. Eugene Ford, who is here with her stepdaughter Joan. They are visiting for three weeks with the Freeman Gosdens at their bungalow at El Mirador hotel.

These western days are proving intriguing, too, to Mrs. Ruth Bransfield, who is spending a week at El Mirador; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brossard and their daughter Kathryn, who are here from Glencoe for the remainder of the season; Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Curtis of Winnetka, who are staying for a month and spending a good deal of their outdoor time on the desert bridle paths, and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Johnson and son, who are at El Mirador for a month.

Also at this hostelry are Mr. and Mrs. Earl McCarthy, Earl McCarthy Jr., and Miss Ann McDevitt, from Winnetka.

Mrs. Harold Wessel, one of the popular hostesses during the Palm Springs season, entertained a group of friends from the Racquet club crowd at her bungalow last Friday. Mrs. Wessel and her daughter Shelley are at El Mirador. Guests there also are Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bigener and Mrs. J. M. Sarther.

Among those who recently took bungalows here are Mrs. Mary Hernoman, Mrs. Price Gunn, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Kay, and E. J. Conklin, all of Chicago. They have been staying at La Mesa bungalows.

Mrs. Samuel Heifetz and Carl Helfetz, who have spent several weeks loading up on desert sunshine, have returned to their home in Chicago. They are staying at Casas del Sol, which also has as guests Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Johnson and their son.

RECENT Palm Springs arrivals include Mrs. Robert Becker and children, Kathryn and Jeanne, of Chicago, and Mrs. Agatha Schoenbrun, who had her daughter, Miss Mary Schoenbrun of Scripps college, with her at the Colonial house last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grabiner entertained a large group of friends at a cocktail party a recent afternoon on the occasion of their twenty-fourth wedding anniversary. Miss June Travis, piquant little screen actress, daughter of the Grabiners, was unable to be present, because movie work necessitated her presence on the lot in Hollywood.

Concluding their interesting desert vacation last week, the Misses Lee Cady and Kay Manning returned to their home in Chicago. They have been at the Town house, constructed last fall by the Frank Pershings and Richard Outcaults.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark.

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend, Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, May, 6 1888.

DEAR Julia: Spring always makes me happy, and this has been such a pleasant day. House cleaning is over, and our Rush street house looks quite spick-and-span. In our back yard, about the size of a pocket handkerchief, a few iris plants have appeared. And, most notable sign of spring, I took out our new carriage today for the first time.

Yes, we bought the vis-à-vis, as you advised. They tell us, at Kimball's, that it is an exact copy of one of the Vanderbilt's . . . just which Vanderbilt, I'm a bit hazy about . . . and the simulated basket work around the body of the vehicle is quite smart, I think. I observed Michael's attempt to look unself-conscious as other coachmen glanced out of the corners of their eyes at us. But he is so transparent he might just as well have blown a trumpet before our equipage and cried: "Here comes the new Esmond carriage, purchased from C. P. Kimball only this week!"

One of my calls was at the Frederick Tuttle home, 2022 Michigan avenue. Mr. Tuttle was an early hardware merchant of Chicago, his successors being Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett and company. He retired from business some years ago, and so they have been able to travel much in Europe. Refined and delightful, Mrs. Tuttle is a woman I admire very much, and I was glad to find her in.

When old residents get together they are apt to recall their experiences in the fire. Today we were doing this, and Mrs. Tuttle told me they were living on Michigan avenue near Adams street in '71 and were obliged to flee to the lake front, taking what they could with them. Not many of their possessions were saved, but fortunately two Healy portraits, a few other paintings, a chair or two, and a table came through safely. They were somewhat the worse for wear, Mrs. Tuttle said, but they have been restored and look very well, I thought.

Their son, Fred Tuttle, one of our most eligible bachelors, is a friend of Sandy and Martha and had dinner with them here at our house this evening. Sandy was in a jovial mood and amused us with a cock-and-bull story of having bought a bustle for Martha. We laughed immoderately, even though we knew it was fiction.

He said Martha had sent him to a department store to buy her one of those spinal elongators [as he called them] and, entering the ladies' supply section and blushing furiously, he managed to stammer out his errand.

The saleswoman attended to his wants and wrapped something which looked like a baseball mask or a bird cage in brown paper. He accepted it and departed hastily, taking a street car home. But, as he head his paper on the car, the parcel under his arm started to stir, as if he were carrying a broncho. "I realized then," said Sandy, "that the string which had wrapped my bundle had slipped and that what had been a modest and circumspect package was showing its true character to the beholders. A pretty young lady sitting opposite began to smile and my face started to redden. I had the inspiration to wrap the newspaper I was reading around it, but the harder I tried to enclose it the more active it became. It bucked. It threw off its enfolding paper. Sweat stood out on my forehead. The pretty young lady opposite laughed aloud, and a stern female who looked as if she belonged to the woman's rights party glared as if she had caught me corrupting public morals. In the end I signaled the conductor and got off at Kinzie and State streets, retiring into a doorway till I could get the bustle done up again."

Martha said that the small grain of truth in his story was that he had stopped at her dressmaker's and brought home a bustle enclosed in a heavy pasteboard box. He didn't know what he was bringing till it was safely in Martha's hands.

Kaiser Frederick of Germany seems to be nearing the end. Doesn't he? It's sad that his reign is to be so short. Lovingly,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Fashions of the late '80's.

FOOTNOTES.

The springy, often unmanageable bustle of the '80s, inconvenient and ugly, was fashionable for almost ten years.

Lunching in the residence at 2022 Michigan avenue recently, with the owner, Mr. Frederick B. Tuttle, son of the Frederick Tuttle who lived there in 1888, we were interested in the Healy portraits and other paintings which survived the great fire of 1871. This lovely old home, built in 1870 by J. W. Doane, is the only private home still standing on Michigan avenue north of 22d street. The present occupant has lived there for sixty-five years. The furnishings have been kept almost as they were in the '80s, although a dining room has been added at the rear, replacing the basement dining room of that period.

Expect 5,000 Women at the Tribune Forum

Other news stories concerning the Woman Congress will be found in the main news and Metropolitan sections of today's Tribune.

By Ruth De Young.

A TWO day program on current affairs unsurpassed for brilliance and interest the last twelve months will draw approximately 5,000 alert American women to the Palmer house Wednesday and Thursday. The occasion is the fourth annual Woman Congress under the sponsorship of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The forum has been anticipated for months by leading women throughout the country. These women will come from 38 states and they will represent all ranks. It is estimated in the congress headquarters in Tribune Tower that the delegate audience will be composed of representatives of approximately 2,500 organizations.

These women will find particular interest in the messages of their organizations' leaders as well as in the addresses of world figures in politics, science, business, industry, education, and the arts. Through the six sessions convening at 12 o'clock noon Wednesday this program has been built with the general congress theme, "America in a Changing World," in mind.

MRS. GRACE MORRISON POOLE, dean of Stoneleigh college, Rye, N. H., will deliver the keynote address at the first session, taking the congress theme for her subject. Mrs. Poole's address will follow the message of Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson of Washington, D. C., president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. At the second session, beginning at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, two women leaders will be among the speakers. Mrs. Stephen S. Wise of New York City, wife of Rabbi Wise and qualified as a leader by her own brilliant achievement, will speak on "Women's Defense of Freedom and Democracy." The modernized farm home will be discussed by Mrs. Abbie Sargent of Bedford, N. H., president of the Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Miss Charl Williams of Washington, D. C., president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, will open the third session, and at the fourth session, at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, Miss Agnes Samuelson, president of the National Education association; Miss Mary Duffy of Newark, N. J., supreme regent of the Catholic Daughters of America, and Mrs. Otto Hahn, president of the American Legion auxiliary, will bring messages.

Mrs. John Alexander Jardine of Fargo, N. D., president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, is to open the arts session at 2:30 Thursday afternoon. The wealth of material heard in the two days will be summed up at the dinner and final session by Miss Lena Madesin Phillips of New York City, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

ALL of the speakers heard at previous sessions will be special guests of THE TRIBUNE at the closing dinner Thursday evening. This dinner is to have as its honorary sponsors 100 prominent women of the midwest, including the wives of the governors of the twelve midwestern states. The dinner program is announced in the main news section of today's TRIBUNE. Reservations for the dinner, at $2 per plate, must be accompanied by checks made payable to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and addressed to the Woman Congress, room 1421 Tribune Tower.

Although the program is principally informative in character, several of the finest artists from radio and the concert stage are to provide a musical interlude at each session. For twenty minutes preceding each session Porter Heaps will give a recital on the Hammond electric organ.

There also are a number of social events planned for the two days to harmonize with the congress' program. The Chicago Woman's club will entertain at luncheon at 12:30 o'clock Thursday for the distinguished speakers of the congress. Any guest attending the congress is welcome to attend this luncheon. Reservations, at $1 per plate, accompanied by checks made payable to the Chicago Woman's club, must be addressed to Mrs. John T. Mason, 72 East 11th street.

The Upper Mississippi Valley conference is to have a luncheon at 1:15 Wednesday in the Palmer house between the keynote and the second session at 2:30 o'clock. Following the afternoon session Wednesday Mrs. Edward J. Lehman, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, and the members of her board will receive guests in the federation headquarters, 30 West Washington street.

Finis Written on Racing Season at Santa Anita

By Ruth Billheimer.

PASADENA, CAL.

Racing enthusiasm, which reached its climax last Saturday at Santa Anita park in the third annual Santa Anita handicap, is coasting to a finish for the season this week. Saturday says "finis" until next Christmas day.

On 'Cap day the exclusive Turf club literally swarmed with screen celebrities and society from all over the country. Gail Patrick, in gray and dubonnet, was there with her husband, Robert Cobb. Ruby Keeler was her usual cute self in blue velvet with a matching peasant bonnet.

In a box with the C. V. Whitneys were Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Gibbons [Dolores del Rio], the latter wearing a pill box hat with diamond clips; Constance Bennett, in a cocoa color costume, and Gilbert Roland. Simone Simon chose a wool ensemble of lavender with black accents and visored hat.

And in the crowd, which set a new attendance record of 60,000, Chicagoans were continually bumping into Chicagoans, for they were legion!

JUST a few of them were the Robert Hixons of Lake Forest; Edward A. Cudahy, who was there with J. F. Berkeley of Omaha; the George Marcys, and the Wentworth P. MacKenzies. Mrs. MacKenzie was smart in black with her caracul cape trimmed in Russian sable and her feather trimmed felt hat.

Among the many who lunched at the club in the stately Georgian dining room, on the paddock terraces with their boxed orange trees, or in the tiers of dining boxes overlooking the track itself, were Ethel V. Mars and her party, which included the W. R. Fursts, the Henry Nelsons, and Milton Nelson of Glendale, Cal. Mrs. Mars was in beige wool with black patent lether trim, and a sable cape with corsage of deep purple orchids. Later the party attended the Santa Anita ball at the Hotel Ambassador, as did the Hixons in the party of Col. and Mrs. James G. Boswell.

Other Chicagoans included Mrs. J. F. L. Curtis, Mrs. W. Irving Osborne, the Louis Beckers, accompanied by Mrs. Maida Cahn of New York; the Peter Berkeys, who were seen with the J. Brooks Spencers; the Richard C. Lillys of St. Paul, and the John A. Lillys. Mrs. Berkey wore a brown tailleur with matching accessories and sables.

The Gale Thompsons of Chicago, who are staying at the Huntington, were there with Mr. Thompson's brother and his family, the Percival Thompsons and daughter, Lenore, of Coronado, Cal.

It was a gay day, and, if superlatives were used on Derby day earlier in the week, the landscape was black with them Saturday, for not only was there a bigger gate, but the betting overshot Derby day's mark by $350,000, bringing it up to $1,539,879, with $396,553 alone bet on the big race!

And, to complete the picture, the weather man smiled benignly and brought such a day as sent wintry garments into cedar closets and brought out a veritable rainbow of spring finery which vied with the riot of blooms bordering the infield.

MONDAY was set aside as all-charity day and 18,000 persons wagered $40,000 for the joint benefit of Shrine and Elks' philanthropy, Catholic Welfare bureau, and Jewish Welfare federation.

Among the patrons at the Turf club for Tuesday's racing were Phillip Moore and William McEwen of Winnetka, who are at Hotel Huntington. In their party also were Mrs. Maurice Carr and Mrs. Lyford Yeates of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Samuel Bell of New York.

Mrs. Arthur W. Cutten of Chicago, who visited at Hotel Vista del Arroyo for ten days, now is in Honolulu and is expected to stop here again on her return.

Art Club Says It with Food, to Celebrate

By Eleanor Jewett.

ONE of the most interesting events of last week was the dinner held Wednesday night to celebrate the opening at the Union League club of the exhibit of paintings owned by the Municipal Art league. The league has a number of women's clubs affiliated with it, and without their help many of its activities could not be carried on.

The clubs have contributed yearly since 1903 to the purchase of the Municipal Art league prize painting, which is selected each spring from the Chicago Artists and Vicinity exhibition at the Art institute. In this way a collection has been created of forty paintings and one piece of sculpture valued at more than $30,000.

Last fall this Municipal Art league collection was shown in the Garfield Park gallery and made a great impression on all those who visited it. One almost might say in all fairness that no other exhibit shown there since has equaled it in importance and beauty. The collection, now at the Union League club, as noted above, is worth an hour of any one's time.

At the dinner Wednesday evening many of the artists who painted the pictures were present, among them Frederic M. Grant, Frank V. Dudley, J. Jeffery Grant, and Rudolph Ingerle.

Another exhibition of first importance opened last Wednesday with the showing in the Anderson galleries, 530 South Michigan avenue, of some twenty beautiful still life arrangements by Hovsep Pushman. There probably is no American painter who endows his still life pictures with greater quality or charm than Pushman. They are famous the country over. He paints with a richness, a sincerity, a charm, and a power that are unmistakable. It is only with great difficulty that an exhibit of his pictures can be held, for usually he sells them direct from the easel. No one should miss this showing.

THE Chicago galleries, 215 North Michigan avenue, are opening three one-man shows March 17, which give every assurance of being among the most brilliant exhibits of the year. Paintings by Rudolph Ingerle and Edward Grigware will share one gallery and water colors by Nina K. Griffin will hang in another. Mrs. Griffin's water colors invariably are worth seeing. At the same time [from March 17 to April 7] the Chicago Society of Miniature Painters will exhibit in the Chicago galleries. This should be a most delightful show. Miniature painting is one of the most exquisite of the arts and it has been greatly neglected in Chicago of recent years.

It is interesting to note that the first two paintings sold from the Artists of Chicago and Vicinity exhibit, which closes today at the Art institute, were "Across the Glistening Waters," by Frank V. Dudley, and "Landscape with Flying Herons," by Julius Moessel.

The Business Men's Art club annual exhibition opens tomorrow in the Mandel Brothers Club Women's bureau to continue through March 20.

The Swedish club of Chicago will hold its 18th Swedish-American Art exhibition from April 3 through April 11 in the club gallery, 1258 North La Salle street.

Recent paintings by Giorgio de Chirico may be seen in the Quest galleries, 810 North Michigan avenue. Chirico retains his interest in classicism, but these paintings are not oppressively classical. Rather are they vigorous and fine, particularly those in which horses play the principal rôle. "The Solitary Warrior" rides a stunning horse, and two superb animals face the rolling sea in "Arabian Sunset." A beautiful still life, "The Tuscan Fruits," with much of the velvety quality of a Renoir, captivates the imagination. It is a magnificent canvas. An intriguing little landscape, "St. Cloud," is rich in subtle colors. The exhibition is well worth seeing. It probably will continue another week.

Perhaps it is well to insert here the reminder that all of the exhibitions mentioned in this column are open to the public and every one is urged to go to them. There is no admission charge.

Two little exhibits at the Art institute are of interest. In the Children's museum are reproductions in color of many of the best of the modern pictures. Van Gogh, Cezanne, Matisse, Degas, Picasso, Chirico, and Renoir are represented.

In Blackstone hall there is a delightful exhibit of photographs in color, made by Charles Harris Miller, who is head of the classes in photography at the Art institute. Mr. Miller has a fascinating picture of a large group of gayly dressed dolls that is perhaps the most striking item in the show. He offers several colorful still lifes of flowers and a beautiful photograph of pottery. His several portraits are interesting and some are exceptionally pleasing.

TWO art books have reached this desk recently which are among the most important received this season. The better of the two is "French painting of the Nineteenth Century," by S. Rocheblave [French and European Publications, Inc., publishers]. M. Rocheblave is a professor at the University of Paris and the Ecole des Beaux Arts. The prose introduction and account of French painting between 1800 and 1900 has been ably translated by Douglas Cooper. There are eight plates in color and ninety-six plates in photogravure. The book is magnificently assembled.

The account of French painting is most interesting. It is written in an attractive style, not pendantic, leaving one with a store of information one scarcely is conscious of absorbing as one reads, and it throws, in a concise manner, light on a period of French art that too often is sadly scrambled in learned essays. At the close of M. Rocheblave's account are paragraphs of information about each artist, listed alphabetically, which is of great help to the student.

Then come pages and pages of magnificent illustrations. Each painter is superbly reproduced with several of his characteristic works shown. Daumier, Carriere, Degas, Fantin-Latour, Manet, Monet, Bastien-Lepage, Cazin, Puvis de Chavannes, and Renoir are among the artists represented. It is the most interesting, most complete, and most beautiful study of 19th century French painting ever published. The Paul Theobald gallery, 104 South Michigan avenue, is introducing it to Chicago.

The other book is "Portrait of Mexico," by Bertram D. Wolfe [Covici-Friede, publishers], and it is profusely illustrated with reproductions of the works of Diego Rivera. The text is interesting, giving an elaborate picture of the gradual growth of the country into the Mexico of today. History comes into it and character discussion. The "why" of the Mexican people is well told. The complicated political conditions which have blasted Mexico and the slow welding process now taking place are excellently described. One cannot help but understand that country better after reading Mr. Wolfe's account.

The Rivera illustrations, which fill one-half of the volume, start with a self-portrait and continue through his paintings of landscapes, peasant types, portraits, and figure studies [the most charming of these is "Sleep"] to his murals. These are chiefly political in character and are obvious tools for propaganda. There are impressive details among them, particularly in the frescoes of "The Court of Labor." There are entire paintings that are effective and powerful.

Rivera's sense of design stands him in good stead in this series and in his later work until we come to those last satires on contemporary conditions which prove themselves most offensive. As a matter of record his last frescoes in the banquet hall of the Hotel Reforma, Mexico City, were partially destroyed by the proprietor, and, as one looks at their reproductions one scarcely wonders.

Rivera has his strength and his genius, his unquestioned ability for story telling, but he is more the communist mouthpiece than he is the artist. To him propaganda is more important than art. He has continually prostituted his genius to the service of his political creed. He is a prodigious worker, crudely primitive, powerfully direct. He has influenced contemporary American painting to a great extent, and yet, for all his good points, one still feels something lacking in him. The cartoonist too easily subjugates the artist.

However, no matter what you feel, this book is alive and vital from cover to cover. It is worth reading and discussing.

Julius Moessel has a rich imagination and a great flair for decorative painting. This amusing canvas (excellently done) is one of the high lights of the Association of Chicago Painters and Sculptors' exhibition in the Chicago galleries, 215 North Michigan avenue.

3 Clippers Fly Half a Million Miles in Year

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—[U. P.]—With completion of its first year of trans-Pacific service Pan-American Airways is weighing basic economics of the project on which $5,200,000 has been spent, and for which pilots and ground crews have risked their lives and undergone hardships since 1931.

The record is being written in red ink at present, but airline officials are far from being disheartened. Heavy losses at first were foreseen. Returns thus far have fallen short of paying operating expenses, not to mention returns on capital invested, although passenger and freight trafic have been at virtually full capacity since inception of each.

So P. A. A. officials are trimming expenses, planning increases in carrying capacity for passengers and freight, as indicated by orders for 40 seat flying boats under construction in Seattle.

At present clipper ships carry only six passengers on the 2,400 mile hop between Alameda and Honolulu and twelve from Honolulu to Manila. Demonstrating the thoroughness with which Pan-American has gone over its plans, airline officials point out a 10 mile headwind [which the clippers often encounter], although without danger, cost P. A. A. an extra 800 gallons of gasoline and six hours of flying time.

The three clippers in service, China, Philippine, and Hawaiian, have in P. A. A. 's first year of operation flown 541,200 miles in actual transoceanic crossing, far above the entire total of individual ocean spanning flyers in the last decade.

Sixty-six one way crossings had been completed at the end of the first year's operations, five complete crews trained and in service, approximately 250 pounds of air freight carried on each trip from the Alameda terminal, and $2,500,000 spent in establishment of island bases.

Many times the number of passengers would have flown had P. A. A. been able to take care of all applicants, and it is this fact that has led the airline to place orders for a half dozen flying boats half again as large as the clippers in use and of several times the "payload" capacity.

Stamps Irk Hawaii.

HONOLULU.—[U. P.]—Decision of the United States postoffice department to issue a special commemorative stamp for Hawaii has met with little enthusiasm here. Some resentment was felt to the unofficial announcement the stamp would "commemorate our island possessions." Civic minded individuals pointed out Hawaii is not a possession, but a territory.

GOING SOMEWHERE?

AROUND the world in 70 days seems like a lot of hurry, but it's to be done this summer. . . . Such a tour was announced last week by Thomas Cook & Son. . . . The speed is made possible by the fact that the Trans-Siberian railway will be used for the trip from the orient to the occident. . . . Nineteen days are to be spent in Japan and China, 19 in Manchukuo, Siberia, and Russia, and a week in Scandinavia and London. . . . The party—membership of which is to be limited—will board the Chichibu Maru July 1, sail by way of Hawaii, and return by way of Montreal on Sept. 4. . . . The manager of the tour has this to say from first hand observation about the little known region traversed by the Trans-Siberian road: "There is great human interest on this, the longest railway journey in the world. Stops from ten minutes to half an hour afford opportunities to observe the lives and customes of the people. The scenery is typical of the far north, but of wide variety. From the frontier of China a remarkable panorama is unrolled before the traveler . . . ancient towns and villages, new industrial cities and agricultural areas . . . a mingling of eastern and western civilizations."

Word received at the Chicago office of the Holland America line says work is progressing rapidly on the 731 foot hull of the New Amsterdam. . . . So far 2,235,000 rivets and 14,550 tons of material have been used in the construction. . . . The 33,000 ton vessel will be launched in April, but another year will be needed for the finishing touches. . . . The present plan is for the maiden voyage to start in April, 1938. . . . Meanwhile, the line has decided to name its new combination passenger and freight motor ship the Noordam. . . . This 10,000 ton liner will go into service in the fall of '38.

The expansion of travel business originating in the Chicago area has caused another company to move to larger quarters. . . . At the opening of the Gdynia America line's offices in the Board of Trade building Monday evening, Roman Kutylowski, who has headed the line since it began its American service five years ago, said he believes Chicago is one of the most fertile fields for warm climate cruises in the fall, winter, and early spring. . . . He added that, while Poland is the youngest maritime nation in Europe, the growth of its overseas trade, especially with the Americas, is doubling itself each year, thereby demanding a constant increase in shipping facilities. . . . Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Consul General Waclaw Gawronski were among the 500 Chicagoans attending the opening.

Roman Kutylowski (left), resident director of the Gydnia America line, showing Mayor Edward J. Kelly (center) and Dr. Waclaw Gawronski, Polish consul general, nautical points of the Pilsudski.

Dudley Crafts Watson will return to the Old Heidelberg inn Wednesday afternoon for his third series of travelogs. . . . His subject is "New Impressions of Mexico." . . . Dr. Watson recently returned from a month's tour of that country, including stops at Cuernavaca, Taxco, and the Toltec pyramids.

D. M. Bowman, passenger trafic manager of the New York Central system, relates that in the first two months of this year the Florida Sunbeam carried 75 per cent more passengers than in the corresponding period of last year. . . . Extra equipment has been needed almost nightly.

Travel fans will go by movies to Jasper National park, one of the beauty spots of the west, in an illustrated travel talk at the Fair store at 11 a. m. Friday. . . . A. H. Davis is to give the talk.

The Bons Vivants, Chicago society of steamship and travel agents, will meet for dinner tomorrow evening at Adolph's Italian restaurant, 1045 North Rush street.

Something new in ocean travel: A trip from Europe to the Pacific coast by way of the Panama canal, with a West Indies cruise en route. . . . The Bretagne of the French line will start on such a journey from Havre and Southampton March 25. . . . It will be the first all-passenger liner to enter that service.

Northwest Air Lines, Inc., has opened a new office in the Palmer house arcade for tickets, reservations, and division trafic.

Mrs. Martin Johnson, widow of the famous explorer, will lecture and present films of "Jungle Depths of Borneo" at the Civic Opera house this afternoon. . . . The picture was the last one taken by her husband. . . . In his 20 years of exploring, Johnson shot thousands of feet of film of wild animals. . . . He had the reputation of never resorting to subterfuge, faking, or trick photography. . . . Osa Johnson was always with him. . . . She held the gun; he operated the camera. . . . He used to say that he had so much confidence in her marksmanship that he seldom bothered to raise his head from the finder, even when he was being charged by a wild beast.

Mrs. Martin Johnson.

Another steamship agency for Michigan avenue. . . . Rumor has it that the N. Y. K. line is about to move its Chicago office from 40 North Dearborn to 333 North Michigan.

W. B. Freer and his staf were hosts to a throng of steamship and travel agents Tuesday evening at their new offices on the ground floor of the Carbide and Carbon building. . . . Most of the attention was centered on the ultramodern reception room. . . . In the windows are graphic displays of the customs and costumes of the Latin Americans.

Hawaii Boasts Escort Service of Gentlemen

HONOLULU.—[U. P.]—The white menace of competition has risen in the heretofore strictly Hawaiian business of entertaining women visitors from abroad.

It is in the form of a strike-born enterprise called Male Guide service, and while its sponsors have had a little success cutting into the native beach boys' swimming or surfing fees, they are making headway along other lines.

Pig hunting, for instance. A Parisian gigolo might raise an eyebrow and twirl his waxed mustache in dismay if asked to lead an American debutante on a wild boar chase, but the local talent takes a request in stride and sends an expert pig sticker.

The Cost Is $2.50 an Hour.

Requests for pig hunters, however, are limited and for the most part the guides are employed in such ordinary tasks as squiring lonely women to movies, dinners, dances, native feasts and similar affairs. For $2.50 an hour and expenses.

As for their name, it seems gigolo is an odorous word and one with which they would rather not be connected. Male guide is far more dignified and fits the job.

The service, explained the manager in his office near Waikiki beach, will guarantee the integrity of its escorts and does its best to see that the clients' characters also are above reproach.

Many Drink, but Not Too Much.

"Our escorts are all gentlemen," he said. "We try to be sure of that before they are employed, but if we find we have made a mistake they are ousted quickly."

Although a strict code of conduct is laid down for the guides, drinking is permitted. This was found to be necessary because of the old Hawaiian custom of dedicating any and all functions with liquid refreshment. However, an escort must know his capacity and if the woman gets tipsy he is responsible for keeping her out of the patrol wagon.

About 40 prospective escorts, between the ages of 21 and 45, are listed in the concern's card index system of classification, complete with photographs and a brief outline of the abilities of each. The customer can have her choice of almost any one from a world traveler who speaks seven languages to a former swimming champion who found he couldn't live on medals and glory.

Sailfish Rodeo at Fort Lauderdale

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 6.—This city is having the most active fishing season in its history.

The anglers' contest committee of the chamber of commerce is holding the second annual sailfish rodeo.

Three $100 cash prizes will be awarded to the anglers bringing in the heaviest sailfish, the longest, and the smallest.

Last year more than 750 of these sporting big game fish of tropical waters were taken in the course of the contest.

Lincoln Statue Is Ordered for Little Republic

ROME.—[U. P.]—San Marino, ancient republic perched on a rock in the heart of Italy, soon will honor Abraham Lincoln, whom it claims as an honorary citizen.

Raymond Barger, young sculptor of Pittsburgh, Pa., has been commissioned to execute a bust of America's civil war President. It will be placed in the town hall.

Prof. Kenneth Scott of Western Reserve university, Cleveland, O., is donating the bust to San Marino. He is a student of that country's history and his offer has been accepted by the republic, which lays claim to being the oldest in Europe. The bust will be unveiled July 1, and it is expected American officials will be invited to participate in the ceremony.

Near the end of the American civil war the republic wrote to President Lincoln asking him to become an honorary citizen of that country, which today has an area of 36 square miles and a population of 14,000. Lincoln accepted in a letter which still is carefully preserved and proudly exhibited in the town hall.

Barger's bust will be life size in bronze. He is executing the work in the studios of the American academy in Rome, where he is studying on a special scholarship.

Whistler Home in Connecticut to Be Restored

STONINGTON, Conn.—[U. P.]—Whistler's boyhood home, one of Stonington's historic houses, built in 1788 by Amos Palmer and damaged by a British shell in the bombardment of 1814, has been sold and will be restored to its early colonial beauty. The house was the residence of George Washington Whistler from 1837 to 1841 when the artist, his son, was a child.

James McNeill Whistler was born in Lowell, Mass., July 10, 1834, where his father was engineer of canals and locks. In 1837 the father moved his family to Stonington. Psychologists who believe that one's most impressionable years are the first seven trace the artist's sense of color to his conditioning in the picturesque surroundings of his childhood days.

Maj. Whistler, who is buried in Stonington, was commissioned in 1842 by Czar Nicholas I. to build the railroad from St. Petersburg to Moscow after the Russian monarch had sent agents over Europe and America for the best engineer.

House Sold by Californian.

While a resident of Stonington, tradition says, he equipped a chaise with car wheels to transport his family every Sunday on the newly laid railroad tracks to Westerly, four miles distant.

The house has been sold for Miss Lillian Palmer of Los Gatos, Cal., to Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Stuart of Glen Ridge, N. J. Upon the death of the builder it was inherited by the son, Dr. George Palmer, who married a Miss McNeill, aunt of the artist.

The fact that Whistler's celebrated portrait of his mother had become a symbol of ideal motherhood is a sentimental paradox in the light of a remark credited to the painter about his place of birth.

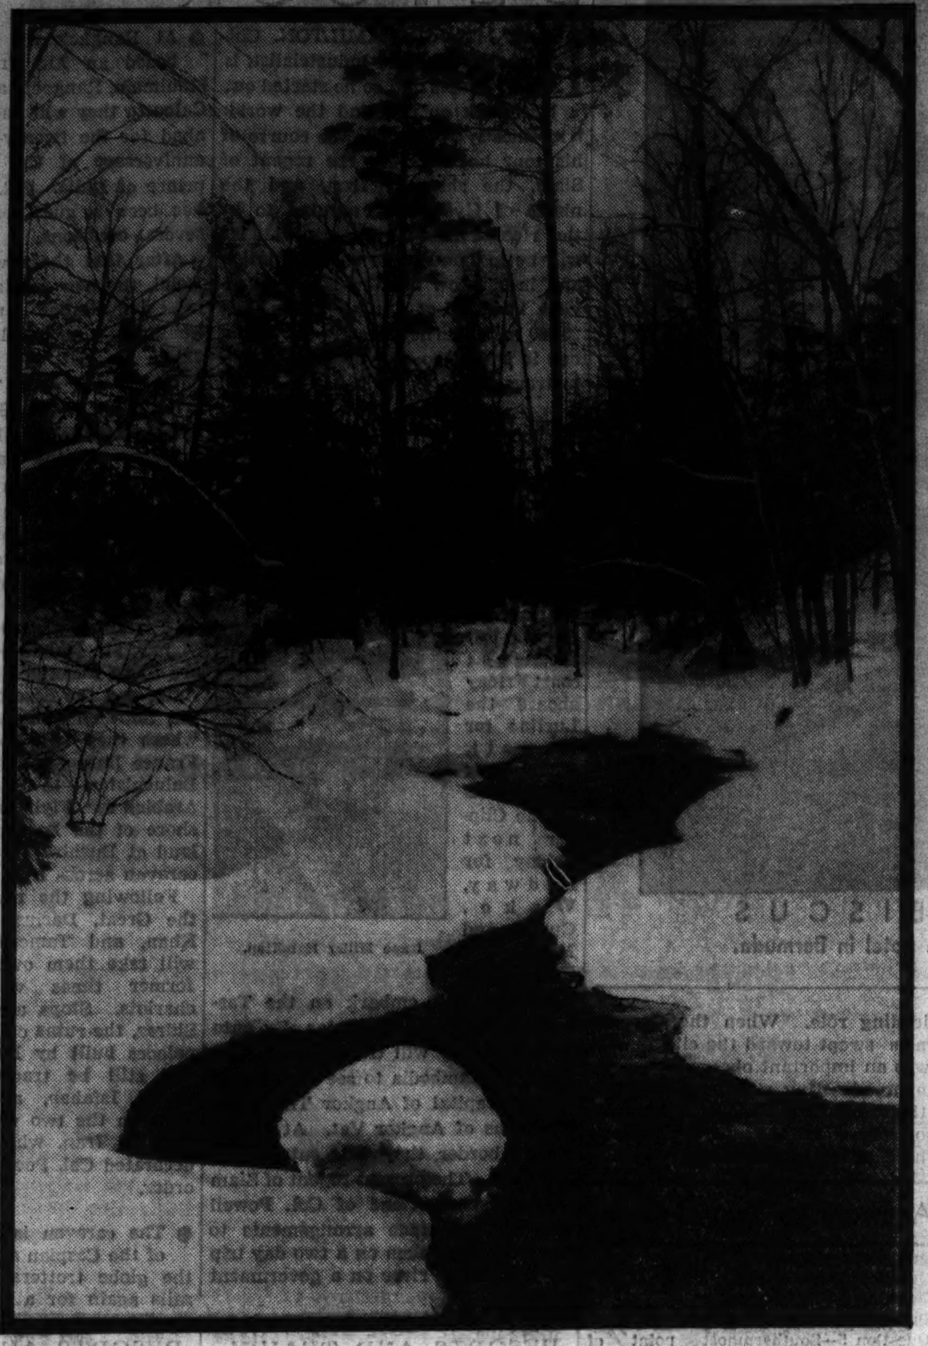
During the trial of a suit he brought against Ruskin for alleged slander of his art, Whistler in the witness chair gave St. Petersburg as his birthplace. His official biographers declare he never denied the statement.

"Birthplace of No Consequence."

Three years later, in 1881, a writer in a Paris journal gave Baltimore as his birthplace, a mistake repeated many times. A friend who knew Whistler as a child asked him why he did not correct the error. "If any one likes to think I was born in Baltimore why should I deny it? It is of no consequence to me," he replied.

After Maj. Whistler's death in Russia in 1849 the mother returned to Connecticut with her family and sent James to school in Pomfret, Christ Church Hall. The headmaster was a West Point man. After two years James was appointed to the military academy.

Three years of West Point discipline were sufficient for the temperamental youth whose mother had planned for him a military career like his father's. After a short service with the United States coast survey he went abroad in 1855 and lived there most of his life.



WISCONSIN IN THE WINTERTIME

A little forest stream in the Menominee Indian reservation near Shawano, Wis. The humps are, of course, snow covered boulders.

Giant Redwoods Face Extinction

GORMAN, Okla.—[U. P.]—The giant redwood tree, or Sequoia gigantea, is making its last stand on the west coast and faces extinction, in the opinion of Dr. G. L. Cross, assistant professor of botany at the University of Oklahoma.

To allay fears, if any, aroused by such an opinion, he adds that Sequoia gigantea probably will hold out another five million years or so.

Dr. Cross predicates his opinion on the theory that the species has receded across the continent.

While tramping through the northern part of South Dakota he picked up a bit of petrified wood which he believed to be sixty million years old, more or less. He thought it was a remnant of the Sequoia gigantea which once flourished in this region.

Luxurious Life of Ancient Times Is Brought to Light

FEW countries feel the pulse of activity and become so brilliantly alive during the winter months as Egypt. Especially is this true of Cairo, which in the winter months is one of the great thoroughfares of every nationality bent on pleasure on a scale that includes every variety of sport from the race track to the tennis court, from hotel night life to luxury cruises up the Nile, and from the innumerable sightseeing trips to the thrill of intimate desert life.

One of the intangible facinations that gives this city distinction is the co-mingling of races. For in Cairo the world meets face to face; the Anglo-Saxon and Latin skins gleam white in contrast to the Oriental, the Beduin, and the Arab, and one singles out strange race distinctions.

Apart from the city itself, the desert calls, for out there discoveries are bringing to light a luxury civilization that existed thousands of years ago.

This winter's visitors will see vast excavations going on under the Sphinx and revealing parts of a temple that have been buried for thousands of years under tons of sand.

Into the picture in these excavations the Arab is outstanding, and some of his characteristics, as well as hidden edifices, are shown. It is one of the queer anomalies of the Arab race that, though they have a marked antipathy to heavy physical labor, they will undertake excavation work cheerfully. The reason for this is not at once apparent, but perhaps it lies in the fact that the Arab, the keynote of whose existence is cupidity combined with the idea of something for nothing, is firmly of the opinion that the archæologist is digging for a great store of gold.

Work has been going on now for fifty years or more, no gold in any quantity has ever been found, and it is explained every day to the Arab that outlines of buildings, skeletons, and shards of pottery are the objects for which he has to look, but the Arab, being a past master of deception himself, knows exactly how much of this to believe. With a grace face and the natural politeness of his race, he effects great enthusiasm for this worthless rubbish, and digs frantically in the hopes that it will be his mattock that will strike the blocks of gold.

Tropical Park to Reopen Monday

MIAMI, Fla., March 6.—Thousands of winter vacationists now in Miami will participate in a round of sporting events next week, with horse racing, golf, and yachting included.

The "sport of kings" will shift back to Tropical park Monday, when the Pan-American handicap will open the spring meeting following the close of Hialeah Park's forty-six day meet today. Among those who have reserved clubhouse boxes are Mrs. Emil Denemark, Warren Wright, and John Hertz, all of Chicago.

Thirty-two professional golfers will gather at the Miami Country club tomorrow for the fourteenth annual $4,000 International Four Ball tournament.

Yachts valued at approximately a quarter of a million dollars will hoist their sails Wednesday in the ninth annual Sir Thomas Lipton cup race off the coast of Miami. The field will be almost identical with that of the recent Miami-to-Nassau race.

Eiffel Tower Is More Amazing After 50 Years

PARIS.—[U. P.]—The Eiffel tower, imposing laced steel structure which will form the focal point of the Paris 1937 International exposition, is 50 years old.

Construction started on the epoch making structure, which was to serve as a model for America's skyscraper era, on Jan. 28, 1887, and was completed on March 31, 1889, just in time to serve as the central attraction of the French 1889 International exposition.

The tower still is one of the world's highest structures. It is still the highest man made structure in every continent of the world except North America and is exceeded in eight only by two skyscrapers, the Empire State building [1,248 feet] and the Chrysler building [1,040 feet]. It reaches 1,000 feet into the Parisian sky and is a landmark for miles around the French capital on clear days.

A Testing Ground for Skyscrapers.

When it is recalled that its two rivals were built only in the last ten years the tower can claim the honor of having the world's height record for forty years. Moreover, the engineering skill employed on the construction and the experiments carried through the climatic expansion and contraction and wind resistance served as the groundwork for skyscraper building in America. Slight advances have been made on the French engineering skill that built it.

Exactly 16,777,904 persons have "climbed" the Eiffel tower since it was inaugurated. It still is a major tourist attraction known throughout the world, and is one of the Parisian "sights" which no traveler can miss. In 1936 there were 251,261 visitors, showing that the "bright lady" of Paris has lost none of its charms.

Having already presided over three international expositions the tower is now undergoing a thorough overhauling and will be in sparkling condition for the coming summer. Exposition years have always been the high spots of tourist figures for the tower, and the 1937 exposition is expected to exceed all former records.

It Weighs Some 15,000,000 Pounds.

In the opening year of 1889 1,968,287 persons "climbed" the steel frame structure. The exposition year 1900 showed a slight falling off of 1,024,287 visitors. The third most prosperous year was 1931, during the Colonial exposition, when the figure was 822,550, with most of the exposition spectators drawn from France alone.

The majestic structure weighs 15,400,000 pounds, and is composed of 12,000 steel plates and beams of varying lengths and forms, held together by 2,500,000 rivets. It is calculated that a jigsaw puzzle made according to the pieces actually used would be unsolvable by any single living man. On clear days it is possible to get one of the most remarkable views of the Parisian region and the Seine valley. With bright sunlight and clear weather a person can see for fifty-five miles from its summit.

When first built, the tower had the usual number of critics which attend any epoch making achievement. Solemn predictions that it would be blown down, collapse, or fall to pieces may be one of the reasons why most of the space surrounding it remains parkland and the least built section of the city. But today it is accepted as a typical and picturesque feature of the Parisian skyline. It is to Frenchmen the landmark equivalent to the Statue of Liberty in America.

Just before the war the first radio station in France was installed in the tower, and during the war it played a leading rôle. When the German armies swept toward the city in 1914 it was an important observation post. The broadcasting station is still one of the foremost in France. The tower also serves as the world's largest lighted advertisment stand.

DETOUR

By FREDERIC BABCOCK

ISAAC MILLER HAMILTON, Chicago financier and industrialist, is only 72 years old; so he started out last week on a round the world trip—mostly by air. In the course of his tour he will visit the regent of Siam, the shah of Iran, and the nizam of Hyderabad, reputed to be the richest man in the world. He will be in London for the coronation and in Moscow for the May day review in front of Lenin's tomb. His 20,000 mile journey goes to show that one is never too old—or too young—to travel.

● Mr. Hamilton is accompanied by Col. E. Alexander Powell, travel writer of Los Angeles. Unable to get seats on the China Clipper from San Francisco to Honolulu, the two left the west coast Friday aboard the Lurline for Hawaii, where they will hop off on the Clipper next Friday for Midway, Wake, Guam, and Manila.

Isaac Miller Hamilton.

From Manila they will embark on the Tasman for Saigon, Indo-China. By auto and boat they will travel into the interior of Cambodia to see the ancient Khmer capital of Angkor Thom and the ruins of Angkor Vat. At the Siamese border they will entrain for Bangkok. The present regent of Siam is a personal friend of Col. Powell and he has made arrangements to have the two taken on a two day trip up the Menan river on a government yacht.

● At Bangkok the Americans will board an Air France plane for Moulmein, Rangoon, and Calcutta. At Calcutta they will entrain for Hyderabad for the twenty-fifth coronation anniversary of the nizam, premier prince of India. Col. Powell already has been a guest of the nizam on several occasions.

After that there will be stops at Delhi, the new capital of the British raj, and Lahore, notable for its Shalimar, a garden laid out by Shah Jahan in 1637 and made world famous by the line, "White hands I loved beside the Shalimar." Continuing northward, the pair will visit Srinagar, in the vale of Kashmir. There, hemmed in by the snow crested peaks of the Himalayas, they will reach the stepping off place for the trails leading over the top of the world into mystery haunted Tibet.

● Turning southwestward from Kashmir, Mr. Hamilton and Col. Powell are to go through Gahri, Rawalpindi, Agra, and the deserted city of Fatehpur Sikri on their way to Allahabad, where they will board another Air France liner for Jodhpur and across Baluchistan to Karachi, on the Arabian sea. Flying above the eastern shore of the Persian gulf, they will land at Bushire for a ten day motor caravan across Iran.

Following the route of Alexander the Great, Darius, Xerxes, Genghis Khan, and Tamerlane, their autos will take them over a road that in former times was dotted with chariots. Stops are to be made at Shiraz, the ruins of Persepolis, where palaces built by Darius and Xerxes can still be traced in the fallen walls; Isfahan, and Teheran. At Teheran the two will be met by the shah of Iran, who some years ago decorated Col. Powell with a Persian order.

● The caravan is to continue west of the Caspian sea to Tabriz, where the globe trotters will take to the rails again for a jaunt across Azerbaijan and Georgia, passing Mount Ararat, where, says the Bible, Noah landed the ark. From Tiflis a motor trip over the Georgian military road will take them to Ordjonikidze, where a Russian plane will be ready for the flight to Moscow. The plane will reach the soviet capital in time for the May 1 military demonstration of a million men, along with whole squadrons of tanks and aircraft.

After a visit to Leningrad the two will leave on a German plane for Tallin, Helsingfors, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Amsterdam, and London. They'll land in the British capital on the eve of the coronation.

● In London Mr. Hamilton will visit Sir Richard and Lady Winstedt, who were his house guests in Chicago last year, and then will fly to Paris for a brief stay with Prince and Princess Dimitri Djordjadze. On May 26 he and his fellow traveler will fly from London to Frankfort to board the Zeppelin Hindenburg for the flight to Lakehurst, N. J. A plane will be waiting at Lakehurst to take them to New York, where they will hop off on an airliner for Chicago.

Mr. Hamilton is president of the Federal Life Insurance company, chairman of the board of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank, and president of the Illinois Canning company. It would appear that these three jobs would be enough to keep him busy, but he found that he had enough time for three months of sightseeing in the far places of the earth.

Here's how to meet SPRING more than half way!
Had enough winter? It's Spring now beside the Gulf Stream! Spring's early and beautiful here—warm and constant—free from health hazards of slush and variable weather. With the Winter "peak" passed, there's more room—more time to play. Nature cooperates, too. Fish bite even better, days are even more golden. From now on there's little change between Spring and Summer. Come soon and stay long. Special late-season rates make the idea highly practical.

Traveler Finds Friend and Foe in Coral Seas

By Mason Warner.

MAKAMBO, British Solomon Islands.—At 2 p. m., notwithstanding the fact that the air was hot and steamy, I started for a walk along the beach of Makambo. It is only about three miles around the island, but it was 7 o'clock when I returned to the pier.

The reason I walked only three miles in five hours was that there were so many interesting things to see. I was glad I was alone. A party of three or four sightseers, each one excitedly shouting "See that!" or "Just look there!" would have ruined a perfect afternoon.

The pier juts out midway from a seawall built of fragments of coral. The wall extends half a mile on the water front. Strolling along on its top one can see the bottom of the lagoon for many yards out, for the water is clear and translucent. Coral formations of various shapes and sizes are building upward in the waters of the lagoon—branching coral, mushroom coral, brain coral, bud coral, and other varieties, each taking its name from the form it is simulating. The formations are of different colors—blue, green, brown, yellow.

A Nasty Thing to Step On.

The wall was only two or three feet high and the depth of the water at its base varied from two inches to two feet. There were live and moving things on the coral under the water. Beche de mer, motionless sea slugs that resemble the coral upon which they rest, were to be seen. Sea urchins, or "sea eggs" — round, black bodies as big as a tennis ball, with countless sharp spines like a porcupine, evidently a nasty thing to step on—dotted the bottom.

There were many starfish — some blue and white, others brown and white. All were five-pointed. I reached into the water and picked up a big brown and white specimen that measured fourteen inches from the tip of one point to the tip of an almost opposite one. It was a lethery thing to handle. When I put it on the top of the wall the water gathered and rolled off it in big drops, as if it were oiled lether. On the back of the starfish, in the centerpiece and out on the points, were horn-like protuberances, an inch or more high. On the yellowish-white undersides of the pointers were two rows of tiny suckers, resembling a zipper arrangement in appearance. Turned over on its back the starfish directed its points downward and raised its body, after the manner of an acrobat "bending the crab," with hands and feet on the floor and belly uplifted. Thrown back into the water the starfish slowly made for safety in deep water far from the wall.

They Repeat the Performance.

The cruelty of nature was in evidence. A tiny fish, pursued by a larger one, swam hurriedly on the surface of the water. The pursuer overtook him and swallowed him at a gulp. A minute or two later a third fish, a size larger than No. 2, gave chase. Frantic rushes to escape the voracious devourer ensued, but were futile. Then came a fourth fish, a size larger than No. 3. The pursuit, capture, struggle, and gulp were repeated. The performance somehow reminded an observer of the sets of toy boxes that fit one into another.

But nature provides friends as well as foes. There are strange alliances down among the coral formations. The sponge-like sea anemones grow to large size in these tropical waters; some are two feet in diameter. They are armed with stinging tentacles, and they feed on small fish and crustaceans which have been shocked helpless by the hair-like darts shot at its victims by the anemone. Certain species of tiny fish swim into the apertures in the anemone when danger threatens, and the creature gives them sanctuary and never harms them, permitting them to seek shelter deep down among the death-dealing tentacles. Larger fish chasing them are captured, killed, and eaten by the anemone. When one catches a meal, its little friends dine on the scraps.

As the sun sets, spiders, lizards, crabs, and a few small snakes, apparently amphibians, crawled and slithered over the wall. Snails, mollusks, and shell fish were in the shallow pools where the coral almost reached the surface of the waters.

Why Pearl Divers Dread Giant Oysters.

For a mile beyond the end of the wall the beach was piled high with a débris of shells and coral washed up by hurricane waves. There were tons of coral and hundreds of thousands of shells strewn carelessly from water's edge to hightide mark. There were "porcelain" univalve shells and "pearl" bivalves. Some giant oyster shells were four feet long, three feet wide, two feet thick, and weighed 500 to 700 pounds. Either of the hinged halves was big enough to make a bird bath of distinction. These giant oysters are dreaded by pearl divers. If a man steps into one when open and the hinged shell closes, he is doomed to certain death. The shells are too heavy to bring to the surface and too strong to be pried apart.

Most of the shells were smashed and broken, but there were hundreds of beautiful and perfect specimens. There were countless varieties—flat mother-of-pearl, green-lipped snail, trochus, conch, black snail, and—yes, truly—here and there a chambered nautilus. But "Wrecked is the ship of pearl! . . . Its iris'd ceiling rent, its sunless crypt unsealed!"

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations, to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Before visiting Bolivia this spring, my husband and I would like to know something about it. Can you tell us? H. N.

Bolivia is known as the skytop republic of South America. With no outlet to the sea, it is reached by rail from Mollendo, Peru, and Arica and Antofagasta, Chile, and also by plane from Arica. Chief among the country's offerings to sightseers are Lake Titicaca, highest navigable lake in the world; La Paz, the capital, and two charming and unspoiled towns called Sucre and Potosi. The latter was a fabulously wealthy city long before the Mayflower landed its settlers in North America. Lake Titicaca's interest to travelers lies largely in the peculiar beauty of its mirror-like, rush fringed waters, in the Indian villages surrounding it, and in nearby ruins—many of them still under excavation—of cities belonging to the Tiahuanaco civilzation, which antedated even that of the Inca empire. La Paz, the world's highest capital, is notable for its spectacular setting 12,000 feet above sea level, in an amphitheater of crinkled, rust colored rocks and magnificent mountains; for its attractive old Spanish churches, with their almost constantly ringing campanile bells; for its nearly perfect climate; for its profusion of flowers, and perhaps most of all for its fantastic Indian market.

THE VOICE OF THE TRAVELER

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Please keep them brief. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

LIKE ANOTHER PLANET.

Muncie, Ind., March 4.—To the Travel Editor: If I were asked "What is the most beautiful spot in the west?" I think I should answer immediately, "The Red canyon in Utah."

We were on our way to Bryce's canyon when we found Red canyon. We were driving on a wonderful moonlight night. I think I have never seen a lighter night. For a time everything seemed perfectly natural. The earth and rocks had the appearance of earth and rocks. The sagebrush looked the usual gray in the moonlight. Nothing seemed out of the ordinary except that we knew we were in a strange country.

But all at once everything seemed to change as we drove under a stone arch. It was as if we had driven into another section of the country. The earth that had seemed so gray had turned red. The rocks were red, and there were green pines scattered everywhere. It seemed we had driven into a beautiful park. Castles of red rock loomed up before us. We wandered ahead on this road that looked like red pavement with green shrubbery on either side.

Again and again we drove under great stone arches as if we were driving into various sections of a marvelous city. The flooding moonlight, the pines, the shrubs, the shadows of towering mountains in the background suggested some part of the romantic history of the place. As we drove along the scene seemed so mystical that I said: "Where can we be? What kind of a place have we got into?" It was as if we had driven off the earth and onto another planet.

Finally we came to a little cabin with a twinkling light in its windows. One of our party asked if we should try and stay overnight here. "Yes," I said, "there are at least human beings there."

We stayed overnight and the next morning found we were in Red canyon and at a camp. The canyon was just as beautiful as it had been the night before, but not so mysterious. This will forever remain to me the most enchanting spot of the west. MRS. T. B. CALVERT.

HERCULANEUM.

Elgin, Ill., March 2.—To the Travel Editor: In the travel section of THE TRIBUNE on Sunday, Jan. 24, there appeared a fine article by David Darah on Herculaneum under the heading "Dead and Living Towns Struggle for Place in Sun." The account was especially interesting to me since I had the good fortune to visit the site last August.

Although Herculaneum may not figure in the pages of your paper for many more months, it occurred to me that, in view of the fact that travel to Italy promises to be unusually heavy this year—with the lira considerably reduced and the reopening of the summer session of the American academy in Rome—the enclosed picture might be considered of sufficient interest to the general public to be printed.

Garden and peristyle of an ancient house excavated at Herculaneum. The picture was taken by Lillian L. Taylor.

In the Jan. 3 issue there was printed under "Detour" an account of the revival of the Delphic festival now being staged in Athens. This also was of unusual interest to me as I spent two months in Greece last year at the summer session of the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, and on a cruise of the nearby islands. LILLIAN L. TAYLOR.

JUST A SUGGESTION.

Chicago, March 4.—To the Travel Editor: THE TRIBUNE has been foremost in promoting the interests of Chicago and in sponsoring civic activities. I therefore submit to you a modest proposal, hoping to interest you for the good of our great city.

The highway from Laredo, Tex., to Mexico City was opened last year in June. I have traveled over this highway many times, under almost all conditions. I regard it the most beautiful scenic highway on this continent.

Why not make Chicago, the natural metropolis of the United States, the gateway to the Mexican metropolis? Our location is ideal, and the best way to promote such a project is by starting a motor caravan of travelers from Chicago to Mexico City, possibly as a feature of our jubilee.

THE TRIBUNE seems to me to be best equipped for the sponsorship of such a project. I would be pleased to hear your opinion of my proposal. WILLIAM F. ROERTGEN.

APPRECIATION.

Natchez, Miss., March 1.—To the Travel Editor: We have wondered time and again just what we would have done without the marvelous support of THE TRIBUNE. As a direct result of the publicity you have given our forthcoming pilgrimage we have had a large number of inquiries and a good many newspapers have asked us for a picture similar to the one you published.

We are sorry to learn that you cannot be with us this year—that is really a disappointment. But there will always be another year, and with each succeeding pilgrimage Natchez will be more beautiful and appealing to our visitors.

NATCHEZ GARDEN CLUB,
By Mrs. Joseph F. Dixon, president;
Mrs. S. A. Boatner, executive secretary.

HAVEN'T YOU DREAMED OF GOING ABROAD?
YOU CAN DO IT FOR THE COST OF A THREE-WEEK VACATION AT HOME!

Paris and an International Exposition . . . London . . . the gay capitals of Europe . . . ancient castles . . . historic country-sides . . . quaint peasants . . . these are things that every one should see at least once in a lifetime.

And it's so easy! It has all been worked out so that you can do it with a minimum of expense and time. Any Travel Agent will gladly help you arrange a fascinating trip, via French Line, which will prove one of the most pleasant, educational and interesting experiences you have ever had.

For as little as $300 you can sail over and back on a luxurious French Line ship, and visit the following places—all in the space of three weeks:

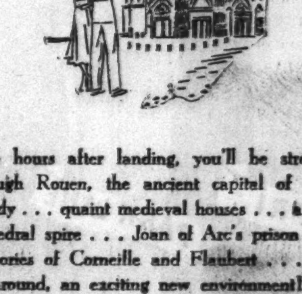
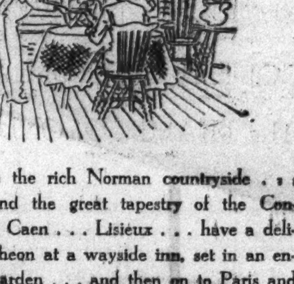
You go over via French Line . . . for its speed and safety . . . its airy, spacious cabins . . . and its superb food (wine included with every meal). You'll meet so many interesting people that you'll almost be sorry when the voyage is over.

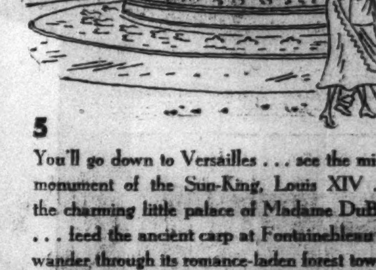


2
Two hours after landing, you'll be strolling through Rouen, the ancient capital of Normandy . . . quaint medieval houses . . . a lacy cathedral spire . . . Joan of Arc's prison . . . memories of Corneille and Flaubert . . . and all around, an exciting new environment!



3
You'll see the rich Norman countryside . . . Bayeux and the great tapestry of the Conquest . . . Caen . . . Lisieux . . . have a delicious luncheon at a wayside inn, set in an entrancing garden . . . and then on to Paris and an attractive little hotel, modern but inexpensive.

4
You'll see Paris! Notre Dame and Napoleon's Tomb . . . the Boulevards and the Champs Elysées . . . Montmartre and the Latin Quarter . . . and some new places you'll discover for yourselves. This year a brilliant International Exposition presents Paris at its best.



5
You'll go down to Versailles . . . see the mighty monument of the Sun-King, Louis XIV . . . the charming little palace of Madame DuBarry . . . feed the ancient carp at Fontainebleau . . . wander through its romance-laden forest towards Barbizon, immortalized by Millet.

ASK YOUR TRAVEL AGENT ABOUT THESE DELIGHTFUL ECONOMY TRIPS

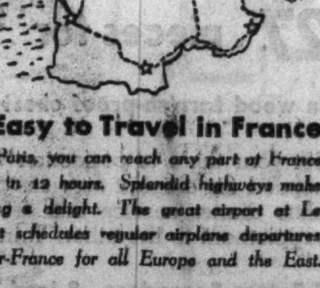
You'll have time for a dash over to stately London . . . the Horse Guards and Westminster Abbey . . . St. Paul's and the Tower . . . the gay West End . . . and then a fast train to Southampton and the trim French Line steamer waiting to take you home again.



It's Easy to Travel in France

Japan in Old Prints

Quaintly and colorfully the life of yesterday in Japan is suggested in these old prints by the artist Toyokuni II. They are termed charmingly representative of Japanese art by the Japanese consul in Chicago, the Hon. Kaoru Hayashi. The first artist of the name of Toyokuni was well known for his prints of actors, as well as of scenes from daily life. Toyokuni II. was a pupil, of the name of Kunisada, who adopted his master's name. ● The pictures above, with the one at left, form a triptych representing one of the months of the lunar year. Beneath blossoming plums, celebrants gather the ceremonial seven grasses which are used to make a broth for the Japanese New Year's day. ● The print at right, also from a triptych, depicts a scene from a play. The scene is beside a temple; the white lines represent falling rain.

From the collection of Mr. S. Sheba of Tokio.

COPIES OF THESE PICTURES, IN SIZES AND COLORS SHOWN AND FRAMED UNDER GLASS, CAN BE OBTAINED AT THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE PUBLIC SERVICE OFFICES, TRIBUNE TOWER AND 1 SOUTH DEARBORN STREET. PRICE: EACH, 40 CENTS; BY POSTPAID MAIL, 50 CENTS. (DO NOT SEND COIN OR CURRENCY.)

TWO IN FORTY MILLION are the two Pauline Taylors of Detroit. Though not related, they were born on the same day (Sept. 22, 1920), look alike, think alike. The Pauline at left was born at St. Ignace, Mich.; the Pauline at right, at St. Catherine's, Ontario.

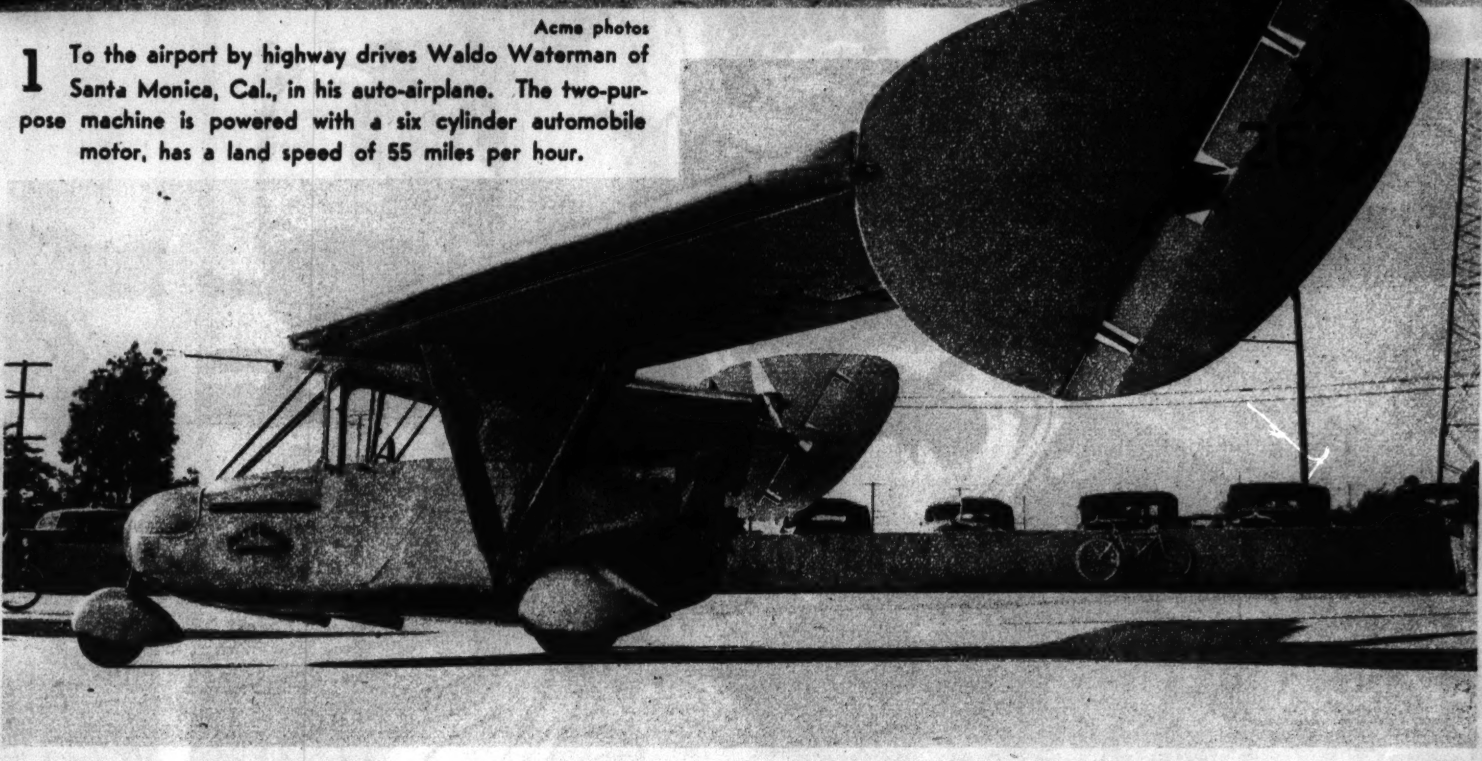
1 To the airport by highway drives Waldo Waterman of Santa Monica, Cal., in his auto-airplane. The two-purpose machine is powered with a six cylinder automobile motor, has a land speed of 55 miles per hour.



2 Having persuaded trafic police that his contrivance is a genuine motor car, properly licensed, Waterman arrives at the air field, affixes wings, and it's a flying machine.

3 The Waterman conveyance takes off, out of the jurisdiction of stoplights. Returning, the inventor parks the wings, drives home by highway, and runs the machine into his garage.

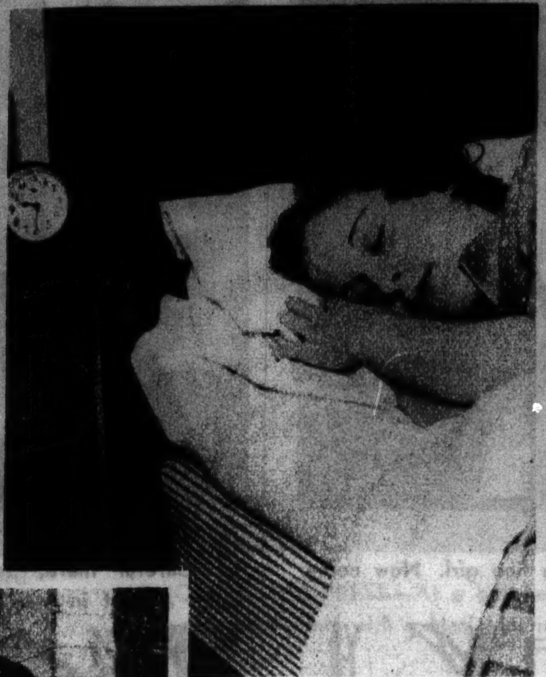
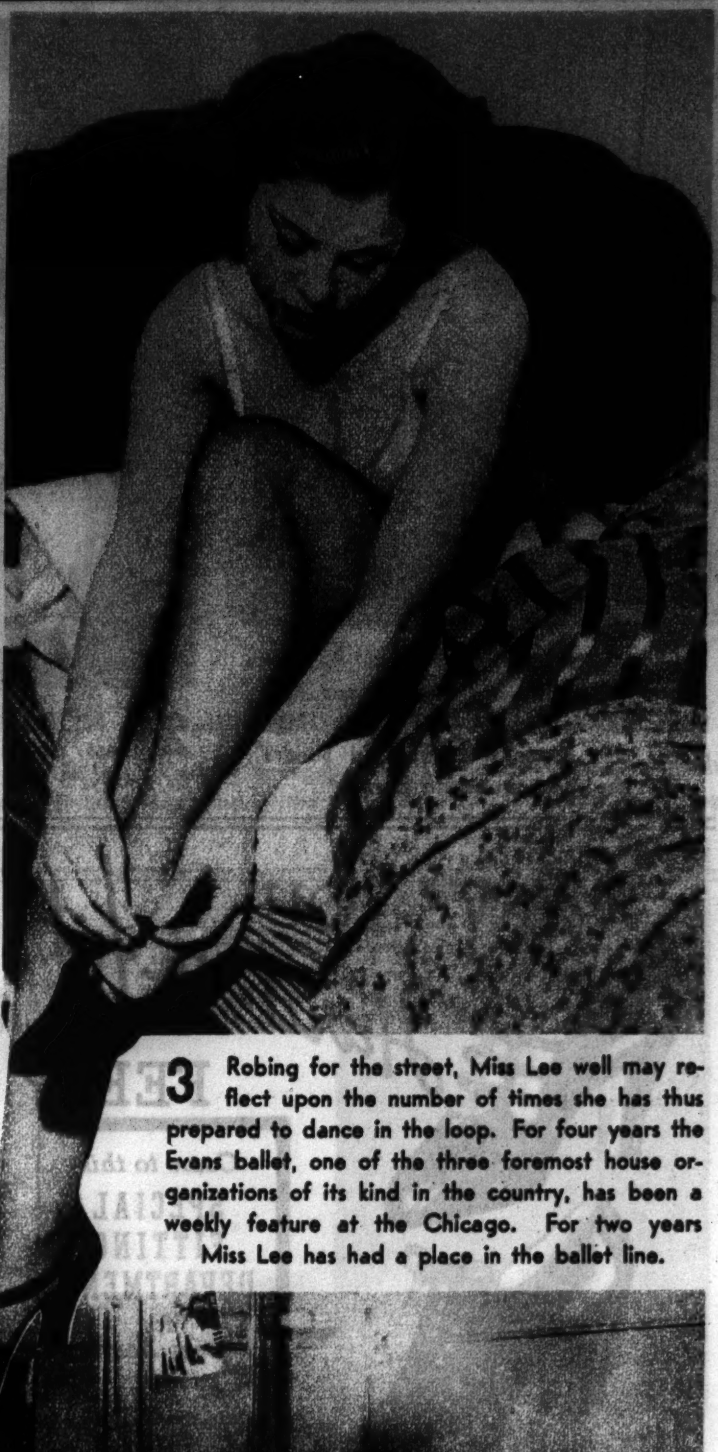
A Day with a Ballerina

1 Dramatically illumined by the footlights of the Chicago theater, twelve beauties of the Evans ballet dance charmingly. Let us select, say, the girl sixth from right; take a camera, and find out how a chorine occupies herself offstage . . .



2 The girl is Miss Maxine Lee. The locale, her parental home on East Oak street. The day's at the morn, the hour at 9:30. Forty winks more and Miss Lee will arise and apply herself to a busy round.



3 Robing for the street, Miss Lee well may reflect upon the number of times she has thus prepared to dance in the loop. For four years the Evans ballet, one of the three foremost house organizations of its kind in the country, has been a weekly feature at the Chicago. For two years Miss Lee has had a place in the ballet line.

4 Rouge, lipstick, powder are applied by a hand that got its first professional makeup practice nine years ago, when Miss Lee made her professional stage debut in a touring vaudeville act. She then was 11.

5 Mother (Mrs. S. C. Levine) sends her daughter away with a kiss.

6 She enters the theater via the stage door.

7 She makes up again (foreground), this time with the lavishness required for the stage.

8 Only midmorning, but our heroine (indicated by the arrow) already is in the midst of rehersal before the first show. There will be another rehersal after this show; still others after the second and fourth. (The instructor, Fred Evans.)

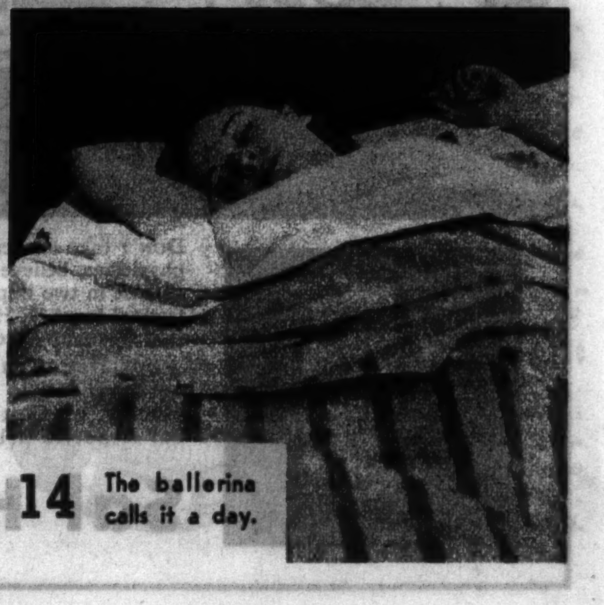
9 The first show goes on. Miss Lee (background) and her sisters of the ballet get into costume. There will be three numbers (in some shows, four), in each of which the girls wear complete changes.

10 From the wings the camera finds the ballet in action. Between shows, the ballerina must find time to lunch and dine, rest, and make at least one daily visit to one of the wardrobe mistresses for fittings of new costumes.

11 The fifth show, last of the evening, is over; and, unless there's some benefit performance requiring their services, the girls of the ballet may go home.

12 Soap gets in your eyes when you have a hot tub after the show; but it does get off any lingering trace of makeup.

13 Now for an adventurous icebox exploration, to see what is interesting for a pre-midnight snack; that disposed of, . . .



14 The ballerina calls it a day.

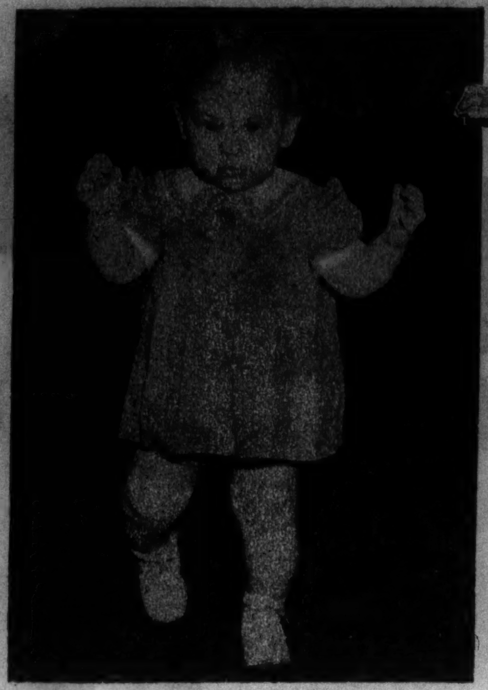
1 A major operation is about to take place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Simon B. Metzkin at 1509 West 100th place. It's fourteen months old Sandra Lee, bent on taking a walk.



2 There. That's a fine girl. Now come to daddy.

3 Careful there, Sandra Lee. Don't make a dent in mama's rug.

4 Now, that's too bad. Better luck next time.

hit that COLD two ways:

DON'T take chances. Today, when a cold comes, physicians believe in helping the body's natural defense in two important ways: 1. Cleanse the intestinal tract. 2. Help Nature combat the acidity that frequently accompanies a cold.

Sal Hepatica does BOTH. This mineral salt laxative not only cleanses the intestines—quickly, gently, thoroughly—but, in addition, Sal Hepatica helps Nature combat acidity—helps swing your system back toward the alkaline reserve so necessary to germ-resistant health.

So Be Modern. When a cold threatens, take two teaspoonfuls of Sal Hepatica in a glass of water. Get plenty of rest—go to bed, call a doctor if your cold is severe. Get Sal Hepatica today.

IT takes more than "just a salve" to draw them out. It takes a "counter-irritant"! And that's what good old Musterole is—soothing, warming, penetrating and helpful in drawing out the local congestion and pain when rubbed on the sore, aching spots.

Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness generally yield promptly to this treatment, and with continued application, relief usually follows.

Even better results than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Used by millions for 25 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong. Tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau, No. 4867.

Don't think "Air-Spun"* is just a new face powder. It is actually a new cosmetic—it is so amazingly different from all other powders.

Only a new method, a new invention, could make "Air-Spun" Powder possible. And that is what the exclusive Coty process is—the most daring powder innovation in a century!

Coty goes far beyond merely grinding and sifting powder! Now, the powder is placed in sealed chambers... torrents of air are released ... which swirl the powder at incredible speed! Each tiny particle is softened...each tiny surface buffed... thousands upon thousands of times!

A texture of "impossible" smoothness results. Powder becomes so soft and luscious that even the driest skin looks less powdered! So warmly tinted... that it makes even sallow skin look clearer, younger.

And as a final luxury, Coty gives you "Air-Spun" in fourteen flattering shades ...in L'Aimant, Emeraude, L'Origan, "Paris" and other precious Coty odeurs . . . $1.00.

Fascinating Facts about "Air-Spun"

Air streams traveling at a speed of over 1000 miles an hour bombard each particle of powder, to create "the smoothest texture ever made." • The air is purified through three filters before it touches a particle of powder! • The "Air-Spun" method reduces powder particles to uniform size and clinging softness.

No Orchids FOR HER!

ORCHIDS from the one and only man! The girl never lived who didn't thrill at the thought.

But there's one girl who can never have this thrill—for men avoid her.

She is the girl who is careless about herself; who has allowed the disagreeable odor of underarm perspiration to cut her off from good friends and good times.

What a pity it is! Doubly so, since perspiration odor is so easy to avoid. With Mum!

Quick to use; lasts all day. Just half a minute is all you need to use this dainty deodorant cream. Then you're safe for the whole day!

Harmless to clothing. Another thing you'll like—use Mum any time, even after you're dressed. For it's harmless to clothing.

Soothing to skin. It's soothing to the skin, too—so soothing you can use it right after shaving your underarms.

Doesn't interfere with natural perspiration. Mum, you know, doesn't prevent perspiration. But it does prevent every trace of perspiration odor. And how important that is!

Don't let this personal fault come between you and the popularity you ought to have. Depend upon the daily Mum habit! Bristol-Myers Co., 630 Fifth Ave., New York.

HAND lotions that only "coat" the skin have a habit of getting uncomfortably sticky when you get warm. So the importance of "non-stickiness" is more than a matter of moments. It is vital! And the way to settle that vital question is the telltale Toothpick Test. Here's the way to make it: Dip a toothpick in Frostilla and another one in any other lotion . . . Let them dry! Then slip your fingers along the toothpicks. You will find that Frostilla leaves no gummy or soapy residue. Frostilla does not "coat" the skin. It is a true skin conditioner. That's why it isn't sticky! It banishes roughness and chapping instantly . . . And Frostilla is economical—one good drop on the hand is ample . . . And Frostilla is delightfully fragrant with its special bouquet perfume of 14 flowers from Southern France.

THESE CLUE PICTURES WILL HELP YOU

THE RULES:

NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY! No special knowledge of any kind is needed to paste these pictures together and name them. Anybody can do it! Clue pictures showing and naming military or naval men of the various countries will be published each Sunday to help you identify the portraits.

WHO CAN ENTER: Every man, woman, boy and girl is eligible, regardless of residence, excepting employes of the Chicago Tribune and members of their families.

WHAT TO DO: Cut the pictures apart, assemble and paste them together. Below each picture write the name of the country it represents. . . . For example, if the assembled portrait shows a member of the military or naval forces of France, write the word "FRANCE" below that portrait. If the picture portrays a member of the forces of a country which is subordinate to another, fill in only the name of the country to which the subject is directly attached.

Three pictures will appear each Sunday consecutively in the Chicago Sunday Tribune until 36 pictures have appeared. Each set of three pictures will make three complete portraits. Rough edges may be trimmed off to make perfect rectangles, if desired.

THE PRIZES: The Chicago Tribune will pay $10,000 in cash prizes! (See Prize List.) 428 prizes totaling $9,500 will be paid to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of pictures in accordance with these rules. Five special prizes of $100 each will be paid to the five school teachers or military or naval instructors whose students submit the best entries and whose names have been placed on such entries by the contestant. Teachers in public, private and parochial schools or colleges, and instructors of any military or naval unit officially recognized by the United States or Canada, are eligible for these five special prizes.

You do not have to solve each of the pictures correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

WHERE TO SEND ENTRIES: Entries may be submitted in scrap books or any other simple form. Simplicity is suggested. DO NOT send in pictures one at a time. Hold all until you have the complete set of 36. Then send them to: "Men Behind the Flags," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after set No. 12 is published. No person may submit more than one entry. No entries will be returned.

JUDGING: Entries will be judged by a Committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree to accept this Committee's decision as final. Accuracy in assembling and naming the pictures and neatness of entry will be the sole determining factors. In case of ties duplicate awards will be paid.

NO FEE OR CHARGE: It is not even necessary to buy the Chicago Tribune to compete. You may copy or trace the pictures. The Tribune may be examined at its offices or at public libraries free.

BESS EHRHARDT DOES SPLITS: Sonja Henie does not. "I think splits have no place on ice," said the famous Sonja, thrice Olympic figure skating champion, as she appeared during the ice revue internationale at the Chicago Stadium. But Bess, the sensational acrobatic star from Superior, Wis., drew ten encores to three for Miss Henie on at least one evening.

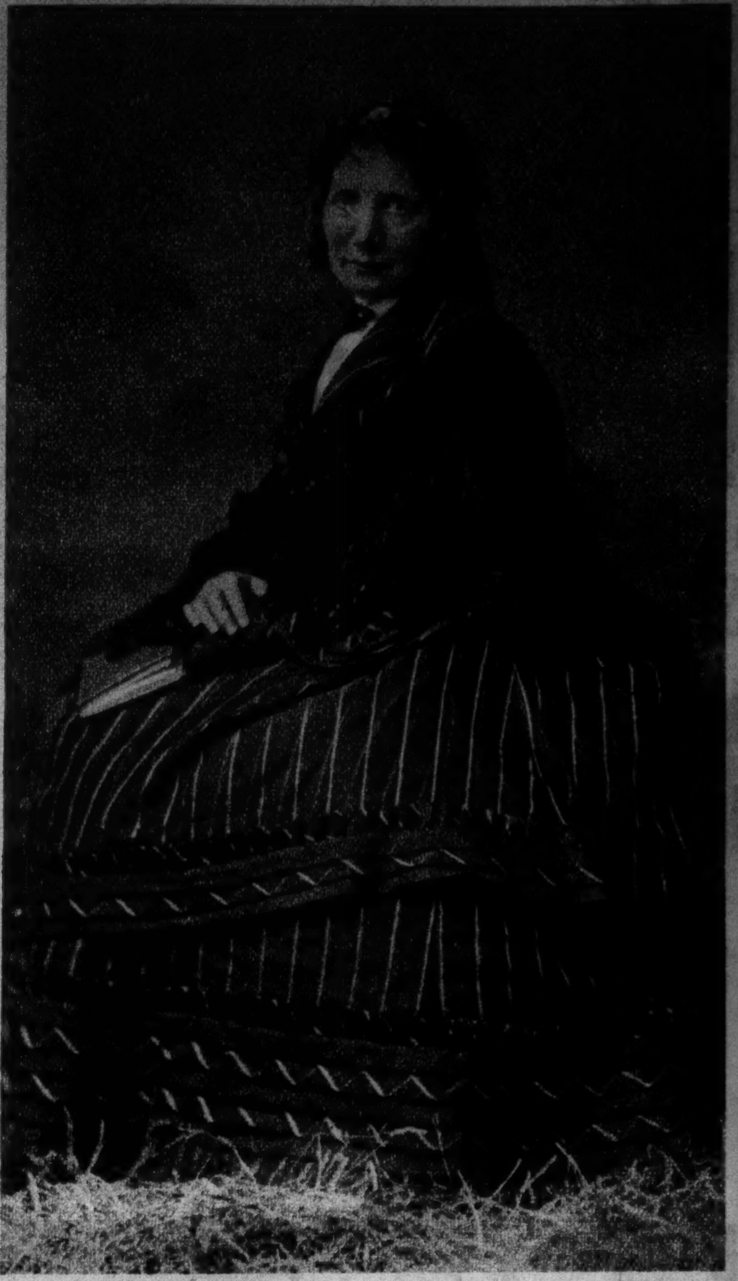
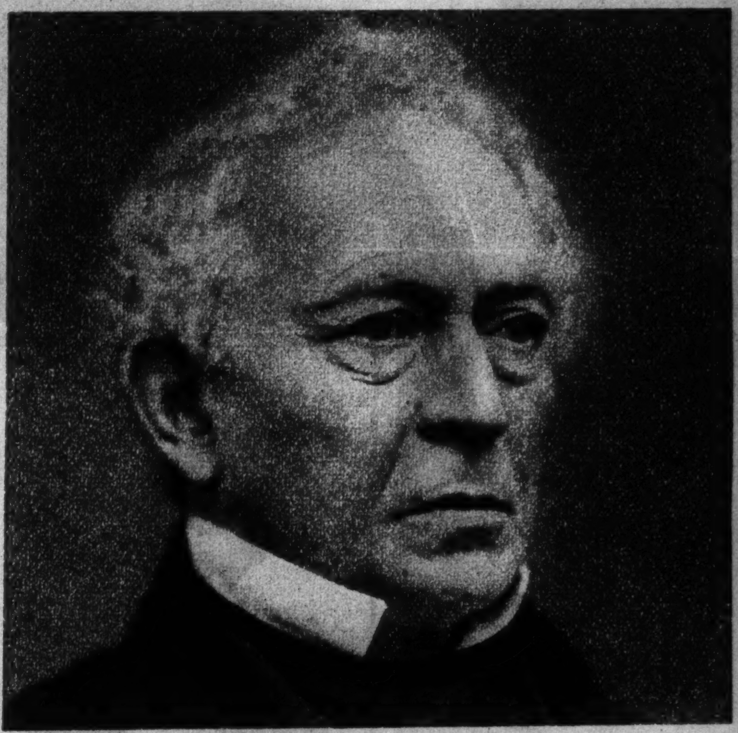
CHILD PRODIGY who saddled Pegasus, William Cullen Bryant about the age of thirteen composed two poems, "The Spanish Revolution" and "The Embargo." When 21, in 1815, he was admitted to the bar; next year, published "Thanatopsis." Editor of the New York Evening Post, he was a vigorous defender of the Union during the Civil war.

THE AUTHOR OF "LITTLE WOMEN," Louisa May Alcott, was born in Philadelphia in 1832; in 1862, was a nurse in an army hospital. Among other works that came from her prolific pen were "Little Men," "Aunt Jo's Scrap-Bag," "Jo's Boys." She died in 1888, in her fifty-sixth year.

They Would Have Been Roto Pictures In Their Day



THE BLAZE OF WRATH that rose in the north against slavery, growing into the all-consuming conflagration of civil war, was fed in no small measure by an immortal book, "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The author, Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe (pictured), was the wife of a professor of sacred literature, Calvin Ellis Stowe; daughter of an eminent theologian, Lyman Beecher; great-granddaughter of one of Washington's soldiers, Gen. Ward.



STATESMAN, SCHOLAR, ORATOR, Edward Everett initiated his career in public life in 1825 by beginning a decade as a congressman. In the 30's, served a term as governor of Massachusetts; in the 40's, was minister to Great Britain and president of Harvard; in the 50's, was (briefly) Fillmore's secretary of state, then represented Massachusetts in the senate. For peace at almost any price, he was a conciliation and compromise candidate for Vice President, opposing Lincoln, in 1860; but when war became inescapable, gave whole-hearted support to the cause of Union.

FIERY FOE of slavery, Wendell Phillips quit law rather than take an oath to the constitution, which he considered a bulwark of the bondage of the African. He even refused to vote. At a stormy Boston meeting held to condemn the murder of Lovejoy, who fell at Alton in the cause of the freedom of the press, Phillips rose to oratorical heights "morally sublime." From 1865 to 1870, he was head of the American Anti-Slavery society. He fought also for woman suffrage, prison reform, prohibition, greenback currency.
